Francis Burton Harrison is Playing Politics With Nation, Charges Ex-President.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—Students of Philippine conditions are today discussing the remarkable denunciation of the present administration of the affairs of the archipelago by Francis Burton Harrison, President Wilson's former Governor of the islands.

It was by the far the most vigorous address that Mr. Taft has made since leaving the White House. He is so evident that the Philippine are far from being prepared for self-government.

Premises Are Vague.

He also charged the administration with endeavoring to save the natives with vague promises of independence, which he asserted, it was evident that the Philippines are far from being prepared for self-government.

Mr. Taft said, in part:

Are we to let these islands go and turn them over to an oligarchy of officials and attractive capitalists who really believe in agriculture and have no sympathy for the natives? Or are we to give them to them, with all the machinery of civil and individual liberty and certainly no capacity to govern them?

Mr. Taft said, in part:

There's old Peter the Hermit, the head of the house, his adopted daughter, Elizabeth Harshard, so-called because she is possessed of the spirit of philanthropy, his cousin young Henry Hooper, who spends most of his time galivanting about the pool and flirting with Emmeline, and old Peter's nephew, little Johnny Terrahill, who is a lineal descendant of old Adam Harmond Clark.

A movement for an "Atlanta Products Day" on the third Wednesday of next January has been launched by the Atlanta Equal Suffrage Association. This committee is composed of Miss Katherine Koch, chairman; Miss Ada Hall, Mrs. Albert E. Greenman, Mrs. May Kline and Leonard J. Grossman.

The form that the celebration of the day will take has not been decided. It is probable that an exhibit will be held in a downtown hall and that the people of the city will be called upon to use nothing but Atlanta products on that day.

Moses His Pal, Old Man Alligator, but Gains New Frolicsome Companions.

It was mighty lonesome in the alligator pond at Grant Park after Keeper Edward Boyd dragged the Old Man Peter Alligator and his family out and put them in their winter quarters. The water was drained out of the pond, and the only things left in the enclosure were a patch of the stockyard mud in the world and four members of the House of Turtle. And they form a highly interesting family.

There's old Peter the Hermit, the head of the house, his adopted daughter, Elizabeth Harshard, so-called because she is possessed of the spirit of philanthropy, his cousin young Henry Hooper, who spends most of his time galivanting about the pool and flirting with Emmeline, and old Peter's nephew, little Johnny Terrahill, who is a lineal descendant of old Adam Harmond Clark.

Old Peter the Hermit felt the pangs of loneliness more than any of the rest of the family, because they had large social obligations that consumed much of their time, while Peter was pretty much of a recluse and had a profound contempt for the social set of Alligator Pond.

Swapped Thrilling Yarns.

Old Peter never had had one pal, and that was Old Man Peter Alligator. The two old patriarchs of the pond used to cuddle up alongside one another and for stories of the Mississippi River beyond Peter the Hermit would swap yarns of his voyage along the Atlantic Coast years and years before Queen Isabella visited under Isaac and the large and turkey took invaded the land. So when Old Man Peter left the pond of Peter the Hermit was torn with anguish.

But that was yesterday.

Today old Peter has a new interest in life. He has done a lot of thinking in the 100 years that have elapsed since his pal was taken from him, and he decided to get a new pal, pending the release of the big alligator.

GUNS USED TO AVOID STOCKADE BATTLE

Wagon Driver Is Desperately Wounded After Early Morning Encounter With Foreman.

After a fight in front of the city stockade shortly before 8 o'clock Thursday morning, in which J. M. Letwith received injuries from which he is expected to die, the stockade prisoners threatened to lynch Ulysses E. Jackson and avenge the injuries of Letwith.

"Cries of 'Lynch him,' 'Kill him' and similar ejaculations caused Jackson to flee from the scene of the trouble.

A number of guards and wagon drivers pursued him and the late arrival of the police probably saved Jackson from violence. The prisoners were kept in the wagons only by the armed guards.

Letwith is 69 years old and lives at No. 118 Roberts street. He is a stockade wagon driver. Jackson is a foreman of a pipe squad in the city work department. Letwith was taken to Grady Hospital, where it is said he has little chance for recovery. He has a fractured skull.

An old grudge is said to have caused the trouble.

The fight, the start of which is told in several conflicting ways, was fought in front of the stockade. The prisoners were in the wagon preparing to start to work.

The first thing that attracted the attention of the guards and caused a scuffle was a scream from Letwith as he clutched with his younger opponent, Jackson, with heavy iron bars, head, bent down the old man, was told unconscious.

Letwith's claim to be released that they might lynch Jackson. Jackson ran toward an embarkment and leaped down, with several drivers of guards at his heels. He ran right into Pullman's office, where turned him over to T. B. Lanford, superintendent of the stockade. Letwith was taken to headquarters to await the outcome of his victim's condition.

Jackman, to The Georgian, told the story of the fight.

"I was working Letwith in my wagon and I made reports on my report and I got intoxicated while working and tried to get me discharged. I had him transferred to another squad. This morning I needed another driver and John Alexander, the foreman, said I could have Letwith."

"I said I didn't want him and Letwith came up and asked me about it. Then he hit me with a rock which he held in his hand. I grabbed a rope and using it the same way he did struck him twice in the head with 'Jackman' is 35 years old and lives at 142 Bowers.

WHY IS QUEL CONVICTS' REVOLT Scent Flot in "Miss Lea" Wedding Mystery

SISTERS OF NEWMAN PURSUE FAIR

Search for Newlyweds Futile.
"Husband" Admits He Gave
Police Wrong Name.

A new and sensational turn in the tale following the marriage in Atlanta of Charles D. Newman, wealthy business man, and a woman who posed as "Miss Marjorie Lea, sister of the late Senator John Lea," came Thursday morning in the announcement that sisters of Newman are pursuing the couple, and that the police were attempting to separate them and induce him to flee with her to the West. Newman's wife, as well as they, got on the trail, started in pursuit from Chattanooga.

The whereabouts of the couple still remains unknown. Relatives of Newman have told Memphis police that he went far into Texas after being advised that he was duped. A search throughout practically every city of the South has been instituted to find the pair. Investigators will pay special attention to Atlanta, where Newman brought the woman for the marriage ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. H. M. DuBoise, of the First Methodist Church. Henceforth the confessed husband of the woman is under surveillance by Memphis police. Although he had given his name as Fair, he admitted on Thursday that he did so to shield his identity and protect his relatives. Fair said not produce documents to verify his marriage to the woman.

Investigation among friends of Newman in Memphis has brought out the fact that he was warned of the identity of the woman and that she was Miss Marjorie Lea.

Tom Check Freed.
Newman is said to have produced a check for $25,000, which he claimed had been given him by the woman.

"This is my confidence in her, and the faith in me," he is reported as having said. "She has offered me money. I refused to take it and with Newman I decided to have them check into bits and throw them away."

Late Wednesday night Newman is said to have communicated with a Memphis friend from Edwards, Miss. He was going to Chattanooga, where he will be seen, a Mrs. Wheeland, investigators were dispatched there Tuesday to find him.

It is understood, has called the aid of the Memphis police department in the search for his wife and assets of Fair are expected in Atlanta Thursday or Friday to take the search at this end. Atlanta news, however, are very meager, and Newman is expected to result from an investigation of the Memphis Hotel. He has a college friend of Newman, and he was making a delivery to the wedding was not regular. It is known that the woman's name is Lea, and that she is connected with the relationship with Senator Lea, and that she is connected with the proper legal papers.

Newman and his wife came to Atlanta Tuesday before the wedding. They were seen at the President Hotel. They were seen at the President Hotel. They were seen at the President Hotel. They were seen at the President Hotel.

Ponce DeLeon Ave. Folk Are Aroused By Residence Fire

The fashionable district of Ponce DeLeon avenue was aroused by the clang of fire department apparatus Thursday morning when flames were discovered in the basement of the home of Mrs. Alice W. Myrnat at No. 129.

The blaze originated in the basement from crossed electric wires, but was extinguished by firemen before it spread.

Mrs. Myrnat and her daughter, Miss Alice, were in the house at the time. The latter was in bed on the second floor. They were warned by the smoke which filtered up from the basement. Mrs. Myrnat first ran to her daughter's bedside and assisted her to the door of the room. She then returned with friends in an endeavor to save some of the valuables. Before this work could be started, however, the firemen had controlled the blaze.

MAYOR AIDS IN PLAN FOR PAY RAISE

Committee to Increase, if Possible, All Firemen, Police and Teachers to $100.

Material increases in pay for Atlanta school teachers, policemen and firemen are promised Thursday as a result of a conference between Mayor Woodruff and the Council Salaries Committee.

Mayor Woodruff told the committee that if it were financially possible the increase should be made in all cases where the wage scale is less than $100 a month. The committee agreed to work out its recommendations on the line, adding that it would be quite possible to finance the increase.

"I don't veto the raise in the pay of policemen," said Mayor Woodruff Thursday. "I vetoed the manner in which it was done."

Chances Look Favorable.
Now the Salaries Committee has taken up the matter in the regular way, along with the claims of the teachers and firemen for raises.

The chances look favorable for increases.

Committee C. D. Knight, Alderman John S. Canfield and Councilman S. A. Wardlaw, three members of the Salaries Committee, called at Mayor Woodruff's office Wednesday afternoon to discuss the matter. They held a long private conference.

A favorable attitude toward raising the pay of school teachers, policemen and firemen was expressed by all. Other city employees are paid as individuals rather than as a class but it was decided that some adjustments of salaries in other departments is needed. There is no standard of salaries in the other departments, bookkeepers and clerks receiving varying amounts.

Mayor Against Other Raises.
Mayor Woodruff was emphatic in his position that none of the large salaries paid by the city should be increased. Plans are on foot to increase the pay of a number of heads of departments who are favorites of Council. These matters were not seriously considered at the meeting, but likely will be brought up in an open meeting of Council.

The amounts of increases to be recommended were left open by the conference until after further investigation. The committee will study last year's budget to learn just where the city's greatest need for increases. Another meeting will be held next week.

Committee generally favor raises in pay for school teachers, policemen and firemen. Mayor Woodruff's attitude particularly assures the granting of increases. He appoints the Finance Committee and it usually is the policy of the Finance Committee to carry out whatever special program he recommends. Whatever the Finance Committee finally passes on Council is pretty sure to adopt.

It was a tender, sympathetic story she told, but it had no limitations. It told only of children of bright, happy homes, whose fathers and mothers tell them of Santa Claus, and to whom Christmas time is always a time of great happiness.

PRISONERS ATTEMPT TO LYNCH 'BOSS'

Foreman Attacks Wagon Driver and Has to Run in Order to

After a fight in front of the city stockade shortly before 8 o'clock Thursday morning, in which J. M. Letwisch received injuries from which he is expected to die, the stockade prisoners threatened to lynch Clyde Jackson and avenge the injuries of Letwisch.

Cries of "lynch him," "kill him" and similar ejaculations caused Jackson to flee from the scene of the trouble.

A number of guards and the timely arrival of the police probably saved Jackson from violence. The prisoners were kept in the wagons only by the armed guards.

An old article is said to have caused the trouble.

The cause of the start of which he had been in several conflicting ways, was a fight in front of the stockade. The prisoners were in the wagon preparing to start to work.

The first thing that attracted the attention of the guards and caused them to help down, with several clubs, was a scream from Letwisch as he was taken to Grady Hospital, where it is said he has little chance for recovery. He has a fractured skull.

Letwisch ran toward an embankment and lay flat on his back. He ran right into Policeman Charles, who turned him over to T. B. Lanford, superintendent of the stockade. Later he was taken to headquarters in a van. This was the outcome of his victim's condition.

Letwisch, to The Georgian, told the story of the fight.

"I was working Letwisch in my sound and he made remarks on me saying that I got intoxicated while working and tried to get me discharged. I had him transferred to another wagon. This morning I needed another driver and John Alexander, the foreman, said I could have Letwisch."

U. S. BANKERS IN A NARROW RUT, SAYS FORBES

Business Expert Declares European Financiers Have Much Wider Training Than Americans.

By B. C. FORBES. never talk with a European banker without being ashamed of myself, one of America's ablest and most prominent bankers said yesterday.

When asked: "European bankers know about Indian affairs, all about Africa, all about developments in America, all about conditions in Asia, all about the Orient, and all things about the United States except our own country," he replied: "I know you account for that!"

Because of their excellent system of education, he immediately recalled that these branches provide the education of young bankers in different countries. A young man may serve in one place a year or two, then he may be sent to another branch, moved to another, and so on, until finally, he has received a thorough education, not in the practical education, but in the general education of the papers that are read.

It is that we American bankers are about to lose when it falls to their credit as speed. We are taught to look to think beyond our narrow rut. We are in general provincial. In fact, we are with your European banker, no generalist.

Recently enough, it was only a few days ago that another leading bank banker, Mr. A. Harrison, remarked to me that he had a certain French bank could give more information about the money market than he could give me. When the head of the bank said that he had a certain French bank could give more information about the money market than he could give me. Often Ill Health

Can be traced directly to wrong food and drink. This cause, more than any other, creates personal discomfort--often disease.

Your doctor can confirm that coffee contains a drug, caffeine, which is the common cause of headache, biliousness, indigestion, nervousness, heart trouble, and a long train of aches and ills which bring misery to many who might otherwise be well and happy.

Anyone who values health enough to make an easy test can be free from coffee ills by changing to

TURNER CARRIES HIS FIGHT TO BROYLES

Electrician Denies He Has Won Moral Victory Over Cotton States Company.

Following the declaration of the Board of Electrical Control that Electrician R. C. Turner had no right to revoke the license of the Cotton States Electric Company because of ineffective wiring in the Hurt Building, Turner said Thursday that he would make a race against the company in Recorder Broyles' court. The board ruled that I had no right to revoke the license of the company, but it held that I was within my rights in refusing to grant the company any new permits for work until all the old work was brought up to comply with the ordinances, which is the same as I said before.

Turner said he was not prejudiced against the company, but he was determined to carry on his fight against it. He said he had secured a long session of Recorder Broyles' court on Wednesday afternoon to hear evidence in the case. It developed under the direction of Broyles that Turner, the chief engineer in charge of the work, had had most of the work done in violation of the ordinance.

PETER THE HERMITA HAPPY TURTLE; KIDDIES ENLIVEN DECLINING YEARS

Old Peter and three of his little friends

Loses His Pal, Old Man Alligator, but Gains New Frolicsome Companions.

It was a grand scene in the alligator pond at Grant Park after Keeper Edward Hood dragged Old Man, the old crocodile, out and put them in their winter quarters. The water was drained out of the pond and the only thing left in the enclosure was a patch of the stonewort mat in the world and four members of the House of Turtle. And they form a highly interesting family.

There is old Peter the Hermit, the head of the house; his adopted daughter, Emeline Hardwell, so-called because she is possessed of the spirit of millinery; his cousin, young Henry Snapper, who spends most of his time preying about the pond and the old man, Little Johnny Terrapin, who is a loyal descendant of old Peter's.

Old Peter is the oldest of the group and he is a very old man. He has a long, wrinkled face and a small, white beard. He is sitting on a log in the pond. The other turtles are also sitting on logs or in the water. They are all looking towards the camera.

BARLOW CHILD IS AWARDED TO MOTHER

Superior Court Upholds Action of Lumpkin Ordinary—Millionaire to Drop Fight.

Mrs. Edith Barlow has been awarded the custody of her 11-year-old daughter, Madeline, by Judge Zerk of the Superior Court, at American, upholding the action of the ordinary of Stewart County in taking the child from the father.

Barlow, who is a millionaire planter with large interests in Stewart County and Cuba, obtained a divorce from his wife two years ago and was awarded the custody of the child. Mrs. Barlow filed habeas corpus proceedings before the Ordinary of Stewart County, who awarded the child to her, holding that Barlow had violated the order of the court in taking the child to Cuba, where the mother could not see him.

The case was remarkable in that it was not of John Lippie, of Waterbury, in five different cases at the same time. Lippie will be awarded his first wife in Atlanta, but she was living in Lumpkin, followed by a ruling of the case in American.

It is believed the decision of Judge Zerk will be appealed as fast as the law allows. Burton H. Smith, Mr. Barlow's attorney, said this case is a precedent.

Davison-Paxon-Stokes Co. The Nemo Is the Only Non-Stretchable Corset

If you have never worn a Nemo you are thoroughly acquainted with the inconvenience of a Corset that stretches and ultimately loses its shape. What causes the ordinary Corset to stretch? The cut edges of the material, for they are not properly finished to prevent giving after they are sewed together. The Nemo Corset does not stretch, because every edge of material is stretched by pressure and then corrugated before it is stitched.

For Other Reasons, the Nemo Is a Most Unique Corset

For instance, the "Bridge" that eliminates all possible pressure on the diaphragm, the bands of the Lastiques webbing that reduces the hips and abdomen by automatic massage.

Corset Instruction

Few women know how to adjust and wear a corset properly. Still fewer know when and why a corset is doing them physical harm. That explains a majority of corset troubles. The wise woman of to-day studies the corset problem, because it means so much to her health and good looks.

MRS. RICHARDSON, Lecturer and Instructor From the Nemo Hygienic-Fashion Institute —is giving just such instructions here this week, explaining the special features of the newest Nemo and Smart Set Corsets. Come and learn practical corset-facts that will do you lots of good. (Third Floor.)

A Special Demonstration of Riker's Celebrated Toilet Requisites

Types of Beauty may change, but the woman whose face is fresh and rose-tinted, whose skin is smooth as a baby's, whose wrinkles are conspicuous by their absence, has one kind of beauty that is always attractive. It is the kind of beauty most women may possess if they take the trouble to acquire it. It may be acquired in a natural, simple and pleasant fashion, by the use of certain harmless "aids," which the Demonstrator will show and tell you of. Among them: Riker's Violet Cerate; it is so well known to thousands of satisfied users that nothing further need be said; it is looked upon as a prime toilet necessity, and those who use it would not be without a jar for several times its value. Price 50c a jar. Riker's Improved Cold Cream, pure ingredients, delicately perfumed; 5oz and 50c jar. Riker's Antiseptic Tooth Powder; 15c box. Riker's Violet Extracts, like violet flowers; 50c ounce. Ecclesias Face Powder; 50c box. Toilet Henzoin; 25c and 75c bottle. Riker's Talcum Powder; 15c box.

Riker's Dresden Face Powder—There is no other powder quite so soft and downy—so delicate and adherent. It is a nearly nature's adjunct as it is possible for a powder to be. It is made in five tints—white, pink, flesh, brunette and evening—to suit any complexion. Two sizes, 25c and 50c box.

We want our out-of-town customers to share every advantage of this store, through our Efficient Mail Order Service.

U. S. BANKERS IN A NARROW RUT, SAYS FORBES

Business Expert Declares European Financiers Have Much Wider Training Than Americans.

By B. C. FORBES. I never talk with a European banker without feeling ashamed of myself...

He asked: "European bankers know all about Indian affairs, all about Australia, all about what is going on in Africa..."

"Because of their excellent system of branch banks, he immediately is asked: 'These branches provide the means of absorbing young bankers in the affairs of different countries...'

"A banker thus trained has a breadth of vision, a breadth of understanding that we American bankers never can acquire..."

"All that we American bankers lack is that we have not the same breadth of vision, a breadth of understanding that we American bankers never can acquire..."

"My own experience has been that not more than half a dozen New York bankers or State bankers are capable of thinking in this large, broad way..."

SISTERS PURSUE COUPLE IN MYSTERY

On Thursday that he tried to shield his identity and protect his relatives. Tarr could not produce documents to prove his marriage to the woman.

Investigation among friends of Newman in Memphis has brought out the fact that he was warned of a plot before the elopement. He was informed that he was mistaken in the identity of the woman and that she was not Miss Marjorie Lea.

Term Check Produced.

Newman is said to have produced a term check for $13,000, which he claimed had been given him by the woman.

"This is my confidence in her, and her faith in me," he is reported as having said. "She has offered me money. I refused to take it and with that Newman is declared to have torn the check into bits and thrown them away."

Late Wednesday night Newman is said to have communicated with a Memphis friend from Edwards, Miss. that he was going to Chattanooga to stay with his sister, Mrs. W. C. Robertson, wife of the Episcopal minister there, and a sister of Senator Lea, to the wedding. The woman downed and said that Mr. Robertson and she were estranged.

Next Came the Wedding.

The next heard of the couple was that they had been married in Atlanta.

According to the dispatches from Memphis, Newman's bride convinced him that the police were attempting to separate them and induced him to flee with her to the West. Newman's sisters, as soon as they got on the trail, started in pursuit from Chattanooga.

The whereabouts of the couple still remains unknown. Relatives of Newman have told Memphis police that he was in Texas after being advised, that he was duped. A search penetrating practically every city of the South has been instituted to find the pair. Investigators will pay especial attention to Atlanta, where Newman brought the woman for her marriage ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. J. M. DuBoise, of the First Methodist Church.

Meanwhile the confessed husband of the woman is under surveillance by Memphis police. Although he had given his name as Tarr, he admitted

U. S. BANKERS IN A NARROW PIT, SAYS FORBES

Business Expert Declares European Financiers Have Much Wider Training Than Americans.

By B. C. FORBES

I never talk with a European banker without feeling ashamed of "us"—one of America's shrewdest and most prominent bankers told me yesterday.

He added: "European bankers know all about Indian affairs, about Australia, all about what is going on in Africa, all about developments in Latin America, all about the Orient, all about the United States and some things about the United States that we ourselves don't know."

How do you account for this? I believe

Because of their excellent training in branch banks, he immediately replied. "These branch banks are the result of educating young bankers in the affairs of different countries. A young man may serve in one place for a year or two, then he is sent to another branch, moved to another later and so on, until finally he has had a most comprehensive training in the practical operations of a bank in every part of the world."

A banker thus trained has a certain vision, a breadth of understanding that we American bankers can acquire. The foreign banker's heart never beats only for his own little profit, but only and solely of the papers that are read on it.

All that we American bankers other about is whether a customer's check will cash, whether his bill is paid, whether his credit is good, and whether he can get a loan on his own narrow terms. We are in contact with our own little world, selfishly provincial. In fact, we are simply ignorant.

Curiously enough, it was only a week or so ago that another leading New York banker, one of the members of the Federal Reserve Bank, remarked to me that he had a certain French banker who was much more intelligent about American commercial conditions than at home. When the head of the French bank said that he was a wonderful system of gathering and tabulating information, Mr. Hepburn was a trifle scornful. "I don't see how it could be so," he said, "but I have heard that he has done so."

My own experience has been that of more than half a dozen New York bankers or State bankers are at all times men capable of thinking of the big picture. Some of these men, with a few exceptions, do not seem to care about their own narrow interests, but only about the welfare of the country as a whole.

Your average New York banker is still a self-interest. He is interested in the "profits" of his own little bank. He is interested in the "profits" of his own little bank. He is interested in the "profits" of his own little bank.

Meanwhile let me relate an anecdote typical of the narrowness of New York bankers in comparison with the broader throughout the country. I have sent requests to all the principal banks and trust companies in the United States, as well as insurance companies and express companies, for information that would be of use to the Hearst newspaper in connection with its investigation into the American insurance industry.

The response from Chicago, Boston, San Francisco, Philadelphia and other important cities has been most interesting. Nothing but the hearty approval of Hearst's purpose has been expressed.

But what, you may think, has been the result in New York? Not a word of response has been received from the whole of New York's financial institutions, so far as I am concerned, so far as I am concerned.

The children's attitude of many New York bankers is that their business and it is none of our business. It is their business and it is none of our business. It is their business and it is none of our business.

Coats by the Hundreds. A Great Saving on Every One

Note: With all the emphasis at our command, we would urge every woman who has a coat to buy, to attend this Friday and Saturday sale. In our day we have had many a fine Coat Sale, but memory fails us in recalling a happier event at this season of the year than this sale.

The above "advice" is as sincere as we ever make it--the only trouble is that it is only advice and may be treated as most "advice" is. However, we would be failing in our obligation to spread the good news of the day not to give it.

Our coat buyer, now in New York, has worked wonders. He has sent us coats that will make a suit that will out-January January! Some of them are makers' samples, others are the result of some of the shrewdest buying that we have known.

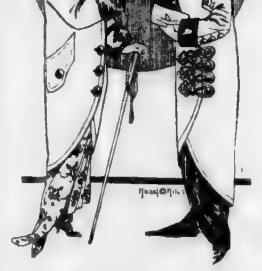

No sale is made up entirely of TREMENDOUS VALUES. There are many coats that bring savings even greater than we have listed--you will doubtless find quite a number, the duplicate of which, earlier in the season, were marked a half more than they are now.

So for the economies of the sale.

The styles:

Many of them are lately adopted styles--and in this connection understand clearly there has been no compromise. The style simply had to be RIGHT SMART before a coat was considered. There is not one off style in the lot, no woman is going to buy a coat because it is CHEAP. She will want it for its fine lines, its splendid material, its rich lining--and, in many instances its fur trimmings.

Style--they are wrapped in it! How is it possible to sell such coats as such reductions? Well, it IS possible, and here you are! The sale starts with the opening of the store.

Well, it IS possible, and here you are! The sale starts with the opening of the store.

$20.00 for $27.50, $33.50 and $35.00 Coats	$25.00 for $37.50, $40.00 and $45.00 Coats	$12.50 for $18.50, $19.75 and $21.50 Coats	$15.00 for $22.50, $19.75 and $35.00 Coats

Broadtail cloth coats with fox and siana cloth coats, broadened velours with skunk and moufflan collars and cuffs, Per-rich broadened and plain satin linings. Some show yokes, others set-in sleeves, Others wide kimono sleeves. One unusually smart model is a Russian blouse, the belt is a wide black silk braid. Coats to explain over.

Persiana cloths and boucles, principally navy and black, self-lined and colored sat in lined. Several styles, belted back, set in sleeves and kimono sleeves, cuffs and collars of plush; three-quarter length, slightly outaway; one very attractive style has large velvet buttons down length of sleeve.

Black and white striped boucle. Persiana cloths in black, boucles in black and others and others. Choose from half dozen or more styles. One notably fine model has panel back outlined with velvet buttons, plush collar and cuffs, broadened or plain, fasteners with rich frugs, three-quarter length, beautiful linings.

Why Should the Taxpayers Use Their Money to Reward Friends of Presidents?

And Why Should the United States Send Snobs Abroad to Amuse Themselves at Public Expense and Play the Toady? The Pindell Case Ought To Be a Useful Lesson.

The people of the country know that sending Ambassadors to foreign countries is nonsense and out of date.

The Ambassador is a messenger boy who takes a cablegram from his government to the representatives of the other government.

Our Embassies are maintained in order that candidates for the Presidency MAY OBLIGE THEIR FRIENDS, REPAY POLITICAL FAVORS, OR SHOW APPRECIATION OF FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE.

This particular administration, we say it with regret, has been particularly and unusually guilty in the matter of using public foreign posts and public taxes to reward friends and financial backers of the President.

The case of Mr. Page, sent to London because he happened to be the President's publisher, the man who distributes his books, was bad.

And Mr. Page's statement that the United States "is still English ruled and English led" was about the maximum of astuteness.

The sending of one man to Vienna, for no reason in the world except that he is married to a very rich woman and made a large contribution to the Wilson campaign fund, was outrageous.

But the worst of all these various transactions was the Pindell case, concerning which the public has been enlightened by a letter written to Mr. Pindell, offering him the Ambassadorship WITH A STRING ATTACHED TO IT.

We presume that most of our readers have seen that extremely interesting letter written by Senator Lewis, of Illinois, and telling Mr. Pindell upon what terms Mr. Wilson would make Pindell Ambassador to Russia.

Pindell was told emphatically first of all, THAT HE MUST REMAIN AMBASSADOR ONE YEAR ONLY.

In other words, he would receive the appointment with a string to it. After one year he would be pulled home and then, presumably, some other friend of the Administration, some other original Wilson man, or some other man with a rich wife who could give money to the Wilson campaign would be sent over also to bask in the glory of foreign Ambassadorship.

The letter that Senator Lewis wrote, trivial, amusing, childish and foolish, made perfectly clear the status of the man whom we send to represent this republic at foreign shores.

Pindell was to meet "aristocrats," he was even to shake hands with the Czar—if the Czar shakes hands.

His daughter was to go into society. He was to HAVE ABSOLUTELY NO WORK TO DO; that was guaranteed in the letter that the Senator sent to him.

At the end of the year he was to come back, having been Ambassador to Russia, and then, as the provincial Senator put it, his descendants of the third and fourth generations would brag about having an Ambassador in their ancestry.

Is this not the height of absurdity, unworthy of an intelligent country, criminal spending of the public funds, and a very shameful misuse of power by the President and by his Secretary of State, Mr. Bryan? Neither of them has attempted to deny the Pindell letter.

This is a BUSINESS country, its inhabitants are business men, and what we need abroad is FIRST CLASS BUSINESS REPRESENTATIVES.

The Ambassadorships should be eliminated; the entire stupid system of sending a cable to be handed to a foreign Minister of State by some snob whom we maintain at court should be wiped out.

Our consular service should be improved; trained men should enter the service and be kept there as long as they do their duty properly.

This business country should be represented by business consuls.

And we should allow Mr. Pindell and Mr. Page and the other collection of gentlemen who want to get abroad and shake hands with aristocrats to do that at their own expense, and not at the public expense.

The New Senator From Alabama

Governor O'Neal, of Alabama, evidently believes he has full and complete authority to appoint a United States Senator to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator Johnston, and in naming Editor Frank P. Glass, of Birmingham, the Governor has selected a virile man for the position.

A seat in the Senate of the United States would afford Mr. Glass opportunity to accomplish a great work for the South. He knows the land of Dixie well. He has stood for high ideals in journalism, and while more or less untired in constructive statesmanship, he ought to have in him, nevertheless, the making of an effective and able Senator.

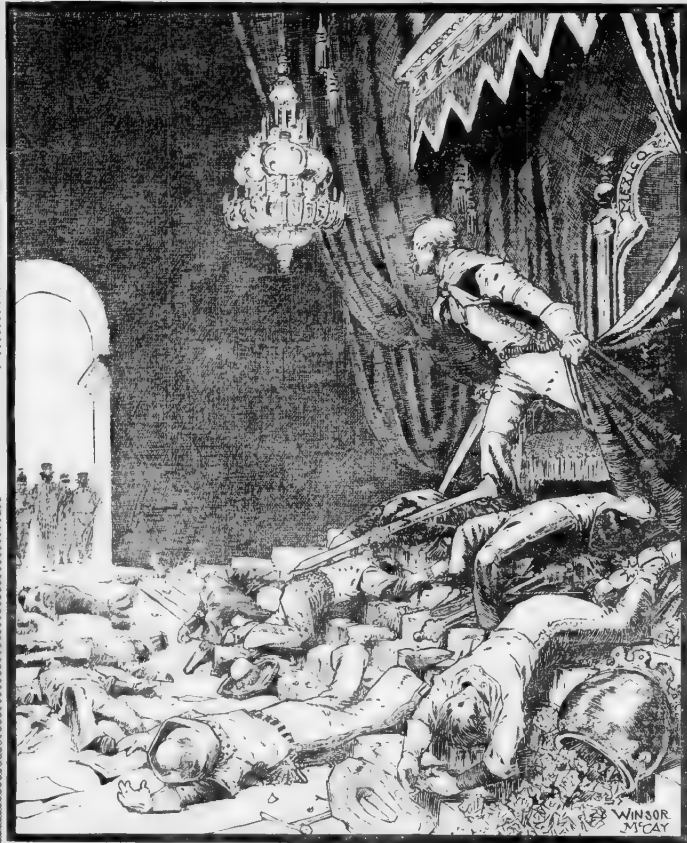

The South stands for progress. It believes in a sane tariff law, in a stable currency, in an ample navy, and in square dealing between the government and the people.

If Mr. Glass, as a Senator in Congress, urged these matters upon the attention of the nation, from the true viewpoint of the South—which is yet largely a sealed book to a great part of this country—he would render his country a genuine service.

If Mr. Glass is seated in the Senate, Dixie will expect to hear from him; for the opportunity is large for a great man to do great work.

DR. PARKHURST

Writes on Petty Dishonesty Some Forms Are So Frequent as To Be Almost Respectable, Such as Loose Promise Making.

By REV. DR. CHARLES H. PARKHURST.

THE line of honesty is an exceedingly straight one. It sometimes gets badly crooked in the use, but is by nature rectilinear and is the shortest path between duty and performance.

There is no halfway between straight and crooked, and if we do not begin by being dishonest in a small thing there is no danger of our graduating into a large-scale deceiver or swindler.

All that is very simple and old-fashioned. Much is said about the new morality, the new thought, the new art, the new religion and so forth, but the old is pretty sound and has stood the racket for a good while, and we had better stand by it and not find ourselves away on fancy innovations till we are quite sure that they will make as good a show in the working as it does in the ideal.

There are forms of incoherence, dishonesty worth mention which are so frequent as to be almost respectable, but which denote the joints of character and the joints of character are almost always the joints of dishonesty.

One of the things that is so frequent as to be almost respectable, and which denotes the joints of character and the joints of character are almost always the joints of dishonesty.

When a promise that is not made conditionally, with no positive assurance attached to it, and with only the understanding on the part of the one making it that he will do his best to meet the wishes of the party with whom he is dealing, then no fault can be found if expectations are disappointed. But those are not the terms in which engagements are usually made.

You make a contract with your tailor. He says, "I will deliver the article on or before such a day." No conditions attached, no indifference in the terms of the engagement. Very likely he does not know whether he will be able to keep the engagement or not, but that in most cases makes no difference with the terms to which the stipulation is made.

He wants the job and asks you up till he gets along far enough with someone's else job to be sure of that in addition to what he is doing for you.

We can perfectly well understand how it all comes about, but there is no crooked enough in it to prevent its being straight. Properly done, it can substitute proper payment for the service of the painter or plumber, or almost any service of that character.

It is not what is called a called an outrageous lie, but it has got the seeds of it in it. It is a careless handling of the truth. If it is not a deliberate intention to deceive, it is a careless indifference as to whether or not deception is going to be the result.

This loose habit of making definite promises that are unceremoniously broken can easily be broken up by saying to your plumber, for instance:

"You have definitely promised to come and do the job at such a time. Now, having made the definite promise, if you do not come at that time I shall be displeased and shall give my next job to another plumber."

That will both brace up his integrity and secure prompt service.

Comment on Frank Case

The following letter, a speech of the Georgia editorial on Roman's decision in the Frank case, which has aroused nationwide comment, is from Simon Wolf, Minister to Egypt under President Grant, and one of the most prominent lawyers and philanthropists in America.

Mr. Wolf is president of the local Atlanta Hebrew Orphan Home and well known in the South, where he is extensively interested in charitable work. Here is the letter.

Editor The Georgian: I have read with a great deal of pleasure, and no less interest, your admirable editorial on the Leo M. Frank case, wherein you have reviewed the remarkable statement by Judge Roan in denying a new trial. I have read the reports as far as they were printed in the various newspapers of the country, notably those of Atlanta, and have hereafter refrained from making any comments or criticism of the conduct of any one deeming it an intrusion possibly to prejudice any one while the case was pending in court. Now that the whole matter will be referred to the Supreme Court of your State, and that the bill of exceptions has been signed incorporating the remarkable statement of Judge Roan, I deem it my duty as a citizen of the United States, and one who is not unknown to the good people of Atlanta, to say that your editorial reflects the sober second thought of every loyal citizen of the country. It is calm, dignified, judicial and sane, and should be applauded by those who believe in law and order. The only advice the individual can have, no matter what his nationality or creed or color is to be treated fairly and squarely, and to allow no prejudice to interfere with the decent administration of law. From time immemorial it has been conceded as an axiom that all reasonable doubts must be given to the accused when charged with murder and in the case of Frank this has been done, and that the spirit that pervaded the court room during the trial was anything but ordinary or civilized. It goes without saying that I subscribe the same view that you do. It is not the individual after all the law on trial—it is American citizenship, Christianity stripped of its sectarianism, and therefore it is to be hoped every man and woman, no less, co-operate in securing justice for the proscriber at the bar and if convicted beyond a doubt, full punishment should be meted out, but not otherwise. Again, sincerely thank you for the standpoint you have taken in this case. Very truly yours, SIMON WOLF.
