

NEW LEAF TURNED BY LOBBY PROBERS IN STORY OF SUGAR

Frank Lowry Gives Details of the Nation-Wide Campaign to Remove the Duty From Sugar.

NO LOBBY, SAYS LOWRY, JUST A DIRECT PRIMARY

Pressure Was Sought on Oscar Underwood—Melville Stone Tries to Use the Associated Press and Failed.

Washington, June 19.—The senate committee in pursuit of "the lobby" turned over a new leaf in the story of sugar today and heard the details of the nation-wide and long-continued campaign the advocates of free sugar made to remove the duty on that article.

Frank C. Lowry, sales agent of the Federal Sugar Refining company, secretary and organizer of the "committee of wholesale grocers," wrote the free sugar chapter for the committee, while Senator Cummins acted as guide through the smoke of the battle of arguments, and Senators Nelson and Walsh lent their assistance when the issues seemed to become obscured.

Tonight the committee adjourned subject to the call of the chair. The three democratic members will be required to attend the democratic caucus on the tariff bill which begins tomorrow and Chairman Overman did not know when the hearings would be resumed.

Robert S. Lovett, chairman of the Union Pacific board of directors, had not been summoned to appear tonight and his subpoena may not be served until the inquiry is taken up again.

How the Fight for Free Sugar. Lowry's examination featured the closing session of the committee. He told of his attempts to accelerate public opinion and to persuade congressmen and senators, and spoke frankly of his efforts in the national campaign of last fall. He said he furnished most of the sugar information which appeared in the democratic campaign text book; that he prepared data on free sugar for the democratic caucus document which the present secretary of the navy, Mr. Daniels, said would circulate a million in pamphlet form, and that he had wired urging every member of the resolute committee at the Baltimore convention to put a free sugar plank in the democratic platform. The witness was on the stand for four hours and when he left he promised to produce any correspondence in his files relating to the organization of the grocers' committee or his free sugar campaign.

Many of the circulars and pamphlets on the letterhead of that organization were read into the record by Senator Cummins.

Lowry testified that he had conducted this fight for the free sugar company and that other refiners had not figured in it. He thought the expenses had amounted to about $25,000 in four years, exclusive of his salary and commission as sales agent, amounting to about $68,000 in that period. He got nothing for his tariff work, he said.

Didn't seem to favor free sugar. After many questions, Lowry admitted that the witness agreed that although all the sugar refiners did not seem to favor free sugar, they would benefit only in a less degree than the Federal by a reduction in duty. Lowry said, however, that an official of the American Sugar Refining company, the so-called trust, had told him that free sugar "would put us out of business."

Senator Norwood asked if the witness was in the committee of wholesale grocers, and wanted to know just how it was formed.

"There was no formal meeting," said Lowry. "I wrote for the federal committee of wholesale grocers and suggested that we form such a committee."

"They were just 'dummies' then," suggested Senator Nelson.

"Yes, sir," replied Lowry. "The whole proceeding was carried on by correspondence."

"Yes, sir," replied Lowry. "You appointed the secretary and chairman and organized the committee."

"Yes, sir," replied Lowry. "The domestic sugar people sent out men," he said, "to try to break it up. They said, 'Lowry is a bad man; you will be subpoenaed before a congressional committee in Washington.' But they stuck."

NEGRO IS LYNCHED AND BODY BURNED

Enraged Citizens of Hot Springs, Ark., Avenge Fatal Assault on a Little Girl. Lynching in Heart of City.

Hot Springs, Ark., June 19.—Will Norman, a negro, captured after a twelve-hour search of the mountains about Hot Springs, was hanged to a telephone pole at the most prominent street corner of the business district of this city early tonight, within an hour of the death of his victim, the 14-year-old daughter of former Circuit Judge C. Floyd Huff. His body was riddled with bullets and later burned. Several thousand persons witnessed the lynching.

The child was attacked at the Huff home this morning during the absence of other members of the family. When she attempted to fight off her assailant the negro clubbed her into insensibility, fracturing her skull, and forced her into a closet where she was found some time later by a younger brother.

Norman, who was employed at the Huff home, was captured shortly after nightfall at a negro cabin where he sought refuge after evading posses with bloodhounds during the day. He made no denial of his identity nor of the crime but pleaded that the mob be prevented from burning him. An effort was made to hurry him to jail but before the prison was reached the news of his capture had spread and the mob was quick in forming. He was taken from his captors on the jail steps and despite the pleading of several city officials hurried to the center of the most frequented thoroughfare and hanged.

LOOK ACROSS THE STREET!

NO TAIN OF GRAFT ON THE MINISTERS

David Lloyd-George and Sir Rufus Isaacs Acquitted of Corruption by the Commons. Proceedings Were Solemn.

London, June 19.—Resolved, that this house, after hearing the statement of the attorney general and the chancellor of the exchequer in reference to their purchase of shares in the Marconi company of America, accept their expression of regret that such purchases were made and that they were not mentioned in the debate of October 1st last and acquits them of any charge of corruption which has been proved to be absolutely false.

With this substitute motion proposed by Sir William Ryland Dent Adkins, adopted by a vote of 346 to 268, the house of commons tonight officially closed the Marconi affair.

The heavy guns of both parties—the prime minister, Mr. Asquith, and the secretary for foreign affairs, Sir Edward Grey, in behalf of their colleagues under inquiry, and A. J. Balfour and Andrew Bonar Law, for the conservatives, led the defense and attack.

The proceedings were judicial, and solemn; the assembly might have been mistaken for a church congregation. The witness agreed that although all the sugar refiners did not seem to favor free sugar, they would benefit only in a less degree than the Federal by a reduction in duty. Lowry said, however, that an official of the American Sugar Refining company, the so-called trust, had told him that free sugar "would put us out of business."

HUSBAND, AT 80, MUST PAY ALIMONY TO WIFE OF 45

When the first knots of the tangled skein of the 36-day married life of "Uncle Jimmy" Conn, aged 80, and his bride of 5, formerly Mrs. Martha Court, were unraveled in superior court yesterday, the details showed half court, half tragic. It ended by the court ordering the aged man to pay his wife $25 per month as alimony and to pay her attorneys $50. The court also declared that she must pay him $60 per month as rental for her home at 356 North Boulevard.

"Uncle Jimmy" was originally an inmate of "Bachelors' Domain," when illness overtook him and Mrs. Court invaded the sanctity of the place to nurse him, then the couple became engaged and were wedded. The bride now claims that her spouse underestimated his age and overestimated his wealth, although she says he is decidedly well off.

Colonel Jasper N. Smith, of "The House That Jack Built" fame and also known as the man who wears a stovepipe hat, but no cravat, and who has already installed his own monument on top of his own vault in Oakland cemetery.

Mrs. Court asked the court for divorce and permanent alimony, but the only questions settled were those pertaining to attorneys' fees and temporary alimony.

14 PERSONS ARE KILLED AND OVER 30 INJURED

When Electric Trains Collide. Accident Due to Confusion of Orders.

Vallejo, Cal., June 19.—A confusion of orders brought death to fourteen persons today when two electric trains met head-on near here, while running at high speed. Eleven were instantly killed, three died within a short time and three of the thirty or more injured are perhaps fatally hurt.

The conductor of one of the trains who took orders by telephone from the dispatcher just before the accident is among those probably fatally injured.

Nearly all of the killed or injured were residents of Vallejo and vicinity.

RECEIVER IS WANTED FOR PAINTER ORGANS

U. S. Fidelity and Guaranty Company Wants an Independent Examination.

Baltimore, June 19.—Another step was taken here today in the legal battle for the possession of the vital organs of Edward O. Painter, the Jacksonville, Fla., fertilizer manufacturer who lost his life in the St. Johns river some weeks ago.

Attorneys for the United States Fidelity and Guaranty company, which issued a large accident policy to Painter, applied for a receiver for the organs which had been sent to Baltimore for chemical examination. The court was asked to authorize the receiver to make an independent examination.

Judge Duffy gave the defendant heirs until next Wednesday to show cause why a receiver should not be appointed. The guaranty company alleges that a portion of the viscera already been turned over to the Painter interests.

WILSON AND BRYAN NEARING A SPLIT?

President Has Failed to Conclude Bryan About Currency and It Is Rumored That the Nebraskan Doesn't Like It.

By John Corrigan, Jr. Washington, D. C., June 19.—(Special.)—Undoubtedly interesting developments are threatened in reference to currency legislation which may bring about the much talked of but until now undeveloped split between President Wilson and Secretary of State Bryan.

It is reported here on the very best of authority that some feeling has arisen on the part of Mr. Bryan because he has not been called in conference with President Wilson on currency legislation. The president has taken up this matter with quite a number of democratic leaders. Indeed, he has been in frequent conference on the subject, but up to the present time it seems that he has not turned to Mr. Bryan in the matter of currency legislation.

It is said that Mr. Bryan has his own well developed views as to how the currency should be reformed, and it is said that he has not hesitated to make it known that the wisest course for congress to pursue is along the line of his preconceived ideas on the subject.

This matter has only taken the shape of rumor here up to the present time, but it is a source of general comment among congressmen and no one would be surprised to see a split develop between the president and Mr. Bryan over the currency question.

20 YEARS A PASTOR, HE FORSAKES PULPIT TO BECOME LAWYER

Griffin, Ga., June 19.—(Special.)—With a loop-the-loop jump Dr. Dent Atkinson, who for over twenty years has been a Presbyterian minister, and for some years recently has been in chautauqua work, while here in connection with the chautauqua just closed, quit that field of work and withdrew from the ministerial robes, to become a lawyer.

Dr. Atkinson is an Englishman by birth, but has been in this country thirty-five years. He holds a Ph. D. degree from the University of Illinois, as well as a diploma from Harvard. He has taken a three years' course in law training in Ohio Northern university and Chicago university. For years he has traveled, going around the world.

His purpose is to locate in Atlanta next September to enter actively into practice before all the courts. Dr. Atkinson says his specialty in practice will be either criminal law or corporation.

Destructive Hail Storm.

Knoxville, Tenn., June 19.—Hampton, in Carter county, reports the severest hail and thunder storm in its history. Entire fields of wheat and corn were destroyed, window panes broken and two houses unroofed. Many gardens were destroyed and fruit beaten off the trees. The damage will run into the thousands.

Engineer Not Guilty.

Hornell N. Y., June 19.—William H. Schroeder, an engineer of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railway, was acquitted tonight of a charge of manslaughter in connection with the wreck at Corning, July 4, when 16 passengers were killed.

THOS. M. NORWOOD CALLED BY DEATH

Prominent Figure in Georgia's Political and Literary Life Succumbs at Age of 77 to Apoplectic Stroke.

Savannah, Ga., June 19.—(Special.) Judge Thomas M. Norwood, former United States senator and a prominent figure in Georgia's political and literary life, died at his country place, "Harrowck Hall," on La Roche avenue, near Savannah, at 10:20 o'clock tonight. Since early in April he had been in failing health, but his last serious illness dated from June 3, July 19, Norwood was born in Talbot county April 26, 1836, but the sturdy strain of a vigorous and long-lived ancestry and the temperate habits of a lifetime made the nearly four score years he had seen when he left the bench sit lightly on him, and he was more active, physically and mentally, at 77 than are many men many years his senior.

Judge Norwood's life extended over the most momentous period of American history, and he was a conspicuous actor therein. His early education was received in the little village of Cuthbert, in Monroe county, which place his parents moved in his boyhood. From there he went to Emory college, where he graduated in 1859 under the presidency of George F. Porter, afterward one of the distinguished bishops in the Methodist church.

Admitted to Bar. After a brief period of school teaching young Norwood studied law in the office of James Milton Smith at Cuthbert and was admitted to the bar at the same time with his friend and college mate, Cladius C. Wilson, who afterwards became his partner under the firm name of Norwood & Wilson when they began the practice of law in Savannah. The new firm did not continue in existence long. The war clouds that had for years been lowering over the state, and which in 1861 led to that awful storm that raged for four years and the young lawyers joined the army of the confederate states.

Judge Norwood's political or legislative career began more than half a century ago in the Georgia legislature, of which he was a member for several times, and in which he espoused the cause of the Union. Administration Measure Provides for Rediscounting Commercial Paper, for Elastic Notes and for Doing a Foreign Banking Business.

U. S. FISCAL OPERATIONS ARE TO BE CONDUCTED BY U. S. RESERVE BANKS

These Federal Banks Are to Be Controlled by a Federal Reserve Board of Seven Members—Recasting of the Present Bank Reserve System Is Provided for by the Measure.

Washington, June 19.—The administration currency bill was made public tonight by Representative Glass, chairman of the house committee on banking and currency. It will be introduced in the house and senate after President Wilson has delivered in person his address to congress on Monday.

An outline of the measure prepared by Mr. Glass describes it as "a basis for legislative action," states that it will be gone over in detail for alterations, and sets out that its purpose is to accomplish three principal objects:

Provision of a means for rediscounting commercial paper of specified types. A basis for elastic notes properly safeguarded. Machinery for doing foreign banking business.

Essentials of the Measure. The measure's essentials remain as they have been outlined from time to time since the president began a study of the subject with house and senate leaders, Secretary McAdoo and other advisers, providing twelve or more federal reserve banks which will rediscount paper, deal in government securities, exchange and conduct government fiscal operations. Existing banks and such state banks and trust companies as conform to standards would be stockholders of the reserve banks. The government would hold the stock.

The government would control the federal reserve banks entirely through a federal reserve board of seven members, approximately $700,000,000 2 per cent bonds, upon which that note issue now rests. An amendment or separate bill to refund those bonds into 3 per cent bonds may be introduced later.

$500,000,000 New Notes Needed. In addition to the $700,000,000 existing national bank notes, not more than $500,000,000 in what are to be known as federal reserve treasury notes might be issued at the discretion of the federal reserve board solely for the purpose of making advances to the federal reserve banks, which would do no business with the public, deal only with their member banks and re-

State deposits only from the United States.

While the notes would, on their face, purport to be the obligations of the United States, they would be required to be secured by a gold reserve of 33 1/3 per cent. provided by the federal reserve bank would be a first and paramount lien on all the assets of these banks and would be redeemable in gold on demand at the treasury department in the city of Washington or any federal reserve bank.

Stringent provisions are made against counting any of these notes as a part of bank reserves, and the system is guarded against inflation by lodging power with the federal reserve board to exact an interest charge on the carrying notes in order to secure their prompt redemption. The notes are not made legal tender, but would be receivable by the government and every bank of the system at par without exchange.

Change made in the protection of other existing notes.

Reserve System.

The federal reserve board would require one federal reserve bank to receive the notes of another, and would establish a rate on discounting notes uniformly for all reserve banks, but made with a view to accumulating the commerce of the country and promoting a stable price level.

For resuming the present bank reserve system, the bill proposes to transfer the reserves from national banks in the present reserve and central reserve cities to federal reserve banks carrying notes in order to avoid shock to market conditions.

The bill proposes, according to Mr. Glass' statement, "ultimately the establishment of a reserve system in which country banks will have 15 per cent of reserve of a 15 per cent of total demand liabilities, such 15 per cent to be held 5 per cent in the bank vaults, 5 per cent with the national reserve bank and 5 per cent either at home or with the reserve bank; city banks have reserves of 20 per cent of demand liabilities, of which 10 per cent will be at home, 5 per cent with the reserve bank of the district, and 5 per cent either at home or with the reserve bank"; the statement says:

"The presumed effect of this plan will be to end the playing of reserves with central reserve city banks for use in stock market operations, to keep reserves in some measure at home, and to require speculators to get the funds they need in their operations either by directly borrowing them from persons who hold them and want to lend the cash for that purpose, or else by borrowing from the banks in the places where the operations are to be carried on.

Present Reserve System Antiquated.

"In the belief that the present reserve system is antiquated and unsatisfactory in that it leaves the massing of funds in New York and other financial centers, of which so much has been said in recent years, is largely due to the present reserve requirements of national banks, and that in order to get the real benefit from the system of re-discount which has been proposed as a remedy for many existing evils, it is necessary to base the system upon an actual control of reserves, provision has been made for recasting the present bank reserve system.

The bill is based on the belief that no one should participate in the control of the system unless he is financially interested himself, or chosen by those who are, except insofar as the government steps in and asserts the authority of the whole community. With this in mind, the system has been devised so as to provide for the continuation of existing national banks with their organization, powers and function unchanged. In addition there is established a system of federal reserve banks, which are incorporated institutions holding federal charters and in all respects managed like national banks, except as to the election of directors.

Twelve of these federal reserve banks, each managed by a board of nine directors, three of whom will be expert bankers selected by the banks, three will be members elected in the same way but required to represent the commercial, industrial or agricultural interests of the district and subject to removal by the federal reserve board in case they do not fairly represent these interests. The remaining three directors are to be chosen by the federal reserve board.

Net Result Summed Up.

The object of the bill is to effect a moderate division and classification of banking business along indicated lines, the result probably being summed up as follows:

"National reserve banks will be strictly limited to re-discounting actual commercial and industrial transactions evidenced by very short term paper and on rare occasions and carefully prescribed conditions, to financial operations protected by collateral. They will also be able to engage in foreign exchange operations, at present prohibited.

"National banks will be subjected to precisely the same restrictions as at present with a relaxation in favor of a moderate amount of real estate loans by country banks under carefully guarded conditions.

"By a revision of the administrative features of the national banking act, provision will be made for close oversight of national institutions with a view to holding them strictly up to the requirements of legitimate banking business.

"In order to possess themselves of the kind of paper entitling them to re-discounts, national banks will find themselves obliged to keep a reasonable proportion of their assets in the form of paper eligible for re-discounting.

All Funds in U. S. Revenue Banks.

"It is believed that the present sub-treasury system is unsatisfactory, clumsy, injurious to business and difficult to manage in times of stress. The bill, therefore, provides for—

"The placing of all current funds of the treasury in federal revenue banks and the payment of government creditors by check thereon.

"The equalization of the public funds between the different reserve banks by direction of the secretary of the treasury and subject to a rate of interest to be fixed by the federal reserve board.

"The trust funds of the treasury are to be held as at present in the vaults of the treasury.

"Under the terms of the bill the federal reserve banks, after the payment of all expenses and taxes, are entitled to pay an annual cumulative dividend of 5 per cent on paid-in capital to its stockholding members. One-half the net earnings of the bank must be paid into the reserve fund and the other half shall amount to 30 per cent of the paid-in capital of the bank. The remaining one-half of the bank's earnings shall be paid to the United States, and whenever and so long as the surplus fund of each federal reserve bank amounts to 20 per cent of the paid-in capital, the shareholders having received their permissible dividend of 5 per cent, all excess earnings shall be paid to the United States. Every federal reserve bank is exempt from federal, state and local taxation, except in respect to taxes upon real estate."

Reserve Banks and Board.

The terms of office of the four members of the federal reserve board as appointed by the president are to be equal, with the provision that these first appointed will serve two, four, six and eight years, respectively.

Up to the last few days, the federal reserve board was to have consisted of nine members instead of seven, and the bills were to be permitted to select three of those.

"Thus it will be noted," says Mr. Glass' statement, "the government will have absolute control of the system. The salary of each member, excepting the cabinet members, will be $10,000 a year and the comptroller of the currency would receive $5,000 in addition to the $5,000 salary he now receives.

"The chief points in the new federal reserve bank are described as follows:

"The number is to be twelve, with possible increase later as provided.

"The ownership is to be in the hands of the stockholding banks of the twelve larger and more formidable vessels of this type, and some of them predict the development of the submarine into a giant battleship that will replace dreadnaughts in the first line of defense. They even contend these vessels would be able to disappear beneath the surface of the sea to escape a return fire after discharging their great 45-inch rifles at an enemy. The submarine Benton is a new type invented by John M. Gage. The previous record for submarine submergence was made jointly by the Octopus and the Lake of Newport in May, 1911, when the two undersea craft stayed down for exactly twenty-four hours and came up with their crews healthy. There had been twenty-three of them in the submarines, and they stood the experience with no signs of fear. It was a new record for sustained life under the sea. Before that the record had been that established by the Fulton at New York, N. Y., in 1902, when the persons on board were down for seventeen hours. Later in the same year a party on the Fulton stayed under sea for twelve hours at the torpedo station.

Will the submarine eventually put the super-dreadnaught out of business? This question is a live topic just now for two reasons. The first is the decision of congress to build much larger undersea fighters. The second is the success of the Benton in setting a new record for staying under water at Long Beach, Cal. Although the pioneer in submarine navigation, the American navy has been outstripped by European engineers in the matter of speed and offensive power of underwater craft. The navy department designers now are planning much districts in which the reserve banks are situated. The national banks are compelled to be members and state banks and trust companies are permitted to be members.

"The capitalization is to be 20 per cent of the capital of the stockholding banks, one-half paid in and one-half subject to call.

Business of Reserve Banks.

"The business of these federal reserve banks is to be as follows:

"Redeeming of paper presented by stockholding banks under specified conditions, provided such paper flows out of actual agricultural, commercial, or industrial transactions, and does not more than a specific number of days.

"Buying and selling government securities, gold and silver bullion and foreign coin, foreign exchange and open market bills of given maturity.

"The government of fiscal operations.

"In order to meet the view so often expressed in commercial circles to the effect that the prosecution of American business in foreign countries would be greatly helped by improved facilities," Mr. Glass' statement continued, "the bill authorizes any national banking association with a minimum capital of $1,000,000 to establish branches in foreign countries for the furtherance of foreign commerce of the United States, and to act as federal agents of the United States abroad. The federal reserve board is required to pass upon all such applications.

The federal reserve board would be clothed with such administrative powers as examination, reclassification and regulation of reserve banks, discipline of officials of federal reserve banks and receiverships.

Parts of Present Laws Repealed.

Certain portions of the existing banking laws would be repealed, the Aldrich emergency currency act would be completely superseded, and in a separate bill a general revision of the administrative provisions of the national bank act is to be provided.

The bill would provide that within ninety days from the date of its passage the secretary of the treasury shall designate the federal reserve districts, the organization of the federal reserve banks shall begin and the transition period, during which the reserves shall be adjusted to the new plan, must be complete at the end of thirty-eight months.

Administration officials started today to smooth out the differences among democrats over the proposal to ask on the currency measure during the present session. President Wilson asked democratic members on the committee of banking and currency to meet him at the white house tomorrow night. Senator Owen invited the salary of each member, excepting the cabinet members, of his committee at the capitol next Wednesday and he accepted.

Secretary Bryan was in conference with Representative Henry, of Texas, and Samuel L. Lemay, counsel for the house money trust investigating committee of the last congress. Mr. Henry had advocated a renewal of the inquiry. It was reported that an understanding had been reached whereby the investigation was resumed it would not conflict with the consideration of currency legislation.

STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE, SAVANNAH GIRL MAY DIE

Heavy Touring Car Runs Over Miss Mary Moore, Probably Injuring Her Fatally.

Savannah, Ga., June 18.—(Special.)—Within a block of her room in the Young Woman's Christian association building, Miss Mary Moore, a stenographer for the Savannah Directory Publishing company, was run down and probably fatally injured by an automobile early tonight.

Miss Moore was crossing Drayton street at the Chatham county courthouse when a big touring car, driven by John Rivers, a negro chauffeur, and containing several young women, ran her down.

Both wheels of the heavy machine passed over her body.

The injured stenographer was rushed to the Savannah hospital by the chief of police in his automobile. She is injured internally. Rivers was arrested and is held without bail.

A Business Man's Talk.

(Henry H. Joy, in Leslie's.)

Business sadly needs some constructive advocates. The attitude of the government toward industrial evolution of recent years has brought about conditions which require our most serious consideration.

The public press and public opinion have enabled the railroads, through the medium of the interstate commerce laws, to do what they could not do for themselves by mutual agreements—namely, prevent wealth concentrating rates and maintain published and stable rates for the equal benefit of all. Even now they are only able to do it by means of their railroad traffic associations which are actually conspiracies contrary to the law if anything is, but the business of railroads can be carried on in no other way, and these eminently proper methods go on completely sanctioned by governmental authority.

Does the consumer wish to restore the practical days of the black flag and skull and crossbones and strike the masteheads of the conflicting railroad interests? No, not one!

Why not then let the business men of America be allowed, through associations local and national, to try and eliminate or minimize "unfair competition?"

Business men thoroughly understanding the intricacies of their respective businesses can surely accomplish the most beneficial results with the least harm.

Let us broaden our present prejudiced vision a little, and allow—yes, even encourage, business men to organize into associations with broader liberality to improve their own business relations with each other and with their patrons, the consumers, by whose good will they succeed.

The business intercourse of this great nation cannot to the best advantage be carried on by litigation. Progress must be had promptly, or progress is indeed stopped, such as is broad and not specific, and must apply to all alike.

It is nearly a quarter of a century since the passage of the Sherman act, and its most elementary determination as to what new business are as yet uncertain and unknown.

By a government commission for trade and industry, litigation and uncertainty could be minimized. Broad sound principles for fostering national and international commerce and industry would become established, such as could not be covered in a century of individual and specific litigation.

A specific law prohibiting the sale of goods at less than cost is obviously absurd. Business exigencies occasionally require it. Such laws do no good, but only harm. An excess production of last year's bonnets would necessarily require a slaughter sale or a fire.

We cannot overturn the natural laws of business without suffering and disaster.

ZUCCARELLI KILLED WHILE TRYING AUTO

Everaux, France, June 18.—The Italian automobilist Zuccarelli was killed outright today and his mechanician樊尼尼 was mortally injured, when they were trying out a machine for the French Automobile club grand prix contest in July.

The accident occurred at Mareilly, fifteen miles from here. Zuccarelli was driving at a hundred miles, when a horse and cart emerged from a sunken road. The automobile drove right through the obstruction but was overturned, pinning the occupants beneath. Zuccarelli won the grand prix for light automobiles at Lemans in September, 1912. He had only recently returned from the United States.

MEADE TAKES PUNCH AT ALDERMAN NUTTING

James W. Meade, city hall reporter of the Constitution, and Alderman James R. Nutting, of the fourth ward, engaged in a fist fight in the council chamber yesterday afternoon, just a few minutes before council met.

The trouble started when Alderman Nutting charged Meade with printing misstatements in the report of the Woodward-Rutting clash in one of the committee rooms Thursday afternoon.

Witnesses say that Alderman Nutting lunged loudly and persistently declared that the reporter had not told the entire truth, that Meade walked away to avoid trouble, and that the alderman followed him with fist doubled. The reporter then hit the alderman twice, one blow cutting a gash on the nose, and the other on the side of the face.

Alderman Nutting claims that he had no idea of attacking Meade, and that when he was struck he was taken by surprise.

City Marshal Fuller took charge of Meade, and Councilman Cotcord and Alderman Spratling took Alderman Nutting aside. He returned after council had adjourned and while the aldermanic board was in session.

The report objected to by Alderman Nutting concerned a clash he had with Mayor Woodward. On the floor of council Monday afternoon he intimated that Mayor Woodward was influenced by Georgia Railway and Power company to oppose the elementary electric generating plant. When Mayor Woodward demanded of Alderman Nutting the source of his information he replied that several persons told him so. Mayor Woodward frankly told the alderman that the statements were untrue.

Mayor Pro Tem. Warren stated after the difficulty in the council chamber that no action was likely to be taken Thursday morning, because the fight occurred before council convened.

BRITISH MERCHANT SHIPS EQUIPPED WITH GUNS.

The first British merchant ship to carry guns and ammunition on board in time of peace left Southampton recently for a South American port. The vessel was the steamship Aragon, of 10,000 tons, and she had among her crew sufficient officers and men of the Royal Naval reserve to work her armament, should it be needed. Guns are to be mounted on other merchant ships, the Amazon being the second vessel to be so equipped. The Aragon carries two 4.7-inch guns.

Are We Going Crazy?

(From Leslie's.)

Crazy! Emminent scientists express alarm over the rapid increase of insanity. The care of lunatics, idiots and feeble minded is getting to be a heavy burden in all our states. The worst of it is that the burden is not diminishing. Scientific minds are endeavoring to account for this unfortunate condition of affairs. Some explain it by the present tendencies toward extravagance, high living and licentiousness. It is said that we live in an age of profligacy. It is not surprising that it is also an age of unreason and unbelief. The popular demand for resort to the quack remedies that gib-tongued demagogues are suggesting in the interests of "the dear people." Is this not a subject for reflection by sober-minded persons? Was there ever an age in which more thoughtfulness and conservatism was required? Was there ever a time when a revival of faith both in God and man was more necessary? The loudest call of the present day is for a more unselfish consecration to the higher, nobler and better things of life. But let the people rule!

read from the bench the day he laid aside this judicial robe.

Author of Many Works.

"Judge Norwood was the author of "Judicocracy, or American White Slavery," a novel published in 1888; "Mother Goose Carved by a Commentator," a serio comic commentary, and "Patriotism, Democracy or Empire, a Satire." Literature ever had a charm for him. Surrounded by those delightful companions and friends, his books, his pen was not idle during the last years of his life until his final sickness. He devoted the well earned leisure of a green old age in the peaceful retirement of "Harrook Hall" to the literary pursuits so congenial to him.

When he was stricken Judge Norwood was working on a book which he expected to make his literary masterpiece. He put in all of his spare hours on the work and expected to live to finish it. Several interruptions came during the spring. He was ill a few weeks. Then early in April came the invitation to deliver the memorial day address for the confederate veterans. He prepared an elaborate address for that occasion, but when the night arrived he was too ill to appear and delivered it so the paper was read in part from Judge Norwood's manuscript.

ALDERMANIC BOARD ACCEPTS PROPOSAL

Another Fight in Council Will Come Over Proposed $260,000 Crematory Contract. Mayor Will Veto.

The proposal of the New York Destructor company to complete the crematory for $260,000 under a new contract, but which Mayor James G. Woodward says is in conflict with the contract of June 2, 1912, and which was invalidated by the supreme court, was approved by the aldermanic board yesterday afternoon.

The board voted almost unanimously to approve the proposal. Alderman J. H. Harwell, of the first ward, made a stirring appeal to the board to put aside all political enmity, draw up another proposal—one which would not conflict with the supreme court ruling—and submit it to the mayor.

"I don't blame the mayor for not approving the proposal," Alderman Harwell declared. "The highest court in Georgia has decided, and unless council follows out the decree the crematory wrangle will be dragged through the courts again.

"If council will draw up a contract and eliminate all parts of the old contract and submit it to the mayor, I'll guarantee that within two hours he will approve and sign it. If not you are going to invite a tussle, and you all know the mayor is a good tussler."

When the board voted to approve the proposal, Alderman Harwell gave notice to reconsider at the next meeting two weeks hence.

Precipitates Another Fight. The action of the board in approving the proposal over the avowed disapproval of Mayor Woodward precipitates another fight in council, possibly in the courts. Alderman Harwell's action in asking for a reconsideration of the matter at the next session of the board means that it will be delayed at least two weeks longer.

The proposal already has the approval of council, but has not yet reached Mayor Woodward through council channels.

"I don't approve the proposal, because there are some things in it which conflict with the supreme court decision," Mayor Woodward said.

"I am enjoined from participating in any action in conflict with the old contract, and council knows that I cannot do anything under the conditions.

"My first fight against the crematory was because I believed the pro-

They are certain that she had no real grievance against the doctor, and that she knew her only in a professional way.

That the act was premeditated, however, has been demonstrated by the coroner, who says, however, that there is no question that the attack with the magazine gun on Dr. Brinkley was entirely unexpected.

That the first shot fired by the young woman went through her handbag in which she carried the automatic pistol is certain. Dr. Brighton ple of Atlanta were paying too much money for the plant. I still believe that we are paying too much, but inasmuch as the company has cut out some of the price and the crematory is nearly complete I stand in the position of being in favor of anything that will hasten the end of the controversy and hastening the city in the possession of the property."

Mayor Woodward will veto the action of council and the aldermanic board. However, the matter must come up again in two weeks under Alderman Harwell's motion to reconsider before it goes to the mayor. It will be held up two weeks longer after it reaches the mayor for approval.

The Clauses Objected To.

What Mayor Woodward specifically and emphatically objects to in the proposal are clauses which he construes to be the same as those in the old contract and which the supreme court has enjoined the city and the destructor company from carrying out.

Mayor Woodward intimated rather strongly that he will gladly approve the proposal or contract if council will show a disposition to absolutely disregard the old contract and enter into a new one in conformity with the court's mandate.

MANAGERS AND OWNERS TO MEET HERE IN 1915

After a hot fight on the floor of the Building Managers and Owners' convention in Cincinnati the local Building Managers and Owners have organized only a few weeks prior to the convention for the immediate purpose of bringing the convention to Atlanta in 1914, succeeded in landing the convention for 1915.

They just missed bringing it to Atlanta next year by a "gnat's heel," so to speak. As soon as the question of the next meeting place was brought up C. F. Wilkinson, L. S. Gill, W. A. Jones, Jesse Draper and A. V. Cates, representatives of Atlanta, were on the floor. The 1913 convention was lost rather by graceful acknowledgement of first claim than by defeat, for Duluth, the busy little Minnesota burg, had had an eye on the gathering long before the Atlanta men organized. So Atlanta withdrew her invitation in favor of Duluth upon condition that the Building Owners and Managers come to Atlanta the following year.

This convention probably represents more capital than any other convention that meets with the exception of the Bankers' association.

CAPTAIN ISAACS BACK IN SERVICE AS MAJOR

Adolph McAllister Isaacs, of Macon, who was, until a few months ago, quartermaster of the Second regiment, has re-entered the military service of the state with the rank of major. His appointment was announced by Adjutant General Van Holt Nash yesterday.

As quartermaster, Major Isaacs went out of office when the colonel of his regiment, Walter Harris, was promoted to be brigadier general. He was thereby retired temporarily from the military service. As he is one of the most experienced military men in the state, his re-entrance in the National Guard will be greeted with general approval.

Other military appointments were: Lieutenant M. J. Ellis, quartermaster of second regiment, to rank of captain; Second Lieutenant A. S. Burton, Company M, second regiment, Forsyth, promoted to first lieutenant, vice O. H. B. Bloodworth, who recently was advanced to the captaincy.

MERCURY TO STAY AROUND THE 90'S

Local thundershowers throughout the state may have the effect of cooling off various parts and making the temperature even lower than that generally predicted.

WOULD PUT THE LID ON ALL FREAK BILLS

Hardeman, of Jefferson, Speech-Candidate, Would Keep House Down to Business.

Representative R. N. Hardeman, of Jefferson county, arrived in the city yesterday, making the second of the candidates for speaker of the house to reach the field of action. W. H. Burwell, of Hancock, had preceded him, having registered at the Kimball House on Wednesday. Both will remain in the city until the legislative meets.

Mr. Hardeman disclosed Thursday that he was in the race to the finish. He was not of the kind of which quitters are made, he said. He is very hopeful that this session of the legislature will transact some important business for the state.

"I think it is quite settled now that there will be no factionalism in this legislature," he said, "but we shall have to work to keep down freak bills and to keep the house concentrated on really vital legislation."

"The first question that we will have to handle, of course, will be the financial problem and the matter of tax revision made necessary by it. Appropriations will have to be kept strictly within the revenue."

"It shall be my especial care to see that the time of the house is not wasted with freak bills and bills of the sensational sort. There are always a lot of new members in every legislature we are burning with a desire to distinguish themselves and who rush forward with all kinds of freak measures for the publicity that they get out of them. A great deal of time is wasted over matters of that sort. What we want to do is to keep the house confined to real business."

RECKLESS DRIVING CASE IS DISMISSED AGAINST SIMMONS

The case of reckless driving of an automobile was dismissed against M. M. Simmons, district superintendent of the Southern Bell Telephone company, who ran down Eugene Green at Esplanade and Ponton de Leon avenue Monday night, when it was tried in recorder's court yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

A large number of witnesses appeared before the recorder. All testified that the accident was unavoidable. Even the mother of the girl victim, who was a witness to the occurrence, exonerated Mr. Simmons of blame. The child is still in St. Joseph's infirmary with a broken leg, but is rapidly recovering.

GOVERNMENT CHEMISTS PRAISE ATLANTA WATER

Declare It Is Not Only Pure But Contains Minerals That Are Healthful.

The government's department of chemistry has submitted to Major L. F. Garrard, quartermaster of the Seventeenth infantry at Fort McPherson, a report of a careful analysis of water supplied by the city for drinking purposes.

The report declared that the water is not only absolutely pure and wholesome, but that it contains minerals that are healthful.

As the result of the investigation of the government chemists, Major Garrard opened negotiations with General Manager Zede Smith, of the water department, to extend the water system to the fort for the purpose of supplying the soldiers. Wednesday the water board acquiesced in the request of the government to extend the water main to the fort, and when council met yesterday afternoon it authorized the board to enter into a contract.

The government will stand part of the expense of the extension and material to be used in the work to the extent of $1,004.

Council was urged to hasten the approval of the contract for the reason that the government's fiscal year ends in June, and the constitution requires that all contracts be made within the same year negotiations are carried on.

General Manager Smith says that he believes the report of the government chemists will have great weight in increasing the garrison at the fort.

Such a Sale As
The "Blue Tag" Furniture Sale
Would Not Be Possible in Every Store

In the first place, there are very, very few stores in the United States that carry such a comprehensive stock of furniture. Nor is this simply an opinion based on our own observation—people who travel much tell us the same.

Again, every store would not have the hardihood to go at prices in any such fashion as we have.

For we have cut them with a beautiful disregard for worth of the furniture.

And the cut prices are so general! They have touched simple little chairs and tables, where the saving of a dollar amounts to a very healthy percentage, and they have struck those great handsome dining room and bedroom sets, where the saving of several hundreds of dollars do not amount to so great a percentage as that dollar on the chair.

In every instance, however, the saving is so great that a homekeeper in need of furniture can ill afford to miss it!

Indeed, opportunity is knocking with great force at the door of every such home!

"Vudorize" Your Porch

There is one best porch shade. It is the Vudor. It has patented features that no other shade can claim, withal it costs no more than the nameless kinds. And what a comfort a porch shade is when the sun is cutting such capers!

A telephone call will bring a man to measure your porch for a Vudor. We are exclusive agents for it in Atlanta.

THE CAUSE OF THE TROUBLE.

The annual preliminary howl about "legislative extravagance" is beginning to tear the innocent employeem.

The general assembly is on a dozen journalistic griddles. Editors are running the gamut from righteous wrath to searching satire about the legislative habit of appropriating more than the state has in the treasury, or will have when the appropriations fall due.

Fine speech, gentlemen! But you're hitting everything except the bull's eye.

What you need to score, and what the people of Georgia are demanding that you score, is not legislative extravagance, but legislative timidity.

We make the statement deliberately: The legislature ought to appropriate not less but more money. Our educational and eleemosynary institutions are lean in the flanks, they are threatened with paralysis because of financial malnutrition.

Why are we disgraced by the recurring spectacle of spending more than we receive?

For the simple reason that Georgia operates under a tax system that is half a century behind the times, that lets individuals and counties give what they please instead of what they ought, and that, if left unremedied, is going to eventually scotch progress in this state.

There's plenty of money in Georgia. This commonwealth is, proportionately, one of the richest in the country. The potential asset of the state road alone is almost priceless. To use a supposititious argument, if that property were sold—as it never will be—the proceeds would clear the state's debt and leave a huge balance.

Every industry, every business is flourishing. Per capita wealth is as high here as elsewhere. The increase in every class of values is the despair of other states. Georgia is a storehouse of wealth.

Why, then, are we fronted by the disreputable condition of a state annually overdrawn its allowance? Because counties of equal wealth side by side return taxes with a radical inequality. Because individuals do the same thing. Because we pass around the hat instead of taking up a fee at the door.

How many million dollars a year this indefensible system loses Georgia there is no way of telling. But it is responsible for our present troubles. And it is not going to recover spontaneously. The legislature must take the initiative, and the people must get in behind and stay in behind the legislature.

Sentiment for tax revision is statewide. It is evident that the courageous ones who have for years been fighting for it will this session press the battle hard.

If Georgia wants to see its institutions relieved of annual mendacity; if it wants to see the state's fiscal system put on a sound basis; if it wants to see school teachers paid promptly and not compelled to shakedown their meager pittance—

The people must get busy with the legislature. The press can materialize relief if they shoot at the bull's eye. And the bull's eye is not legislative extravagance, but legislative parsimony due to our backwoods and unequal tax system.

MORE POWER TO TOM LOYLESS.

Tom Loyless, editor of The Augusta Chronicle, has a mallet cut for the calamity howlers. They get it between the eyes every time a head shows. A recent editorial in The Chronicle is an illustration. Loyless points out that more than $6,000,000 of private and public work is actually under way in and around Augusta.

There is no head-in-the-sand stupidity about Mr. Loyless' optimism. He admits that money is a little tight in Augusta, as it is everywhere else. But he says, and substantiates his assertions with figures, that there is less evidence of money pinch in Georgia than elsewhere; that the promise of the harvest is so prodigious that we are assured a magnificent fall and winter; and that everywhere merchants are reporting better trade than for the corresponding months of last year.

More power to Loyless. States and cities need the robust sanity of such men as he. He fights "glooms" with facts. He combats financial biliousness with the medicine of statistics. He chases nightmares by telling the simple truth.

He's right, too. There's nothing whatever the matter with Georgia, as there is nothing the matter with Augusta. It is chiefly the little fellows who are indulging in the luxury of doleful prediction. The big men, who have most to lose, and who are in a position to know, invariably see a clear light-of-way for prosperity.

Present indications are that Georgia will raise a good cotton crop; that she will receive a good price for it; that she will grow more corn than ever; that she will get a good price for that; better than all else, more prudent economy is being practiced by the farmers of the state.

There is bound to be a little hesitation until, as Mr. Loyless says, "congress gets sick or goes home." With that uncertainty out of the way, business will boom as it has not since 1906. If we could plant a Tom Loyless in every blessed county in Georgia the grouch squad would all be buried without benefit of clergy.

WHEN DOCTORS DISAGREE.

A recent issue of the "Journal of the American Institute of Criminal Law and Criminology" contains a wretchedly garbled editorial statement of the notorious Ollie Taylor fake. This periodical stands in the front rank of American law journals. Many lawyers and sociological experts accept its statements as gospel truth. Yet it bitingly observes that "the benevolent colony of Georgia has degenerated," all because of the Ollie Taylor case, and bolsters up its melancholy exhortation of the state with this alleged quotation from the supreme court decision in that instance:

"Where a minor under age of 16 is convicted of a misdemeanor...

...the act of the legislature confers on the presiding judge a discretion to send him to the chain-gang, or to the industrial farm, or to be sent to the industrial farm, or other similar institution, the legislature has declared that such a sentence shall be for and during the minority of such person.

The courts were not given any discretion or authority to send a minor to the industrial farm for a less time than above mentioned, or to discharge him before his reaching majority, on a writ of habeas corpus."

More in surprise than resentment, we ask: If a law periodical can keep itself so ill-informed, what can be expected of the lay press? In quoting the Georgia law, only a part of the statutes bearing upon the sentence of boy criminals to the reformatory is given. The whole law would have presented the matter entirely differently. Judge Pendleton, who issued the Ollie Taylor decision from which appeal was taken, has specifically stated that the law covering these cases does not sentence the offender to industrial farms or reformatories for the entire term of their minority. The sentence is in every case an indeterminate one. The authorities of industrial farms and reformatories are empowered to liberate inmates the day following their sentence if, in their opinion, these inmates give evidence of having become good citizens. Certainly, the courts have no power to impose sentence "for less time than above mentioned (the attainment of majority) or to discharge him before his reaching majority." If they did, that would mean that fixed, inflexible sentences were imposed, as on calloused criminals; it would mean, too, that a court that knew nothing about a boy's behavior, his amenability to discipline and uplifting influences, would be the tribunal instead of the authorities living constantly with the delinquent and capacitated to pass intelligent judgment.

To have given Ollie Taylor an inflexible sentence along with confirmed criminals would have been to have condemned him to a life of criminality. To liberate him with his criminal tendencies still uncorrected would be to do the same thing. As it is now, the state is working to save the boy and to save itself. It is a great pity that such molders of opinion as the journal we have quoted should not set its contemporaries an example of more accurate reporting.

Where Swedenborg Was Buried. (From The Westminster Gazette.) The old Swedish Lutheran church, whose churchyard the county council covets for an open space, is situated in a dingy little square of St. George's-in-the-East, not far from the spot where the Danish church once stood. It is an early Georgian structure of brick, built about 1728, and has some quaint architectural features of that prosaic period. The spire takes the form of a quaint little lantern tower, from which, when Wapping was a marshy waste, the pastor could spy Scandinavian ships coming up the river and calculate next Sunday's congregation. Emanuel Swedenborg, the famous mystic, was buried beneath the altar, but his remains were removed to Sweden some years ago when this interesting old edifice was closed, having been deprived of a flock by the substitution of steamers for sailing ships.

A Story of the Moment

By WALT MASON THE FAMOUS PROSE POET

THE FITNESS OF THINGS

"Here we are, knee deep in June," remarked the retired merchant, "and I have felt when I'm coming half a mile away, I do so much coughing and wheezing. There's something peculiarly exasperating about a cold at this season."

"That's because there's no sense in having a cold in the warm weather," said the hotel-keeper. "There's some satisfaction in being bunged up with a cold in January or March, for you know you are in line with the aristocracy. All the elite have colds then, and the man who doesn't do his share of the coughing feels as cheap as the one who wears a straw hat on St. Patrick's day. You might as well be dead as 'out of fashion, doggone it, and that's true in the matter of diseases as in other things."

"I can remember when Bright's disease was all the rage. All our best families took it up, and few really refined and self-respecting people did of anything else. Nearly every story in the newspapers wound up with an ad for some remedy for Bright's disease, and the man who had to worry along with a common stomach or liver complaint felt that he was out of the swim altogether. That man Bright must have made a tremendous fortune in royalties before his disease went out of favor. It was a good satisfactory thing to see the most of the remedy prescribed for it was easy to take. When I had it I used to buy a certain remedy that was put up in big black bottles, and I became so infatuated with that remedy that I kept on taking it long after the disease was banished. It was an excellent medicine, but I must admit that the patient had a thundering taste in his mouth the morning after taking it."

"Well, Bright's celebrated family disease was a best seller for several years, and then appendicitis became the fad, and its popularity still hangs on. It's a fool fashion, like pointed shoes or coat shirts. I never could see how it managed to become a favorite. When you have the appendicitis you don't go to the drug store and take your pick of eight or ten stimulating medicines. No, sir, doggone it, you have to go to the surgeon, and he spread-eagles you on his operating table, and goes through your insides with a pair of shears, passing every minute to collect $100. I suppose it's popular because it costs so much. This is an age of extravagance, and we can't be happy unless we are going into debt. That man may seem foolish who mortgages his automobile to have an operation for appendicitis, but if he doesn't do it he'll be ostracized by the best society."

"You've got to be in fashion if you want to do business in this country. When appendicitis is the rage, it doesn't do to have a simple case of colic and cure it yourself with three fingers of painkiller. You've got to go to the shamblers with the rest of the boys and have your vesicles overhauled."

"Last summer I had the mumps. It isn't often that an old man has the mumps, but it does happen now and then, and I was the fall guy that time. My head was swelled up until it looked like Zeppelin's airship and the way it ached was a sin. People must have seen how I was suffering, for I shed pale green tears all day long, yet there was nothing for me but ribald laughter and untimely jests. Not a doggone word of sympathy did I get from that to last. People would come into this hotel, and when they saw the head I was carrying around they just doubled up like jackknives and laughed until their false teeth fell out. There's nothing amusing in the mumps, but it's properly a children's disease, and when a grown man gets mixed up with it he looks ridiculous. It's all very well, but it's a fashion."

"I suppose that if a citizen happened to die of sunstroke on Christmas day his fellow townsmen would be too convulsed with merriment to take their presents down from the Christmas tree."

FORGET

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS.

If you want to learn something very valuable to you, do not forget.

There is not a man or woman in the world that does not remember too much. A mind adulterated with Worry, Revenge, Bitterness, Unkindness and the like immediately shrinks in power.

The things that you cannot happily remember—Forget.

If you make a mistake—Forget it—but remember to profit from it. If someone unjustly attacks you—Forget it, remembering to return a kindness. If something worries you—Forget it. The antidote for Worry is Work. If you hear unpleasant things—Forget them. If you fall in an enterprise that you expected to win—Forget it—and start all over again.

The best way to forget a Mistake is to never make it again. The best way to forget a Wrong is to forgive the one who did it.

If important details pile up before you, obstructing the bigger things in the work of your day, push them aside and—Forget them. The negative forces of life always will remain. Your cue is to meet them—master them—pass them—and then—Forget them in Positive Doing. Concentrate with force and precision upon the Essential and Important.

Forget everything that does not contribute to your Efficiency and Happiness.

Seeking "Rest."

(From The Washington Star.) The engines are smoking and steaming. The cinders fly hot through the air. The whistles are fitfully screaming. And life seems a burden of care: You eat what you really don't care for. In vain for amusement you roam. You wonder just what you are there for. As you wistfully think of your home.

There's a spot that is shady and quiet; You turn on the fan for a breeze; No cabbies are raising a riot; You can dress pretty much as you please. As you turn to the porch or the ballroom, In the hall, or beside the salt foam, You'll be missing your house or your hall room. As you hum the old tune "Home, Sweet Home."

New York in London.

The White City, the great amusement place at London, is being torn down in preparation for the Anglo-American exhibition to be held there in 1914, the centennial of peace between the United States and Great Britain. One feature of the show will be a "life size" reproduction of a section of Broadway, with its skyscrapers, and another will give Manhattan beach, Coney Island and all the shows.

The World's Mysteries

WHO CUT OFF JENKINS' EAR?

Probably the most unique cause that ever contributed to the starting of a war between two countries was that of Jenkins' ear. Because Jenkins asserted that the Spaniards had cut off one of his ears, and when he remonstrated they handed it to him with the remark, "Carry that to your king; we would do the same to him," the English took up arms against Spain and the war that followed was called "The War of Jenkins' Ear."

In the beginning of the eighteenth century Spain held, and in her narrow policy, endeavored to keep a monopoly of the trade with her new world colonies, and in their treaty with England her right was jealously guarded. England admitted the claim legal, but as a matter of practice it was constantly evaded, and a large illicit traffic was carried on with these colonies.

Spain, to prevent this, claimed the right to search all English vessels sailing near Spanish ports, and finally even upon the high seas, but her guardship often conducted the search with such insolence that the merchants became furious, and the English sailors almost demanded combat. No, sir, doggone it, you have to go to the surgeon, and he spread-eagles you on his operating table, and goes through your insides with a pair of shears, passing every minute to collect $100. I suppose it's popular because it costs so much. This is an age of extravagance, and we can't be happy unless we are going into debt. ORIGINALITY.

By GEORGE FITCH Author of "At Good Old Sitwah"

(Copyright, 1913, for The Constitution.) Originality consists of doing things differently.

Sometimes originality is a good thing. The man who got tired of wearing pink silk trousers and broadcote coats and who invented the plain but durable pants of modern times, relieved man of a crushing burden, thus allowing womankind to assume it. The Novelist who first wrote a story in which the heroine did not swim through 800 pages of sad, pensive and happy tears, without the aid of a life preserver, was a benefactor to humanity. So was the man who built a square house without excrescences in the late eighties, and thus taught the world that it was not necessary, in the interests of art, to build a house which looked as if it might have been collected and arranged by a tornado on its passage through a dozen states.

Even today originality is a great blessing. Every new form of rag time and high voltage dancing which is put out enables the world to drop the last affliction.

Originality, however, is usually indulged in to excess. It is now necessary for every one to be original and as the supply of sensible new things is scanty, we are getting some terrible results. Originality in dress is causing thousands of runaways on our streets each year. Originality in musical comedy has reached a point where Adam and Eve would blush and retire if they had box seats. Originality in art has reached the final or final stage. Originality in drama has reached a point which compels nine lawyers to work nights in order to think up a new and startling reason for the star's divorce, just before the fall season begins.

We would do better with less originality in these things and more in others. A politician who would vote against his own interests, a merchant who would apologize publicly for having stretched the truth in

Doesn't Agree With White's Opinions About Cattle

E. B. Anderson, a banker of Commerce, Ga., takes issue with W. H. White, Jr., of Atlanta, in the latter's views, as expressed in The Constitution, with regard to the cattle industry.

Mr. White maintained that the bankers, by including cattle with cotton as collateral for credit, could help break the one-crop system.

In a communication to The Constitution, Mr. Anderson expresses very fervent doubt on this score.

Nature's Garden Spot.

Editor Constitution: I have been in touch with your editorial campaign for reduction of cotton crop and for the planting of more corn and oats and home supplies, hogs and cows.

The price of cotton seed meal and cotton seed hulls is now the highest in years. Further, at the very time of harvesting a large oat crop in Georgia, the price has advanced and there is now power, it seems, to supply the demand for feed stuffs. Corn is bringing a dollar per bushel. It is the easiest product raised.

I am not a farmer myself, though I was raised on a farm, but I am satisfied that our section will always be hampered as long as we plant all our lands in cotton and send the money we get out of the cotton to the west for meat and supplies. I am informed that it is often impossible to supply the demand for corn and feed stuffs and meat.

I shall be very glad if you will agitate the subject to the extent that our people can see it to their interest to diversify their crops. Our lands will raise anything. We have the garden spot of the earth, as we believe, and the only thing that retards our progress is the sending of money, made out of our cotton, to the west for stuff that we could just as easily raise at home. I commend what The Constitution is doing, and I trust that it may be brought more fully to public attention.

JULE FELTON, Montezuma, Ga., June 17, 1913.

Will Benefit the State.

Editor Constitution: I have read with a great deal of interest the articles and editorials that have lately appeared in your paper relating to the methods now in vogue among the farmers of this state in planting their land in cotton and not diversifying their crops and producing supplies for home use, which would tend to improve their land.

I have been thinking and talking about this matter for several years, and am satisfied that it is one thing that is holding back the farmers of our state. The average farmer in this section plants from 50 to 75 per cent of his land in cotton and the balance in a few small crops for home use, when he should plant from 20 to 25 per cent of his land in cotton to meet the expense of running his farm, and the other 75 or 80 per cent should be planted in diversified crops for his home use.

I am, indeed, glad to know that The Constitution is bringing this matter to public attention, and for the work which will prove a lasting benefit to the farmers of our state.

Coal Smoke and Health.

The medical officer of health for Manchester, England, presents evidence to show that the working life of the people of that city is shortened ten years by the acids in smoke and the carbon particles which invade the lungs. Surgeon J. W. Stoner, of the United States public health service, traces a connection between the smoky atmosphere and the drinking habits of the people. Women living in sunless, gloomy homes, attired in somber clothes, breathing a smoke filled atmosphere are prone to be irritable, to scold and whip their children and to nag their husbands who flee to the saloons for some relief. Stoner is also of the opinion that children reared in a depressing atmosphere are dull, apathetic and even criminally inclined. The smoke problem is still important.

OLIVER-ELLIS WEDDING BRILLIANT EVENT OF 30th

Brilliant among the June weddings will be that of Miss Eloise Oliver and Mr. Frankton Ellis, which will take place on the evening of Monday, June 30, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. John Oliver, on Peachtree street. Miss Mary Brown will be maid of honor. Mrs. William Hensel Rhee, matron of honor, Misses Carolyn King, Luis Dean Jones and Susie Hallmon, bridesmaids; Lieutenant Edward King, best man.

The bride will enter the drawing room for the ceremony with her brother, Mr. John Oliver, and her mother will give her away. Rev. R. O. Flynn will officiate. A reception will follow the ceremony.

Miss Ballard's Bridge Party.

Miss Nell Ballard's bridge party yesterday afternoon at her home on North Boulevard was a pretty compliment to Miss Henrietta Dull, a bride-elect, and Mrs. E. R. Kenner, who has recently come to Atlanta to live.

Wednesday morning, June 18, at 11 o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Thompson, of Covington.

The beautiful home was artistically decorated with pink and white sweet peas, luxuriant ferns and smilax. During the ceremony the bride and groom stood under an arch of smilax in the entrance to the parlors. Rev. John B. Gordon was the officiating minister. Only members of the immediate families were present. The bride, a beautiful brunette, was becomingly gowned in a traveling suit of dark blue whipcord. Her flowers were a corsage of valley lilies. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Gibson left on an automobile tour to St. Simons island, and along the coast of Florida. Later they expect to take an extensive Western trip.

Bailey-Mallet.

Jackson, Ga., June 19.—(Special.)—Miss Minnie Bailey, daughter of Mrs. B. P. Bailey was married Wednesday evening at the First Methodist church to Mr. George Edwin Mallet, the wedding being because of the prominence of the families and the popularity of the two young people, centering social interest in Jackson. The church was decorated handsomely and Miss Viola

MISS RUTH TRIBBLE WEDS MR. SAMUEL KENNEY DICK

Athens, Ga., June 19.—(Special.)—

One of the important social events of the season in the south, was the marriage this evening in the First Presbyterian church in Athens, of Miss Ruth Tribble, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel J. Tribble, to Mr. Samuel Kenney Dick, of Atlanta. In the old church, which lends itself admirably to a function of large proportions and dignity and impressiveness, which had been decorated in elegant manner, green and white, the ceremony was performed by the pastor, Rev. E. L. Hill, D. D., assisted by Dr. J. W. Lynch, of the First Baptist church—the beautiful and imposing being employed with impressive effect. The bride, petite and dark and extremely pretty, wore an imported Bar-nard model made of white silk crepe embroidered in silver thread with garniture of French lace and pearl ornaments. Mrs. Tribble was matron of honor; she wore white brocade with lace and ornaments of rhinestones effective in the costume. The bridesmaids were Miss Callie Hoke Smith, of Washington, D. C., maid of honor; Miss Gene Thrall, of Williamsport, Pa.; Miss Martha Phlatzy, of Athens; and Miss Ruth Barren, of Philadelphia.

The pretty bridesmaids were dressed in white satin draped with lace, wore picture hats, and carried baskets of Killarney roses.

The best man to the groom was his brother, Mr. Jackson Dick, of Atlanta. The other groomsmen were Mr. James Harris, Mr. Wimberly Peters, Mr. Milton Dargatz and Mr. William Mannery, of Atlanta. After the ceremony a large reception was given at the Milledge avenue home, which was decorated elaborately, with the lawn especially beautiful for the occasion. Mr. and Mrs. Dick left on the midnight train for a wedding trip of a month. Upon their return they will be at home to their many friends in Atlanta.

Slaughter played the wedding music.

The little flower girl, Martha Watts, a niece of the groom, wore lace and embroidery, and the little ring-bearer was Atlee Carmichael, in a smart suit of white.

of Columbus, Mrs. John B. Grant.

Misses Stella Lina, Annie Taylor, Lucy Kate Smith and Ailene Wellborn, Misses Edith Hayes and Mary Patterson served punch.

After a wedding trip to Florida Mr. and Mrs. Dick will be at home in Marietta.

Brookhaven Club Reception.

The opening reception by the Brookhaven club as the country house of the Capital City club will be the brilliant social event of next Thursday, June 26. The hour has been set for 5 o'clock.

To Miss Thrall.

Mrs. Frank M. Farley, Jr. will entertain at tea Saturday at the Driving club, a party of 100 younger set, inviting them to meet Miss Jane Thrall, of Williamsport, Pa., who will be the guest of Mrs. A. W. Hill.

Afternoon Bridge.

Mrs. James W. Morrow, Jr. gave a pretty card party yesterday, this evening an enjoyable one in the series of entertainments for Miss Martha Francis. The house was decorated with a profusion of pink and white roses and nasturtiums, and punch was served in the dining room from a table gay with nasturtiums. The bridge prizes were a piece of hand-made lingerie and a fan, and the guest of honor was presented a dainty souvenir in ribbon and lace.

To Miss Bedell.

Mrs. James W. Bedell will entertain at luncheon Saturday in compliment to her guest, Miss Ellie May Bedell, of Knoxville.

To Miss Wilson.

Mrs. Charles Whitner entertained twelve young girls at bridge luncheon yesterday, the occasion a compliment to Miss Mary Frances Bowden, of Washington, who is the guest of Mrs. Joseph Hall.

Flowers for Hospital.

Those interested in the linen shower on June 23 at Wesley Memorial hospital will always remember that flowers add to the pleasure of those shut-in from illness. Daisies and other flowers are in abundance now and will be appreciated not only by the sick ones, but also by the callers and those assisting with the linen shower.

For Miss Tinsley.

Miss Frances Fiemter entertained at tea yesterday afternoon at the Georgian Terrace for Miss Elizabeth Tinsley, of Louisville, Ky., the guest of Miss Mary Frances Bowden. Miss Bowden gave an enjoyable dance last evening at the Hyperion club in compliment to her guest.

Public Ball.

The Gate City Guard will give a grand public ball in their hall this evening. Music by the Fifth Infantry Orchestra.

Miss Traylor to Entertain.

Miss Margaret Traylor will entertain at bridge next week in compliment to Miss Louise Couper's guests, Miss Graves and Miss Cochran, of Rome.

Miss Davis in Recital.

Miss Eva Davis, member of the organ class of the First Baptist church, will give her organ recital Friday evening, June 20, at 8:30 o'clock, Harris Street Presbyterian church. Mr. Lucius Duncan, violinist, will assist. The public is invited to attend.

Fouche-Forbes.

Miss Nell Fouche, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Fouche, of 40 1-2 Olive street, was married to Mr. Jamie V. Forbes, of Montgomery, Ala., at the residence of the bride's parents, Thursday afternoon at 6:30 o'clock.

Bridge Club Meets.

The Kenesaw Avenue Auction Bridge club was delightfully entertained yesterday by Mrs. William C. Lloyd.

To Brides-Elect.

Miss Ethel Milligan gave a pretty tea at the Georgian Terrace yesterday in compliment to Miss Loretta Trennor and Miss Kate Mashburn, brides-to-be.

HOUSE PARTY.

Those that assisted Miss Arnold in entertaining her guest were Misses Annie Douglas, Martha K. Smith and Clara Spivey. Over fifty couples were present.

Patterson-Garrison.

The wedding of Miss Daisy Patterson and Mr. Joseph Herman Garrison, of Marietta, took place last evening at 9 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Patterson, on East Pine street. The house was artistically decorated with smilax, palms, ferns and quantities of daisies.

SOCIAL ITEMS.

Mrs. Percival Sneed and Mr. Percival Sneed left on Wednesday for Haven, Maine, where they have taken a cottage for the summer.

To Brides-Elect.

Miss Irene Patterson was her sister's maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Miss Kate Patterson, Miss Mary Lee Harrison, and Mr. Ed Garrison was best man, Master George Roerig was ring-bearer and little Miss Margaret Cochran was flower girl. Miss Mary Perkins played the wedding march.

IF COOK HAD HIS WAY PEARY WOULD HANG

The Doctor Also Calls National Geographical Society "Bunch of Political Shrimps."

Captain and Mrs. W. P. Howard have returned from Kentucky. Miss Mary Howard will remain all summer.

Griffin, Ga., June 19.—(Special.)—The sensation of Griffin today is the hot roast Dr. Frederick A. Cook, Arctic explorer, handed to Rear Admiral Peary, U.S.N., in his lecture delivered before a thousand people.

Misses Cleo and Ivaline Lucke returned last night, after having spent a delightful week at St. Simon's island.

Dr. Cook paid his sincere disrespect to the yellow journals that so persistently circulated "falshoods" against him. In his tirade he classed the National Geographic society as a bunch of political shrimps, and said any street sweeper who would pay his $2 annual dues could be a member and a geographer; but that immediately upon the failure to pay he would no longer be a scientist.

Mrs. L. H. Pattilo is ill with appendicitis.

In his lecture of over an hour, Dr. Cook gave very many interesting recitals of his experience, and gave stereoscopic views of his polar journey. But in his discourse he had little or nothing to say of any scientific proofs of his having reached the Pole, and showed no pictures of the last 500 miles of his journey. At no time in his lecture did he go into any detail of proof, only making the statement of having done this thing or that.

Miss Ellie May Bedell, of Knoxville, Tenn., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. James Bedell, 305 Jumper street.

He pleads for a fair investigation of his claims. He avers that over thirty of the Arctic explorers of the day have endorsed him and that the University of Copenhagen is the only scientific body that has examined either his or Peary's records. He now expects that congress may make an investigation and give credit or recognition for his achievements.

Crackers Crushed—Ladies' Day Today

EDITED BY Dick Jemison

WHIFFS

Early Game.

SATURDAY will be one of the early game affairs. The Crackers and Barons both have to catch a train, the locals going to New Orleans and the Barons to Mobile. This early game proposition was avoided as much as possible this season, but this week catches one of the games. Things have been breaking badly in this respect for the Crackers. The few Saturday games at the regularly scheduled time that they have had have been rained out.

Murdering Ball.

THE GIANTS champions of the National league are out to repeat. They are overhauling the Philadelphia Nationals at a rapid clip now and seem destined to make good their prediction of getting in the lead again by July 1. Of late the Giants have been murdering the ball. On the present road trip they have made an average of twelve hits to the game and they have been bunting them, too, at the right time. During the past two weeks the champions have been hitting better than any club in the big leagues.

After Infielders.

THE VOLS are not content with the present personnel of the team. They realize that they need another good hitter in the line-up if they are to stay up in the race. Hogg has made a bid for Almeida, the hard hitting Cuban last year with Birmingham and now with the Cincinnati Reds, but as yet Hinkel has turned a deaf ear to all his offers.

A Good Twirler.

C. W. FERR MURPHY, owner of the Chicago Cubs, is one with the statement that when the Giants purchased Rube Hauer they grabbed off another lemon just a case of sour grapes. Webbs' allegations ought to be a good alibi. We confidently expect Hauer to come through with a great showing when he joins the Giants on the strength of Murphy's doubts in the matter. There has he ever pitched any great pitcher?

After Record.

TED McREEDITH, the remarkable Mercedesburg academy runner is out to smash the quarter mile mark now held by Mervyn Long. Long's record has been standing for low these many years. McReedith came within one fifth of a second of equalling it the other day in a try-out. And athletic sharp says that he was not trying then. This youngster is one of the great sprinters that are now a spoked shoe and a great future awaits him.

It's Safe.

RUDE MARQUARD'S record of nineteen straight hits in a game, while at least Walter Johnson started off like he was going to beat it but lost after winning ten straight. Seaton, or Philadelphia, fell at the same goal post. Grover Cleveland Alexander the big right hander of the Phillies went over both one better, but he topped on his twelfth start. Who's next?

The Gulls Only.

MIKE FINN'S Mobile Gulls are the only club that has any percentage edge over the Crackers in the inter-series games this season. The Crackers have been able to win only one game in seven played from the league leaders. Montgomery and Memphis have won four out of seven each from the Crackers. Nashville has won six out of eleven. The Crackers have won three out of five from the Pelicans and eight out of eleven each from the Barons and Lookouts, including the games played Wednesday.

Barons Crush the Crackers; Kavanaugh Presents Trophy; Marcan's Hitting Features

By Dick Jemison.

Adopting the usual custom of home teams, on pennant-winning or trophy presentation days, the Crackers dropped the first game of the series to the Barons Thursday afternoon by the lopsided count of 7 to 2.

Just before the game started, the players of both teams gathered around the plate, and President Kavanaugh, of the Southern league, presented President Calloway, of the local club, with the trophy won by the local team when they registered the largest paid attendance the opening game of the season.

President Calloway accepted it, then turned it over to Manager Smith for safe keeping, immediately thereafter after the game began.

Musser Hounded.

Paul Musser started the game for the Crackers and, with only one man retired, the Barons got to him for two runs, enough to beat Nashville. In the first inning a ball pitched by Brackenridge struck Elberfeld's head with an audible thud and rolled back into the diamond. Brackenridge recovered the ball and with Elberfeld was recovering from the shock, tossed it to first. This action irritated the batsman, who threw his bat at the pitcher. For this he was put out of the game. Sommers held Nashville safe all the way.

Lookouts 6, Vols 2.

Chattanooga, Tenn., June 19.—Brackenridge's wild throw on an easy chance after two were down in the third gave the locals two runs. A single, a pass and Johnson's double then made the total five for the 13th inning, enough to beat Nashville. In the first inning a ball pitched by Brackenridge struck Elberfeld's head with an audible thud and rolled back into the diamond. Brackenridge recovered the ball and with Elberfeld was recovering from the shock, tossed it to first. This action irritated the batsman, who threw his bat at the pitcher. For this he was put out of the game. Sommers held Nashville safe all the way.

Marcan's Hitting Features.

Marcan opened the game with a single to right, and was sacrificed to second by the advance of the third on a wild pitch, and counted when Knisley singled. McBride singled sending Knisley to third, and McGilvray singled scoring Knisley. Mayer doubled sending both men home to bring the score to 7-0.

Price to Rescue.

This was enough for Mr. Musser, who held out the distress signal, and Price went to the rescue. He fanned Carroll then walked Hillman and Mayer was out on attempted double steal.

The Crackers got seven hits off of Popen in the first five innings, but were unable to get a single tally across the plate.

With one man in the seventh, Popen smashed a single to left, which can tripled to left center and counted himself on Messenger's strike.

Mayer's triple and Illiams' single counted the final run in the eighth.

The Crackers' lone tallies came in the eighth. Bailey's triple followed by Smith's double to right and Elberfeld's single. Hardgrave and Mayer for the Barons and Brad and Dunn for Atlanta will be the probable batteries today.

Chicago, June 19.—Philadelphia won from Chicago today 2 to 1 and pulled the locals down into fourth place, as the Brooklyn team defeated St. Louis and moved up a notch. Wilbur Good, utility outfielder batted for Lavender and clouted the ball to the left field fence for a home run.

Bill Smith Accepting Attendance Cup

After four hard sets of strenuous play C. Y. Smith finally won out over Ed Carter, Jr. 10-8, 6-3, 6-3, 6-3 in the final match for the tournament cup and the privilege of contesting with Nat Thornton, the present champion, for the loving cup which Thornton has already won twice. Should Thornton win this match, the cup will become his permanent possession.

The Carter-Smith match was one of the best that has ever been staged at the Driving Club courts. In the first set Smith started off in great shape, winning five of the first six games played.

A good indication of how strong Smith was can be obtained from the fact that Carter, only had 3 points to his credit in the six games.

Carter played great tennis after Smith had him 5-1 in games in the first set, pulling himself up to a tie with Smith. The set went for 18 games before Smith finally won out, in the tenth game Smith needed but 1 point to win the set for five successive times, but failed, Carter at last winning the game.

In the third set Carter finally succeeded in working up to the net and by so doing won a lone set from Smith, as he was unable to hold the net. With the exception of this set, both players used the back court exclusively, neither one ever approaching the net. Smith played for the most part a strong and steady game, being on the offensive the greater part of the match.

In the semi-finals H. J. Hall put up a much stronger game than was expected of him, defeating E. V. Carter Jr. in the first set 7-5, 6-2, 6-2. Mansfield and Smith had little trouble in downing A. W. Smith and Draper 6-2, 6-1, 6-1. Mansfield put over several pretty shots in this match, his cross-court shots being especially strong.

In the consolation event the work of young Hallman has been very good. He has played some very good tennis in several matches, and is now in the final, in which event he will meet J. K. Orr, Jr. this afternoon for the cup.

Yesterday's results follow:
Third Round.
H. J. Hall defeated G. A. Howell 6-3, 3-6, 3-6.
Mansfield defeated B. M. Grant 6-2, 6-3, 6-2.
