LACK OF HARMONY HOLDS UP ACTION ON CURRENCY BILL

Democratic Members of the House Banking Committee Find Themselves Unable Even to Agree to Disagree.

COMMITTEE ADJOURNS

Measure May Be Submitted to a Democratic Caucus Without Any Recommendation.

Washington, July 25 .- In another stormy session today democratic members of the house banking and currency committee found themselves adjourned until Monday, when, after President Wilson had conferred with Representative Ragsdale, of South Carolina, who yesterday presented to the committee the so-called insurgent amendments to the bill, the struggle to reach some sort of an agreement will be resumed.

While the committee marked time today during a session of the house which demanded the presence of its members on the floor, President Wilson had conferences with Representative Wingo who has opposed several parts of the administration bill, and with Representative Glass, chairman of the committee, following which it was planned that the bill be taken out of the hands of the democratic members of the committee and be sent to a house caucus, if a vote demonstrated they were unable to agree.

Accordingly, when the conference met after the house adjournment Representative Wingo offered a motion that the bill be submitted to a democratic caucus to be called a week New York Lawyer Will Be in way or other. This in itself is much to be defrom Monday, and that the committee members in the meantime thresh out as many of their differences as possible. Representative Ragsdale offered a motion to send the bill to the caucus immediately without any recommendation and with all amendments pending. Other motions followed in quick succession and con-

MOTHER'S RIGHTS

Augusta Judge Writes Legislators Urging Immediate Revision of "Moth-Eaten Law."

Augusta, Ga., July 25 .- (Special.)-Quietly Julian J. Zachry slipped out of Augusta this morning and spent the day in Columbia trying to find While none is willing to be quoted Mrs. Mary W. Zachry and the two little girls whose custody the court awarded him, but who were spirited away by Mrs. Zachry. That he did not find them he admitted when he came back to Augusta tonight. Information from Columbia is that he employed a lawyer there, but for what purpose can't be ascertained.

Mrs. Hallihan, Mrs. Zachry's mother, who left Augusta this afternoon, has given up her home here and is understood to have gone to Columbia t live. She declares that Zachry will never succeed in getting the children and that they are being well provided for by members of her family. Judge Henry C. Hammond declared today that had his hands not been absolutely tied by the peculiar motheaten Georgia law he "never would have given custody of the children to the father." He asserts that the natural right is the mother's and he has addressed a letter to the Richmond delegation in the lower house asking that they immediately introduce a bill repealing the old law and press it to passage at this term. His letter is as follows:

Hammond's Letter to Olive.

Augusta, Ga., July 25, 1913.-Hon, Samuel L. Olive, House of Representatives, Atlanta, Ga. called to your attention the barbarous and iniquirights over her own children. You will also recall my undertaking to furnish you with a rough draft of a bill designed to change the law. This I now inclose. There is nothing peculiar about our Georgia law as it stands. trial Monday when the case is called was information made public Friday from an apparently reliable source. Coupled with this, and apparently making the trial doubly sure, is the news that the defense has started summoning its witnesses and making final preparations for the actual trial. Solicitor Hugh M. Dorsey reiterated Friday his statement in regard to the stand the state has taken and declared that he would oppose every move for continuance, unless there should prove an extraordinary reason for putting it off.

Judge L. S. Roan who will conduct the trial and who was slightly ill Thursday, had apparently recovered Friday and expects to call the case Monday morning should nothing unusual happen.

Despite the fact that the attorneys for the defense still maintain a blank decline to say whether or not they will ask for a postponement, the impression has got out that they have mated revenue $349,000 agreed to having the trial come off. Postponement Had Been Expected.

People Will Not Approve Dishonor of the State Is Governor's Warning

In one of the most courageous statements issued from Georgia's executive office in many years Governor John M. Slaton sounds clear and explicit warning to state and legislature touching the state's financial condition.

The governor does not hesitate to express his utmost confidence in the statesmanship and wisdom of the legislature. He reminds its members, however, of the deplorable fiscal system of Georgia and its dangers. He speaks frankly of the family skeleton to members of the family. He shows Phagan murder, have decided to go to that already the assembly is partially committed to the old plan of a excess of appropriations over revenue. It is unthinkable that the legislature should appropriate the same amount of money as 1912 and 1913 and not provide enough revenue to pay not only their appropriations but provide for the deficit already existing. The public schools ($2,550,000) and pensions ($1,180,000) exhaust all the revenue from ad valorem taxes excepting $278,984. The State Sanitarium comes next, with an appropriation of about $600,000.

This legislature has no desire to shirk its duty. It recognizes fully its but it is believed that many of these responsibility, especially in view of the necessity of refunding the state's bonded indebtedness. We cannot expect to sell on favorable terms our bonds when the state is not even meeting its current indebtedness, but is increasing the deficit in the treasury. Its ways and means committee has reported bills to raise revenue, and a tax equalization bill, and the house of representatives has been appropriating money in anticipation of increased revenue. These revenue bills will have passed the house before the appropriation bill will have passed the senate.

The legislators know the wishes of their constituents regarding the use of their money, and they will fearlessly and faithfully measure up to all a splendid constituency expects of them. United States May Lift Embargo on Arms and Ammunition--Ambassador Wilson Will Make Report Saturday.

Washington, July 25,-While adminstration officials here believe the crisis will not be reached in Mexico until the northern rebel armies press closer to Mexico City and the federal strongholds, indications tonight were that an effort would be made by the Washington government to pursue & well defined policy before events reached a critical stage.

The first step in the formulation of a policy will be taken tomorrow when Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson will bring to the president and Secretary Bryan first hand information of the situation in Mexico. Mr. Bryan today announced emphatically that there was no disposition on the part of the administration here to interrogate Ambassador Wilson about the numerous reports alleging activity on his part in connection with the downfall of Madero and the establishment of the Huerta regime. He added that the mbassador had been called merely to throw light on present conditions in the troublous republic. After Ambassador Wilson has conferred with Secretary Bryan, he will talk further with President Wilson and probably will be asked to appear before the senate committee on for-

That Ambassador Wilson had expressed, on his arrival in New York, opposition to the proposals for mediation and had indicated his sympathy with the desire of the Huerta government to be recognized, were communicated informally to Mr. Bryan, who made no comment. It was apparent tonight that the present policy of the administration was to prevent all shipments of arms to either side pending final determina-

It is believed that after the president and Secretary Bryan have obtained from Ambassador Wilson his own ideas and interpretations of the political situation in the Mexican capital, the American government, in a measure, that the United States has nothing to of its sister republics. Drugs by the Creation of a Drug Commission.

After the passage of the general appropriation bill in the house Friday the consideration of the drug bill of Mr. Shuptrine, of Chatham, was taken up and, after an hour's debate, was set for special order next Tuesday for final action.

The object of this bill is to create the senate. the office of state commissioner of! measure affects no drugs not affected 1911-12. by the present law.

Increase in Drugs. Mr. Shuptrine, in advocating his bill on the floor of the house, called attention to the great increase in the use of narcotic drugs in Georgia since the passage of the liquor prohibition law. He stated that the sales amounted to as much as $100,000 annually, and that there were cases where one drug store had soid as much as fifty grains of cocaine in a single month. Mr. Wright, of Floyd, opposed the bill on the ground that the same powers as were given the proposed state commissioner of drugs in the bill could be delegated to the state inspector of pure food and drugs, and the same results obtained without the expenditure of so much money. It is his purpose to introduce an amendment making this change. In making himself clear upon the Representative Picquet Astounded That Bill He Opposed Should Be Introduced in the Senate.

Representative Picquet, of Richmond, expressed great surprise when he learned that Senator Kelley, of the eighteenth, who is a resident of Glascock county, had introduced a bill to repeal the charter of Augusta and substitute therefor a commission form of government. When approached on the subject last night Mr. Picquet

"I was busily engaged watching the appropriations bill which carried with It a $30,000 appropriation for the Medical college, as there had been a motion introduced by Mr. Wright, of Floyd, to reconsider the section of the act which embraced the appropriation. During that time I noticed several consultations between my colleagues and the conspicuous absence of one of them.

"After the adjournment of the house I went over to the senate and was there advised that Senator Kelley had, by the request of one of my colleagues, introduced the bill. I was somewhat surprised, as Mr. Garlington had, together with myself, a year ago opposed the same measure and I understood that his attitude towards it was that if a majority of the registered voters expressed at the polls their desire for it he would support it. There was a straw ballot election in Augusta and 3,500 of the registered voters ignored the election and did not; vote. Those who favored commission form of government had control of the machinery and only polled about

"If either of my colleagues desired to father this measure it seems to me they had ample opportunity to have introduced a bill in the house and it appeared to me somewhat strange that a bill-should have been introduced in the senate where 3,500 voices could not be heard.'

WILSON'S OPPORTUNITY.

The most strenuous test of President Wilson's statesmanship faces him with the development of the complicated currency problem in the house of representatives. The Constitution predicted that while his troubles with the tariff would be hard enough, they would not approxima. uis propue ; is about to be vindicated.

The house banking and curi. com mittee see at this moment, to be hopelessly divided. The political feature of the currency bill, or that feature giving the control of the currency virtually into the hands of each succeeding president, has been subjected to the inevitable attack within the party. Some democratic critics are claiming, too, that the measure as it now stands takes only trivial cognizance class.

In other words, the stage has been reached where the president and his advisers must "show cause." It was not to be expected that so important a measure as currency revision could negotiate the house without organized opposition, even from within the democratic party. The president's mettle is to be tested, and rightly, For important as is the tariff, much more important is the matter of currency, af fecting every man, weman and child today and in the future, and bearing heavily on our foreign relations and our national bonor.

In the present tangle it is impossible to forecast the sort of bill that may be expected to emerge. Whatever it done should be done at this session. The country is already racked and harried over the tariff There is no use to prolong the agony over the currency problem. Haste is the last thing we would advise. But the time has come for decisive action, if it necessitates congress remaining in Washington up to the time of the regular session.

HERE'S TO THE CREMATORY.

The new crematory got "on the job!" That event brought the climax to probably the most bitter and long-drawn-out wrangle in the annals of Atlanta, and to a curious and paradoxical municipal situa-

For years the garbage disposal facilities of this city have been insufficient. That fact has been particeps criminis with the death rate. For years the people have been searching for some way to fight the typhoid fly and other germ foes more effective than screens and the fly paddle. And for years bickerings and legitimate divergencies have balked them.

To the nation there was presented the anomalous spectacle of one of the richest cities in the country seemingly neglectful of the prime essential of health.

Yesterday put a period to the menace and the libel. Greetings to the crematory! We congratulate the city, and we congratulate the officials intelligent enough to see Atlanta's need and brave enough to fight for it through an epoch-making supreme court decision and on to consummation.

A FARMERS' TAX MEASURE.

The people of Georgia need hunt no farther than the work of the farmers of this state for concrete proof of what tax equalization accomplishes. The Hon. Martin V. Calvin elsewhere brings forward reminder of this nature. The legislature of 1890-91 was known as the "Farmers' Alliance legislature." There were fewer lawyers and more farmers in its membership than any preceding or succeeding assembly.

The need for tax equalization was not then as critical as it now is, but sufficiently urgent to cause a forceful law to be placed on the statute books.

The result was that the first year after the act became effective it added to the state digest property in the sum of $18,463, 041.

The first year after the act was repealed there was a shrinkage in the tax digest of $10,507,756. To quote Mr. Calvin, "the downward tendency continued until 1898 when, as between 1892 and 1898, the decrease in property on the digest amounted to $52,031,-

The act of '91 worked no hardship on anyone. It simply made delinquents step up and pay what was just.

Had the law remained operative no single state institution would be threatened with starvation or paralysis today; the state would not now be in the attitude of a miserly beggar-though the richest of the states of the southeast.

These are unanswerable arguments for tax equalization at the present session. And they come from the FARMERS OF GEOR-

OLD FOLKS' SCHOOL.

Judge Frank Park, of the Albany circuit, is the father of an institution, the "Old Folks' school," that might well be taken up in every county in Georgia. Four years ago he maneuvered to the end that there was established in Worth county primary edu-BRADLEY and C. G. SMITH. No one else is cational facilities for the adults who might have been deprived of their chance in their youth. The immediate response was testimony of the school's need.

Year by year it has been held in different parts of the county, after the crops have been laid by or when the farmers had leisure. Attendance has steadily increased. This year it stands at 90, and the students range from the years of 10 to 60. It is a striking sight to see gray-beards acquiring the rudiments of education side by side with children just out of rompers.

The project is costing Worth nothing, save what its philanthropic citizens are willing to donate in money and labor. In the end it is going to cut down illiteracy in Worth and be of such value to the county as is not easily calculable. Why not a Frank Park in each of the state's coun-

THINKING IN CONTINENTS.

Not since Canada so blithely turned down our reciprocity overtures has the United States been so keenly reminded, as at present, that it is no longer able to prosper as an isolated nation. The Washingof the farmer and the rural borrowing | ton Star puts the matter succinctly as follows

> Foreign nations evince a lively interest n the tariff. The responsibilities of a great and powerful nation cannot be limited to pleasing constituencies within its own

The senate finance committee took the same view when it adjusted or eliminated several of the features in the new tariff bill against which protest was made by practically all the great nations. The same sentiment is back of the healthy and increasing demand for the repeal of the iniquitous Panama canal tolls subsidy. The more statesmanlike view in America is that our honor is pledged with England and before the world in the Panama issue. We cannot betray that honor without becoming a by-word among the nations, as does the individual who repudiates his solemn prom-

When America won its war with Spain it abandoned its traditional political isolation, for good or for ill and for all time. Even had not that conflict and its consequences been forced upon us. we would, sooner or later, have been compelled to recede from a policy of insularity. For no nation that is a selling nation can afford to regard the views of the rest of the world with indifference.

Modernized transportation, the cable and the wireless are making frontiers of less account. And invention is not yet started upon its mission of bringing closer together the sons of men. Ultimately, artificial barriers, such as tariffs, will be lowered and the factors that count will be the factors simply of merit and preparedness and of natural resource. It is as yet not in evidence that actual war is to disappear from the world. But it is certain that the real wars of the future will be trade wars and the weapons used in them more incisive and decisive than 14-inch shells or aerial torpedoes. .

So that whether or not we will it so, we cannot in future legislation or policy disregard the customs and the wishes of our neighbors across the borders or across the seas. Even less can they disregard our customs and wishes. For in an endurance test the United States could survive without other nations. That is true, unqualifiedly, of no other people on the globe.

Do the Classics Help Us?

(Henry D. Sedgwick in Atlantic Monthly.) The answer lies in one little word, art. The classics, more than any modern literature, teach us art, and art is the conscious purpose of man to make this world more beautiful. Philip Sidney says that the object of poetry is to make this too much loved world more lovely; I should extend his definition a little further and say that the object of art is to make this world more lovely, more lovable and more loved.

A Story of the Moment By WALT MASON, The Famous Prose Poet

TOO MANY STRANGERS.

"It's a beautiful morning, madam," said the urbane stranger. "When one sees the happy birds in the trees, and the dew on the grass, he feels-"

"The birds in the trees have reason to be happy," interrupted Mrs. Curfew, crossly. "They aren't pestered by agents every hour of the day, and can attend to their house work and get something done. As for the dew on the grass, I suppose it's good enough dew, as dew goes, but that's no reason why you should come to my door and talk such balderdash when I am getting ready for baking.

"I do think congress ought to pass a law prohibiting strangers from going around talking about the birds and the dew to women they never saw before. I think it the height of impertinence for you to address me in this manner, when you have never been introduced, and when all your remarks about the dew in the trees, and the birds on the grass, merely lead up to the fact that you are selling some new liniment which has been indorsed by Secretary Bryan, who prefers it to grape juice.

"It isn't more than three weeks ago since an agent came along selling a liniment which would cure any disease inside or outside the human frame, and Mr. Curfew, who is old enough to know better, and who had had enough experiences with agents to take his gray hairs in sorrow to the grave, bought a bottle, thinking it would relieve an attack of indigestion from which he was suffering.

"After the agent went away he pried the cork out of the bottle and took a dose, and I wish you could have seen him five minutes afterward. He embraced his stomach with both arms and leaped around the house like a locoed frog, and the yells that man let out would have raised the dead. I thought the man was about to die, and rushed out of the house to find a doctor. A man who looked like a doctor was just passing the house. He wore a long black with them. I called him into the house, and told him I wanted him to examine my husband.

"'I'll examine him if you like,' said he,

but it won't do any good. "I thought that was a queer way for a doctor to talk, but I was too excited to say anything, so I led him into the kitchen, where Mr. Curfew was lying on the floor, with his head jammed under the stove, and his heels knocking the plaster off the wall. I dragged him from under the stove, and said to the stranger, 'Well, what do you think of him?"

"'I don't think much of him,' said the stranger: 'he'd look a whole lot better if he would trim those whiskers of his, and bleach his nose and comb some of the cock-leburs out of his hair' "'That's a nice way for a physician to talk!' I cried, as mad as I ever was in my

"'I'm not a physician, said the stranger

I'm a piano tuner. "I don't believe any man ever went out of a house quicker than he went out of here, for the broom was standing by my elbow, and I know how to use it, having been pestered so much by agents. Mr. Curfew was in bed for three days after that experience, and no sooner had he left that couch of pain than he bought some pills from another agent, and after taking those pills we had to send for the doctor and a stomach pump. That's always the way with Mr. Curfew. After every soul racking experience he loads the shotgun and says he'll have the life blood of the first agent that comes along. and he sits out in the front yard, watching and waiting, for a couple of days, and then his anger evaporates, and the first thing I for all the people-1890-91, enacted a good know he comes into the house with a bottle of furniture polish and says it's the finest cough sirup in the United States, and I realize that he has fallen into the snare of the fowler once more. But no agent can sell me anything, under any conditions, so excuse me if I shut the door in your face."

Thinks It Dangerous.

Editor Constitution: If a bill had been introduced in the legislature to establish a board, consisting of five Methodists, two Baptists and one Presbyterian, or the same numbers of any denominations, to examine all applicants for licenses to preach in this state, with the right to grant or refuse same and no appeal from their decision allowed, "from Tybee light to Rabun Gap" would be heard a howl that would not down until the bill had been withdrawn or, with its author, buried so deep that it could not be resurrected. No less objectionable class legislation than this, and not one whit less dangerous to the liberties of the people, is the proposal to give the Allopathic School of Medicine absolute control of the right to grant or refuse licenses to those seeking to practice medicine in Georgia. Many of this school are my personal friends, highly esteemed for their many virtues and, in many cases, unselfish efforts for the alleviation of the sufferings of their fellowmen, who would not knowingly do any one an injustice. However, we all know that it is human to err. and the wisdom of the profession may be sacrificed at any time to political ambition and be followed by a persecution not far exceeded by that in the days of religious intolerance.

It will be soon enough to enact such laws when some one school has demonstrated that it is beyond the experimental stage and that its methods cannot be improved upon. W. J. GOVAN.

Douglas's Saying of Vermont.

(From the New York Mail.) The unveiling of the monument of Stephen A. Douglas at his birthplace, Brandon. Vt., has recalled the fact that it was Douglas who originated the oft-quoted saying, "Vermont is a good state to emigrate from."

This double edged saying, which contains a compliment and a knock, is a good example of Douglas's humor, which always had in it a peculiarly Vermont quality. It is said that Douglas's actual words were thus: "Vermont is a good state to be born in, a good state to be educated in and a good state to emigrate from." This made the remark more of a "knock" than it is in its usual and more summary form. But when Douglas uttered it the audience of Vermonters received it with roars of laughter.

The World's Mysteries

DID MARY STUART WRITE THE "CASKET LETTERS?"

ket Letters," which her enemies made use of to prove that she had a share in the murder of her second husband, Lord Darnley? Or were these letters the work of a forger, as it is well known she always dehas given rise to numberless controversies. Many eminent writers are of the opinion that the "Casket Letters" in connection with the Darnley murder have been much exaggerated.

It has often been said that Mary Stuart, when she sought refuge in England after the death of Langside, on May 16, 1568, imprudently threw herself like a mouse into the claws of the cat. But the truth is that the cat's claws, but much earlier, in 1561, immediately after her return to her Scottish Picture a young woman of twenty, careless and light-hearted, with all the pride and all the courage of a princess, but at the same time with the unrestraint, the heedlessness, and the ingenuous confidence of a child, suddenly transported into such environments as she met in the north country, after coming from the easy life and gallant ways of the court of the Valois. With all her courage and pride, Mary was essentially a woman. She needed a man to direct her, to rule her, and whom she could serve. Scarcely had she betrothed herself to Darnley, when "she loaded him with all the honors which a wife can bestow upon her husband." Later on, when she considered herself affianced to Norfolk, she immediately began to adopt towards him in her letters a tone of obedience and passive submission. The wretched Darnley, who was afterwards given her for a husband, was himself too much of a nullity to direct anybody. Mary then found a counsellor in the Italian Rizzio, of whom there is not the smallest proof that he ever was her lover. But Darnley, with the aid of Morton and her brother's advice, had Rizzio murdered "almost before

That after this the poor woman's heart should have been touched with the evil spirit of hatred and of vengeance is a thing too natural to leave room for doubt. But it is in no place shown as likely that from Rizcoat and professional whiskers, and carried | zio's murder or even from her marriage with a little black satchel, such as doctors take | Darnley, Mary Stuart had ceased to be morally responsible for her actions.

What was the real part Mary played in Darnley's murder? Andrew Lang, a writer who has given much study to the subject,

Did Mary Stuart really write the "Cas-, tells us that as early as October, 1566, Mary, who was at that time seriously ill, was "praying to heaven to amend Darnley, whose evil conduct was the sole cause of her illness." But Darnley, instead of amending his ways, had gone even further in his 'evil clared them to be? This is a question which | courses, and every day Murray and Lethington, who were both resolved to ruin him, reported to Mary some new act of treachery on his part. When these gentlemen proposed to the queen the getting rid of Darnley, it is said that she replied that she would not have anything done that could stain her honor or her conscience. There are many accusations that have been made as to the part Mary played in the murder, such as assisting in it was not in 1568 that the mouse fell into the preparations of the subterranean passage, of Mary's presence at the moment of the murder, but there is no absolute proof regarding any of these. Then there remains the eight casket letters and the thirteen sonnets which accompany them. No one, at a period when such a thing would have been possible, seems to have very seriousl troubled themselves to verify their authenticity. Notable English experts on hand-writing of recent years have pronounced at least the greater part of these letters forgeries, but they are so cleverly done that it is almost impossible to say where the forged part begins and ends. These letters are written in French, the language in which the Scottish queen always conducted her correspondence. There are many evidences to show, say experts on such matters, that they were evidently thought out in English before being clad in their French garb.

Mr. Lang, who is a firm disbeliever in Mary's guilt as to the writing of the "Casket Letters," writes: "We know, too, that there were at that time in Scotland, and even in the entourage of the queen, plenty of well-educated people who could imitate Mary's handwriting, as well as read and write French fluently. But all these persons had first learned their native language, whilst Mary had first learned French. Now when one of these persons set himself to forge letters of the queen, he might very well counterfelt her writing, her habitual expressions, even her mistakes; but there was something essentially French in Mary Stuart's French which the forger could not imitate; and I think by this clew one might contrive, without great improbability, to acquit the poor queen of Scots of the defestable crime with which her brother Murray and the other real murderers of Darnley tried to stain her memory.

HOW "FARMERS" LEGISLATURE" EQUALIZED TAXATION SYSTEM

Editor Constitution: The state is to be , friends of the measure purposed in 1892 to congratulated on the bright prospect we have for the early enactment of a stringent | the person of a state board of equalizers, tax equalization law.

Reports of interviews and opinions on the pending bill seem to indicate a division in purpose-some claiming that the law should provide for the equalization of taxation between the counties. Not so. The desideratum is the equalization of property values, between individual tax-payers in each county. This having been accomplished, the adjustment between the counties follows as the day follows the night.

The primary and only object of a tax equalization law, in the matter of property values, is to get on the books of the receiver of tax returns, and under the argus eye of the tax collector, hidage property.

One would be greatly astonished if one should arrive at a fairly accurate estimate of the aggregate amount of that class of property in the state. It increases in volume as the years roll by. The Alliance Legislature-would that its tribe might be revived and increased, it was so fruitful of wise and liberal legislation tax equalizing law. The friends of that measure knew that, in order to make it effective and long-lived, a state board of equalizers was necessary. To have attempted thus to cap the system would have been to defeat the then pending bill. It frequently happens in legislation that a measure, capable of incalculable benefit to all the people, is made a law half-clad, so to speak, lest the primary purpose itself shall utterly fail. The act, which was approved August 14. 1891, passed the senate by a vote of 24 to 17; it passed the house by a vote of 112 to 45. The act became effective in 1892. It added to the state digest hidage property in the sum of $18,463,041.

That was an excellent beginning. The

MODERN INVENTIONS. THE GRAPE FRUIT By GEORGE FITCH,

Author of "At Good Old Siwash" (Copyright, 1913, for The Constitution.) The grapefruit is so called because it looks like a large and melancholy orange which is failing in health. The grapefruit is composed of two gallons of juice concealed in a thick yellow globe and strongly impregnated with seeds. The grapefruit has more seeds than anything else, except the fig. When we have extracted all the seeds from a grapefruit and have piled them up, the pile is larger than the fruit itself. This is one of the miracles of nature and should teach man to be humble and scornful of his own The grapefruit is divided into watertight compartments, like an ocean liner, by thin pieces of skin. The skin is very tough and can be used for aeroplane covering or bullet proof vests. To eat a grapefruit the performer separates the pulp from the skin, with a sharp knife extracts the seeds, pours sugar into the cavities and lets it stand all night. In the morning he puts on a bathing suit and scoops out the delicious interior. A thirsty man can sometimes eat an

"In the morning he puts on a bathing suit and scoops out the delicious interior." The grapefruit has existed for many centuries, but like the tomato and the oyster, it was not suspected as a food at first. The wild grapefruit tastes like quinine and when a few brave society leaders learned to eat It some years ago they were regarded with awe. For some time the grapefruit was the real test of gentility, and the diner who could take his grapefruit without betraying the taste, proved himself to be an old hand in society.

This led to a great demand for grapefruit and vast plantations were planted. It satisfied with obscurity.

amend the act so that a balance wheel, in might be added.

On the other hand, a clamor was raised against the new law which had not increased the tax rate, but had compelled tax-payers, small and great, to wheel into line.

Big Shrinkage.

The first year, 1893, after enactment of the repealing act, witnessed a shrinkage in the tax digest of $10,504,756. The downward tendency continued until 1898, when, as between 1892 and 1898, the decrease in property on the digest amounted to $52,031,-106. After 1898, there was noticed a gradual increase in the amount of property on the

It were idle to pass a bill now, or at any time in the future, having for its object the equalization of tax values throughout the state, unless it be capped with a provision for a state board of equalization.

Under such an enactment, taking the digest of 1912 as a basis of valuation, there will be added to the digest of 1914 not less than thirty-two million dollars ($32,000,000) worth of hidage property. This hidage property is not chargeable to lack of honesty on the part of tax-payers; it comes rather of an effort at self-protection against known inequalities in valuations; it comes, in many instances, of the assertion of "the just human" in man-encouraged by the law and by custom-namely, that the moment one starts to the office of the receiver of tax returns, the value of that house and lot, that farm, that horse, those horses and mules, etc., begins to "grow smaller by degrees and beautifully less."

Equalized taxes are not a burden, they are a privilege under the beneficent form of government under which we live and MARTIN V. CALVIN. prosper.

The Proof of the Pudding Is in the Eating

The Atlanta Constitution is the South's best classified advertising medium.

The three letters reproduced above, together with many similar ones on file in this office, prove the truth of this statement.

And here are good, sound reasons why The Constitution produces best results:

It is read by substantial, up-to-date men and women in the home every morning. Not only in Atlanta and throughout Georgia, but also in adjoining states.

These people read The Constitution because they believe in the integrity of both its editorial and advertising columns and respond readily because—

They know that every advertisement appearing in The Constitution is paid for by the advertiser, hence is a sincere business message.

The Constitution publishes no advertising free.

The Constitution has won and held the respect and confidence of its readers since its birth nearly half a century ago. It has always stood for only those things which were good, only things which were for the best interest of the people.

If this were not so, The Constitution could not have become the leading newspaper of its section.

Everyone that has ever advertised in The Constitution's classified columns knows their pulling power. Of course, you cannot appreciate this until you yourself have put them to the test.

Why not telephone your wants to The Constitution now. Call Main 5000 or Atlanta 109 and ask for an adtaker. Or, if you prefer, we will have a representative call on you.

THE SALE of Pitcher Elmer Brown by the Montgomers Billikens for $7,000, Outfielder Walker for $4,000, and Pitcher Manning for about $2,500, ptus that city back on the baseball map. This nice chunk of coin will no doubt keep the franchise in Montgomery for another season and bring the team out on top for the present season. We are glad of it, as Johnny Dobbs deserves the greatest success in his earnest efforts.

Best in League.

BROWN'S work stamps him as the league's best pitcher. In 205 innings one every fifth inning. He has allowed | field. one hit every other inning, and has fanned one batter every other inning. ### How He Caught Fame.

(Ed A. Goewey, in Leslie's.) "There's a good story, George, concerning Forrest Cady, the young giant catcher of the Boston Red Sox. He broke into the limelight last season when Leslie Nunamaker, second catcher of the team, was injured in his throwing hand. At the time of the incident in question Cady was almost unheard of in Boston and even his teammates were unacquainted with his ability. He and Nunamaker were roommates. As Cady went out to warm up. Nunamaker, sitting on the side lines nursing his bandaged hand, shouted: 'Keep up the reputation of the room, old man!" "'Well, If they give me a chance they'll never miss you,' replied Cady. "Nunamaker sat on the bench the remainder of the season, appearing in only about half a dozen games. Cady caught the greater part of the world's championship series and this year re-

BUSINESS LITERATURE

The time to send out business literature is when business is slow. You don't send for a doctor when your child is in good health. Why should you curtail on your booklet simply because business is quiet? That's when you need to send out a jam-up booklet, and you will find that returns will more than justify the expenditure. Let us work with you in getting up a booklet which will "pull" business for you.
