BOTH SIDES CALLED IN CONFERENCE BY JUDGE; TRIAL SET FOR JULY 28

Dorsey, Beavers and Lanford Summoned to Appear June 30 With All Affidavits They Have Secured Relative to the Phagan Slaying Case.

Just before the conference with both sides in the Frank case started Judge Roan intimated strongly that he would set the case for July 10 or July 28 and hold it in some more commodious court room than the one in which he sits on the fourth floor of the Throver building. Judge Roan's personal inclination leans to a date in July, and it is not likely that the State or defense will object to according to his wishes.

The date was definitely fixed for July 28 at the conference.

The first important legal move by the defense in the battle for the life and freedom of Leo Frank, accused of the strangling of Mary Phagan, was made Tuesday in the issuance of subpoenas duces tecum for the prime movers in the prosecution of the factory superintendent.

The following have been subpoenaed to appear: Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey, who will prosecute the prosecution; Chief of Police James L. Beavers, who took an active part in the collection of evidence; Chief of Detectives Newport Lanford, who was the leader in obtaining incriminating affidavits; Police Detective Harry Scott, to whom is generally given credit for the admissions gained from Conley; and all other city detectives who have worked on the case. All of them are obliged to produce any affidavits they may have bearing on the case in court June 30, indicating that the defense will be prepared to go on with the trial at that time. Judge Roan, however, had called a conference of the attorneys on both sides of the case at 10 o'clock in the afternoon when he announced that he would set the date definitely after the affidavits had been given an opportunity to say whether or not the trial were to be held on that date.

MATRED OF CONVICT LEADS DOOMED TO AUCTION OF HIS BODY

FORSTH, GA., June 26.—Hated of his own family has prompted Thomas A. McCullough, a convict in the Monroe County chain gang, to advertise his own body for sale to the highest bidder.

Self-sworn never again to have anything to do with his relatives, he is now in mortal fear that his body after death will be turned over to them for burial. McCullough's fear has been increased by the physician's statement that he is suffering from heart disease and has not long to live. The money which his body would bring is a secondary matter to the convict. His one real desire is that death shall not seal the breach which he has cherished and sacrosanct in life between himself and his family. Therefore, by disposal of his body to some medical school for experiments he hopes to eliminate this possibility.

"Cut Us White Alive." McCullough exclaimed as he leaned his great, hairy body against his plank, looked down at the interviewer. "I've been cut up while alive and I wouldn't care if they cut me up after I am dead."

"I've got a thing to do with it, not a single member of my family will get my body when I die. I don't want them to have a thing to do with me. I'd rather be left out for the buzzards than be turned over to them."

McCullough's strange matred is founded upon his belief that his family has been murdered. He is hiding from the officers of the law following his escape from the camp some months ago.

He had been sentenced to eighteen years penal servitude for the murder of a negro in Spalding County. The deed was the outcome of a quarrel between the two in a gambling game.

Caught After Three Months. McCullough was sent to the Morgan County camp, where he escaped three months later. Eluding the officers through the patches and woods, the fugitive finally made his way back to his home in Spalding County. He remained there in hiding for two months. Then he was discovered by the officers and sent to the State farm at Milledgeville. His last words to his family as he was taken from his home were curses on them for having "turned him up," or betrayed him to the law. Whether they did or not was never proven.

From the Milledgeville institution McCullough was sent to join the Monroe County chain gang. He has now served 16 months of his 18-year term.

McCullough is an extremist in all things. Physically he is powerful, mentally he is without normal sense, and while he is the most desperate character in the camp and the only man prisoner over whom a guard feels which day or night, still he is the best worker of them all.

In the camp McCullough's family is afloat from his fellow prisoners. He suffers from melancholia to a great deal and has nursed his hatred against his family until the flame has blazed into almost a mania.

Only Nature Softens Him. Only the fact of being a captured animal about his nature changes quite him. He is a man, but inhumanly the powerful man becomes a child, and his hatred is drowned in his love for the things of nature.

Only recently did the convict learn of his matred. When he was afflicted with heart disease. When he learned of this he was struck with terror, not only because of the disease, but because his body was still in the hands of his family. He had visions of his still living family, and he had a great deal of trouble in his mind. It was that he had to "go to the Governor" for public notice.

FOR SALE.—To the highest bidder for cash, I offer my body, which is 6 feet high, weighs 175 pounds, is large frame, well proportioned, and of a mixture of Irish and Caucasian race.

For a term of 18 years for killing a negro in Griffin in Spalding County, Georgia. I have no hopes, and no friends hence, in this proposition, I am asking the Governor to let me be put to death, to consummate a trade, address Thomas A. McCullough, Box 271, Care Monroe County Convict Camp.

MACON BUSINESS MAN INSANE IN ST. LOUIS

He came to St. Louis Sunday to confer with officials of the latter concern. He remained at the American Hotel until Monday, then checked out. Wednesday he called on his nephew, John Gentry, city passenger agent of the Southern Railroad. He was unable to give any account of his whereabouts since Monday.

MAYOR SCORES HIS ACCUSERS AS LIARS

Abandons "Polite Words" in Denying Charge That He Opposes Crematory to Aid Power Co.

Mayor James G. Woodward Thursday branded as infamous liars all persons who persist in attributing his opposition to the crematory contract to a desire to help the Georgia Railway and Power Company.

Police and parliamentary denials of the charge that he opposes the crematory because it embraces in its plans an electrical plant and repeated avowals of any connection with the power company have failed to prevent anonymous charges of ulterior motives against him, the Mayor said.

"If they won't take polite language, I'll have to hand it to them more forcibly," said the Mayor. And he did.

"I have said time and again that the electrical plant had nothing to do with the crematory. I have nothing either for or against the electric plant. The power company has fought me, and I have said time and again that I am not trying to help them. I don't own them anything except a fair deal.

The situation is this: I want a contract independent of the one the courts enjoined, and I want a water-proof bond to protect the city. I take it that the papers before me now have possible objections to them. When the courts enjoin the contract, the General Council asked the Destructor Company for a proposal. The proposal was made and the General Council accepted it. This proposal continually regards the contract of 1912, which the courts enjoin. I don't see why they can't write out a contract like this is presented to me."

"I don't sign I have said repeatedly that this was what I insisted on. I see no grounds for repeating the charge that I am acting in the interest of the power company. Those who do repeat them are liars, and I have no objection to your printing that."

On account of Alderman J. H. Harvey's motion and resolution, the Mayor's proposition will not be officially before the Board until July 10. Until that time, the Mayor said, it would be advisable to include in his platform and program.

City Data With Humphreys. The branch between Mayor Woodward and Councilman W. G. Humphreys, chairman of the Council Finance Committee, apparently was as wide as ever Thursday, despite alleged denials.

"I said I had lost patience with the Mayor in his attitude on this matter, and I have," said Councilman Humphreys. "One time he told me he would sign the contract, and the next time he refused. I don't know what else can be done."

"My conclusion is that he is unwilling to sign the contract, and I don't believe his favorable attitude he has shown has been a snare and a delusion," said Councilman Humphreys. "Woodward said Councilman Humphreys used hot words to him, but that he positively disagreed with him in the crematory contract."

If several young persons, who were graduates of different business schools, should apply to the position at the same time, I would engage the one holding a diploma from the Southern Short-hand and Business University," said a prominent Atlanta business man.

BROWN ADVISES STOVER GIRL IS AGAINST W. & A. EXTENSION READY TO STAR IN FRANK CASE

Cost, $20,000,000. Too Great to Be Compatible With State's Policy, Says Message. State, However, Must Prove She Entered Factory Before Mary Phagan.

Opposition to the extension of the Western and Atlantic Railroad to the sea was expressed in a message sent by Governor Brown to the Legislature. The cost of building such a road, which, it is said, would be about $20,000,000, is the reason given for Governor Brown for his opposition.

That the rental of such an addition, if possible to lease it, would not amount to more than the interest on the bonds, thus leaving nothing with which to pay off the principal, is one of the arguments advanced by him against the building of the road.

Governor Brown suggests that the State of Georgia might forever control its freight rates by obtaining a concession of land from Tennessee, giving it a frontage of a mile on the Tennessee River. A short branch could be built from the Western and Atlantic Railroad to the river, and connection made with boats from Ohio and Mississippi River points. This, he states, could be done at a cost of $3,000,000.

That the Governor be authorized to appoint a commission to investigate the re-issuing of the Western and Atlantic is also suggested in the message.

HAZARD OF OUR FAMILY LEADS DOOMED PROJECT TO RUINATION OF HIS BODY

FORSYTH, Ga. June 28.—Faded of his own family has prompted Thomas A. McCullough, a convict in the Monroe County chain, to write his own body for sale to the highest bidder.

MAYOR SCORES HIS ACCUSERS AS 'LIARS'

Abandons "Polite Words" in Denying Charge That He Opposes Crematory to Aid Power Co.

Mayor James G. Woodward Thursday branded as infamous liars all persons who persist in attributing his opposition to the crematory contract to a desire to help the Georgia Railway and Power Company.

Polite and parliamentary denials of the charges that he opposes the crematory because it embraces in its plans an electrical plant and repeated denials of any connection with the power company have failed to prevent anonymous charges of ulterior motives against him, the Mayor said.

"I have said time and again that the electrical plant had nothing to do with the crematory," the Mayor continued. "I have nothing either for or against the electric plant. I have said time and again that I am not trying to help them. I don't owe them anything except a fair deal. The situation is this: I want a contract independent of the one the court's enjoined, and I want a water-proof bond to protect the city. I take it that the papers before me now have possible loopholes in them. When the courts enjoined the first contract the General Company and the Destructor Company for a proposition. The proposition was to have it ready for business before the cotton season opens. A. F. Petway will conduct the warehouse."

"I don't see why they can't write out a contract complete in itself. If a contract like this is presented to me, I will sign it."

"Since I have said repeatedly that I am acting in the interest of the power company. Those who do repeat them are liars and have no objection to your printing that."

On account of Alderman J. H. Hardwell's motion to reconsider the crematory proposition will not be officially before the Mayor until July 1. Until that time, the Mayor said, it would be entirely inadvisable to have palaver and intimidation.

The speech before Mayor Woodward and Councilman W. G. Humphrey, chairman of the Council Finance Committee, apparently was as wide as ever Thursday, despite alleged denials.

"I said I had lost patience with the Mayor in his attitude on this matter, and I have," said Councilman Humphrey. "One time he told me he would sign the contract and the next time he refused. I don't know what he is going to do. I am sure that whatever favorable attitude he has toward me has been a snail and a four-foot crab."

Mayor Woodward said Councilman Humphrey used no hot words in his speech, but that he positively disagreed with him in his entire address.

Pictures Slaying In Confessing Crime

COLUMBUS, June 28.—Indications are that there will be no preliminary hearing given Homer Carmack, the young man held in Lee County, Alabama, jail in Opelika, for killing J. J. Polk, Florida City merchant, but that he will be held for the Grand Jury, which assembles the first Monday of July.

Officers believe that there is no doubt of his guilt. In his partial confession Carmack implicated two other men, who have offered alibis and pictured the slaying in a graphic manner.

THE SUCCESSFUL WINNERS IN PENMANSHIP CONTEST AT THE SOUTHERN BUSINESS COLLEGE

The Department of Penmanship Popularizing the Big Business School.

Good penmanship is one of the greatest aids to Business College students in securing positions, and that is why the Southern Shortland and Business University, of this city, gives special attention to this important branch.

Miss Minnie Vancey and Mr. J. M. Harding are the two winners in the Penmanship Contest just closed at the Southern, and they were awarded the prizes.

Another contest is now on, and the Southern Shortland and Business University, of this city, gives special attention to this important branch.

The Business men prefer the Southern's graduates, because the Southern has stood for thoroughness in its bookkeeping and expert and its stenographers are rapid and accurate.

Several young persons, who were graduates of different business schools, should apply to me for a position at the same time. I would suggest the one holding a diploma from the Southern Shortland and Business University, said a prominent Atlanta business man to a prospective pupil who was making inquiry about business colleges.

Many are entering now and there is no better time to take a business or shorthand course than the present.

BROWN ADVISES STOVER GIRL AGAINST M. & A. EXTENSION

Cost, $20,000,000, Too Great to Be Compatible With State's Policy, Says Message.

Opposition to the extension of the Western and Atlantic Railroad to the sea was expressed in a message sent by Governor Brown to the Legislature.

The cost of building such a road, which it is said, would be about $20,000,000, is the reason given by Governor Brown for his opposition.

The rental of such an addition, if possible to lease it, would not amount to more than the interest on the bonds, thus leaving nothing with which to pay off the principal, is one of the arguments advanced by him against the building of the road.

Governor Brown suggests that the State of Georgia might forever control its freight rates by obtaining a concession of land from Tennessee, giving it a frontage of a mile on the Tennessee River. A short line could be built from the Western and Atlantic Railroad to the Tennessee River, and connection made with boats from Ohio and Mississippi to the Gulf of Mexico. This, he states, could be done at a cost of $5,000,000.

That the Governor be authorized to appoint a commission to investigate and report on the feasibility of the Western and Atlantic is also suggested in the message.

With the selection of the court room made Thursday, all is virtually in readiness for the trial in a message sent by Governor Brown to the Legislature.

Judge Emory Speer Attacks Attorney General McReynolds' Espionage System

"More dangerous than the power to disqualify a Federal judge is the power to disgrace and defame him. In the utter absence of all charges against him, is not the arbitrary espionage or investigation of a judge by the Department of Justice, under the direct order of the Attorney General, to treat him as if he were wholly careless of his reputation and good name?"

"His examiner holds the fate of the judge in the hollow of his hand. And all the while, be it re-

FOOD POISONED POOLE CHILDREN

DETAILS OF FRANK TRIAL COMPLETE

Fight Is Opened to Reform State's Prison System

Douglas Poole, aged 8, and his sister Elsie, who were made ill by food eaten on picnic trip.

MACON BUSINESS MAN INSANE IN ST. LOUIS

Barriers Eaten on Trip into the Country Make Three Youngsters Ill.

The three children of Captain Lamar Poole, of the Atlanta police department, were reported Thursday morning as having recovered from the effects of poisoning which they suffered while on a picnic.

Mrs. Poole said she had taken the children to the country Wednesday, and thought possibly they had been in the hot sun too much, or that the berries and sweet corn they had eaten for lunch had disagreed with them.

A hurry call to police headquarters announced that they had been strangely poisoned.

The first signs that the children were suffering became evident at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Wallace, aged 12; Douglas, 8, and Elsie, 3 years old, were taken violently ill simultaneously after they had returned to their home at 218 Glenwood Avenue.

Chief Beavers hastened to the Poole home with a surgeon from the district hospital. When they arrived, however, Captain Poole and Dr. Virgil Cook were there, and the children were soon relieved.

PAINTER FAMILY LOSES IN SUIT FOR ORGANS

BALTIMORE, June 24.—The demurrer offered by the family of Edward O. Painter, the late Jacksonville fertilizer man, against the appointment of a receiver for his viscera, was overruled by Judge Duffy in Circuit Court today.

The receivership proceedings, however, were continued until July 15, during which time the defendants may show cause why a receiver should not be appointed.

When the case is reopened, Judge Duffy will take testimony tending to show why a receiver should be named to take charge of the Painter organs. In the meantime they will remain here in the possession of Dr. Charles Gleason, chemist, to whom they were sent from Jacksonville for analysis.

In overruling the demurrer Judge Duffy said that the attorney for the Painter family and Coroner Abbott had not shown it was within the jurisdiction of the court to appoint a receiver for the organs. The court, he ruled, had the power to appoint a receiver, but he admitted it was questionable whether the court, after appointing a receiver, had the right to order the receiver to make scientific examinations of the organs as was demanded by the Fidelity and Guaranty Company.

CHANGINGS ABOLISHED BY BILL IN SENATE

Sweeping changes in the prison system of the State of Georgia are provided by a bill introduced in the Senate Thursday morning by Senator A. H. Foster, of the Twenty-seventh District.

Senator Foster's bill, which he declares meets with the approval of Senate leaders, contains the following important provisions:

- To provide for the inspection of all county jails.
- To abolish the county chain-gang.
- To provide an indeterminate sentence for both felony and misdemeanor cases.
- To arrange for the parole and after-care of prisoners.
- To define act relating of and disposition of habitual criminals.
- To provide for a system of grades, classifications and credits of convicts while in the penitentiary.
- To provide for the appointment and compensation of wardens and guards for the penitentiary.

Senator Foster stated shortly after introducing his bill that in addition to having the support of influential members of the Senate, the measure has the backing of the Georgia Prison Reform Association. The bill Senator Foster stated, embodies the results of the investigations of the association and Philip Weisner, in addition contains some ideas of his own.

Senator Foster declared that while he expected that some amendments would be made in the bill before it is passed, he would concentrate his efforts to retaining the wording of the original bill in the section relating to indeterminate sentences. This, he declared, was the most needed reform in Georgia prison methods.

The phrase "to abolish the county chain-gang" in the caption of the bill, is confusing, inasmuch as slight reference is made to it in the body of the measure.

Senator Foster stated that his idea was not so much to totally abolish the changing system as to make it impossible to work negroes and whites together. He hopes, he says, to abolish the mixed chain-gangs and segregate the races.

The sections of the bill set forth that the policy of the State shall hereafter be to deal with convicts "that their punishment may serve to discipline them to right conceptions of citizenship."

Board Members Inspectors.

The burden of the inspection of prisoners and jails is placed upon the State Prison Commission, which, declares the bill, shall provide for "quarterly visitation of all county jails and aid in their just, humane and economic administration." The Commission shall make a report of each visit to the Governor.

Instead of the present system, Senator Foster's bill declares that when any prisoner is convicted of a felony or misdemeanor the court shall appoint an indeterminate sentence.

The bill also impresses upon the Prison Commission the necessity of segregating the youthful prisoners from the adult hardened offenders.

One of the strong and unusual features of the bill is a section providing that all convicts sentenced by the courts shall be placed in a Work-camp trust.

Urges Underwood For Presidential Candidate in 1916

Oscar Underwood for President of the United States in 1916 is the slogan of Judge G. B. Hutchins of Rome, who managed the Underwood campaign in Georgia last year. Judge Hutchins stopped Thursday at the Hotel Aragon, where he will remain for several days.

Underwood is the logical man for the presidency," said Judge Hutchins Thursday afternoon, "and we are going to put him in the race long before the next election rolls around."

"Last year some people and one Atlanta newspaper in particular tried to get us when we proposed Underwood's name for the presidency, but they had nothing whatever to say when the primary vote showed that the Alabama man had swept Georgia Thursday afternoon, and we are going to put him in the race long before the next election rolls around."

If Wifey Balks at Getting Breakfast, Try Broyles' Menu

Recorder Broyles Thursday recommended a special breakfast menu for those husbands whose wives decline to get up for breakfast. The menu, which is being prepared for the next session of the court, includes the following ingredients:

He suggested this menu to E. L. Perkins, of 140 Julian Street, a railroad man, who was up for beating his wife because she had failed to cook his breakfast. Perkins, however, told the recorder he hardly thought husbands and wives sufficient for a railroad man. He was placed on probation.

Considerable interest was manifested in the latter appointments, but the confirmation by the Senate put an end to discussion.

Cooler Weather Just Ahead, Forecaster's Solemn Assurance

Cooler weather is on the way. "Rain and warm" is the forecast for Thursday, but moderate breezes drifting through the West and Middle West are due to reach Atlanta at no distant date. Possibly Thursday afternoon may bring a little relief from the high temperature of the last two weeks. Thunder showers are anticipated in the Atlanta territory, and if the city is so fortunate as to lie in the path of the rain it may enjoy moderate weather for a day or two.

This announcement was made by the United States Weather Bureau Thursday morning, and it brought joy unfeigned to the thousands of Atlantians who are as much as 8 or 10 degrees, according to official dope. Temperature at 7 o'clock Thursday morning was 75 degrees. At 8 it was 80.

"Atlanta is growing rapidly," said Mr. McKee, "its growth is almost miraculous. We have been forced since the first of the year to put on a number of additional men in each department, and still we are handicapped."

"The receipts, I predict, will continue to climb each year."

STEVEN GIRL PLAYS STAR PART IN CASE

With the selection of the court room made Thursday, all in virtually readiness for the trial of Leo M. Frank, accused of strangling Mary Phagan, the victim of the old City Hall building. The decision was reached by Judge L. S. Rowan to hold the trial in the first floor of the old City Hall building. The decision was reached after a conference with Solicitor General Dorsey, and it was reported that the jury would be selected and July 28 fixed as the date, and both sides have announced that are ready to go into court.

A definite decision was reached by Judge L. S. Rowan to hold the trial in the first floor of the old City Hall building. The decision was reached after a conference with Solicitor General Dorsey, and it was reported that the jury would be selected and July 28 fixed as the date, and both sides have announced that are ready to go into court.

Monter Stover, a 16-year-old girl, will be a star witness in the trial, according to all indications Thursday.

The State, if it is able to establish that Monter Stover entered the factory on the day of the crime, after Mary Phagan went inside, will have scored a most significant victory. The evidence will still be circumstantial, it is true, but it will be of greater weight even than the weight of the negro witness, Jim Conley, who has sworn that he aided Frank in disposing of the body.

Her story, however, until it is substantiated or disproved in court, only adds to the mystery of a crime which already abounds in baffling and mysterious phases. Her appearance on the witness stand may make everything or nothing—because there is the startling fact that every indication points to Monter Stover having entered the factory BEFORE Mary Phagan.

Monter Stover is the daughter of Mrs. Homer Edmonson, of 111 South Forsyth Street. She formerly was employed at the pencil factory, and on the Saturday of the murder went to the building to get her money. She said that she arrived there at 11:05 and remained about five minutes. She said that Frank was not in his office and that she was not able to find him.

Pitted against the declaration of the witness stand is the testimony of Frank that he was in his office at the time. One of the two apparently has spoken falsely or mistakenly. It is the theory of the State that Mary Phagan had received Monter Stover in the factory; that Frank had attacked her; that this is the reason the Stover girl was unable to find Frank in his office when she was in the plant from 11:05 to 11:15.

The Phagan girl left her home at 11:05 and reached the factory at 11:15. She rode to town, takes more than 11 minutes to get to the factory. She left the city line that she left the car and remained about five minutes. It is the theory of the State that Mary Phagan had received Monter Stover in the factory; that Frank had attacked her; that this is the reason the Stover girl was unable to find Frank in his office when she was in the plant from 11:05 to 11:15.

FIGHT OPENS TO REFORM STATE PRISON SYSTEM

GUANGANGS BOBISHED BY BILL IN SENATE

Sweeping changes in the prison system of the State of Georgia are provided by a bill introduced in the Senate Thursday morning by Senator A. H. Foster, of the Twenty-second District.

Senator Foster's bill, which he declares meets with the approval of Senate leaders, contains the following important provisions:

To provide for the inspection of all county jails.

To abolish the county chain-gang.

To provide an indeterminate sentence in both felony and misdemeanor cases.

To arrange for the parole and after-care of prisoners.

To provide for the reformation and disposition of habitual criminals.

To provide for a system of graded classification and credits of convicts while in the penitentiary.

To provide for the appointment and compensation of wardens and guards for the penitentiary.

Informed by Reformers.

Senator Foster stated shortly after introducing his bill that in addition to having the support of influential members of the Senate, the measure has the backing of the Georgia Prison Reform Association. The bill, Senator Foster stated, embodies the results of the investigations of the association and Philip Weller, and in addition contains some ideas of his own.

Senator Foster declared that while he expected that some amendments would be made in the bill before it is passed, he would concentrate his efforts on obtaining the enactment of the original bill in the section relating to indeterminate sentences. This, he declared, was the most needed reform in Georgia prison methods.

The phrase "to abolish the county chain-gang," in the caption of the bill, is confusing, inasmuch as slight reference is made to it in the body of the measure.

Senator Foster stated that his idea was not so much to totally abolish the chain-gang system as to make it more work for good negroes and whites together. He hopes, he says, to abolish the mixed chain-gangs and receive the negroes.

The burden of the inspection of prisons and jails is placed upon the State Prison Commission, which declares the bill shall provide for quarterly visitation of all county jails and aid in their just, humane and economic administration. The Commission shall make a report of each visitation to the Governor.

Instead of the fixed sentence, Senator Foster's bill declares that when any prisoner is convicted of a felony or misdemeanor the court shall grade the same as an indeterminate sentence.

The bill also imposes upon the Prison Commission the necessity of aggregating the youthful prisoners from the old and backward offenders. One of the aims and objects declared in the bill is a section providing that all negroes arrested by

JUDGE SPEER RAPS U. S. ATTORNEY GENERAL

SIoux CITY, IOWA, June 26.—Severe criticism of the Attorney General of the United States for having him investigated by special agents and secret service men in the employ of the Department of Justice was the feature of the address of Judge Emory Speer, of the United States Court for the Southern District of Georgia, before the Iowa Bar Association today. He also stated that the detestable and dishonorable conduct of court for operating in the presence of the court.

Judge Speer spoke to the Iowa lawyers who are in annual meeting here, on "The Debt the American People Owe the American Judges." When he had finished that subject he discussed the action of the Department of Justice in probing his person and judicial record.

Questions Right to Probe.

Judge Speer said, in part: "More dangerous than the power to disqualify a Federal judge is the power to disgrace and defame him. In the utter absence of all charges against him, is not the arbitrary espionage or investigation of a judge by the Department of Justice, under the direct order of the Attorney General, to treat him as if he were wholly careless of his reputation and good name?"

He also stated that the detestable and dishonorable conduct of court for operating in the presence of the court.

Hints at Contempt of Court.

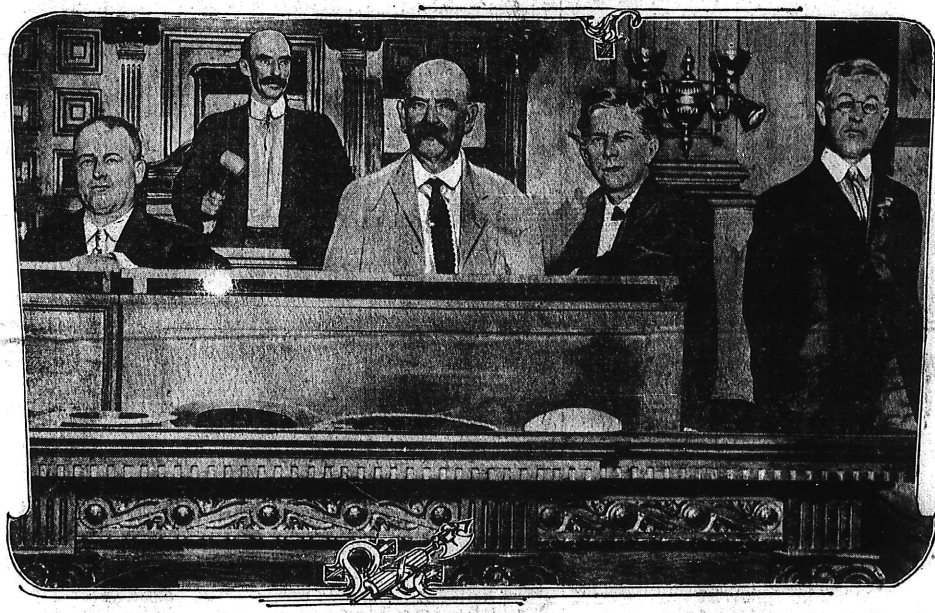

Judge Speer then stated that the examiner had appeared in court, made copious notes with significant figures, conferred with disgruntled attorneys, received letters from convicts in the penitentiary, interviewed stubborn debtors who had been forced by the court to pay their obligations and examined newspaper files.

"The examiner, and I speak of him with great respect, even with timid deprecation, works in a mysterious way his wonders to perform," said the judge, adding:

"He holds the fate of the judge in the hollow of his hand. And all the while, be it remembered, there are no charges pending against the judge, where such charges should be made. The examiner imparts to the judge no information whatever of any complaint. There is no chance for defense.

STOVER GIRL PLAYS STAR PART IN TRIAL

Monteen Stover, a timid little 14-year-old girl, will be a star witness in the trial of Leo M. Frank July 25 on the charge of strangling Mary Phagan in the National Penitentiary, according to all indications Thursday.

Adds to Mystery.

The frequency with which she has been called upon to repeat her story of going to the factory on the day of the crime, and finding Frank absent from his office is taken as an almost certain indication that the prosecution regards her statements of the utmost importance.

The State, if it is able to establish that Monteen never saw the factory on the day of the crime just after Mary Phagan went inside, will have scored a most significant victory. The evidence will still be circumstantial. It is true, but it will be of greater weight even than the stories of the negro street, Jim Conley, who has sworn that he heard Frank in disposing of the body.

Frank story, however, until it is substantiated or disproved in court, only adds to the mystery of a crime which already appears in baffling and mysterious phases. Her appearance on the witness stand may make everything or nothing—because there is the starting fact that every indication points to Monteen having entered the factory BEFORE Mary Phagan.

Monteen Stover is the daughter of Mrs. Homer Edmonson, of 171 South Forsyth Street. She formerly was employed at the pencil factory, and on the Saturday of the crime, she was in the building to get her money. She said that she arrived there at 11:05 and remained about five minutes, she said that Frank was not in his office and that she was not able to find him.

Pitted against the declaration of the little girl is the statement of Frank that he was in his office at the time. One of the two apparently has spoken falsely or mistakenly. It is the theory of the State that Monteen Phagan had preceded Monteen Stover into the factory; that Frank had lacked her, probably in the metal building, and that this is the reason Stover girl was unable to find Frank in his office when she was in the building from 11:05 to 12:15.

Where the Case is Hit.

Should the State be able to impress the jury that this was the actual sequence of events, the prosecution will argue that Mary Phagan left the office in company with Leo M. Stover and went to the metal room.

But the theory of the State is at once assailed by the fact that Monteen Stover was not yet there.

The Phagan family had her home at 11:30. She lives in Bellwood and in the city. Her father, Mr. J. M. Phagan, the time that she left the car in the city. Her mother, Mrs. M. Phagan, who says that her car arrived at 11:30 and that she was in the car at 11:30 and 12:15.

She had been called to the factory to see the witness of Phagan, being part of a human body, could not be considered in the light of personal property and should be disposed of at the will of the court.

LONDON, June 26.—Announcement that King George, Queen Mary and President Polk care of France would attend the International Horse Show at Olympia today brought out the biggest crowd since the show began.

Among the spectators were many Americans and other foreign tourists, including the Queen, who was in the city at 7 o'clock Thursday morning was 75 degrees. At 8 it was 80.

The royal box was decorated with intertwined British and French colors. Much comment was aroused by Queen Mary's affect that women in the show should not ride astride while she is present. The Queen, the former most champion of feminine modesty, since Queen Victoria, recently issued the same order to her daughter, Princess Mary.

Miss Ruth Boyd of New York, who has a number of horses entered in the show, threatened to withdraw because of the Queen's edict, saying she could not use a side saddle, having been used to riding astride all her life.

PAINTER FAMILY LOSES IN SUIT FOR ORGANS

BALTIMORE, June 26.—The demurrer offered by the family of Edward O. Painter, the late Jacksonville fertilizer man, against the appointment of a receiver for his viscera, was overruled by Judge Duffy in Circuit Court today.

The receivership proceedings, however, were continued until July 15, during which time the defendants may show cause why a receiver should not be appointed.

When the case is reopened Judge Duffy will take testimony tending to show why a receiver should be named to take charge of the Painter organs.

In the meantime they will remain in the possession of Dr. Charles Glaser, chemist, to whom they were sent from Jacksonville for analysis.

In overruling the demurrer Judge Duffy said that the attorney for the Painter family and Copner Abbott had not shown it was within the jurisdiction of the court to appoint a receiver for the organs. The court, he ruled, had the power to appoint a receiver, but he admitted it was questionable whether the court, after appointing a receiver, had the right to order the receiver to make scientific examinations of the organs.

The Painter family contended that the viscera of Painter, being part of a human body, could not be considered in the light of personal property and should be disposed of at the will of the court.

LEO FRANK TRIAL

TAX REFORM FIGHT BEGINS

BATTLE ON TO IMPROVE STATE TAX SYSTEM

Problem of Supplying Additional Revenue Without Raising Rate Looms Above All Others.

The new Legislature will make the matter of a tax reform the paramount business of the session that opened Wednesday.

With all preliminary fights out of the way and both branches compactly organized, the members already have turned their minds to the legislative business ahead, and far bigger than any other question confronting the General Assembly looms the problem of supplying the State with absolutely necessary additional revenue, without, at the same time, putting up the rate of taxation.

Many of the brightest, most constructive and statesmanlike minds in the new Legislature are considering this matter especially, and it will be given the right of way over everything else.

Two Measures Introduced.

Already two measures looking to more revenue--Mr. Cote's inheritance tax bill and Mr. Lincoln's board of tax equalization bill--have been introduced in the House, and others will follow rapidly.

Tax reform, beyond the shadow of a doubt, is to be the big legislative fight of the present session.

Completely and harmoniously organized in both branches, the Georgia Legislature for 1913-14 met Thursday morning ready for such business as might come before it.

The various committee assignments made to be announced before next week, as the framing of them is perhaps the very hardest and most exciting work that will come before the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House during the entire session.

Blackburn House Leader.

President Anderson and Speaker Burwell began working on committee assignments immediately after adjournment yesterday, but it will require a week, perhaps, to finish the undertaking.

It seems to be an accepted fact that Representative Blackburn, of Fulton, is the House floor leader, inasmuch as he is reported slated to head the Committee on Rules, while it is freely rumored about the Capitol to prove that President Anderson's friendly and good will toward his late rival, Judge Allen, the Senator from the Twentieth District, by offering him his choice between the chairmanship of the Finance and the Committee on both these suggested appointments.

Both these suggested assignments apparently meet with the approval of the Finance committee, for nothing is commended to them as having any hand.

JUDGE SPEER RAPS U. S. ATTORNEY GENERAL

GEORGIA FEDERAL JURIST, BEFORE IOWA BAR, RESENTS PROBE OF HIS OFFICE.

SIoux CITY, IOWA, June 26.--Severe criticism of the Attorney General of the United States for having him investigated by special agents and secret service men in the employ of the Department of Justice was the feature of the address of Judge Emory Speer, of the United States District for the Southern District of Georgia, before the Iowa Bar Association to-day.

Judge Speer spoke to the Iowa lawyers who met at an annual meeting here, on "The Debt the American People Owe the American Judges." When he had finished that subject he discussed the action of the Department of Justice in probing his personal and judicial record.

Guarantee Right to Probe. Judge Speer said, in part: "More dangerous than the power to investigate a Federal judge is the power to disgrace and defame him. In the utter absence of all charges against him, is not the arbitrary espionage or investigation of a judge by the Department of Justice, under the direct order of the Attorney General, to treat him as if he were wholly careless of his reputation and good name, a speak indignantly and with all defiance and respect for the distinguished official who is ex-officio leader of the American Bar?"

Hints at Contempt of Court. Judge Speer then stated that the examiner had appeared in court, made a report and that significant portions, conferred with disgruntled attorneys, received letters from contempt of Sumner County, having indicted a stubborn doctor who had been forced by the court to pay their bills.

'BUD' FISHER'S BRIDE HAS NARROW ESCAPE

That Mrs. Bud Fisher, who is better known to Atlanta as Pauline Welch, narrowly escaped death last Sunday night when she pashed her throat by falling upon the jagged edge of a broken water pitcher in an unlighted Piedmont Hotel bath room. She was rendered unconscious, and has been forced to cancel her vaudeville engagements.

The wife of the famous creator of "Mutt and Jeff" lies in her apartment at the Piedmont Hotel with a slash five inches long in her throat as the result of an accident which only great good fortune prevented from being fatal.

Mrs. Fisher, whose clever singing won great applause at the Forsyth theater last week, retired about midnight Sunday night. About an hour later she arose and started into the bath room to fill a pitcher, containing some ice, with water. The light was not turned on in the apartment, and as Mrs. Fisher entered the bath room she stumbled and fell against the bath tub.

The pitcher she held in her hand crashed against the tub, and she fell against a jagged piece of the glass, cutting a deep gash in the throat. She screamed and fainted, and Mr. Fisher picked her up and carried her to a bed.

Twenty Stitches in Wound.

Mrs. Fisher lost a great deal of blood. There was considerable delay in getting medical assistance, and when Dr. Worth E. Yankay and C. L. Hession arrived an hour later she was unconscious. The flow of blood was stopped and 20 stitches were taken in the wound, nine aluminum clamps being necessary to hold the severed flesh in place during the operation.

A third physician was called into consultation, and the doctors, with a staff five inches long in her throat as the result of an accident which only great good fortune prevented from being fatal.

Brown's Attack Stirs Unions

Anderson Is Elected President of the Senate

Both Branches of the Legislature Get Down to Real Work--Flood of Bills Begins in Upper and Lower Houses Soon After Lawmakers Convene.

The full text of Governor Brown's message to the Legislature will be found on page 12.

With the reading of a sensational message by Governor Brown flaying the labor unions, the election of J. Randolph Anderson, of the First District, to the Presidency of the Senate, the election of William H. Burwell, of Hancock, to the Speakership of the House and the introduction of the preliminary grant of bills, the Georgia Legislature began its session Wednesday.

Pledges made by Senator Anderson had appealed the hostility of the "drys" throughout the State and quieted the opposition to his candidacy. He was elected to the Presidency by a unanimous vote of the members, Judge Allen's name being withdrawn.

Representative Burwell, in accepting his unanimous election to the Speakership, spoke of the need of tax reforms in the State and expressed the hope that bills would be passed which would remedy the present unsatisfactory features of the system.

As soon as the House got down to work, the introduction of bills was begun. They had a wide range of subjects, and the indications from the first day of the session were that 60 days would be consumed with legislative business.

Lawmakers issued a bitter reply to the charges made in the Governor's message.

CONLEY OUT OF GOV. STICKS TO STORY

Punished by several of the statements of Jim Conley in regard to his part in the happenings the day that Mary Phagan was killed, the police have resumed the questioning from which the negro had been freed since he was taken to the police station by the detective.

"One point that has not been cleared up is why Conley saw every one else that went into or left the factory and yet failed to see Mary Phagan.

Conley, on Sunday, was confronted by Monteen Stover. He identified her as the girl he saw enter the factory shortly after 12 o'clock on the day of the crime. Yet he still maintains that he did not see Mary Phagan, although Mary must have entered the factory either just before or just after the Stover girl was in the building. This evidence in the possession of the state shows that there could hardly have been more than three to five minutes intervening between the time that the two girls were in the factory.

Want Clearer Statement.

Conley has been asked to explain this apparently improbable circumstance. Conley at first denied that he had seen Lemmie Guillen in the factory on the Saturday of the murder. Later he said he had seen Lemmie Guillen enter the factory on the Saturday of the murder. Which statement is believed by the state is not known. What explanation is made by the negro or lying in regard to the matter also is conjectural.

Mary Phagan left her home on April 21 at about 12:10 o'clock. It is believed that she reached the factory in less than 15 minutes. Monteen Stover has testified that she visited the factory at about 12:10, which would be just before Mary Phagan had entered the factory. If she had been there at the time testified to by Conley, on this account, she has been asked by law, from his vantage point behind the boxes, Monteen Stover enter the factory at 12:10 o'clock. In fact, she entered at 12:20, why he did not see Mary Phagan when she entered in the interval between the visit of the Stover girl and Lemmie Guillen.

Sticks to His Story.

Another point on which he has been questioned is as to how he could have left his home at the time he has testified and visit all the saloons of which he has told and still meet Frank at Nelson and Forsyth Streets as Frank was on his way to Monteen Stover's factory. Frank, according to the statements of members of the Monteen army, was in his building at 12 o'clock. The thing that Conley has testified to doing would have taken him until considerably after 12 o'clock, according to a conservative estimate.

He also has been questioned on other points in his testimony which appeared at variance with the facts, but he has stuck steadfastly to the story told in his last affidavit. Solicitor Dorey has been asked to connect Senator Hoke Smith with the defense. A similar denial was made by Herbert Haas, implicated with Mr. Rosser in the defense. Neither was able to say how the "framer" Hooper, who is assisting Solicitor Dorey in the prosecution, saw that the state would be prepared Monday to fight the subpoena duces tecum issued by the lawyers for the defense. It is regarded as improbable, however, that the defense will bring the matter to an issue until the trial begins July 28.

"Continued fair, with possibly showers late in the afternoon," is the forecast for Thursday.

LABOR LEADERS SCORE MESSAGE

Gov. Brown's "spiced attack upon labor unions, the election of J. Randolph Anderson, of the First District, to the Presidency of the Senate, the election of William H. Burwell, of Hancock, to the Speakership of the House and the introduction of the preliminary grant of bills, the Georgia Legislature began its session Wednesday.

Pledges made by Senator Anderson had appealed the hostility of the "drys" throughout the State and quieted the opposition to his candidacy. He was elected to the Presidency by a unanimous vote of the members, Judge Allen's name being withdrawn.

Representative Burwell, in accepting his unanimous election to the Speakership, spoke of the need of tax reforms in the State and expressed the hope that bills would be passed which would remedy the present unsatisfactory features of the system.

As soon as the House got down to work, the introduction of bills was begun. They had a wide range of subjects, and the indications from the first day of the session were that 60 days would be consumed with legislative business.

Lawmakers issued a bitter reply to the charges made in the Governor's message.

LEADERS NAMED WITHOUT FIGHT

The Georgia Legislature for 1913-14 was organized in both branches Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock. Senator J. Randolph Anderson, of the First District, was elected President of the Senate, and Representative William H. Burwell, of Hancock County, was named Speaker of the House.

Neither man had any opposition in the balloting, and both were elected unanimously.

The rather unexpected termination of the heretofore uncertain and strenuous fight for the presidency of the Senate undoubtedly surprised the packed galleries and lobby.

Allen Withdraws His Name.

Senator Spinks, who was expected to nominate Judge Allen, arose immediately after the Senate had been called to order by Secretary Northan, and instead of nominating his man, withdrew his name.

In doing this he delivered a fine and friendly little speech, praised his man and his opponent, and said that, while Judge Allen had 19 votes ready to stand by him, it was not intended to elect, and the Senator from the Twentieth—Judge Allen—preferred to do the graceful thing and withdraw his name, leaving his friends in the lurch to a fruitless struggle.

When Senator Spinks sat down Senator Black arose and nominated Mr. Anderson in a speech every bit as good natured as the one preceding it.

Rival Voted for Anderson.

When the roll was called, Allen's name came first, and when he started off the balloting in favor of his victorious rival, he was generally applauded by his colleagues.

On assuming the chair, President Anderson delivered a brief address, particularly calling attention to the much necessary legislation that the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce would have to undertake.

He got a good laugh when, in a facetious manner, he referred to the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce's work on behalf of the Western and Atlantic Railroad, the State's property. He said "it evidently would not be the Legislature's work to say what should be done with that property, as the Atlanta trade body seemingly proposed taking care of that little matter itself."

Senate Happy Over Outcome.

The feeling in the Senate after the settlement of the Anderson-Burwell fight was very happy. The way in which that issue was solved evidently lifted a heavy load from many a Senator's mind, and Judge Allen's frank and manly attitude won him many friends.

The efforts of the prohibitionists to get into the game at the 10 o'clock session seem to have been entirely futile, so far as results were concerned.

Both Senators Anderson and Allen
