Physician Gives Recipe

For Gray Hair

Dr. Stanton Burroughs, the well-known physician and author, recently made the following statement: "Gray hair can be easily darkened by the following simple recipe which you can mix at home: To T oz. of water add a small box of Barbo Compound, 1 oz bay rum and ½ oz. glycerine: Apply it to the hair every other day until the desired shade is obtained. It not only is an excellent hair darkener but at the same time removes dandruff and other ills of the scalp. I use it my-self and have no hesitancy in recom-mending it to my patients. These in-gredients can be bought at any drug stone at very little cost."-(adr.)

Mr. Hobson again reiterated his plea for a larger navy. He de-by the 5 per cent differential in favor of American ships provided in the new tariff law. Trade gained by the open-ting of the can l would be greater, he toontended, if the United States had a more powerful fleet to wield more in-fluence in the maritime world. A feature of the vomen's auxiliary of the congress was an address by Miss Allce Davies, representative of the department of commerce, who is in trying to interest women in the move-ment for better roads. Miss Davies said that by a well organized system of acutation among the women and children of the south the movement for good roads would be greatly strengthened.

SCHOOL FURBELOWS COST 2 YEARS OF LIFE

Washington, October 29 .- Two years of useful life are lost to every American under existing educational condi-tions, due to the increasing fads and furbelows adopted by the latter-day schools and made part of their compul-sory curriculum. This is the finding of a body of eminenc educators headed by James H. Baker, of the University of Colorado, whose report was issued today by the United States bureau of education. "The great mistake in our education is to suppose," says the report, "that quantity and strain constitute educa-tion. Education is a question of doing a few essential things well and without over-strain. The college has committed a grievous mistake in demanding even more in quantity than in quality pro-duced under condition of healthy nor-mal development." can under existing educational condi-duced under condition of healthy nor-mai development." The educators who, says the bureau officials spent ten years investigating conditions, would have the elementary education of the young occupy only six years instead of eight. They would have the student pass through high school and college so as to be prepared either to enter the world at the age of 20 or, if desirous of taking up a pro-fession, enable him to be equipped within two or four years later.

RAILROAD REHABILITATION.

In the fullness of time it begins to appear as though the railroads, heretofore given to carving "melons" for the benefit of speculators and financial "operators," may be about to cut a billion dollar melon for the benefit of the whole people. Admittedly, the rehabilitation so drastically needed by the transportation system of America will cost a cool billion. Portions of that sum would percolate into every conceivable trade artery. Public sentiment and even the interstate commerce commission seem shaping to make that rehabilitation possible.

A recent address made by Chairman E. E. Clark, of the commission, to the National Association of Railway Commissioners, is significant. He told his hearers that the railroads could not provide the transportation facilities asked of them, as to freight and passengers, unless their income was increased and their credit strengthened. This meant, he intimated, a general if small elevation of rates. He admitted prejudice against such policy, growing out of the past high financiering and abuses of the carriers. But he said that if the carriers are to be penalized for their past sins, the commerce of the whole nation would be made the

and to administer the proceeds strictly for the rehabilitation of which they stand so drastically in need. In the process of rehabilitation the huge sums to be expended will quicken prosperity in every channel. In the ensuing good times there will be all the splendid phenomena that characterized the flush seasons of 1905-6, without the costly reaction of 1907. The country is too well chastened to justify the fear of a repetition of that disaster.

The initiative of the people of Atlanta will largely determine whether this city is to secure the 1914 convention of the American Road Congress, with its several thousand delegates from all parts of the country and its far-flung and inestimable stimulation to highway activities. Charles P. Light, field secretary of the congress, recently spent several days here on a scouting tour. What he found in Atlanta and what he was told by Atlantans led him to believe this city to be the logical site for the next convention, which is this year to be held in the south. The superior geographical and other advantages possessed by Atlanta should insure the choice of this city, if its people manifest their characteristic spirit of enterprise. The idea of the association in holding its conventions year by year in different sections is to make national its influence for roadway construction. One convention already has been held in Richmond. To reach all parts of the south it is natural the choice should fall on Atlanta. Of all cities south of Mason and Dixon's line Atlanta has the best facilities for reaching and for being reached by southern points. Additionally. Georgia is inseparably identified in the national mind with the tremendous and unique good roads crusade inaugurated by this state in placing its convicts upon the public highways. The hotel and auditorium facilities of the city are unsurpassed by any city of its size in the world. It is difficult to estimate the impetus to all manner of road-building activities that would come as an inevitable sequence to the holding here of a convention of such magnitude. Every county in Georgia, and all states surrounding Georgia would feel the impulse.

The Hotel Men's Association of Atlanta has underwritten the movement to bring the convention to this city, and they will have the co-operation of business men and citizens generally.

PARKER'S SOUND ADVICE.

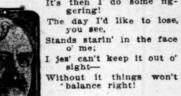

When John M. Parker, of New Orleans, addresses himself to the subject of cotton and cotton exports he speaks with the au-thority of a specialist. He was the principal speaker at one of the recent sessions of the Southern Commercial Congress, and his theme was, "The Panama Canal and Cotton Exports."

Mr. Parker dwelt upon a feature The Constitution has often touched, and that is the probability that in time we will have to reconcile ourselves to forfeit a large part of our cotton goods sale to the Orient to Japan and China, especially the former country. He showed that Japan aspires. and with reason, to be the England of the far east. She has the location. She has the cheap labor and she has the energy and ingenuity. It will be painful reading to those southerners and Americans generally who have not kent abreast to be told that we must in all probability relinquish hope of a long-coveted monopoly in Oriental trade. But Mr. Parker's logic is sound, and he presents a compensation. South and Central American western coasts, he shows, have a population of 20,000,000, and do an import business of $200,000,000 a year. He sees no reason why America, and specifically the south, should not reap the larger share of this trade. Mr. Parker spoke, moreover, in terms of the present only. When these countries take on their real stride-and the opening of the canal will be the signal-the 20,000,000 population and the $200,000,000 in imports will jump to inestimable proportions. But before the south can begin to ex-

SOME REASONS WHY.

"It's almost impossible to get a good girl for general housework," complained the druggist. "I have been advertising for a girl for a week, offering fabulous sums in wages, and all the privileges any human being could ask, but the competent girls don't apply for the portfolio. A few freaks have called at the front door offering to go to work, but my wife turned them all down at sight. You can get plenty of inexperienced girls, but the capable, experienced ones are conspicuous by their absence." "The capable, experienced girls have blown into some other line of business." said the village patriarch. "The highest ambition of every domestic is to get a job in a store or photograph gallery, so that she can preserve her complexion and keep her hands from looking like pickled mackerel. I can't say that I blame her when I survey the situation calmly, although I often have argued to the contrary. "We hear and say a great deal about the advantages of kitchen employment, but in our hearts we don't really believe in them. I can't imagine any sane woman taking an active meerest in housework, even when she's doing it for herself; when she is doing it for somebody else the strain "Every woman wants to look as well as she can, and while we tell her that it is cheap vanity on her part, and point out that sterling worth beats beauty all to thunder, we expect her to be as attractive as possible. If she fails, to be attractive, we tell her that we are willing to be her brothers, when she asks us to be her bride-grooms. Well, a girl in the kitchen feels that she is sacrificing all the good looks she fell heir to. One minute she is steaming her face over a kettle, and the next she is baking it over an oven. She ruins her hands splashing around in dishwater. and her hair gets full of soap grease. Every time she looks in the mirror she feels that something will have to be done, and so she sits up all night studying stenography civil engineering or something of that kind. and the first chance she has she breaks into one of the learned professions, and all the king's horses and all the king's men couldn't drag her back to the culinary department. "The domestic has so many annoyances that it would take an hour to enumerate them. The very fact that she is called a domestic is a grievance. It seems to take her out of the ranks of human beings and place her among the horses and cows. If a man called me a domestic the blood would boil in my veins, and I'd forget my burden of years long enough to put a sole-leather ear on him.

"No woman ever treats a domestic just right. I have had more wives than the average man, and they always had hired girls, and not one of them knew how to treat those damsels. One of my wives was too familiar, and another too haughty, and The most common fault is an exso on cess of hauteur. The average woman seems to take a demoniac pleasure in ordering the suffering domestic around after the manner of an empress of Russia. In this coun try people won't stand for that sort of thing, and so the haughty females spent most of their time trying to engage girls, and wondering why they can't keep them when they get them.

"Other women are always on the look-out for errors. They'll sail into the kitchen and paw around and raise old Ebenezer if they find some grease on the range, or if the soap is being wasted, or if the dishrag needs washing. If there are no sins of omission or commission to kick about, they'll invent some, and raise a riot anyhow. Wom-en of this sort seldom, if ever, find anything to praise. A girl may ruin her shirt-waist trying to please, and never hear s word of approval; but if she drops an old three-cent glass tumbler, that tumbler immediately becomes priceless cut glass, and you can hear the mistress squawking for three blocks. "The wonder is that any women find it.

The frantic efforts Byron made in 1822 to sell this manuscript is another evidence that the family of the duchess claim against him, for his correspondence shows that he needed money badly at that time, not for himself, but to help the cause of Greece. Was it possible that he was so deeply involved with work for struggling Greece, that he found no time to write anything of the character himself, and therefore appropriated the efforts of the Duchess of Devonshire, thereby gaining the money he so badly desired.

Old Poem Predicted Canal. (Letter to The New York Sun.)

John Dyer, the British poet, in his poem (1757) entitled "The Fleece" predicted an interoceanic canal as follows:

"Must it ever be' thus? or may the hand Of might labor drain their gusty lakes, Enlarge the brightening sky, and, peopling, warm were to work continuously without rest. he would soon fade away and be deposited upon the junk pile of worn out humanity. This is because labor tears down the muscle cells. Therefore, it is necessary that man should occasionally sit down in a quiet spot and allow himself to be rebuilt.

Rest after labor is a great boon. But a large number of people make the grave mistake of resting at the wrong time. They insist on resting before work.

This leads to grave consequences. The system keeps on piling up muscle cells on top of the old ones, and presently the owner nereof is too strong to work.

This is a terrible condition, and leads to The earth is encumbered with great woe. men who cannot work until they get through resting, and who cannot get through resting until they have begun work. In the meantime their wives' clear-starching is much admired by our best families.

Various people require greatly varying amounts of rest. A man who works hard twelve hours a day with his hands can get enough rest in the evening in two pipefulls of tobacco to restore himself completely. But a banker who works from 10 to 2 has to go out on the golf links for three hours a day in order to keep from drooping like a weary flower.

Some men work all their lives without vacations, while others take a month off each year and rest with great fury at the seashore or in the mountains, or amid the taxicabandits of Europe. A great many people criticise this coun try severely because there is no rest in it to speak of. In England man works from rest to rest, while in this country men rest from work to work and regard the resting time as a dead loss. Englishmen rest in the morning, at noon, in the afternoon for tea, and from Friday until Monday. they retire at 45 and rest the remainder of their lives-after which they die, leaving enough of money to enable their descendants to rest on forever. In America, man works until the electric light plant breaks down, takes his vacation with a secretary two stenographers, and celebrates his

No one doubts that the railroads of the whole country are in need of extensive standardization. Their equipment and facilities are entirely insufficient to meet the daily demands upon them, not to anticipate the future. It is conservatively estimated that at least a billion dollars is required for this task, which cannot much longer with safety be delayed.

No one recognizes the situation more keenly than the average railroad head. But he knows also that it is impossible for the railroad to market bonds and securities so long as its income is, as at present, upon a problematic and fluctuating basis.

If the railroads could borrow the money they need, hypothecating their securities in return, the resulting enormous expenditures would flow into every commercial and industrial channel in America. The prosperity that now lacks a finishing touch be cause the railroads have, perforce, stayed out of the purchasing market would mount into unprecedented proportions: The coun try in general would begin to enjoy one of the most onulent eras in its history.

The public would not object to a modest increase in rates, if the increase were made uniform and if there were no indications of discrimination. The American people are not slow to recognize a crisis when they meet one, and they are beginning to understand the folly of attempting to wreak punishment upon the railroad of today for the offenses of the railroad of yesterday.

Any hesitancy on part of public sentiment is to be found in fear that these ancient sins may be repeated. The public wants to know that the huge treasure imperatively needed by the railroads will go to the laying of tracks, the purchasing of supplies and the replacement of equipment, and not to thimble-rigging purposes, crushing competitors and huge "melon" dishouts. The people do not grudge the railroads honest dividends. But they do not expect again to tolerate the distribution of what used to be the equivalent of piratical prize money.

Reliable evidence is at hand that an era of better understanding has been reached as between the railroads and the people. The former seem resolved on a more straightforward course. The latter have punctured the pretense of the political, ghost-dancers and the muckrakers. The interstate commerce commission itself appears minded to ward off old vicious practices, and to ask for a square deal for the railroads as well as the people. In view of this crystallizing situation, the railroads stand an increasingly excellent chance to dispose of their securities upon fair terms,

The Sleeping Passenger.

(From Louisville Courier Journal.) According to a ruling in the circuit court of Christian county, it is not the duty of rainmen to wake up sleeping passengers who have reached their destination

Suit for damages had been filed against railroad company by a man who had been carried past his station. He was on his way to Hopkinsville one night last summer and was asleep when the train reached that city. He failed to hear the trainman's familiar call of "all out for Hopkinsville, and was carried on to Guthrie, where he was compelled to spend the night and buy a ticket back home the following morning.

The court dismissed the plaintiff's suit on peremptory instructions, holding that the train crew had done all that was required in calling the station and stopping the train. For the man who occupies a berth in a Pullman there would be cause of action in such case. The situation is different with the man who risks 40 winks of sleep in a chair in the day coach and unwittingly exceeds the limit. He is supposed to know where he is going and to be on his way with eyes and ears open. He is presumed to have definite idea as to where he gets off.

Remade the merry day. How soft the door was opened.

How swift she stole upon With covers for my carelessness, Awake enough to see Her silver dress of silentness, Her wistful brows that won me: To feel her touch To feel her touch upon me, And the way she looked at me!

The book that always slipped from bed Was smiled upon and taken, The clothes that lay both far and near Were folded on the chair, And last, she kissed me lightly, Sc lightly-not to waken, And her white arms were about me, And her soft dark hair.

And charger-borne afar that night Through spectral lands and lonely. With elves close riding For some dungeoned castle-keep, thought, "My pretty Mother! I wear her favor only." I thought, "My lovely Mother!" And smiled in my sleep.

Kieff Not Typical Russian City.

(From the London Chronicle.) Kieff, more familiar as Kiev, scene of the reat "ritual murder" trial, is the earliest seat of Christianity in Russia. As the most ancient capital of the empire it has earned its title of mother of cities. Its far-stretching monastery of Petcherskaya Lavra :s one of the wonders of the world. With many a church and chapel and innumerable mon kish cells within its high wall, the "City of Caves" forms a town by itself. To the cata-combs cut out of the solid rock every year come pilgrims from all over Russla to worship at the shrines of the saints who came years ago from Byzantium.

But Kieff is not a typically Russian city. It has lost its early Byzantine character without gaining the modern Russian spiritresult attributed to the rule of the Poles who kept the city under their influence for centuries. So you may call the Kieff people Little Russians who differ from the Great Russians as much as the English do from the Scots. Imperialists did their best seventy years ago by establishing a university to Russify the town, but most writers agree that ancient elements are still alive, and that Kieff is the right place for a mediaeval trial.

The prediction in Dver's poem written 150 years ago are being completed in this our day. What did Dyer have in mind when h used the phrase, "Steer our bold fleets," etc? By the word "our," I presume he was not referring to American dreadnaughts. Did his mind's eve perceive a fleet of British war ships forcing their way through a sea-level canal under the provisions of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty; or probably flying the Union Jack in defiance of this land?

Jewelry and Barbarism.

(From Le Resil Economique.)

Even in the stone age woman was fond of jewels. But it was man, the brutal master, who wore them. The heavy necklace that descended upon his breast was the emblem of his superiority and power. Even before he had progressed so far as to cover himself with the skin of the stag he wore a necklace of shells, of teeth of animals or glittering flint. The elegant dame or demoiselle who rolls by in her limousine is not so distant a relative of the cave man may try to appear. She likes jewels better than dress, since each season we see re and more bejeweled and less and ess clothed. The joy of jewels is of the same infantile quality with the coquette of today that it was in the early barbaric times. A thread of metal, upon which are strung so

Mr. Cul-pepper has a 40-acre farm and this year he has not planted a stalk of cotton on his farm. He harvested more than a thousand ushels of oats in the summer bushels of oats in the summer. He fol-lowed his oats with peas and has harvested more than 25 tons of hay worth $20 a ton. In addition he will harvest more than 200 bushels of corn. The crops will bring Mr. Culpepper more than thirteen hundred dol-lars. He finds ready markets for all his pro-ducts and the work of hauling corn fifteen miles from the railroad to his farm is not worrying him one bit. He has all these things to sell and is feeling as good or bet-ter than the farmer who is selling a pretty. He folthings to sell and is teening a pretty ter than the farmer who is selling a pretty 13 cent cotton this fail. Mr good crop of 13 cent cotton this fall. "Father" and "Mother" Best.

"Father" and "mother" are difficult ords to improve upon when one thinks of the associations they convey, and the dignity

y of their meaning. Many, however, have been the offshoots of these appellations. "Papa" and "mamma" have been in use in England for at least three centuries, and it is generally accepted that they are of Italian origin, as Dante uses the word "mamma" in the Furgatorio.

Among middle class folk "dad" or "dad dy" is a favorite nickname. 'Dad' is of pure Welsh extraction and is derived from or is a corruption of the word "tad."

"Pater" and "mater" make their appearance when students are in the throes Latin grammar. "Poppa" and "momm "momma" have appealed to the young American.

Washington, October 22.—Important changes in the administration curren-cy bill resulted from the first day's ex-ecutive work on the measure by the senate committee. The committee passed over for later action the prop-osition to substitute a central, gov-ernment-controlled bank for the re-kional bank plan in the bill, on which the members were evenly divided, and proceeded to perfect the details of the measure. proceeded to perfect the details of the measure. The complexion of the proposed re-erve board was materially altered by amendments adopted ioday, and it probably will be further changed. It was decided to increase the member-ship of the board from seven, as fixed in the house bill, to nine, and to elim-inate the secretary of agriculture and the comptroller of the currency from service on the board. Another amend-ment is pending to take off the board the secretary of the treasury and to remove all ex-officio members. The committee decided to arrange the terms so that one member's service would expire each year. This pro-vision is designed to meet the demand that the service of members of the board be given continuity to enable them to profit by their experience on the board.

It was decided to eliminate the or-ganization committee proposed by the house bill, and to have the federal re-serve board appointed immediately, with the power to organize and place in operation any system devised, whether a central bank or a regional bank scheme--is finally agreed upon. A large part of today's session was devoted to a discussion of the number of regional banks to be created by the bill if the regional plan is maintained, but no conclusion was reached. A decision on the ques ably will be reached tomorrow sible mestion probably will be reached tomorrow. The committee has temporarily abandoned all efforts to dispose of the central bank plan, on which the com-mittee stands six to six. The mem-bers will proceed to develop both the regional and the central bank plan so far as possible along parallel lines until such is perfected so far as the committee can agree. Then the vote will be taken on the two plans.

Berger-Klausman. The wedding of Miss Mamle Berger and Dr. M. Klausman took place last evening at 8:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mar-tin K. Berger, on East North avenue. The lower floor was thrown together and beautifully decorated with spillax and a wealth of follage plants and plank and white roses. The ceremony took place in the drawing room, where the bridal party stood before an altar of palms and ferns, with clusters of Easter lilles and white chrysanthemums, and overhead was a wedding bell of white roses. Athens, Ga., October 29.—(Special.)— Coach Cumningham has made two changes in the personnel of the Uni-versity of Georgia line-up for the game with the University of North Carolina here on Saturday. left here tonight for Charletening, where they will play the University of Virginia on Saturday. The team will spend Thursday and Thursday night at East Radford, Va., Friday night at Lynchburg and arrive in Charlottesville Saturday morning. A big delegation of students gave the team a send-off at the depot that made them feel glad and determined to fight their hardest to win. With Tom Brown out of the game, Coach McGugin must try to partially plug up th. hole on that side of Van-derbilt's line. Huffman, who played guard last Sat-urday against Michigan, has been shifted to Brown's place, and Askew and Putnam will battle for the place left vacant by Huffman until Brown is able to return to the game. Boensch's miscrable showing in the Michigan game has caused McGugin to bench him instead of shifting him to halfback, as was his first inten-tion. Zach Curlin, with all his faculty dis-

to bench him instead of shifting him to halfback, as was his first inten-tion. Zach Curlin, with all his faculty dis-abilities removed, will take the gener-alship place on the Vandy eleven for the game Saturday with Virginia. Cur-lin carries about as cool a football head on his shoulders as there is in existence, and he is expected to strengthen the Vanderbilt attack as the result; in addition, his educated toe should be of considerable service. Confidence has been replaced by de-termination in the Vanderbilt squad. They believe the dope points to the Old Dominion eleven winning, and with such a condition has existed in a Vanderbilt camp in years, there prom-ises to be some lovely scrapping at Charlottesville Saturday. Despite the flerce game with Michi-fam and the way in which they were hammered by the heavier Wolverines, with the exception of Brown, every man on the squad came out of the game in great shape. This is a big help, as McGugin can drive his recon-structed machine at a flerce clip in preparation without having to cater to the injured men. If Vanderbilt loses Saturday, Vir-ginia will at least know she has had a fearful battle.

It is one thing to make soda crackers that are occasionally good.

It is quite another thing to make them so that they are always better than all other soda crackers, always of unvarying goodness.

The name "Uneeda"-stamped on every biscuit-means that if a million packages of Uneeda Biscuit were placed before you, you could choose any one of them, confident that every soda cracker in that package would be as good as the best Uneeda Biscuit ever baked. Five cents.

good defensive ball and making several goals. The Company C team showed lack of practice, and their showing was quite disappointing to their supporters. "Nick" Allen, who started at guard for Company C, and was later shifted to center, roughed it throughout the time he played, and when the game had but five minutes to go, he had a short en-counter with a forward of the Com-pany H team. When the referee tried to stop the combat, Allen struck him in the face, drawing blood, and it was only when spectators interfered that a general fight was prevented. The game was not finished, as Company C had not a player to substitute for Allen, who was ruled out.

established relations with a strong, reliable bank that will afford you the maximum of banking service.

Such is the service which the ATLANTA NATIONAL BANK renders its patrons. This institution is the oldest national bank in the cotton states. Its history records a continued increase in Assets and satisfied Depositors, the former now amounting to TEN MILLION DOLLARS, and the latter numbering, approximately, 15,000.

Wouldn't it be to your interest to do business with such an institution?

first. American securities opened steady and prices advanced during the first hour. Then realizing caused most of the list to drop below parity. In the afternoon New York buying hardened values and the market close steady, a fraction below the best.

THE CONSTITUTION, ATLANTA, GA., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1913.

The Lanier. People who love a weirdly dramatic story in artistic settings, will find a compelling interest today in a Lubin 2-reel drama, en-titled "The Rattlesnake," at the Lanier the-ater. It is a sure enough thriller. It opens with the depiction of a man's strange gradi-tude to a snake for saving his life. He takes the serpent home to live with him, and then conceives the idea of having the snake kill the man who won his sweetheart. He places it in the other man's bod. But when the little daughter of the girl he loved creeps into the bed, it is too much even for this haif-demented creature. He saves her.

The Savoy.

The Alcazar.

The Vaudette.

The Vaudette. Is a woman justified in stealing to save tion? That is the many-sided question treated in a Kay Bee drama, entitled "Bor-rowed Gold." which will be shown at the Vaudette, theater today. A young miner's wife out west, knowing that her nusband will die without medical attention, becomes desperate. She disguises herself as a man and holds up a stage coach, but is wounded in the arm as she rides away. The sheriff traces her by a blood-stained duster, but juyst as he is about to snap the handcuffs upon her delicate wrists, he hesitates and decides that it is not for him of the law to judge her act.

What Will Mr. Candler Do?

What Will Mr. Candler Do? The most tantalizing question in that section of the city now, since the Wine-coff is built, is what is Asa G. Candler going to do with the property which he owns just across Ellis street from the Winecoff hotel? Exactly what Mr. Candler is going to do nobody but Mr. Candler and one other power knows. Mr. Candler re-fuses to give out an interview on the subject, and no newspaper man in At-lanta is pious enough to reach to the other source.
