Atlanta Women Rescued in Macon Hotel Fire

Smashes Phone Pole Averting Auto Crash

$14,000 GEMS DESTROYED BY BLAZE

Richmond Man, Believed to Have Perished in Room, Appears, "Reformed."

MACON, Dec. 11.—J. R. Thurmond, of Richmond, Va., who was believed to have perished in the Hotel Williams fire, which caused a loss of $10,000, made his appearance at noon today, and indignantly denied the reports of his death.

"This affair has converted me," he said, "for I'll never take another drink." The porter put Thurmond to bed in an intoxicated condition, and it was believed that the man failed to escape from his room. However, he jumped to the roof of a two-story building and reached the ground without mishap. He then went to bed at another hotel, awakening at noon to learn that he was given up as dead.

Only the walls of the hotel, a four-story building, are standing, and they are expected to fall any minute.

Atlantans' Narrow Escape.

Sixty-seven guests were in the hotel, and for a time it was impossible to tell how many of them had escaped. The register and other records of the hotel were burned.

A jewelry salesman named Levy, from Chicago, claims that his stock of diamonds, appraised at $10,000, was lost in the fire. Mrs. R. Miller and Miss Alice Miller, of Atlanta, came down a fire escape from the third floor in their night clothing just as the ceiling of their room fell in. All of their clothes and possessions were destroyed. Brady Knight, of Eatonton, found the stairway and fire escapes cut off by sheets of flames, and so he tied quilts and sheets together and reached the ground with the use of this improvised rope.

Honeymooners Hit.

A honeymoon couple, Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Lorig, of Macon, the bride formerly being Miss Martha Cohn, of Albany, had an exceedingly narrow escape, and were rescued by firemen, being taken out of a window, almost suffocated. They lost diamonds and other jewelry, mostly wedding presents, valued at $4,000.

The fire was discovered by a policeman at 4:45 a. m., and at that time the roof was blazing. Defective wiring was supposed to have started the fire.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—Threatened again with an attack of grip, President Wilson canceled his engagements to-day and suspended all executive business. He is suffering from a bad cold in the head and from a mild attack of laryngitis.

Dr. Grayson is determined not to take any chances with his patient, and probably will insist upon his throwing aside all work and out-of-door exercise until the grip is entirely eliminated from his system.

The President will remain within his room to-day and probably until Monday.

A delegation of temperance workers was much disappointed at not being able to see the President.

PROSPERITY SHOWN BY P. O. RUSH

All Records for Volume of Business Here Broken by Early Christmas Mail.

The wave of prosperity reported in all lines of business in Georgia and Atlanta has found an echo in the business of the Atlanta postoffice.

Postmaster Bolling H. Jones said Thursday that the volume of mail that passed through the local postoffice Wednesday night was greater by many thousands pieces than that of any previous 24 hours in the history of the office.

"We broke every record that was ever heard of around here," said Mr. Jones. "We handled 240,000 pieces of first class mail and fully 300,000 pieces of second, third and fourth class mail. There were 25,000 parcels alone, which is about the number that has passed through the office every day for the past two weeks, and there were thousands of other pieces of mail that I have not included in these figures."

Flood of Calendars.

"One firm alone mailed 15,000 calendars Wednesday afternoon, and inasmuch as they are about two feet long and difficult to handle, they are equal to fully three times that amount of ordinary mail matter."

"The increase in the volume of business that passes through the Atlanta office has been apparent for several weeks, but we had no idea it would reach the tremendous proportions of last night. We require between 1,000 and 1,500 mail sacks—all of them large ones—to handle the Atlanta mail now, and this number probably will be doubled when the Christmas rush comes."

Mr. Jones declared that in view of the great increase in the business of the postoffice those who contemplate sending away Christmas gifts should mail their packages as soon as possible.

Shudders at Prospect.

"If the volume of mail reaches the stupendous total of 600,000 pieces three weeks before Christmas," he said, "think what it will reach when the Christmas rush begins in earnest. Unless parcels are mailed at once there can be no certainty in their delivery, because there is a limit to what our force can do. We have working now all the extra men we have room for, and though they are handling the present volume of mail in fine shape, if it gets much larger it is going to be very hard to handle."

"People seem to be spending more money than ever before for Christmas gifts."

Mr. Jones also said Thursday he had about 1,000 "Santa Claus letters" which children have placed in the mail, and which he has authority of turn over to any charitable institution or responsible person who wishes them. These letters exceed by several hundred the number that were mailed last year, and unless someone asks for them they will be sent to the dead letter office to make room for those yet to come.

Rich South African Is Shot by Assassin

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian. JOHANNESBURG, SOUTH AFRICA, Dec. 11.—Sir Lionel Phillips, South African mining magnate and multi-millionaire, was shot three times, but probably not fatally wounded, by an assassin while in Commissioner street to-day. The assassin was arrested. He said he acted in revenge.

Sir Lionel was one of the group of five men, including John Hays Hammond, of New York, who were sentenced to death for instigating the Jameson raid in 1895, which brought on the Boer War. He was formerly with Cecil Rhodes.

Lee Will Case Goes To Jury After Trial Lasting 3 Weeks

The contestants in the suit are the daughters of Mrs. Lee. The suit is styled "Mrs. Annie LaRue Lee Mizell, caveatrix, against Mrs. Maud Lee Thompson." Mrs. Mizell claims her sisters were awarded their share of her mother's estate prior to her mother's death, and that the entire estate left by her mother was willed to her.

Two wills were introduced, one of which awarded the estate to Mrs. Mizell and the other dividing it among all the children. Charges of forgery have been made in connection with the signing of the last one. A $40,000 estate is involved.

DRIVER HURT BUT SAVES OTHERS

Attorney Watt Kelly Is Injured. Three Companions Escape as He Wrecks Car.

Watt Kelly, an attorney with offices in the Temple Court Building, was injured, and three other Atlanta business men, his companions, had narrow escapes Thursday when an automobile in which they were riding crashed into a telephone pole at North Boulevard and Auburn avenue.

The pole was severed at the base and fell over into the street, barely missing the occupants of the machine. Mr. Kelly was thrown against the side of the automobile and suffered severe hurts to his chest and knee cap. With him were Herbert Ferrell, manager of the United Building Company; Edward O'Beirne, a partner with William H. Rhett in an insurance company, with offices in the Hurt Building, and Rhett, who was driving the machine.

The accident occurred when Rhett, in order to avoid a collision with another automobile, swerved his machine to one side. Witnesses declared that the second machine was driving on the left side of the street, running alongside of an Auburn avenue street car. Rhett, rounding a curve in Auburn avenue, was confronted with the other car, which was bearing down upon him.

With a quick turn of his wheel, he sent his car into the pole. The other automobile drove on past, paying no attention to the other, and proceeded down the street. The identity of its occupants was not learned.

Mr. Kelly was hurried to his office, where medical attention was given him. He then was removed to his home. The party had been out on Highland avenue inspecting some building operations.

JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES RETURNS TO ATLANTA

COLONEL JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES.

Will Be Permanently Associated With The Atlanta Georgian and Hearst's Sunday American.

Colonel John Temple Graves, for the past six years editor of The New York American and special writer for the various Hearst publications, has returned to Atlanta to be permanently associated with Mr. Hearst's Atlanta newspapers as that publisher's direct personal representative.

Colonel Graves' work in Atlanta and the South will be wide in scope and far-reaching in consequence. He will stand for Mr. Hearst and his aspirations and ambition in Southern journalism. He will project his personality sharply into the Hearst publications in the South, and his work will be Mr. Hearst's work.

Needles to say, Colonel Graves is being cordially welcomed on all sides. He numbers his friends in Dixie by the thousands. He is attached to the South by ties of blood and long association and acquaintance. The entire period of his young manhood was spent in Dixie, as an editor in Georgia and Florida, and, although he has had high honors conferred upon him abroad, his heart still is, and ever has been, most at home among Georgians.

Colonel Graves has been intimately associated with Mr. Hearst in New York and Washington, and has been sent to Georgia because Mr. Hearst believes him pre-eminently the man to bring the Hearst publications close to the hearts and firesides of the Southern people.

Of course, Colonel Graves is glad to be "back home." As he expresses it, "Old Brer Rabbit was no more delighted when thrown into the briar-patch than I am delighted to be in the South again permanently, and where I may serve the people of my native section to the full and final limit of my ability."

"Mr. Hearst has great ambitions for The Georgian and The Sunday American. I shall strive to help him realize them completely."

Mrs. Graves and the children will not return to Georgia until later in the winter, and perhaps not until spring.

Elevator Common Carrier, Is Ruling Of Supreme Court

The Georgia Supreme Court to-day held in the case of Lucy L. Allen against Mrs. W. D. Grant, owner of the Grant Building in Atlanta, that the owner of a public building in which a public elevator is operated is a common carrier under the law, in so far as such owner's obligation to exercise extraordinary diligence in handling passengers is concerned.

Miss Allen brought suit for $25,000 damages against Mrs. Grant, setting forth that she was seriously hurt and permanently disabled by a falling elevator in which she was a passenger, and that the accident was due to negligence of the defendant. Mrs. Grant demurred on the ground the owner of the building was not a common carrier, and hence not subject to damages.

BRIEFS FOR FINAL LIFE BATTLE READY

Trial Judge Termed "Vacillating" by Defense Attorneys—Hearing Likely to Start Monday.

Severe criticism is made of Judge L. S. Roan for certain phases of his conduct of the trial of Leo M. Frank and for his refusal to grant a new trial, even though he himself had doubt as to the defendant's guilt, in the brief and argument prepared by Frank's lawyers to be presented to the Supreme Court of Georgia next Monday.

The document was received from the printers Thursday. The brief of evidence, another bulky document, will be completed Thursday afternoon. The attorneys for the defense will exchange briefs with Solicitor Hugh M. Dorsey later in the day and all of the lawyers concerned in the famous case will be ready to re-engage in a bitter legal battle which has its beginning on July 26, when Frank's trial was started.

Judge Roan Criticized. Judge Roan is characterized in the printed arguments of the attorneys as "vacillating" in his conduct of the trial at many times, and his action in refusing a new trial is described as indefensible, in view of his openly expressed doubt of Frank's guilt.

The argument on this particular phase of the appeal to the Supreme Court concludes with numerous legal citations designed to show that Judge Roan was shirking a plain duty when he refused to take the burden of a decision in the matter. Several of the citations quote the Supreme Court as saying that when the trial judge is assailed with doubts as to the justice of the verdict there is no course open to him but to grant a new trial.

The documents which are to be submitted to the Supreme Court are said by lawyers to be the most voluminous ever filed in Georgia in an appealed case.

600 Pages in Brief. The brief of evidence alone consists of about 600 large pages with type of ordinary size.

The arguments and narration of the facts of the case consume another 289 pages, and the original motion for a new trial, the amended motion and the judge's charge make up another book of 159 pages. The total is approximately 1,100 printed pages.

The case of Frank vs. the State is listed eighteenth on the calendar of the Supreme Court and will be reached Monday, in all probability, the others being mostly cases from other parts of the State, which will not be argued except through the briefs submitted.

Sues Wife, Who Made Odd Bed Regulations

Charging that his wife made life miserable for him by many strange acts of cruelty, one of them being the requirement that he lie at a certain angle in bed while sleeping, Ludwell J. Secrey has brought suit for divorce from Mrs. Anna Secrey.

He further charges that she would not let him read as much as he wanted to; that she kept the house in a disordered condition; that she kept pictures of strange men in the house. To prevent him from taking the child for a walk on Sundays, he charges that she would smear the child with dirt so that it would not be presentable.

W. & A. LESSEES MUST DOUBLE TRACK LINE

Legislative Committee Investigates Chattanooga Terminals. Southern Anxious to Lease.

Members of the Western and Atlantic Railroad Commission of the State Legislature are in Chattanooga Thursday investigating the Chattanooga terminals and other Tennessee property of the State road, following a meeting held in the State Capitol Wednesday.

It virtually was decided at Wednesday's meeting that whatever road is given the control of the Western and Atlantic will be required to double track the line from Atlanta to Chattanooga, and that in order to secure this improvement the lease will have to run for a longer period than heretofore.

Whether this arrangement will meet with the approval of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis, the present lessee of the road, and which, it is understood, desires a renewal, is not known.

Southern Anxious to Lease.
It is generally understood, however, that the Southern is anxious to lease the line and is willing to double track the road on condition that the lease run for a long term of years.

The commission has not yet been able to obtain any definite figures on the cost of double tracking the road. Chairman Gunby Jordan presented a letter from Vice President H. D. Spencer, of the Southern Railway, who stated that the cost of the improvement could hardly be estimated successfully until a survey and report had been made by a competent engineer. Mr. Spencer, however, stated that the last double tracking of the Southern system did, from Chattanooga to Meridian, Miss., cost $30,000 a mile, while the cost of double tracking the line from Atlanta to Gainesville ran from $20,000 to $30,000 per mile.

Based on these figures, about $50,000 a mile is considered a fair average for the cost of double tracking the Western and Atlantic.

Possibility of Sale Suggested.
Mr. Jordan told the other members of the commission that certain questions should be asked any road that applies for a lease of the State line, which indicates the possibility of the commission recommending the sale of the property when it makes its report to the Legislature.

The roads, he declared, should be asked how much they are willing to pay for the right of way, how much they will pay for the road with the properties not necessary for the operation of the road taken out, and also how much they will be willing to pay for the Atlanta terminals on the plaza system proposed by the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce.

Only six members attended the Wednesday meeting and made the trip to Chattanooga. They were Chairman Gunby Jordan, Senator M. C. Tarver, Representatives L. R. Akin, Alvin D. Greene, E. D. Cole and Henry J. Fullbright.

SPLENDID LIGHTS on GEORGIA POLITICS

Commissioner of Commerce and Labor H. M. Stanley is spending a few days at home, enjoying a much-needed and well-deserved rest from his official duties.

The Commissioner is well pleased with the work of his department, which is relatively a youngster among the other departments and talks most interestingly of the same.

Discussing the year's labors before leaving for home, Commissioner Stanley said: "I made a great deal of statistical matter concerning the industrial resources of the State, which has never before been compiled, has been disseminated and as the department grows this work will increase and much valuable information will be prepared and distributed."

The department has accomplished a great work in seeing that laws regarding the employment of women and children are complied with. The act creating this department makes it my duty to see that these laws are enforced.

"When I took charge of the office the law requiring mercantile and manufacturing establishments to furnish seats to their female employees was a dead letter, and had been for more than twenty years. This law is now being enforced. The large department stores in the city have already provided seats for their female employees, and we now are looking after the enforcement of the law in the smaller cities and towns."

President J. Randolph Anderson, ex-officio Lieutenant Governor of Georgia, is improving rapidly from a severe attack of appendicitis which took place in Savannah Monday. His physicians say that he will be out within the next two weeks.

Representative-elect Thomas Carroll, of Cataosa, named to succeed Representative Bryan, deceased, furnishes a fine example of the virtue of keeping everlastingly at it!

He has been a candidate for the House regularly for some 30 years, and never before has won out. He has been a perpetually willing sacrifice for principle's sake, however, and has not grown weary in well doing, as he managed to see things.

He accumulated a large "hunch" several years ago that sooner or later he was to serve a term in the Georgia Legislature, and he never has been able to shake himself loose from that "hunch," despite his varied assortment of Waterloos.

And now—well, he is Representative-elect, at last, and he will be sworn in next summer. "If he lives and nothing happens!"

Mr. Carroll is a popular and able man, and his friends predict for him a useful career in the House.

The chartering of the State Pecan Bank, in Baconton, makes the nineteenth State bank organized and started in business this year.

On December 10, last year, there had been chartered and started in business exactly 50 State banks—a number so far ahead of this year's record that it will not be equaled even approximately.

This has not been as good a year as last for organizing banks—that much is evident—but it has been an exceedingly prosperous year in Georgia, nevertheless.

The joint Legislative Committee of the Western Atlantic Railroad, which is to-day looking over the State's fine terminal property in Chattanooga with a view to making recommendations as to the forthcoming release of the road, has no power to make binding reports. What it may have to say to the Legislature next summer will be merely advisory, and in no way mandatory.

The road will be disposed of as to its future by the present Legislature, or, perhaps, by the next. It is hoped that the way will be cleared up completely, however, for the Legislature that does act finally, as to what terms shall govern the release of the road.

THREAT GLEW TO PLOT TO SLAY POLICEMAN

Two Shots Are Fired at Patrolman McWilliams—Merchant Under Surveillance—Arrest Likely.

A death threat made several weeks ago to Policeman J. W. McWilliams furnished a clue for the detectives Thursday in working on the mysterious attempt to assassinate McWilliams at his home in East Atlanta just before he came to work early Thursday morning.

A business man is said to have uttered the threat against the officer. He was placed under surveillance as soon as the story of the incident was told, and an arrest is expected if the facts are found to bear out the suspicions of McWilliams and the detectives.

Thought to Bear Grudge.
The business man is reported to have threatened to "get" McWilliams if it took the rest of his life. An arrest in which the patrolman participated is understood to have been the cause of the remark.

The patrolman went to his back porch about midnight. As he leaned over a basin in washing his face he found himself looking right into a revolver thrust through the porch railing.

Fired on Twice.
At the same instant he was deafened by the report of the revolver, and a bullet whizzed by his ear. He started back, and the revolver clicked again, but missed fire.

McWilliams rushed into the house to get his pistol, and returned just in time to see his would-be murderer jump the fence. Before he could take aim, the mysterious person disappeared.

McWilliams told the story of the attempted murder when he arrived at headquarters, and the detective department was put on the case.

The theft was the result of the arrest for drunkenness of a farmer from Orange County Saturday afternoon. When searched, the $151.90 was found on McLure. It was placed in the locker pending the farmer's release. The policeman later broke open the locker and on Monday bagged a general package of bills he owed. This led to his arrest.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally if You Eat Meat Regularly.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid, which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly clear or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood; then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and can not injure. It makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clear and the blood pure thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.—Adv't.

COUNCIL TAKES UP NEW LAW ON TRAFFIC

Ordinance Regulating Taxi Rates and Turner Charges Also Considered by Committees.

Three committees of the City Council will meet Thursday afternoon in an effort to take some conclusive action on matters of far-reaching importance.

The investigating committee hopes to determine its report on the "graft" charges against City Electrician R. C. Turner. The Aldermanic Board, acting as a committee, will hold a public hearing on the new traffic ordinance and decide upon a recommendation to Council. The Ordinance Committee will give final consideration to a bill regulating taxicab fares.

The taking of testimony in the Turner "graft" investigation is complete and a gold watch from electrical contractors, but he claims that it was for the purpose of paying off his indebtedness incurred by his campaign for election. The feature of the close of this hearing will be the argument of Attorney Aldine Chambers, who declares that he has proved Turner a "graft" and who will recite to the committee what he claims to be clear grounds for impeachment.

Council is perplexed over the new traffic law that would stop the parking of automobiles in the downtown section for more than 20 minutes at a time, and would prohibit pedestrians from crossing streets except at corners. Society women who drive their machines and doctors who leave their cars in the street during their office hours are vigorous protesters against the parking provision of the law, and they are causing considerable trouble to those who want to relieve congested conditions.

A law strictly regulating taxicab charges will be recommended by the Ordinance Committee, but taxicab owners declare that the proposed rates are too low. The committee will determine these rates at the meeting Thursday afternoon and pass an act requiring them to be posted on the inside of every taxicab and automobile that is for rent. Under the present law taxicab owners are allowed to charge what they choose.

Buy Correctly Graded Diamonds Where Weights and Grades Are Guaranteed

Unless you are a diamond expert you naturally have to depend upon the integrity of your dealer when you purchase them.

What is still more important, you have to trust to his knowledge and skill in grading diamonds. Hardly any two dealers grade diamonds alike. A jeweler may be absolutely honest and reliable and still not have the necessary skill to correctly grade them according to standard classifications.

All of our diamonds are weighed and graded by an expert who has had over 26 years' experience with us alone. All grades and weights are guaranteed. Each stone bears a tag on which is marked in plain figures its exact weight, quality and the lowest price at which we can sell it.

We send selections by prepaid express to reliable people, anywhere, to prove that our grades and prices are right.

Liberal deferred payment plans are allowed to those who prefer to buy that way.

WHAT IS THE BEST PRESENT? THAT IS THE BIG QUESTION

By MARY LEA DAVIS.

Christmas day is getting nearer and nearer. Have you selected that present for your wife? If you are a wife, have you chosen the gift which you intend to present to your husband?

I am very much in favor of the idea of shopping early in the holiday season. I have advocated it for years. I believe married folks should get their Christmas presents ahead of time. Don't wait until the last minute. If you do, you are sure to select the wrong thing. That is one of the main reasons so many inappropriate gifts are given every Christmas. I'm sure of it.

The problem is a serious one. It amounts to a great deal of worry. You want to give the best present, don't you? Of course you do. We all do. That is the spirit of Christmas time. But what IS the best present? That's the question which bothers a good many people every year. And that is the reason I asked the married readers of The Georgian to write me telling what THEY thought the best present for a wife to give her husband and for a husband to give his wife. I wanted the experience of others to be of real benefit to those who are now worrying over the problem.

HERE IS MY OFFER.

To the wife who writes the best short letter telling what is the most useful gift for a husband, one $10 gold piece.

Three awards of $5 each will be given the wives whose letters are adjudged the next best. Also, I will award the same prizes to husbands who write the best letters outlining the most appropriate gift for a husband to give his wife. For the husband's letter that is adjudged the best the writer will receive a $10 gold piece. Husbands who write the three next best letters will receive, each, a $5 gold piece for their thoroughness.

Send your letters addressed to: MARY LEA DAVIS, Editorial Department, The Atlanta Georgian.

Here are some letters just received:

BIBLE AND GOOD WISHES.

Miss Mary Lea Davis: I can't think of anything that would appeal to a husband's better self more than for his wife to remember him on Christmas morning with the Bible as her gift with its many comforting passages and promises to sustain him the new year. She might accompany this with some needy article made with her own hands, and with much love and confidence wish him joy and cheer. Stephens, Ga. MRS. H. H.

SOME SOFT SHIRTS.

Miss Mary Lea Davis: A couple of soft shirts to wear when a fellow doesn't care to be "spruced up," and a white tuckered bosom linen shirt for formal wear, all made by a wife's own hands. In my suggestion for a Christmas gift. Jefferson, Ga. MRS. M. A. B.

COLLAR AND TIE BOX.

Miss Mary Lea Davis: I think the nicest and most useful gift for a husband would be a box with a lid to it, covered with some nice material and lined inside with a place for his collars, ties and collar buttons, with some nice ribbon of same color of covering to hang by where he dresses. This would enable him to know where to find his things and he would appreciate the thoughtful wife for making it for him. Athens, Ga. MRS. L. L.

SOMETHING HE NEEDS.

Miss Mary Lea Davis: I think the most useful gift for a wife to give her husband is the thing he needs the most at the time she gives the present. If he needs a thing he is sure to appreciate it more than anything else, for married people do not have money to spend for things they don't really need. Atlanta, Ga. MRS. P. L. U.

CHECK AND SUBSCRIPTION.

Miss Mary Lea Davis: I think the most acceptable Christmas gift for husband would be a $25 check and a year's subscription to The Georgian and Sunday American. Be optimistic under all circumstances, and don't object to his smoking all the cigars he receives as Christmas gifts. Atlanta, Ga. MRS. W. R. E.

SAVING HIS CREDIT.

Miss Mary Lea Davis: The most appreciated gift that wife could give to her husband is the assurance that she has not purchased gifts galore on a "charge" basis to embarrass him after the festive season is over. Macon, Ga. MRS. D. P.

HIS PERSONAL TASTE.

Miss Mary Lea Davis: Let the husband's Christmas soured be suited to his personal taste and need. Your real gift should be a heart full of love and a helping hand. Give him again as you first saw him, in all the beautiful, manly virtues. If they no longer fit, spread over him a mantle of charity, pity and forgiveness. Give him your hand and make another brave, prayerful pull to lift him up. MRS. W. F. Newman, Ga.

FOR HIS COMFORT.

Miss Mary Lea Davis: During the fifteen years of our married life I have always given to my husband gifts that were for his comfort and pleasure, and that he would enjoy. This year I shall make for him four pairs of slumber slippers; the old ones are worn, and he always enjoyed them. I will also make a cushion for his office chair. As his old fountain pen has failed, I hope to be able to replace it with a new one. I always give within my means. I just put a lot of love in with the stitches and he always appreciates my efforts, great or small. Winder, Ga. MRS. M. S. B.

SAVED FOR HIS GIFT.

Miss Mary Lea Davis: If I take the money my husband has earned to buy him a Christmas present, I feel that he has bought it; so I saved during the year and am going to buy him six nice shirts and a set of cuff buttons. MRS. O. A. K.

A TRIP BACK "HOME."

Miss Mary Lea Davis: I am a clerk at a very moderate salary. My wife thinks that the time will never come when she will be able to visit her folks in North Georgia. So by denying myself many little things necessary to a man's comfort I will surprise her with a round-trip ticket to see the "old" folks at "home" once again, her dearest wish. Savannah, Ga. F. E. K.

WILL LET HER CHOOSE.

Miss Mary Lea Davis: For Christmas I am going to give

A FINE BABY BOY.

Miss Mary Lea Davis: To my mind the most useful and appreciated Christmas gift that a wife can give her husband is a fine baby boy—with the promise of many more—that they may, as the years go by, enjoy the pleasure of Christmas leaning on these substantial gifts of their youth. Augusta, Ga. MRS. R. J. W.

A BIBLE FOR HIM.

Miss Mary Lea Davis: I think the nicest present for my husband would be a Bible. Ninety-Six, S. C. MRS. W. O. J.

A SON AND HEIR.

Miss Mary Lea Davis: The most desirable present for the occasion would be for every woman to present her husband a baby boy on Christmas morning—that is the day of Christ's birth. One other suggestion is a nice memorandum book for each day in the year. West Point, Ga. MRS. E. M. P.

FOR HIS COMFORT.

Miss Mary Lea Davis: The most appropriate and acceptable gift in my estimation that a wife of limited means can give her husband is a morris chair, a pair of house slippers and a year's subscription to The Georgian and Hearst's Sunday American. A husband that wouldn't appreciate this is very ungrateful. Alma, Ga. MRS. C. L. S.

MONEY FOR BILLS.

Miss Mary Lea Davis: The best Christmas gift that I can think of to my husband from me would be the ten-dollar gold piece which you are offering. It would help pay some of the Christmas bills so that he might feel happier on Christmas day. This will be the first Christmas gift he has ever received from me which he has not had to pay for himself. Athens, Ga. MRS. M. V. M.

A BUNGALOW.

Miss Mary Lea Davis: The most useful gift for the wife would be a beautiful bungalow. Atlanta, Ga. MRS. R. H. S.

A BIBLE.

Miss Mary Lea Davis: I have a husband who is perfect in every way—only he is not a Christian. I will give him a Bible. A friend gave him a lot of little cigarette rugs and I took the silk fringe off of the ends and made him a nice tie. I also made a cover for the cushion of his chair—out of the rug. He likes to read and I will give him The Georgian to read when he is not reading the Bible. Macon, Ga. MRS. M. A. W.

PUBLIC WILL MEET FAMOUS BANDMAN

The musically-inclined people of Atlanta will have the opportunity to meet Channing Ellery at 5 o'clock Friday afternoon, when an informal reception has been arranged in honor of the famous bandmaster at the Ansley Hotel. Everybody is invited. Mr. Ellery is to reach Atlanta Friday morning, and will appear at the "Star Matinee" that afternoon at which his band is to play, at the Atlanta Theater in behalf of the Empty Stocking Fund.

The famous band is to be heard in a series of concerts at the Auditorium under the auspices of the Music Festival Association. As has been announced, the school children of Atlanta will be admitted free to the matinee concerts on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday through admission by tickets distributed at the various schools. One-third of the children will attend on each of the first three days, the fourth matinee being open to the negro school children. The opening concert will take place next Friday night, with tickets on sale at the door. The Music Festival Association assures the public that the Ellery engagement is to be one of the notable events of the season.

In Nashville, in fact, such a furor was created by the wonderful concerts given by the band that after hearing the series of six performances, special permission was extended by the city for two more concerts on Sunday, the night concert at 8 o'clock being largely attended by church-goers, who went to the concert directly from the churches.

Columbian Masons To Confer Degree

BOY SCOUTS TO GIVE DRILLS AT CHILD SHOW

School Pupils Through the Leyden House Exhibit—Woman's Club Swells Attendance.

Everett's troop of Boy Scouts in a first-aid-to-the-injured demonstration will provide the spectacular feature at the Child Welfare and Health Exhibit in the old Leyden house, No. 198 Peachtree street, Thursday afternoon.

With several of their number representing victims of drowning and other varieties of accidents, the khaki-clad youths will set swiftly to work in their efforts at "resuscitation" and in the binding up of wounds.

School children in droves, accompanied by their teachers, thronged the building Thursday forenoon. Each one possessed a note book on which he or she jotted memoranda of the most striking exhibits. These notes will be worked over into compositions later in the week.

The attendance at the welfare show has been greatly increased through the work of the industrial committee of the Atlanta Woman's Club, whose members have distributed through the mill districts, the department stores and in telephone buildings printed circulars telling of the lessons in disease prevention that are being taught by the exhibits and the women in charge.

A note is made of the fact that 1,042 persons died of preventable diseases in Atlanta within a twelve-month. Members of the industrial committee are Mrs. Frank Neely, chairman, Mrs. J. K. Ottley, Mrs. William Percy, Mrs. M. C. Russell, Mrs. A. McD. Wilson, Mrs. Charles J. Haden, Mrs. A. P. Coles, Mrs. H. H. Tucker, Dr. Florence Truax, Miss Irma Dooly, Miss Jessie Muse, Mrs. W. B. COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Darkens Beautifully and Restores Its Thickness and Lustre at Once.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant, remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," thus avoiding a lot of fuss. While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger.—Adv.

Says:

"The man who buys and builds on this property will find a tenant waiting for him. I have urgent requests in hand now for more than 200,000 square feet of space in this Terminal District which tenants will lease on a splendid interest basis. I have several applicants who want ten-year leases with the privilege of purchasing"

TERMINAL DISTRICT AUCTION

Friday, December 12th, 10:00 A. M.

The Terminal District is a tangible, logical situation with a definite purpose. The railroads have grown around it and developed it up until they have fairly crowded value into it.

Forrest Adair says that its proximity to the business section makes it a property with a positive value and a positive purpose.

E. P. Ansley says that the Terminal District has just been awaiting an opportune time to develop to its fullest height, that that time has now arrived and that within two years this section will be tremendously built up.

R. F. Maddox says that by drawing a radius of 300 miles around Atlanta, which is a reasonable distance, figuring on the time required for mail to leave one city after the close of business to arrive in the regional reserve city by the opening of business the following morning, such a circle will include the States of Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee, Florida and a part of Mississippi. In that circle is a population of 10,000,000 people. It takes in a section growing 6,500,000 bales of cotton, with approximately $400,000,000 deposits. Atlanta, by virtue of having fourteen independent lines of railways radiating from it to practically every point of the compass, becomes the logical center for the business of that section in respect to the establishment of the proposed regional bank.

For the following points within this circle, there are about 200 "Package Cars" leaving Atlanta each day over the Southern and A., B. & A. Railroads:

These cars leave Atlanta every day between 5 o'clock and 10 o'clock p. m., running on regular schedules, and give a better and safer service than the express companies. A merchant or manufacturer, if he has as much as 10,000 pounds of freight for one of these points, can have one of these cars placed at his back door in the Terminal District, and load his goods direct to his customers without any further handling by truckmen until the freight arrives at its destination, and without switching charge.

This Package Car service is moving big concerns to Atlanta. A shipper showed the writer where he was able to deliver goods quicker from Atlanta to Lynchburg, Va., than he could from Greenville, S. C., to Lynchburg, because of our Package Car Service.

There is no denying the fact that the Terminal District is just beginning to come into its own.

Walker and Nelson Streets will be widened twelve feet.

The Terminal District Improvement Club are arranging these matters now. It is a section where there are plenty of moderate-priced homes to rent to the employees.

It is in the heart of Atlanta.

This is the logical time to buy.

This season will see many of the speculators and investors move back to the centers and make their investments.

After a city has had a few years of developing on the outskirts, there is always a reaction and the centers come in for their part.

The centers are the known revenue earners.

A Little Reasoning About Atlanta and the Terminal District

Every cotton mill of the New England States is wearing out, some have worn out, and as fast as this happens they are moving to the South to be closer to the raw product.

Every automobile builder now needs either a warehouse or a branch factory situated on railroad tracks to distribute in this Southern territory.

Cheap power furnished by the Georgia Power Company, and in unlimited quantities, is the "smokeless" powder of commerce that will forge us ahead.

A regional bank in Atlanta with the backing of $400,000,000.00 deposits will finance all our undertakings and more.

Fifty million more people in 20 years in the South will more than double the value of the Terminal District.

Hundreds of millions invested in fourteen railroads, with industrial departments, pushing us ahead, is all working in the direction of the Terminal District as a center.

All of Atlanta, the New York of the South, with all of her men and women, the liveliest citizenship in the world, make for us the Atlanta Spirit, a commodity that is always at par.

TWO PRETTY PARTIES GIVEN VISITING WASHINGTON GIRLS

Miss Dorothy Aleahire, of Washington, D. C., a visitor here, is being tendered a round of parties. Miss Aleahire is the guest of Miss Katherine Ellis at the Ellis mansion in Ansley Park, and one of the delightful events of the week was the dinner party Miss Ellis gave for her guest Wednesday evening.

The party of 22 was seated around an Italian garden table, in the center of which a miniature fountain played. Two smaller fountains were at each end of the table, and miniature pergolas were wreathed in pink roses. Tiny bay trees were used for shades for the electric lights, and other pretty decorative details were in pink.

Miss Ellis was charming in a dinner gown of green chiffon, with corsage of tulle heavily embroidered in green rhinestones. Miss Aleahire wore white brocade satin with an embroidery of rhinestones. Mrs. Ellis wore a French dinner gown of white charmeuse with draperies of chiffon and rhinestone garniture.

Miss Stephens Entertains. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stanley, who recently came from New Haven, Conn., to reside here, were honored guests at a musical tea Miss Nan Stephens gave Thursday afternoon at her home in Druid Hills. An informal musical program, to which Mrs. Benjamin Elsas, Walter Stanley, George P. Linder and Bonawitz contributed, was a feature of the afternoon. Tea was served.

The rooms were bright and fragrant with flowers from Miss Stephens' conservatory. In the drawing room sultana was used, the mantle being banked with these flowers. Begonias and poinsettia blossoms, the first of the season, adorned the music room, and the tea table was graced with a bronze basket of narcissi, the hardie tied with pink tulle. The silver candlesticks were shaded in pink and the minor details were in these colors.

Tea was served in the breakfast room, where the decorations were also of sultana. Mrs. Arthur Hynds and Miss Nell Phillips presiding at a prettily appointed tea table. Mrs. Martin Dunbar and Miss Allie Candler served punch in the dining room, from a bowl wreathed in grapes and smilax. Miss Daley Martin and Miss Grace Stephens assisted in entertaining.

A number of guests called, and the affair was one of the happiest of the week. Miss Stephens was becomingly gowned in white chiffon and lace draped over white satin, with bands of ermine.

Benefit Concert. The Atlanta Institute of Music will give a concert at the Woman's Club this evening at 8:30 o'clock. The program is made up of selections by the faculty of the institute.

For Yale Glee Club. The appearance of the Yale Glee Club in Atlanta December 25 will be an occasion of much interest, and a brilliant audience will greet the club at its concert Christmas evening, following the concert, a dance will be given the visitors at the Piedmont Driving Club.

RED CROSS FORCES TO SMASH SALES RECORD

Miss Helen Brandon, Christmas Red Cross Seal worker.

With more than $50 realized Wednesday through the enthusiastic efforts of Mrs. H. C. Booth and her corps of assistants, the workers who are selling the Red Cross Christmas Seals were out bright and early Thursday morning, determined to eclipse the mark of $5,000 seals set on the first day of the campaign.

Mrs. Luther Z. Rosser, Jr., is chairman of the workers for Thursday, and has secured a large number of Atlanta's most prominent society girls to take charge of the booths and sell the seals. Booths have been erected in the leading hotels, in the postoffice and in downtown office buildings, which will be headquarters for the young women who are selling the little stickers. Mrs. Rosser is determined that the sales for the day shall exceed those of Wednesday, and her assistants have been working hard all morning.

Mrs. J. Wade Conkling and her committee will distribute the seals to the school children Friday, and enlist the aid of the children in the campaign. The seals will be turned over to the principal of the school, who will distribute them among the children.

The children's campaign will be independent of the daily changes of chairman and workers, and will continue right up to Christmas Eve. It is expected that each child will sell at least 10 cents worth of the stamps, which will mean about $2,600.

A sign to record the sales of the seals, similar to those sometimes used in Y. M. C. A. campaigns, has been erected on Marietta street, near Five Points, and the results of each day's selling will be marked up. Those who have charge of the campaign are confident that the register will be at the million mark when the campaign is over.

"The first day's work was very gratifying," said Mrs. Hugh Willet. Among some of the leaders for Wednesday were Mrs. William Riley, in the Candler Building, $2,78; Miss Lottie Stoper, at the Cole Book Store, $2,71; Mrs. Priscilla Patton, at the Ansley Hotel, $2,39; Mrs. Ball, at Whitehall and Peachtree, $1,83; Mrs. Tye and Mrs. Lyman Amnden, at Jacobs', Marietta street, $1,20; Mrs. Harry Harman, at the Georgian Terrace, $1,51; Mrs. Wiley Jones, at Rich's, $2,174; Miss Laurie Johnston, at the Piedmont, $1,435. So enthusiastic over the work was Miss Johnston that she re-enlisted for Thursday, and will devote the entire day to the work.

Mrs. J. Wade Conkling and a committee of young women will make the rounds of the public schools in automobiles to-morrow morning, distributing the seals to the principals for the pupils who will sell them until school closes for Christmas for the benefit of the open-air school fund.

WATCH BETSY JR. AND GILBERT IN SAVANNAH RACES

Atlanta Entry in 300-Mile Grind Can Make 80 Miles an Hour, and That's Traveling.

By W. S. Farnsworth.

ATLANTA is going to come mighty close to winning the Savannah motorcycle race on Christmas day.

At least, that is my way of thinking after having taken a spin on the madguard of the Gate City's entry in the long 200-mile grind.

The name of our entrant is Betsy, Jr. Rider's name is Hal Gilbert. Together they make the fleetest young thing you ever saw.

Every motorcycle rider in this neck of the woods knows Gilbert. Betsy, Jr. needs an introduction. Let me have the honor of making you acquainted.

FIRST, Betsy, Jr., is a "Crane-Atlanta" motorcycle, L. S. Crane is the owner, and if the motor turns out to be the winner of the Savannah grind, then starts the manufacture of more Betsy's.

Mr. Crane is the proud owner of the famous automobile Old Betsy, Betsy, Jr. is Old Betsy's daughter.

Second, Betsy, Jr. is the freakiest-looking piece of machinery you've truly ever saw.

The engine looks like any regular motorcycle engine. So do the wheels, spokes, handlebars and seat, but the gasoline tank is about twice the size of a regular tank.

It holds over four gallons of gasoline and nine pints of oil. This means that Gilbert will have to stop only once for gasoline and oil during the long trip.

And Betsy, Jr. is going to be shod with automobile tires, thus being as near puncture proof as possible.

BUT let me tell you about my ride on Betsy, Jr. Gilbert, aided and abetted by a long rope tied to Mr. Crane's car, was hoisted over a tree to Dead Man's Curve, where a fine street that runs over to Howell Mill road offered just the chance we desired.

Gilbert told me to climb onto the madguard (said madguard will be stripped when the big race is held) and grab him around the waist, or being towed for 100 yards by the auto Gilbert finally got his powerful motor turning, and then dropped the rope.

Off we went, whizzing at a 70-mile-an-hour gallop right off the bat. I lost my breath at Peachtree and never got it back again until we hit Howell Mill—but that wasn't over a few seconds.

Traveling, we traveled so fast that I can't remember a blinding thing, except that I caught a glance at the speedometer at one time and saw the little hand pointing around the 80-mile-an-hour mark.

A Knoxville Hunch for B. Smith 'Stove League' Offers Outfielder

By O. B. Keeler.

WE lamp in a Knoxville newspaper—the esteemed Sentinel—unless the clipping boy played us false—that Billy Smith manager of the Crackers has been the topic for a debate by the Knoxville members of the Stove League.

That august body (meeting in December), on hearing of Billy's departure for Washington and other points East in quest of ball players, promptly held a meeting, which considered Billy's needs and made certain recommendations.

FIRST, the Stove League called Billy's attention to the Knoxville outfield of 1913—Messrs. Burke, Clunk and Knox were regular and established members in good standing of the Amalgamated Order of Demon Sluggers (inc.)—and recalled to the cracker manager's memory the performance of the said demons in the post-season series played with the Crackers last September.

SO the meeting of the Stove League proceeded to inquire of Billy Smith (by publication) why he didn't take up the matter of ball players.

RITCHIE-MURPHY FIGHT FOR TITLE IS POSTPONED

Various Reasons Given for Delay of Bout; Champion Claims He Has Abscess in Nose.

By W. W. Naughton.

SOME already have made formal application for the position of manager of the Cincinnati Reds. What we can't understand is why a guy who has played and played and played with that bunch should deliberately lay himself open to a wallop like that.

There is some doubt as to where Fred Clarke wants Joe Tinker to play on the Pirates.

Other reasons are that it rained during the afternoon, thus hurting the house; that Ritchie had an abscess in the nose, and that the doctor ordered him not to fight.

It is said Ritchie's nose withered him when he awoke yesterday, and grew worse as the day wore on.

Slavers Sentenced To Atlanta Prison

SAVANNAH, Dec. 11.—Three white slavers—Allen H. Young, of Augusta, Charles Crosby, of Savannah, and John Derbyshire, an Englishman, were each sentenced to a year and a day in the Federal Penitentiary at Atlanta by Judge William B. Sheppard, in the United States District Court today.

THE Young and Crosby cases originated in Jacksonville, Derbyshire was arrested only a few days ago on the complaint of an Austrian woman, who said he brought her here from Brownsville, Pa.

FOOD FOR SPORT FANS

By GEORGE E. PHAIR.

HONUS. Some years ago a fan would say: "Old Honus Wagner's through!" "Ah, yes!" his friend would make reply.

And wipe a teardrop from his eye. And wipe a long and mournful sigh: "Old Honus Wagner's through!"

To-day we hear the selfsame song: "Old Honus Wagner's through!" The poor old gent is slipping fast. His day of youth and speed is past. He scarcely has a year to last— "Old Honus Wagner's through!"

That song will echo years from now: "Old Honus Wagner's through!" And men will shake their heads and say: "The poor old gent has had his day; His glory days are over— "Old Honus Wagner's through!"

"Boxing," says Maurice Maeterlinck, "creates mental energy." It is plain that Maurice never has met Kid Broad.

The Yanks will be the first team to start spring training. This is due to the fact that they need a running start.

Among those who are not particularly anxious to see Joe Tinker back in Cub uniform is A. Bridwell, shortstop.

No. Rollo, the popping sound in the offing is not an echo of the war in Mexico. Merely a gathering of National League magnates.

The report that Vardon and Ray cleaned up $11,500 on their American trip leads one to believe that there will be several farewell tours.

"Cross-country running develops the lungs," avers Harry Hillman. Now we know why those Mexican generals are so cheery.

It is said that the St. Louis Browns are underpaid, but, having seen them play, we refuse to believe it.

WINTER. Sporting editors remind us that our lot in life is hard. Woe and worry you will find in writing stories by the yard. Let us then be up and faking Baseball stories day by day. It's a weekly undertaking. But we need our weekly pay.

McFarland May be Suspended for Poor Work With Britton

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec. 11.—Packer McFarland will not be given another chance to get away money in Wisconsin by stalling through a fight with any opponent of any weight, if reports of coming action by the State Boxing Commission are correct. He is to be suspended for six months at least, and more probably for a year, rumor says.

Two causes enter into this probable action of the State Commission. One McFarland's ridicule of the commission, when he said the commission could not force him to weigh in for his battle with Britton, and the second his listless fighting when finally in the ring.

Pennsylvania Lost On 1913 Athletics

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 11.—Football and basket ball were the only sports at the University of Pennsylvania to show a financial profit last season, according to the report submitted last night to the Athletic Association. Receipts from football were $54,092 for 1912, while the expenses were $23,742. Basket ball cost $2,297 and the receipts were $2,327. Baseball receipts were $8,092 and expenses $10,119. Track cost $12,006, with receipts of $7,350. The report showed a deficit of $5,485.

The expenses included interest on bonds, office and general expenses as well as donations to many sports for which no admission fees are charged. The net receipts from all sources were $32,234 and the expenses $1,100,733.

PLAYER'S ARM BROKEN. ITHACA, N. Y., Dec. 11.—William Howard Fritz, the Cornell football star who won honors in the Pennsylvania game Thanksgiving day, broke his arm during the contest when in the second period he collided with Minds of Pennsylvania. He was conscious of a slight bruise in the right forearm, but paid no attention to it until to-day, when a swelling was noticed and he consulted Cornell's athletic physician, who found by X-ray examination that Fritz had fractured his arm.

Chicago Not After Game With Harvard

CHICAGO, Dec. 11.—The University of Chicago, through its board of physical culture and athletics, last night declined to meet Harvard in a football game next fall. The board in a statement issued after meeting, expressed appreciation at the invitation for a game at Cambridge, but decided that it was not advisable to schedule games with teams outside the "Big Nine."

The decision is in line with the spirit of the conference as informally expressed here at the faculty meeting last week, when scheduling of inter-sectional games was declared not desirable.

Flagman Crushed to Death Between Cars

CARTERSVILLE, Dec. 11.—W. P. Mayes, of Toccoa, a flagman on the Seaboard Air Line, was killed here while switching. He fell between the cars and his body below his waist was ground to pieces.

Mayes was 21 years old and unmarried. His body was sent to Toccoa for interment.

Mandot Gets Shade Over Pat Drouillard

DETROIT, Dec. 11.—Patsy Drouillard, of Windsor, gave Joe Mandot of New Orleans, an eight-round test before the Windsor A. C. last night, and lost only by a shade. Mandot landed the greater number of blows, but they did not carry the force that Drouillard's did. The contest was an even thing for the first five rounds Joe had the better of the sixth and seventh, but the eighth was even.

McAllister Outpoints Donovan in Gotham

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Bob McAllister, the California middleweight, made his first appearance in the East here last night in a ten-round bout with Young Mike Donovan, of this city, and cleverly outpointed the local boxer thoroughout. McAllister weighed in at 159 pounds, Donovan at 155.

Sentence as 'Tiger' Is Fought by Pastor

CALHOUN, Dec. 11.—When the Rev. J. W. C. West, who was convicted and sentenced by the Gordon County Superior Court as a "blind tiger," failed to report to Sheriff Land to begin his sentence of fifteen days in jail, it was thought he was endeavoring to escape.

Big Still is Raided And Beer Destroyed

SPARTANBURG, S. C., Dec. 11.—Revenue officers of Cherokee County made a raid on an illicit distillery and captured one of the largest stills ever seen in that section. The operators had flown and no arrests were made, but the apparatus was still warm and other evidence was apparent that a run had just been made.

About 1,000 gallons of beer was seized and destroyed by the officers.

MURPHY IS NOW DICKERING FOR JOSEPH TINKER

Chicago Magnate Returns From Abroad and at Once Goes Into Conference With Herrmann.

By Frank G. Menke.
NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—The glittering presence of C. Waitecoast Murphy, owner of the Chicago Cubs, and a brisk resumption of the business of Tinker-ling were features of such import around the Waldorf-Astoria to-day that they practically overshadowed the fact that the league magnates met with John K. Tener, their new president, and discussed ways and means of bringing the National League back from the state of chaos into which it skidded some years ago.

Murphy, freshly returned from Paris and other European watering places, brought with him a chubby smile, a pair of gorgeous spats, some of the most beautiful neckties ever seen outside of a museum, and a trunk full of spats that are beyond the description of words.

Murphy Trails Herrmann.
Also, C. Waitecoast toted along a keen desire to acquire Mr. Joseph Tinker, late of the Cubs and still later manager of the Cincinnati Reds. During the morning Murphy trailed Garry Herrmann, owner of Tinker to the Herrmann fair, and told Mr. Herrmann that he desired Tinker at any cost. In the meantime each of the other managers, failing to gain entry to Herrmann's room because of Murphy's presence there, and fearing that C. Waitecoast might hypnotize Garry into turning Tinker back to the Cubs, telephoned to Herrmann's room or sent Garry notes telling him "It will be to your advantage to see me before you close any deals concerning Tinker."

Dodgers Offer $30,000.
The Brooklyn club owners determined to get Tinker if it cost them their bank roll. An offer of $30,000 was made by the Dodgers to Tinker—a large lot of money for one human being—but Herrmann blandly answered that "I'll have to think this over."

When Herrmann landed here Sunday he said $20,000 would buy Tinker. About six magnates wanted him, but the six magnates at once loudly declared that $20,000 was too much, and then immediately afterward each of them slipped up to Garry's boudoir and told him they would pay him his price.

The first arrival was the Brooklyn representative, Garry, it is said, was on the point of closing the deal at $20,000 when the door opened on his door. Another magnate appeared. He, too, was willing to pay $20,000. Soon another magnate arrived—with a desire to pay $20,000.

Garry Raises Price.
And then, of a sudden, Garry became quite coy about selling Tinker at $20,000. And quite as suddenly he decided that $20,000 was a bit too low. Even a $25,000 offer, made by President Ebbets, of the Brooklyn Dodgers, was spurned. The $30,000 bid made by the Dodgers to-day is the record offer for a ball player. It is not likely that anyone will outbid it, but Garry has assumed an air of reluctance about disposing of Tinker for such a paltry sum, perhaps in the hope that somebody will boost it to about $35,000—which would be about $5,000 more than Herrmann ever expected to get for Tinker.

Large gobs of trade talk floated around the Waldorf-Astoria lobbies all day, but no trades of any importance were made during the early hours. It seemed that all the assembled managers and magnates wanted from one to four players each, mostly pitchers, but they were offering only cash, and the moguls who had players they wanted to rid themselves of did not want cash—they wanted players in return.

The New York-St. Louis Nationals deal involving "Big Ed" Konetchy, the first baseman, still is hanging fire, but may go through within the next 48 hours if the Giants will throw in a little cash in addition to First Baseman Merkle and Infielder Herzog in exchange for Konetchy.

Federal League May Invade Gay Gotham

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—The Federal League, it was learned, contemplates putting a club in Greater New York, if possible. Edward Hanlon and Judge Henry Goldman, who are promoting the Baltimore Federal League club, are at the Hotel Imperial in the interests of the so-called outlaw circuit.

"There is room in this city for another major league club," said Hanlon, "but I will not say one will be placed here. The Federal League is going right ahead with new clubs in Baltimore and Buffalo. When we have held a few more meetings we will make public the names of players, both known and unknown, who will provide good baseball next season."

M'ALLIFFE TO TOUR EUROPE.
NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Jack McAlliff, undefeated and retired lightweight champion, sails Saturday for Europe for a six weeks' exhibition tour. As McAlliff has a unique reputation in the boxing world, he is assured of enthusiastic receptions in the cities he expects to visit. He will begin his tour in London, December 22, and will then visit France and Germany. At each place where he exhibits, some well-known local boxer will go on with him in a sparring bout.

Blinky Ben Talks on Uplift of Boxing Game Here Is Correct Dope on This Vital Question

By H. M. Walker.
"Gaze into my hazel brown eyes and you will see what the fiction tappers refer to as a look of grim determination." Blinky Ben had removed his hat and coat. He sat with several sheets of copy paper clutched in his hands. Zigzag streaks, scratched in blue lead above and behind his right ear, afforded evidence that the old man had been struggling through a siege of what he was wont to term "the throes of composition."
"I will be with you for some few minutes to come," continued, "and you will please be so kind as to bear with me an' weigh well what I would have spread befo' the clamorin' public."
The Uplift Question.
"I have bin a-thinkin' deeply fo' the past half hour, a-knowin' full well that such a proceedin' w'd eventually disqualify me as bein' a sport writer. But I'm a-gonna tell you some things that you wouldn't find out yourself between now an' the time you harvest the first poppy crop in the Yukon."
"How to help the boxin' game. This be the subject of my lay this mornin'." Every sport writer from Bill Naughton out to the small fry kids jes' outta college takes a weekly fling at this thing. "Some of you shew well, but you never get the range. Hearken to your Uncle Blinky."
"To strengthen a thing you must splice up the weak strands an' polish the strong links by way of decoration. Exactly! Now, that's what I propose to do w' my subject."
"Abolish the heavyweight division fo' a period of five years."
"Can you see you all a-grabbin' your hammers. But I'm ready fo' you."
"Of What Use Are They?"
"Answer me, O' what use or credit are the heavies o'-to-day? They can not box, they carry the heart of a rabbit in their shirt fronts, an' they are not good drivin' carriages. Why, then, continue w' a class that be a detriment to the game?"
"I call upon the promoters to disregard the heavyweights fo' five years. At the end of that if each man as Willard, Morris, Rodei, Paikay an' Smith w' have learned trades an' settled down to a happy existence with one boiled dinner a week an' party on a Sunday."
"Look at that Willard-Morris affair in New York. Willard looked like a scared calf, staggered aroun' the ring like a honest washerwoman w' a pay day soused under her kimono, an' gave a display o' scientific boxin' as wadda bin a credit to a young fella-fish."
Morris Was Worse.
"An' as bad as was Willard, the other fellow wuz worse. They say as how Morris acted as full of life as a broken-down truck horse on his way to the glue vat. He looks Carl Remsembled in Japanese woodcut that had just eaten an extra bale o' hay."
"An' it wuz the 'National Boxin' Commission' as staged this show. Here is a bunch o' New Yorkers who imagine that they be the smartest set o' men this side of Wilson's Cabinet. In truth, they be the biggest bunch o' boobies at large. These be the 'board' that wanted to reach out an' control the boxin' game in San Francisco, Sydney and Los Angeles. An' month after month they go along a-goin' the Broadway crowd's marches that would make a Wapakopeta hick lose his toothpick from the excessive laughter."
"Sin the 'National Boxing Commission' the recall, an' close down the heavies fo' a few years an' you will have made a start."
"Out With the Middle."
"Last month I counted fo' different middleweight matches that were to fo' the world's championship! Here's another chance fo' the promoters to look the other way. Let the middles go to seed until we lose the Klaus-McGoorty-Clabby vote. They ain't much to look at. Any if they go into the ring the boxin' game gets a black eye."
"An' stop a-callin' Packey McFarlane a smart guy because he grabs boys as weigh ten pounds less than he an' kicks 'em all over the bush league rings. Packey is the real welterweight champion of the universe. Match him with Mike Gibbons or don't match him at all."
"Johnnie Coulon is another fine little article as deserves the can. He takes the bantamweight title into the Wisconsin woods fo' five months at a stretch, a-comin' out once or twice a year to box Earl Denning or George Kison. Make him fight Johnnie Williams fo' the title or get outta the game."
Give Good Boys Matches.
"These be the chicks as need plaster. The strong birds to be encouraged to keep on a-singin' are the lightweights, the 128-pound class, the featherers and bantams."
"The lightweights are takin' good care o' themselves. Nine outta every ten lightweight cards give satisfaction."
"In the 128 crowd w' have Dundee, White and several other good boys that should be used as often as matches can be struck. Boost a return match between Kilbane and Atlett and keep a-usin' 112-pounders in the preliminaries in hopes o' developin' championship material."
"The bantams, Williams, Campi and Ledoux, are too good to be kept on the waitin' list. G' em plenty o' work an' the game w' be bettered."
"Them be my ideas. Take 'em or leave 'em. You can't hurt my feelin's. I know I'm right. Wuz it Tom Sharkey as said, 'D' rather be right than champion?'
"Not to change the subject, but I'm gettin' tired o' hearin' every punk comedian that hits town tryin' to get a laf by referin' to the Union Depot. This thing is about as funny as a child in tears."
"Be good to yourself!"

B. SMITH SIGNS FOUR NEW MEN AT BIG MEETING

A TELEGRAM from Bill Smith announces the acquisition of four ball players as the result of Bill's expedition to New York for the National League meeting. These are the new Crackers: Schwind, a third baseman and shortstop, acquired from the Boston Nationals, and as yet a young man of much ability and promise. Doescher, a pitcher, from Jersey City, also a youngster, who pleases Bill immensely, and on whom Bill has been looking with some covetousness for months. The Wate brothers, one a catcher and the other an infielder. Long Branch players, recommended by no less an authority than Mike Dolin. The usual lack of visibility on Bill's part has restrained him from making correspondence concerning his adventures in the East, but he appears to be thoroughly satisfied with his trades.

Bat's Wooing Doesn't Suit Fay; Divorce

PORTLAND, OREG., Dec. 11.—Bat Nelson's "dream of love is over." In a short time he will apply for a divorce from his wife, Fay King Nelson, daughter of Jack King, athletic trainer of Portland. Mrs. Nelson arrived here to-day and announced that it was off "for good and always" with Bat.
"The famous ex-lightweight champion is a fine boy," said Mrs. Nelson, "but he wooses like he fights with a jagged persistency that distracts. It was a mismatch," continued the penniless bride. She also announced she will not have any of Bat's money or jewels.

Well, They DO Catch Big Fish in Florida

CHICAGO, Dec. 11.—A fish captured at Miami, Fla., by Charles H. Thompson was so large that when the tall man was in the doorway of a store, the head extended over the street car tracks.
The routing of a street car line was changed. The fish could not be taken indoors.

'WILDCAT' FERNS KNOCKED OUT BY MIKE GIBBONS

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 11.—Mike Gibbons, St. Paul phantom, gave a demonstration of his real boxing ability here last night and as a result "Wildcat" Ferns, the Kansas city brawler, was knocked out in just little more than one round of fighting. The ending came just after the second round had started.
In this brief time Gibbons gave a beautiful exhibition of boxing blocking and old-fashioned in and out work, and then, as though just to show that he can fight as well as box, he feinted Ferns into a lead with a left and shot a right to the point of the jaw, which put Ferns down for the first of four knockdowns. The first three upsets lasted nine seconds each. The last brought Referee Dick Burke to Ferns' rescue.
Burke gave the signal for a cessation of hostilities and then raised Gibbons' hand in token of victory. They led Ferns to a seat in his corner. He was in bad shape.

PROBERS PRAISE ASSOCIATED CHARITIES

Chamber of Commerce Committee Finds Complaints Are Groundless.

Officers of the Atlanta Associated Charities discussed with gratification Thursday the thoroughgoing endorsement of their work by the special committee of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce.

The committee, named as the result of several minor complaints in respect to the Associated Charities' methods, found the complaints to be groundless and discovered so much to commend that they reported at length on the good work of the organization, and urged that contributions for charity be given to the Associated Charities in preference to any similar body, because of the certainty that it would be judiciously expended.

Only two criticisms were offered, one was that the organization probably erred in being too painstaking in the keeping of some of its records.

Changes Recommended. It was recommended that certain of the records in respect to treatment of cases be less voluminous. In this way it was thought clerical expenses would be minimized.

Another recommendation was made that the records of disbursements of funds to individuals be made more complete by obtaining a receipt from the recipient.

Referring to the work of the Associated Charities, the report says: "It is our opinion that the best work being done is along the lines of treatment and prevention of diseases among the poor. The association divides this work into two phases. First, the treatment of diseases in the individual family; second, undertaking to increase and improve the general facilities for treating and preventing diseases and sickness in a community, especially in relation to the poor."

In regard to the first phase, the association endeavors always to see

SLAYER SCHMIDT SPURNS AGED FATHER

Morbid Women Storm New York Courtroom and Battle Guard, but Are Rejected.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Women stormed the court of Judge Foster today in an attempt to attend the trial of Hans Schmidt, the renegade priest accused of murdering Anna Amuller, and precipitated a near-riot.

When the trial began Judge Foster barred the morbid and curious from his room, but more than 100 women appeared to-day and stormed the door in a body. They were ordered away by the bailiff on guard at the door and then they "rushed" him.

Several got by the guard, but other court attendants rushed to his aid and they were driven out. When they were ejected several of the women became hysterical and had to be led from the building.

Schmidt's aged father was spurned by the defendant to-day. The older man, who came from Germany with his daughter to aid his son, wept when he was told that Schmidt would not see him.

"I will see my sister, but I don't want to see my father," said the prisoner. "Why should I see my father? I don't care anything about him."

Later he changed his mind and the father and sister went to Schmidt's cell together. The old man threw his arms about his son's neck, and in some declared his belief in the prisoner's innocence.

The sister also wept and begged her brother to assure her he was innocent, but he refused to answer.

Simply Business' Explains Success Of 'Fine Feathers'

If there is one thing that, outside of its all-star cast, explains the enormous success of "Fine Feathers," the same being a play without a hero, and with no so-called sex problems, it must be what Wilton Lackaye says.

"Simply business. Business is the dominant thing in this country. Business is a sort of gigantic romance of America. And so far as the relations of men and women are concerned, business in America is comparatively clean."

The evening performance of "Fine Feathers" at the Atlanta Theater Thursday night is to be witnessed by an extraordinarily large audience. Besides Mr. Lackaye, Robert Edeson, Max Figman, Rose Coghlan and Lolita Robertson are to appear in the star roles.

Among the recent new members are John Y. Smith, Sam Boorstein and Pink Cherry. The Moose expect to be installed in their new hall in the Silvey Building by January 1.

WAGON KILLS BOY; DRIVER MENAGED

HARTWELL, Dec. 11.—The five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. King was killed yesterday by a loaded wagon driven by Will Jones, a negro employee from L. L. Mouchet's farm.

The child was swinging on the wagon when he fell, the wheels passing over the body, breaking the back and neck. A lynching was narrowly averted, enraged citizens claiming that the negro knocked the boy off the wagon. Only some small children playing in the street saw the accident.

Jones was arrested and lodged in jail by Sheriff Johnson, pending the issuance of a warrant and to protect him from mob violence.

Richardson explained that he had known the young woman for some time, but that he had had nothing to do with her coming to Atlanta. RIDLEY & JAMES. ATLANTA - GEORGIA. AUDITORS - INTERESTS

COMING BACK TO ATLANTA FOR SERVICE

By JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES

It is something far more than a pleasure to come back to The Georgian as the personal representative of Mr. Hearst himself.

First, in the return to a paper of which I was one of the founders, and to a people among whom I was reared, and with whom my work of so many years was always a matter of personal loyalty and love.

And second, in the fact that the power and liberality of Mr. Hearst enable me to come back to Atlanta equipped for a general and comprehensive service for the City, the State and the South, far greater than any I might have attained if I had remained at home, and greater even than I had ever dreamed of having if my largest dreams of local success had been realized.

I can not better illustrate what this means than by printing here Mr. Hearst's letter which commissions me.

My Dear Mr. Graves:

Will you please go to Atlanta as my personal representative? I want The Atlanta Georgian thoroughly to represent Atlanta and the South and Southern interests in its columns, and I want my system of publications generally to be of distinct service to Atlanta and the South and to Southern interests. I intend to spend as much of my time as I can in Atlanta, in order to see that these two things are accomplished, but I can not be there all the time, and I would like some one like yourself, who is thoroughly familiar with the Southern situation, to represent me there in my absence, and indeed to help me when I am there, in order that The Atlanta Georgian particularly, and my string of papers generally, may carry out these objects.

We have put The Atlanta Georgian ahead of all its neighboring papers in circulation, and of course we are not going to stop with the circulation we have, but will press on and try to double it at least. The Georgian will, therefore, with your editorial guidance, be able to cover its territory thoroughly, and give adequate local expression to the Southern interests, and to the aims and ambitions of the city of Atlanta.

But, as I have said, I want to do more than this. The other Atlanta papers can do this, to a certain extent, in proportion to their circulation and enterprise, but I think we have, with our large number of newspapers and weekly publications and monthly magazines, an opportunity to do more than any local paper, or than all local papers could possibly do. We can appeal to millions of readers in other sections than the South. We can tell them what the South wants to tell them. We can influence them to regard certain activities and interests in the South as the South wants these things regarded. We can arouse them to co-operation and support of movements and ideas where the South needs co-operation. In other words, we can not only secure the united support of our family of readers in the South for Southern projects, but we can secure the support of our greater family of readers in other sections of the country, and unite them all for the benefit of any commendable object in any section.

We were already able to be of some service in helping to secure the Shriners' Convention at Atlanta, but that is a small thing compared with what we can do if our forces are intelligently directed, and with your knowledge of Southern conditions and the immediate contact with them that your visits to Atlanta will secure, I am sure this intelligent direction will be supplied by you.

It is for these reasons that I am sending you to Atlanta as my personal representative, and I bespeak for you the hearty and harmonious co-operation of the editorial departments and the business departments of The Atlanta Georgian.

Very sincerely,
W. R. HEARST.

Mr. Hearst has a series of eleven daily newspapers, stretching across the continent from Boston, through New York, Chicago, Atlanta, and San Francisco to Los Angeles. Two and a half million of these newspapers sold every day make between ten and twelve million daily readers of the Hearst newspapers—nearly one-eighth of the population of the United States.

Mr. Hearst owns five magazines in this country, and two in London, with an aggregate circulation of nearly two million more.

These publications make up a great chain whose strength is in, not its weakest, but its strongest link. They all stand together, and under the Hearst policy they all stand as a phalanx for whatever essential general interest may be at stake in any city in which one of them is published.

Thus when San Francisco desired the Panama Exposition and made magnificent financial sacrifices to help herself, Mr. Hearst summoned the most powerful and influential friends that his newspapers had made in Boston, in New York, in Chicago, in Atlanta, and in Los Angeles, and marshaled them in united rank to fight for San Francisco in Washington. San Francisco will tell you that it was the Hearst newspapers that turned the scale and won her the Panama Exposition.

San Francisco has just emerged, victorious from a tremendous fight against vast corporate interests, and honest, but mistaken romanticists, for a water supply from the Hetch-Hetchy Valley. Mr. Hearst again marshaled his influences from every section of the country, published a 16-page Special Edition of the San Francisco Examiner in the city of Washington, and to-day city officials of San Francisco are thanking the Hearst newspapers for the assurance of the finest water supply in the world.

The Atlanta Shriners desired to entertain in 1914 the Imperial Council of the Shrine, the most splendid, spectacular and lavish spenders among American Assemblies. Forrest Adair wrote me of Yaarab's ambition, and under Mr. Hearst's direction our friends in all sections became busy—in the East, the North, the Middle States, the Northwestern States, and the Far West—and Forrest Adair will tell you that they were the greatest influence that helped Atlanta capture the Imperial Council of the Shrine.

Atlanta now wishes one of the Regional Banks. Her argument for it is irresistible, but it needs publicity to reach the national public opinion that would justify Atlanta's selection. Robert F. Maddox went to Washington representing the Atlanta Banks. Two days after his arrival three columns in the New York American and in all the Hearst newspapers carried to more than ten million people Atlanta's unanswerable claim for one of the Regional Banks which will fix this city as the financial center of the South.

Surely it is worth any growing and ambitious city's while to have one of the Hearst newspapers published in its midst. For surely no such power of national publicity is held in any other publications in the world. Surely business men, merchants, manufacturers and citizens can afford to hold up in every moral and material way the hands of an institution which carries so vast a power to help in our great rational and general needs.

All this power of unequalled publicity is at the service of Atlanta and Georgia and the South in any vital question that presents itself. All this power I am empowered by Mr. Hearst's commission to wield, working in full and cordial harmony with Mr. Keats Speed, the Managing Editor and Mr. Hugh Murray, the Business Manager, and the splendid staff of young men who are making The Georgian and Hearst's Sunday American.

Surely no happier and nobler commission was ever committed to a Georgian. I appreciate the opportunity and the responsibility. And I invoke the sympathy and co-operation of my Southern friends while I faithfully endeavor to meet it.

Youth and Enthusiasm Are Fighting for Oglethorpe

The magnificent thing about this Oglethorpe University movement is the way in which it enlists the splendid enthusiasm of the young men of Atlanta.

The daily meetings of the Campaign Committee of the Oglethorpe founders is a flood of earnest and vigorous youth, marching in the fore front of a solid rank of older citizens who back the movement with their judgment and largely with their money.

It is easy to understand why those who are to live in the Atlanta and Georgia of the future should be filled with enthusiasm for what the Griffin News so wisely termed "THE MOST IMPORTANT EDUCATIONAL ENTERPRISE EVER ATTEMPTED IN THE SOUTHERN STATES."

Atlanta is the South's metropolis; its leader of thought and commerce; it is the financial center, the insurance center, the railroad center of the entire South.

As Mr. William Randolph Hearst said yesterday, in making a donation of $5,000 to the Oglethorpe University fund, "FOR A LONG TIME THE SOUTH LED ALL AMERICA IN THE FAME AND EXCELLENCE OF ITS UNIVERSITIES. THERE IS NOW NO REASON WHY IT SHOULD NOT DO SO AGAIN, AND THERE IS EVERY REASON WHY ATLANTA SHOULD BE IN THE FRONT RANK OF THE ADVANCING COLUMNS OF EDUCATIONAL AND HUMAN PROGRESS."

This strikes the keynote of the movement for a great central university in Atlanta. With our center and suburbs radiant with female colleges, and with our unsurpassed Technological School on the flank, Atlanta lacks the one great central University around which its culture, its learning and its development of youth may gather.

In all the list of things to be desired there is no one thing so essential as this University. Atlanta needs it more than she needs anything else—more, in fact, than she needs all things else at this time.

And this would not be Atlanta if she fails to win by liberality and enterprise that which is her especial need. The outlook of this great institution is inspiring. Mr. Hearst's donation of yesterday reaches the movement at a psychological moment, reinvigorating its ranks and making success certain.

When Atlanta raises her $250,000, and with the $250,000 waiting on the outside, this half-million dollars will give us the magnificent foundation on which we shall ask and certainly receive the co-operation of the vast wealth and power of the Presbyterian clientele in New York and the East.

God and the American people help those who help themselves, and when the people of Atlanta make clear to the people of the country that they are generously and heroically helping themselves, we need not fear that the wealth and the educational enthusiasm of the great financial centers will respond royally to this great educational movement in the South.

If Atlanta does her part, as she certainly will—and do it soon—we shall have in Atlanta before the year is over the equipment for the greatest educational institution south of the Potomac and east of the Mississippi Rivers.

The opportunity is inspiring. The end is magnificent. Surely the Atlanta spirit will rise to both the opportunity and the end in view.

That $95,000 should be raised before Saturday night.

The Fate of Crassus

By REV. THOMAS B. GREGORY.

ON December 9, 53 B. C., in what is now Asiatic Turkey, was fought one of the decisive battles of history. At Carrhae the Parthians killed a Roman pro-consul, annihilated a Roman army and precipitated the rivalry between the two Roman citizens which was to end in the overthrow of the republic and the establishment of the empire.

And all this was brought about by a lot of semi-barbarous nomads, who, as the Romans thought, had no military ability whatever and were not even worthy of serious consideration.

Crassus, who, with Caesar and Pompey, formed the "first triumvirate," being ambitious of renown and desirous of increasing his store of worldly goods, set out with an army of 50,000 men to conquer the Parthians. He thought the job would be an easy one. The legions were invincible, and while they had never as yet met the Scythians of the Desert, no fear was felt as to the outcome of the expedition.

Striking boldly into the desert, Crassus came up with the enemy a little to the eastward of the Euphrates and there began at once one of the most remarkable fight of history. The Parthian force, composed entirely of cavalry, formed about the Romans in a circle, which was slowly drawn tighter and tighter as the struggle wore on. Riding close up to the legionaries, the Parthians would rain their deadly arrows upon them and then suddenly ride away. The Romans charged with splendid courage, but they might as well have charged the wind or the flying clouds of heaven. Closer and closer drew the death circle and thinner and thinner grew the legions. On the one side there was no surrender and on the other no mercy. Slowly but remorselessly the work of destruction went on and presently Crassus was dead and his army annihilated.

The "Parthian arrow" did its work well, and the ghost of the dead army, flitting back to Rome, made the Masters of the World shiver to the very marrow in their bones. That ghost was doubly significant. It meant that Crassus' army was dead and that the great republic was ready for the shroud; for, just as the Parthians had crushed Crassus, the great Julius was about to crush Pompey and establish the imperial rule.

What a Boy Should Aim For

By EDWIN MARKHAM.

WILLIAM DE WITT HYDE, President of Bowdoin College, in a book sent out by T. Y. Crowell called "The Quest of the Best," gives one of the wisest of recent studies on the training of boys. I commend it to homes, schools and clubs. Here is one of its summaries:

"If we put together the separate features of the boy who is enlisted in the Quest of the Best, the portrait will be something like this:

"He keeps himself clean and neat out of regard for others but on occasion is ready to get as dirty as work or play may require.

"He eats heartily, but only such and so much food as will keep him in most effective working and playing condition.

"He foregoes liquor and tobacco whenever they would mean either deterioration for himself, or destruction of those weaker than he.

"He takes all the amusement and fun he can get without annoyance or degradation of others, or enervation of himself.

"He works with an eye to his employer's interest as well as his own, but not when he can help it to the point of dullness or chronic fatigue.

"He spends freely for what he enjoys, and saves for a rainy day; yet holds all his spending and saving subject to the claim of persons and causes more needy or worthy than he.

"He stoutly and bravely defends with all there is in him whatever he stands for; yet would rather be called a coward than do a foolish or foolhardy thing to avoid it.

"He looks out shrewdly for himself; yet just as shrewdly for his customer, creditor, employer or employee.

"He tells the truth in kindness to all who have a right to hear it.

"He makes the future as real as the present, and treats present and future, both for self and for others, as one.

"He is orderly for the most part, and disorderly on special occasions, as the pleasure and convenience of all concerned may require.

"He talks frankly about unpleasant facts when necessary; but keeps silent about them when talk would serve no good social purpose.

"He is polite with an inner politeness born of a desire to give pleasure rather than pain.

"He has at heart the welfare of all with whom he associates; living at peace with them so far as he can; and fighting fairly when peace can not be honorably maintained.

"He is loyal to his group and his friends when he can be loyal to them without being false to himself.

"He thinks little of his attainments, but much of his aims; deriving humility from the former and self-respect from the latter.

"He treats in thought, word and deed all women and girls as he would wish others to treat his own mother or sister.

"He is as kind and helpful to those who wrong him as he can be without being misunderstood, and ready to forgive them the instant they repent.

"He devotes himself to his friends and companions as so many extensions of himself; and takes as much delight in their happiness and success as in his own.

"He regards himself as a member and servant of the one social whole, and holds the social claim above individual inclination whenever the two conflict.

"Not that any boy, or man for that matter, attains this comprehensive Best; but that he who is enlisted in the Quest of the Best deliberately accepts nothing lower or less."

Questions Answered

THE GAELIC TONGUE.

F. W. M.—The Gaelic language was once spoken by a considerable number of the human race in the British Isles, the Isle of Man, Northern France and Spain. There is evidence that the Gaelic branch of the Celtic breed was widespread. For instance, it is maintained by some excellent authorities that the Cimbric, who threatened at one time to overwhelm Rome, and who were stopped by Marius, were of Gaelic speech. The ancient language is found to-day in the Isle of Man, Wales, the Highlands of Scotland, Western Ireland and in Brittany, Northern France.

DAVID LIVINGSTONE.

P. C. T.—You are wrong in your claim that the ashes of the great explorer rest in the "wilds of Africa." From the spot where he died, near "Chitambos Village," on the Malilano Livingstone's body was, in 1874, taken to England and deposited with high honors in Westminster Abbey, the Government bearing all the expense of the elaborate funeral. Livingstone will always rank among the most illustrious of the African explorers. He was a real pathfinder and civilization as well as a most devoted Christian and philanthropist. Upon his lasting fame there seems to be not a single blot.
