THE SUNDAY AMERICAN'S MARVELOUS GROWTH OF 100,000 PAID CIRCULATION SURPRISES MEN OF SOUTH

Following are expressions of opinion of some well-known men on the marvelous growth of THE SUNDAY AMERICAN—over 100,000 net paid circulation in six months. The first issue of THE SUNDAY AMERICAN appeared on April 6, 1913. To establish a Sunday newspaper with this circulation in six months is a remarkable journalistic triumph.

THE SUNDAY AMERICAN HAS MORE NET PAID CIRCULATION EVERY SUNDAY THAN THE ATLANTA SUNDAY JOURNAL AND ATLANTA SUNDAY JOURNAL COMBINED.

How are the comments of leading men:

W. S. CAMBLER, Capitalist, Banker, Manufacturer, Real Estate Owner: I am glad that THE SUNDAY AMERICAN and THE GEORGIAN are to have a part in the glorious future of Atlanta and the South and to assist in the building of this section of the country. It is indisputable that they are in a peculiarly favorable position to make known to the world the advantages and the resources of Atlanta and the South.

THE SUNDAY AMERICAN and THE GEORGIAN, together with the other newspapers owned by Mr. Hearst, have done much to bring Atlanta to the attention of the rest of the country to an extent that would not have been possible before this time. I am confident they will continue their commendable work.

The wonderful progress and growth of THE SUNDAY AMERICAN and THE GEORGIAN are a credit to the South. It is a point that these newspapers do not meet with instant favor. It was surprising to me to learn that the net paid circulation of THE SUNDAY AMERICAN now exceeds that of the South. I hope the property may continue.

W. H. HURT, Capitalist, Real Estate Owner: I am personally gratified by the fact that HEARST'S SUNDAY AMERICAN published in Atlanta has passed the 100,000 net paid circulation mark. This growth has been nothing short of marvelous.

The newspaper six months old should attain a circulation of that magnitude surely is an eloquent tribute to the enterprise and ability of its founder. The Hearst newspapers in Atlanta have been active and pushing. They have a great field in Atlanta and the South. I believe that they are here with the determined purpose of doing good for this section of the country.

The South is moving forward with all the more rapidly and more vigorously than ever before. Atlanta is in the center of this movement. It lies in the power of THE SUNDAY AMERICAN and THE GEORGIAN to assist materially in this development. I am sure from the attitude adopted by these two great papers, my own wishes are with them.

It is necessary for me to say a few words concerning the growth of THE SUNDAY AMERICAN and THE GEORGIAN. I have found that the increase in their circulation is sufficient proof of this fact. I have been greatly impressed by the editorial policy of the two papers. I have no doubt that they will continue to do a splendid work in the South.

THE SUNDAY AMERICAN and THE GEORGIAN have found a home in the South. The increase in their circulation is sufficient proof of this fact. I have been greatly impressed by the editorial policy of the two papers. I have no doubt that they will continue to do a splendid work in the South.

Crime to Read Bryan Book, Says Hindu

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—To read the works of William J. Bryan, now Secretary of State, is a general offence in India, if it happens to be a pamphlet called "British Rule in India," according to Basanta Kumar Roy, a Hindu, who says he was exiled from India for working for the freedom of his country.

'Pulaski Heir' Wants $35,000,000 From U.S.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 8.—A claim of 70,000,000 rubles will soon be instituted against the United States Government by Lesko Burdinsky, of Petrokov, Russian Poland. Burdinsky claims to be a direct descendant of Pulaski, the Polish soldier, who materially assisted General Washington in freeing the American colonies from British rule.

Horned Owl Caught In White House Basin

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—A big horned owl swooping down for goldfish in the fountain at the east entrance to the White House became entangled in the water lilies in its basin and was drowned. It was found floating on the water supported by its outstretched wings, which measured four feet.

Roosevelt's G.O.P.'s Only Hope, Says Riis

Men Who Accuse Henslee of Prejudice of Highest Type, Says Stiles Hopkins.

Attorneys for Leo M. Frank announced Wednesday that they invited an attack upon the truth and veracity of the men who made denunciations against Juror A. H. Henslee, charging bias and prejudice, just for the purpose of demonstrating untruthfully that every person who has made an affidavit is unimpeachable and a man of recognized character and honesty.

Drizzling Rain Falling.

It was pretty gloomy when we got to Philadelphia, so far as weather conditions went. The populace was happy enough. About 15,000 came down to the train and carried off Frank Baker on their shoulders, or at least they tried to. He was almost mobbed by his friends.

RAIN THREATENS TO DEFEAT 2ND GAME OF BIG SERIES

Philadelphia, Oct. 8.—Well, the Athletics got away with the "jumpy game," and I must say it's pretty good for them that they did. Also, they did it very much as I predicted they would win their victories—by the support of fair pitching, and by everlasting hammering the opposing pitcher.

By BILLY SMITH, Manager Atlanta Team.

From where I sat—and I had a pretty good seat—Bender seemed to have little besides a glove and that grand nerve that always has been his best asset. His curve was small and hard to control, and his fast one seemed to me to lack its usual fierce jump.

But the game went as I had predicted, to the Athletics, because they were able to hit the ball hard and timely, and because their infield stood up in the pinch.

I have to admit, too, that the brains favored me. I saw that the brains favored me. I saw that the brains favored me. I saw that the brains favored me.

THE JUDGE GIVES RENO RUTH AN EARFUL ABOUT THE GAME

Well, another, Ruth. Just a minute. Say, I was never so excited in my life as I was in the seventh inning. The score was 3 to 4 with the Athletics in the lead. Well, the old Giants got Shafer to third and Doyle was on first. A hit, you know, would have tied the thing up. I sat back as Fletcher came up, drew in a long guff of fresh air and waited.

Fletcher drew back and lined a base right at Shafer's feet. On the level, I thought they would try to catch Shafer coming home, and I took a

City Sanitary Wagon Mains Messenger

Pred Holder, 44 years old, No. 247 Lackle street, suffered a broken leg and internal injuries Wednesday when he was run over at Hamont and Plum streets by a city sanitary wagon.

Holder, who is a messenger boy, was riding his bicycle alongside the wagon. The front wheel of the bicycle struck the projecting hub of a rear wheel, causing it to reel. Holder lost his balance and was thrown under the wagon.

Frank Watson, the negro driver of the wagon, was arrested for reckless driving.

But the game went as I had predicted, to the Athletics, because they were able to hit the ball hard and timely, and because their infield stood up in the pinch.

I have to admit, too, that the breeze favored the Athletics.

Shaffer fails to Get Drive. The Giants came back savagely, after some slugging had put them four runs behind, and it looked as if they might tie the score, or even get out in front.

I can tell you if I had been in Connie Mack's place on the bench, I would have had a mighty bad time while McGraw's men were tearing into Bender in the fifth inning. I know what he must have been suffering. But he evidently had lots of confidence in Bender and his help, for he never batted an eye at the warning pail, where Brown and Shawkey were steaming away.

Officials of the Athletics asserted that it would be possible to play the game unless more rain fell.

If the game is played to-day, I suppose Matty and Plank will be the pitchers. McGraw did what I rather thought he would yesterday, and tried to cross up the opposition by sending in Marquard on September 24, as compared with four bases slimed prior to the same date in 1912.

FOGGY SKIES NOT TO HALT GAME; 2 GIANT STARS OUT OF FRA

By BILLY SMITH. Manager Atlanta Team.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8.—It was officially announced that the game will be played to-day. The official weather forecast issued at 10:15 said: Foggy and misty this afternoon; cloudy and unsettled to-night, probably rain.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8.—Well, the Athletics got away with the "jumpy game," and I must say it's pretty good for them that they did. Also, they did it very much as I predicted they would win their victories—by fine support of fair pitching, and by everlastingly hammering the opposing pitcher.

Chief Bender didn't look good to me yesterday, although he won his game—rather, had it won for him by Collins and Frank Baker, and saved for him by Barry and Collins. In the opening game of 1911, the Chief was beaten. But the Giants got only four hits off him, and he fanned eleven men. Yesterday the big Indian was in trouble most of the time.

From where I sat—and I had a pretty good seat—Bender seemed to have little besides a glove and that grand nerve that always has been his best asset. His curve was small and hard to control, and his fast one seemed to me to lack its usual fierce jump.

FRANK COUNSEL WILL BROADEN JURY ATTACK

Argument on the motion of the defense for a new trial for Leo Frank, scheduled to be heard by Judge Roan next Saturday, will be postponed another week, according to an interview given by Solicitor Dorsey in Valdosta Wednesday. The Solicitor declared that his progress in the investigation of the claims of Frank's attorneys had been slow, and that the State could not possibly shape its case in time for the date set.

After reinforcing their attack upon Juror A. H. Henslee Wednesday by the statements of a dozen leading men, who swore to the good character, reputation and reliability of the persons who had charged the juror with violent prejudice and bias, counsel for Leo M. Frank made the sensational announcement Wednesday that depositions would be filed before Saturday alleging prejudice against a third, and possibly a fourth, member of the jury which convicted Frank of the murder of Mary Phagan.

Though making a most careful investigation of every juror who sat on the Frank trial, the convicted man's attorneys have not let up on Henslee, as a new affidavit obtained Wednesday bears witness. The latest affidavit is signed by a man who declares that he overheard Henslee as long ago as last May give vent to a decided opinion of Frank's guilt.

The conversation occurred on a street in Atlanta, according to the deposition. It was remarked in Henslee's hearing that the murder did not seem to be of the character that would be perpetrated by a member of Frank's race.

Henslee is said to have replied in effect: "I don't care. I believe that Frank is guilty, and if by any chance I am put on the jury I will do my best to convict him."

Henslee's defense that the Sparta men were mistaken or lying who testified they had heard him utter defamatory remarks against Frank before the trial met a prompt reply Wednesday in the obtaining of affidavits from a number of Sparta's most prominent citizens testifying to personal and moral character and honesty of John M. Holmes, Shi Gray and S. M. Johnson, who signed the depositions.

VETERAN MATHEWSON WHO WON GREAT GAME

THE JUDGE GIVES REND RUTH AN EARFUL ABOUT THE GAME

By TAD.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Dear Ruth: I copped. Say, it was the softest thing I have seen since the big fight at Reno. Reminded me of that quarrel, too. The Athletics climbed over the ropes just as Johnson did. Knew they had everything and showed it later.

Say, any team that can beat those birds has to beat out the dope, and that can't be done. Didn't I tell you in my last letter that the old boy with the punch wins? Did you slant at Baker's record? With Collins on, he just put that old pill into the grandstand for a homer, and you never heard such a roar in your life.

Old Frank trotted from third to home with a smile on his face as wide as Broadway, and the boys on the bench threw bats, hats and sweaters in the air until it looked as though it was raining wheelspokes and wool.

The Giants are good enough in their league, but lay off them when they try to beat a regular team. They used three pitchers trying to kill off Mack's men—but what's the use?

Old Doc C. dall called.

Say, Marquis' sock is wrenched crooked to-day. He blew his job early and old Randall came in, but they had him, too. Then they shoved in Lesreau. That big bird is good. He went well, but he wasn't with us long enough.

Just let Mack's men give him the once over again and I will write and tell you about it.

Listen! Did you take a slant at Collins' record? A single, a three-bagger, and when he came up again the boys expected him to slam it

'BIG SIX' IS TESTED TO LIMIT IN NINTH, THEN WINS GAME WITH HIT

By BILLY SMITH,
Manager Atlanta Team.

SHIBE PARK, PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8.—"Big Six" Mathewson beat the Athletics this afternoon 3 to 0 in the grandest pitching achievement in all his great career, evened up the series, and wrote in his splendid record the finest single feat credited to any pitcher in the annals of baseball.

Eddie Plank—grand old Eddie!—pitched for the Athletics, and his work was marvelous. The game was the most wonderful pitching duel ever staged in a world's series, going nine full innings before the break came.

It looked in the ninth as if Matty had cracked first. But the terrible crisis of the game struck from Matty's soul of steel only the sparks of the most brilliant feat ever performed by a world's series pitcher.

Strunk, the fleet outfielder, opened the ninth for Philadelphia with a single to center. Barry beat out a bunt and the runners advanced to second and third when Matty, making a desperate fielding play, threw past Wiltse, who was subbing for Merkle at first.

Runners on second and third—the last half of the ninth—none out—the Athletics at bat—it was the sternest test ever put to a great slaban.

And Matty rose to it in all his might.

Rolling back the years to the date when he was first named "Big Six"—when he stood supreme above the baseball world, and none might equal him—the "Old Master" made his stand against the roaring thousands in Shibe Park and the slugging Athletics.

And he set them down without a run.

Lapp tried to bunt Matty's great drop—Matty pounced on the ball and Strunk slid to certain death at the plate.

Plank hit to Wiltse, close in, the "fade-away" sliding feebly from his swinging bat. And Barry was chased to death between McLean and Herzog.

One more test—and still runners on second and third.

But once more Matty wheeled up the old fade-away, backed by all the grand arm, designed by all the cunning of the "Old Master."

And the ball came softly back—to Matty.

And Murphy, the slugging Murphy, was an easy out at first.

Even the Philadelphia crowd stood up to cheer "Big Six," then.

And it is not to wonder that it was Matty's own powerful drive that sent home the first run in the "break" that followed—the run that was enough to win, with the grandest pitcher in all the world fronting the enemy in the final session.

Plank had sped his bolt. He was done—done with the great work of holding the Giants unless for nine innings. McLean singled, Grant ran for him, and Wiltse sacrificed. Then Matty came through once more, and won his own game. That wasn't all. Collins broke under the strain, the Giants crowded in, and two more runs came across before Plank could get the side out.

That was enough, and more than enough. Oldring, Collins and Baker were the slugging trio that confronted Matty in the last of the tenth.

But they hadn't a chance.

The crowd was not a top-heavy one. Official figures gave only a little more than 20,000 in the big park. Frank Baker got his daily hit, but was helpless before Matty in the pinches. In the first inning, with runners on second and third, Baker fanned.

The game was well played throughout, abounding in brilliant flashes of fielding, notably by Burns, the new outfielder of the Giants. McGraw had to shift his line-up on account of the injury to Merkle. Snodgrass, also with a bad leg, essayed to play first, but had to retire in favor of Wiltse after making a hit. "Hooks" played a good game at first. McLean caught for the Giants, and started the final break with his hit in the tenth.

Catholic Convent at Birmingham Opened

BIRMINGHAM, Oct. 8.—The convent of the Blessed Sacrament Catholic parish, in West End, was dedicated today. The Right Rev. Bishop E. P. Allen, of Mobile; the Right Rev. Bernard, O. S. B., abbot of St. Bernard's monastery, and a choir of 50 benedictine monks participated.

A solemn high mass was said by the Rev. Father Patrick Turner, pastor of the Blessed Sacrament parish. Among the assistants were his brothers from Washington and New York; the Rev. Dr. Savage, of Montgomery; the Rev. Father McQuillen, of Ensley, and the Rev. Father Hackett, of Birmingham.

Slaton Gives Respite To Condemned Negro

Upon recommendation of the Prison Commission, Governor Slaton today respite for 30 days "Bob" Galthwright, a negro, sentenced to be hanged in Gwinnett County Friday.

Galthwright was convicted of murder about a month ago, and his case was not appealed to the higher courts. His attorneys desire to ask clemency, however.

TRADE BODY REORGANIZES.

AMERICUS, Oct. 8.—The Americus Chamber of Commerce was reorganized in a "get-together" meeting last night. "Americus, the city with high ideals and the cash to back them up," was adopted as the new slogan.

Son Shoots Father Who Threatened Him With a Knife

MACON, Oct. 8.—Green Bright, a prominent Bibb County planter, was shot and probably fatally wounded to-day by his 18-year-old son, L. G. Bright. The shooting took place in the dining room of the Bright home. In the presence of Mrs. Bright, who, though prostrated, exonerates her son.

Young Bright was reproved by his father, while directing some work in the barn. His retort caused the elder Bright to draw a knife. The son then ran in the house, pursued by his father, who had opened the knife.

"If you don't stop, papa, I will shoot you," young Bright declared, as he took a shotgun out of a rack on the wall. Bright continued to advance, and the boy fired. He has not been arrested.

Insurance Man Fined On Women's Charge

J. H. Harris, an insurance man with offices in the Empire building, was fined $50.75 in the Recorder's Court Wednesday afternoon on the charge of two women that he had insulted them.

Harris admitted that he was intoxicated at the time. The arrest was made Monday night at Carnegie way and Forsyth street by Policemen Green and McKibben, when it was claimed that Harris approached the women.

Details of the Great Game Exactly as It Was Played

FIRST INNING.
Herzog, leading off for the Giants, hit the first ball pitched for a pop fly to Collins. Doyle watched a ball pass him and then fled to Strunk. Fletcher took a couple of balls, then fouled off two and finally fanned. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

Mathewson started badly, wheeling up three balls to Eddie Murphy. Then he grooved one, and Murphy singled past second. Matty dropped two strikes over on Oldring, and then Rube singled to left, Murphy stopping a ball and a strike on him, Shafer fled at second. Collins advanced the runners with a sacrifice bunt to Snodgrass. Baker was up in the pinch, but the "Old Master" was too much for the home-run kid, and fanned him on four pitched balls. McInnis fled to Burns and Matty was out of a deep hole. NO RUNS, TWO HITS, NO ERRORS.

SECOND INNING.
Burns watched one ball and two strikes shoot past him, and then swung hard at a beautiful hook. Wirtz Rube singled to left, Murphy stopping a ball and a strike on him, Shafer fled

FRANK COUNSEL WILL BROADEN JURY ATTACK

Argument on the motion of the defense for a new trial for Leo Frank, scheduled to be heard by Judge Raines next Saturday, was postponed another week, according to an interview given by Solicitor Dorsey in Valdosta Wednesday. The Solicitor declared that his progress in the investigation of the claims of Frank's attorneys, who swear to the good character, reputation and reliability of the persons who had charged the jurymen with violent prejudice and bias, could not possibly show its case in time for the date set.

After reinforcing their attack upon Juror A. H. Honick Wednesday by the statements of a dozen leading men, who swear to the good character, reputation and reliability of the persons who had charged the jurymen with violent prejudice and bias, counsel for Leo M. Frank made the sensational announcement Wednesday that depositions would be filed before Saturday alleging prejudice against a juror, and possibly a fourth member of the jury when convicted Frank of the murder of Miss Phagan.

Though making a most careful investigation, Honick obtained Wednesday afternoon the latest affidavit signed by a man who declares that he overheard Honick as he went on his last day's visit to a deposed opinion of Frank's guilt. The conversation occurred on a street in Atlanta, according to the deposition. It was retained in Honick's hearing. Honick is said to have replied to the charge that the murder did not seem to be of the character that would be perpetrated by a member of Frank's race.

THE SUNDAY AMERICAN'S MARVELOUS GROWTH OF 100,000 PAID CIRCULATION SURPRISES MEN OF SOUTH

Following are expressions of opinion of some well-known men on the marvelous growth of THE SUNDAY AMERICAN—over 100,000 net paid circulation in six months. The first issue of THE SUNDAY AMERICAN appeared on April 6, 1913. To establish a Sunday newspaper with this circulation in six months is a remarkable journalistic triumph.

FRANK COUNSEL WILL BROADEN JURY ATTACK

THE SUNDAY AMERICAN HAS MORE NET PAID CIRCULATION EVERY SUNDAY THAN THE ATLANTA SUNDAY CONSTITUTION AND ATLANTA SUNDAY JOURNAL COMBINED. Here are the comments of leading men:

ASA CANDLER, Capitalist, Banker, Manufacturer, Real Estate Owner

I am glad that THE SUNDAY AMERICAN and THE GEORGIAN are here to have a part in the glorious future of Atlanta and the South and to assist in the rebuilding of this section of the country. It is indisputable that they are in a peculiarly favorable position to make known to the world the advantages and the resources of Atlanta and the South. It is just as certain that they already have accomplished a great deal along this line.

THE SUNDAY AMERICAN and THE GEORGIAN, together with the other newspapers owned by Mr. Hearst, have done much to bring Atlanta to the attention of the rest of the country to an extent that would not have been possible before this time. I am confident they will continue their commendable work.

The wonderful progress and growth of THE SUNDAY AMERICAN and THE GEORGIAN are good for the South. Although it was patent that these newspapers had met with instant favor, it was a surprise to me to learn that the net paid circulation of THE SUNDAY AMERICAN now exceeds 100,000 copies. I hope the prosperity may continue.

JOEL HURT, Capitalist, Real Estate Owner

I am personally gratified by the report that HEARST'S SUNDAY AMERICAN published in Atlanta has passed the 100,000 net paid mark. This growth has been nothing short of marvelous. That a newspaper six months old should attain a circulation of that magnitude surely is an eloquent tribute to the enterprise and ability of its founder.

The Hearst newspapers in Atlanta have been active and pushing. They have a great field in Atlanta and the South. I believe that they are here with the determined purpose of doing good for this section of the country. The South is moving forward in all lines more rapidly and more certainly than ever before. Atlanta is in the center of this movement. It lies in the power of THE SUNDAY AMERICAN and THE GEORGIAN to assist incalculably in this development. I am sure from the attitude already evident that this is the purpose.

Argument on the motion of the defense for a new trial for Leo Frank, scheduled to be heard by Judge Roan next Saturday, will be postponed another week, according to an interview given by Solicitor Dorsey in Valdosta Wednesday. The Solicitor declared that his progress in the investigation of the claims of Frank's attorneys had been slow, and that the State could not possibly shape its case in time for the date set.

After reinforcing their attack upon Juror A. H. Henslee Wednesday by the statements of a dozen leading men, who swore to the good character, reputation and reliability of the persons who had charged the juror with violent prejudice and bias, counsel for Leo M. Frank made the sensational announcement Wednesday that depositions would be filed before Saturday alleging prejudice against a third, and possibly a fourth, member of the jury which convicted Frank of the murder of Mary Phagan.

Though making a most careful investigation of every juror who sat on the Frank trial, the convicted man's attorneys have not let up on Henslee, as a new affidavit obtained Wednesday bears witness. The latest affidavit is signed by a man who declares that he overheard Henslee as long ago as last May give vent to a decided opinion of Frank's guilt.

The conversation occurred on a street in Atlanta, according to the deposition. It was remarked in Henslee's hearing that the murder did not seem to be of the character that would be perpetrated by a member of Frank's race.

Henslee is said to have replied in effect: "I don't care. I believe that Frank is guilty, and if by any chance I am put on the jury I will do my best to convict him."

Henslee's defense that the Sparta men were mistaken or lying who testified they had heard him utter denunciatory remarks against Frank before the trial met a prompt reply Wednesday in a number of Sparta's most prominent citizens testifying to personal and moral character and honesty of John M. Holmes, Shi Gray and S. M. Johnson, who signed the depositions.

Son Shoots Father Who Threatened Him With a Knife

MACON, Oct. 8.—Green Bright, a prominent Bibb County planter, was shot and probably fatally wounded to-day by his 18-year-old son, L. G. Bright. The shooting took place in the dining room of the Bright home, in the presence of Mrs. Bright, who, though prostrated, exonerates her son. Young Bright was reproved by his father, while directing some work in the barn. His retort caused the elder Bright to draw a knife. The son then ran in the house, pursued by his father, who had opened the knife.

"If you don't stop, papa, I will shoot you," young Bright declared, as he took a shotgun out of a rack on the wall. Bright continued to advance, and the boy fired. He has not been arrested.

Woman Near Death As Cow Drags Her

ROME, Oct. 8.—To be dragged over her back yard and literally scalped was the experience of Mrs. Connor Barton when her milk cow, "Cleopatra," entangled its horns in Mrs. Barton's hair, became frightened and ran.

Mrs. Barton was holding "Cleopatra" by a halter with one hand and putting food in the trough with the other, when the cow's horns caught in her hair. A long switch of hair wrapped around Mrs. Barton's throat and she was almost strangled before being rescued by her husband.

6,000 Drinks of Corn Liquor Sold

SAVANNAH, Oct. 8.—Six thousand drinks of fine old North Carolina corn liquor were sold from the steps of the Federal Building to the highest bidder, the prohibition laws notwithstanding.

The liquor was fine eight years ago when it was stored in wood in the basement of the customs house. It was delightfully mellow and had the proper "punch," said one purchaser.

Memphians to Pray For Prohibition Bills

MEMPHIS, Oct. 8.—A mass meeting of churchgoers and other citizens has been called by prominent laymen to take action similar to that of the Protestant Pastors' Association, which voted to offer prayers next Sunday for the passage of prohibition law enforcement bills by the Tennessee Legislature next week.

Governor Hooper has signified his willingness to attend the mass meeting, which will be held here probably Thursday night.

Sues for $20,000 for Gambling Club Raid

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 8.—In a suit filed in the circuit court to-day, Matthew S. Allen demands $20,000 damages because the Seminole Club, a gambling institution which was allowed to run without molestation for fifteen years, was raided by the police last March.

In the suit Allen claims he was promised protection by city and county authorities.

250 Convicts Saved As Stockade Burns

BIRMINGHAM, Oct. 8.—Lucile prison, of the Red Feather Coal Company, in Bibb County, was burned to-day. The 250 white and negro convicts were taken out safely and temporarily placed in the company commissary and small houses. The loss is placed at $7,500. How the fire started is not known. The prison there burned in 1910 and 25 convicts lost their lives.

A new prison is being constructed.

Police Search Starts For Missing Actress

MEMPHIS, Oct. 8.—Fearing her daughter, Kittle Carmen, an actress, of No. 275 Corinthian street, Philadelphia, has been murdered or held against her will, Mrs. Lolla Carmen has asked the police to hunt for her in Memphis.

Begs That Sister, And Not Husband, Be Sent to Prison

TAMPA, Oct. 8.—"Don't send my husband to the convict camps," screamed the wife of Dr. G. M. Howsley, in criminal court to-day, as Judge Gibson sentenced him to ten years imprisonment.

"Don't send him," she screamed. "He's not guilty. Send the girl. She's the one who ought to go. She's the one who has broken up my home."
The girl of whom she spoke is her 13-year-old sister, Anita Castellanos.
The girl fled with Howsley last November, leaving Mrs. Howsley destitute with three children to care for. They were caught at Groesbeck, Tex., three months ago and brought back here.

Mayor Calls Police To Subdue Alderman

ROME, Oct. 8.—Mayor Yancey called the police to quiet Philip Vandiver, Alderman from the Third Ward, when Seaborn Wright, leader of the prohibition forces in Georgia, appeared before Council and protested with his characteristic vigor against the alleged sale of whisky in Rome, urging that more stringent ordinances be passed.

Vandiver began to argue about a petition which he desired to be read rather than listen to the prohibitionist. Thrice the Mayor ordered him to be seated, but Vandiver continued.

Business Men Launch Cordele Trade Body

CORDELE, Oct. 8.—With $3,000 raised by subscription at a gathering of business men at the City Hall, chances bid fair for one of the liveliest boards of trade in the State to become well established here within a few weeks.

Louis Spencer Daniel, well known throughout the South as an organizer of commercial bodies, and recently of Rome, was unanimously made general secretary.

STORM SWEEPS UP CAROLINA COAST

Weather Bureau Issues Hurricane Warning—Ships Stay in Port—Wrightsville Beach Deserted.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—A hurricane has set in off the Carolina coast, according to an official warning issued by the local Weather Bureau to-day. The bulletin reads:
"Hurricane warning displayed 9 a. m. off South Carolina coast and at Wilmington, N. C. Storm central east of Charleston, probably moving northwest."

Cottagers Flee From Wrightsville.

WILMINGTON, Oct. 8.—Fearful that Wrightsville Beach will be hard hit by the hurricane reported sweeping up the coast from Charleston and due to reach this vicinity to-night, all cottagers and others on the island moved up to the city to-day. There were unusually high tides, with a strong gale blowing this morning. The wind shifted about noon and there were extremely high tides this afternoon. No damage to property has been reported in this section from the storm, which first made its appearance yesterday.

Ships Warned to Remain in Port.

SAVANNAH, Oct. 8.—A precautionary signal warning ships to remain in port is flying from the Weather Bureau here, but the storm signal has not been displayed. The forecaster said Savannah would not be touched by the hurricane off the Carolina coast.

"How Wealth Oppresses the Poor Chorus Girl" is all explained in next Sunday's American by August Belmont's disowned daughter-in-law.

Catholic Convent at Birmingham Opened

BIRMINGHAM, Oct. 8.—The convent of the Blessed Sacrament Catholic parish, in West End, was dedicated to-day. The Right Rev. Bishop E. P. Allen, of Mobile; the Right Rev. Bernard, O. S. B., abbot of St. Bernard's monastery, and a choir of 50 benedictine monks participated.

A solemn high mass was said by the Rev. Father Patrick Turner, pastor of the Blessed Sacrament parish. Among the assistants were his brothers from Washington and New York; the Rev. Dr. Savage, of Montgomery; the Rev. Father McQuillen, of Ensley; and the Rev. Father Hackett, of Birmingham.

Editor O'Neal New Huntsville Mayor

HUNTSVILLE, Oct. 8.—R. L. O'Neal, editor of The Mercury-Banner, was elected President of the Commission and Mayor at the first regular meeting of the new City Commissioners.

Departments of city work were assigned to the three Commissioners as follows: O'Neal, Mayor; police, disinfecting, waterworks; Humphrey, streets, health, schools and cemetery; Lanier, lights, sewers, fire department; and buildings.

'BIG SIX' IS TESTED TO LIMIT IN NINTH, THEN WINS GAME WITH HIT

By BILLY SMITH, Manager Atlanta Team.

SHIBE PARK, PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8.—"Big Six" Mathewson beat the Athletics this afternoon 3 to 0 in the grandest pitching achievement in all his great career, evened up the series, and wrote in his splendid record the finest single feat credited to any pitcher in the annals of baseball.

Eddie Plank—grand old Eddie!—pitched for the Athletics, and his work was marvelous. The game was the most wonderful pitching duel ever staged in a world's series, going nine full innings before the break came.

It looked in the ninth as if Matty had cracked first. But the terrible crisis of the game struck from Matty's soul of steel only the sparks of the most brilliant feat ever performed by a world's series pitcher.

Strunk, the fleet outfielder, opened the ninth for Philadelphia with a single to center. Barry beat out a bunt and the runners advanced to second and third when Matty, making a desperate fielding play, threw past Wiltse, who was subbing for Merkle at first.

Runners on second and third—the last half of the ninth—none out—the Athletics at bat—it was the sternest test ever put to a great slaban.

And Matty rose to it in all his might. Rolling back the years to the date when he was first named "Big Six"—when he stood supreme above the baseball world, and none might equal him—the "Old Master" made his stand against the roaring thousands in Shibe Park and the slugging Athletics. And he set them down without a run.

Lapp tried to bunt Matty's great drop—Matty pounced on the ball and Strunk slid to certain death at the plate. Plank hit to Wiltse, close in, the "fade-away" sliding feebly from his swinging bat. And Barry was chased to death between McLean and Herzog.

One more test—and still runners on second and third. But once more Matty wheeled up the old fade-away, backed by all the grand arm, designed by all the cunning of the "Old Master."

And the ball came softly back—to Matty. And Murphy, the slugging Murphy, was an easy out at first. Even the Philadelphia crowd stood up to cheer "Big Six," then.

And it is not to wonder that it was Matty's own powerful drive that sent home the first run in the "break" that followed—the run that was enough to win, with the grandest pitcher in all the world fronting the enemy in the final session.

Plank had sped his bolt. He was done—done with the great work of holding the Giants rudderless for nine innings. McLean singled, Grant ran for him, and Wiltse sacrificed. Then Matty came through once more, and won his own game. That wasn't all. Collins broke under the strain, the Giants crowded in, and two more runs came across before Plank could get the side out.

That was enough, and more than enough. Oldring, Collins and Baker were the slugging trio that confronted Matty in the last of the tenth.

But they hadn't a chance. The crowd was not a top-heavy one. Official figures gave only a little more than 20,000 in the big park. Frank Baker got his daily hit, but was helpless before Matty in the pinches. In the first inning, with runners on second and third, Baker fanned.

The game was well played throughout, abounding in brilliant flashes of fielding, notably by Burns, the new outfielder of the Giants. McGraw had to shift his line-up on account of the injury to Merkle. Snodgrass, also with a bad leg, essayed to play first, but had to retire in favor of Wiltse after making a hit. "Hooks" played a good game at first. McLean caught for the Giants, and started the final break with his hit in the tenth.

Details of the Great Game Exactly as It Was Played

FIRST INNING.
Herzog, leading off for the Giants, hit the first ball pitched for a pop fly to Collins. Doyle watched a ball pass him and then fled to Strunk. Fletcher took a couple of balls, then fouled off two and finally fanned. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.
Mathewson started badly, wheeling up three balls to Eddie Murphy. Then he grooved one, and Murphy singled past second. Matty dropped two strikes over on Oldring, and then Rube singled to left, Murphy stopping at second. Collins advanced the runners with a sacrifice bunt to Snodgrass. Baker was up in the pinch, but the "Old Master" was too much for the home-run kid, and fanned him on four pitched balls. McInnis fled to Burns, and Matty was out of a deep hole. NO RUNS, TWO HITS, NO ERRORS.
SECOND INNING.
Burns watched one ball and two strikes shoot past him, and then swung hard at a beautiful hook. With a ball and a strike on him, Shafer fled

MAYOR BLAMES RUTH HANDS RUMMY MANAGEMENT OF SCHOOLS

Mayor Woodward intimated Thursday that after making a personal inspection of the most crowded schoolhouses in Atlanta and carefully studying the reports of the principals of the various schools he might send a message to City Council in the nature of advice to the Board of Education and Superintendent of Schools William M. Slaton.

"I am inclined to believe that most of the trouble is due to the management actively in charge of the schools," he said. "I am convinced that the overcrowding is not as bad as it has been portrayed. The greatest trouble seems to me to be the distracting of the city. There doesn't seem to be much system in the division of the pupils among the schools."

Mayor Woodward's idea is that about $50,000 spent on remodeling old buildings would give relief for the next year. He likely will advocate an appropriation for this purpose before the new Council.

Members of the Council have become much interested in the situation, and at the next meeting a special committee to investigate conditions probably will be appointed.

FRANK LAWYERS WILL AGREE TO WEEK DELAY

Expressing the opinion that a further delay in the hearing of the motion for a new trial for Leo St. Frank will only serve to make them more secure in their case against Jurek A. H. Hennes, whom they charge with prejudice and bias, counsel for Frank Thursday indicated that they were entirely agreeable to Solicitor Dorsney's request for a postponement of another week until he should be able to complete his review of the defense's records.

The Solicitor, who, with his assistant, A. E. Stephens, has been going over the voluminous amended motion of the defense with its 111 reasons for a new trial since its filing last week by Frank's lawyers, refuses to discuss the case except to express his confidence that a new trial will be denied. He stands firmly by his original declaration that the offense is without adequate grounds to ask for a new trial.

SKIES NOW CLEARING, PROMISE TO CLEAR IN TIME FOR THIRD GAME

By Billy Smith
Manager Atlanta Team.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—The weather bureau relented in its attitude toward the World's Series at 9 o'clock to-day and issued the following forecast: "Continued cloudy with light precipitations." The regular forecast had predicted rain that would prevent playing of the third contest.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—To begin with, the weather morning looks as if the third game of the World's Series would be called off sure enough. The weather man says a storm is pending, and it looks to me as if it is pending pretty close, too.

If the game is rained out, of course that will change the looks of the rest of the series, and there is no doping out what ought to happen from now on, because there's no telling how long it will be before the next game, or what conditions it will be played under.

The pitching lay-out for this afternoon, if the game is played, seems to be one of Mack's youngsters against Jeff Tesreau—probably Shaver. Bush is the second choice. There is no chance that Mack will try to send Bender back, even in the face of the Polo Grounds crowd. He will take a chance with a youngster, and I think he is right about it.

Schang will catch for the Athletics and big Larry McLean for the Giants. McGraw is certainly having tough luck with his team in the way of injuries.

Merkle is out with a sprained ankle and Snodgrass' lame leg would let him stay for only a few innings, after which he was taken out in bad shape.

Chief Meyers injured a thumb in practice, and McLean had to catch, and probably will have to catch the rest of the series, from what I can hear.

Write Pats Great Game.

But I must say that his substitutes put up a great game yesterday. George Willis played first base as well as I ever hope to see it played, and in the ninth inning he was simply great.

Trustees for Home For Wayward Girls Named by Slaton

Governor John M. Slaton today named the board of managers for the wayward girls home, authorized by the Legislature at the session.

The board is composed of Wm. H. Moore of Atlanta; Mrs. Z. T. Finley of Madison; Judge W. H. Davis of Waynesboro; Mrs. William Patton of Cartersville; and the Rev. J. A. G. Adams of Atlanta.

The board is required to meet until June 15, to organize. The first three trustees named are to meet until June 15, and the last two on June 30, 1914.

Crime to Read Bryan Book, Says Hindu

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—To read the works of William J. Bryan, now the trustee of the Hindu temple in this city, is a crime, said a Hindu priest today.

He said that the Hindu temple in this city is a place of worship for the Hindu people, and that the works of Bryan are a disgrace to the Hindu religion.

Mayor Calls Police To Subdue Alderman

ROME, Oct. 8.—Mayor Yawee called the police to quiet Philip Vandiver, Alderman from the Third Ward, when he threatened to appear before Council and protest with his characteristic vigor against the alleged sale of whisky in Rome, urging that more stringent ordinances be passed.

Vandiver has said more about a petition which he desired to see read before the Council on the prohibition laws in Georgia. The Mayor advised him to be seated, but Vandiver continued.

Well, another, Rush, just a minute, they I was never so excited in my life as I am in the seventh inning. This power was 3 to 4 with the Athletics in the lead. Well, the old Giants got things up and took a lead of three runs in the bottom of the ninth. I had had a long day, but I was not tired. I had had a long day, but I was not tired.

PLANKING PIONEERS TO FIGHT OUT ODD GAME

Threatening Skies Promise to Clear by Time of Contest at the Polo Grounds.

hand it to Matty. He's a king of them all, and his work in the ninth inning yesterday laid over anything I ever expect to see on a baseball diamond.

Plank was mighty good, too, and you may remember that before over a game was played I predicted that Plank would pitch a tighter game against the Giants than Bender. That old cross-fire from the off-side is hard for any team to hit, and especially the Giants. But, the new man, who showed so well against Hendrix, fanned three times yesterday; Plank getting him the last time even after he was waddling and nearly all in.

I would like to say of Burns that he certainly showed great class in his fielding yesterday, as well as the day before. He covered a world of territory, and twice he pulled down what looked like the famous "bat" from the outfield, getting it under wonderful opening.

That Ninth Inning!

But the real flesh of the day was in the Athletics' half of the ninth inning.

I would like to be a regular writer long enough to tell what happened in about four minutes in that inning. Still, I don't know what happened, but I know that it was a wonderful play very much. There are some things that don't seem to fit into words, no matter how many or how good words you may have.

That work of Matty's in the ninth inning was one of those things. There couldn't be a worse hole for a pitcher to be in. Here it was the last half of the ninth, and the Athletics' home lot, with runners on second and third, nobody out, and the score 9 to 6. The infield was made nearly all in.

Anything would score a run and give the game, and probably the series, to Philadelphia. A fly, an error, a hit, a bit of foul play, and Strunk was on third, and there isn't a faster man in the business than him.

Well, I'm no writer, as I said, but I have had something to do with baseball for some time, and you know what Matty was up against, although I can't express it very well. There is a short work in the ninth inning, and I'm talking about a run which comes near anything else to fitting the case.

But Matty was there.

That's about all I can say about it—Matty was there.

Pitches Some Ball.

I tell you I was pulling for the Athletics to win the series, but it would have mighty near broken my heart to see Matty beaten just then. The old boy went at his work like a hero. He just hitched his pants and pulled down his cap, and then, let me tell you, he pitched some ball.

The infield was right up on the grade, and Lapp swung on the old run-away. I reckon it must have faded just right for the ball, but straight at George. Strunk was coming in like a streak, but "Hooks" shot the ball to the plate and old Larry McLean snatching it up before the ball was off-lapped the ball on him. It was an awfully close decision, but I reckon you'll agree that right. Anyway, he is an American League umpire.

There was a consultation before Plank batted. I thought sure Connie would send up a pinch hitter, but he would come back to take his turn. He took a good swing at the second pitch, and the ball went right to Willie again. George was faster in fielding it this time, and Harry was not so fast. A man as Strunk, too, he would catch cleanly between McLean and Herzog, though it was Matty himself who finally put the ball on him.

Well, I could hear Major Callaway take a long breath as the infield settled back in its regular place and old Matty pulled off his cap and rubbed his sleeve across his face. I took a long breath, too, and it felt as if I hadn't been breathing all for quite a while. My eye was sore.

Crowd Yells Wildly.

The crowd was getting something tremendous. It was hard to tell whether or not the Athletics were scoring or cheering Matty for his grand work.

I suddenly felt that Matty was going to get out of the hole, in spite of the fact that there still were runners on second and third, and Eddie Murphy at the bat. And sure enough, Murphy could do no better than an easy bounder to Matty himself, and the side was out.

Then when McLean swung in the tenth I knew the break was on. You can't tell it coming, but I saw a live dented muck ball. Grant ran for the big Scotchman and Willie went live down in good shape with a sacrifice. I wasn't a bit surprised when Matty came through with the punch that settled the game. The Athletics' three tough hitters in the lineup fanned. Matty in the home half of the tenth, but that didn't make any difference, either. It would have been just the same with Collins, Dawson and Speaker coming up. Nobody on earth could have hit Collins Dawson.

That's it, he is the greatest pitcher that ever lived.

I still think the Athletics will win the series.

ELOPERS WED TWICE TOMAKE KNOT SECURE

Friends of the former Miss Ida Weinberg, No. 58 Kelly street, are now learning of a romance which, spurred by impetuosity, made her Mrs. Charles Kaplan Saturday night and doubly secured the matrimonial bonds when the bride and bridegroom were wed Sunday.

The first ceremony was performed unceremoniously after Ordinary John Weinberg had been awakened at his home to issue a license and Judge Bell allowed to officiate. Not until after the knot was tied did the young couple call Miss Weinberg's parents and notify them of their marriage.

The second ceremony was performed.

"You see," said Mrs. Kaplan in telling the about the affair Thursday, "Charles and I had been in love with each other for several months, but we were afraid to ask my parents' consent."

Then Saturday night Charles called to see me and we sat out on the veranda and decided there was no use in waiting any longer. "Charles got an automobile and we started out to the Ordinary's house for a license. Mr. Wilkinson looked mad when we first came up, but when Charles told him what we wanted he smiled and made out the papers.

"Then we drove over to Judge Bell's house and he, too, laughed when we told him what we wanted. He married us, and then I called up my house."

"Mamma answered the telephone and I braved myself for a scolding, but all she said was, 'You children will have to be married again tomorrow.'"

Before Mr. and Mrs. Weinberg and a few intimate friends of the young couple the second ceremony was performed Sunday night at the home of the bride. They are now at home at No. 244 Buse street.

More Workers Than Ever Will Give Day's Earnings Saturday, Home Trustees Say.

Saturday, October 11, will be the annual "Work Day for the Orphans." The board of trustees of the Decatur Orphans' Home has issued, through its secretary, W. E. McCalla, a plea to every man in Georgia to give the value of one day's work to that institution.

Sunday, October 12, will be "Orphan's Bally Day" in a number of Atlanta churches, and in many churches in other parts of Georgia. Sermons will be preached on the orphans, to drive home to the people generally the needs of the various institutions and of the Decatur home in particular.

The board of trustees of the Decatur institution hopes to raise $25,000 by this means next Saturday. The plan of making one day's work each year has proven a greater success each year since it was started in 1912. The donations have increased from $800 the first year to $16,000 in 1921, and with the greater enthusiasm that the workers are manifesting this year it is thought the $25,000 will be easily raised.

The Decatur home now has on its rolls about 120 children, which at this time increases to 190 or 200. Six of its establishment, it has cared for 2,500 children, educating them and sending them out into the world equipped to make a living.

Some of these children have achieved success and occupy high places of trust and importance. The monthly expense of the institution ranges from $1,000 to $2,000, including food, clothing, education, salaries for matrons and teachers, etc.

The home was established 42 years ago by Dr. Jesse Boring, and for many years was located at Norcross, where nineteen orphans were cared for in 1921.

In 1923 the home was burned and the institution was re-established at Decatur, where its fifteen buildings now stand on a farm of 225 acres. A good school and kindergarten are maintained, and the children are given as good an education as they could get at the public schools.

FOES OF SULZER CLAIM 40 WILL VOTE 'GUILTY'

With Testimony All in, Lawyers Begin Arguments—End Expected Early Next Week.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 9.—A verdict in the impeachment trial of Governor William Sulzer is expected next Monday afternoon or Tuesday morning. Following the unexpected termination of evidence taking, to-day was given over to oratory.

Louis Marshall, of counsel for the Governor, who was selected to address the judges in the defense, went into court prepared to make the speech of his life.

Judge Alton B. Parker, who had been scheduled to give the case Friday afternoon for the prosecution, was expected to give way to Edgar T. Bruckett, who is more path of oratory than his academic colleague.

As the case draws to its climax opponents of Governor Sulzer claimed today that they have 40 votes. Only 38 votes are necessary to convict the accused executive.

The point now upon which the greatest uncertainty hangs is: What punishment will be meted out to Governor Sulzer if he should be found guilty?

Many legislators believe that justice, under such circumstances, should be tempered with mercy. The general impression to-day that that of found guilty Governor Sulzer merely would be removed from office. If, as desired, the court could bar him from holding office.

The Rev. George Chalmers Richmond, of Philadelphia, friend and supporter of Governor Sulzer, who has been subpoenaed by the prosecution but not called to the stand, had a bitter squabble with several Tammany men. The clergyman charged that a conspiracy had been hatched by enemies of Mr. Sulzer to assault him. Dr. Richmond said to preach a sermon against Tammany Hall, using as his text the word "Hell."

Judge Fite Defends Reversal Record

CARTERSVILLE, Ga., Oct. 9.—Judge A. W. Fite, of the Cherokee Circuit, having noticed the fact that newspaper reports credited him with four reversals and no affirmations in the colored Supreme Court decisions handed down, called attention to the fact that, while the statement is true, he was affirmed five times and reversed only twice in the September decisions.

The judge also disclaims any loss of reputation of the Supreme Court because of the October reversals, and says: "I know the judges of the Supreme Court personally and I think highly of them; they are not infallible, they are able lawyers and upright judges, and I have no cause of complaint against them."

'North of 53' Films Highly Interesting

The most genuinely interesting and enthralling entertainment the Atlanta theater has offered this season is a set of moving pictures. As displayed Wednesday, the films, "North of 53," have caught much of the romance of adventurous effort and of achievement that has marked life in Alaska. The pictures were made by Beverly R. Dolbe and his assistants in Alaska, one of the assistants, Sidney Davies, explains the pictures as they are presented.

The pictures will be shown the remainder of the week, evening and afternoon.

Red Cross Stamps To Go on Sale Soon

Plans for the sale of Red Cross Christmas Stamps are being made by the trustees of the Royal Foundation, which has been appointed agent for Georgia. Bernard Butler, of Atlanta, has been selected State chairman for the campaign. He is being aided by Dixon Van Bursum, of New York, representing the National Tuberculosis Association, who is now in Atlanta.

Last year the sale of the stamps in Georgia totaled 700,000, and this year it is hoped to sell 1,000,000. Trustees of the Royal Foundation are Mrs. F. G. Hodgson, Mayor R. J. Gunn, Joseph McLeod, John K. Ottley and T. K. Glenn.

Widow Given $9,000 For Engineer's Death

MACON, Oct. 9.—Mrs. Georgia May Yates, of Macon, has been awarded a verdict of $9,000 against the Georgia Southern and Florida Railroad at Perry in the Honorable Superior Court for the death of her husband, an engineer, who was killed in a wreck at Bonair eighteen months ago.

The conductor failing to give the signal to stop at a meeting point, the engineer forgot his orders and proceeded ahead, the wreck resulting. Although he himself was negligent, the jury held that the contributory negligence of one of the company's employees justified a verdict.

Animals Escape From Circus; Kill Flocks

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian. BURLINGAME, Oct. 9.—The destruction of the hocks and herds in the mountains of Styria, Austria, caused by wild beasts that escaped from a menagerie in September has been so great that the Austrian government has ordered an expedition to kill them.

A reward of $250 is offered for the head of the lioness, and smaller rewards for the heads of the other animals.

Spends Year's Pay To Make One Arrest

MENHAIM, N. J., Oct. 9.—Marshall John Tigar spent his year's salary, $25, to take a prisoner in town in an automobile. William Kirk, the prisoner, was arrested for disturbing the peace.

He was speaking before the Methodist Sunday School Institute here.

CITY'S BANKERS PRODUCE MEETING IN CONVENTION

Atlanta's Bankers Discuss Currency and Keep Aspirations of Georgia City Well Advertised.

confidence in his honesty and ability. He is a great man in a technical and a financial. Yet President Wilson is not a great financier. And a financier is what the bankers are looking for.

Need Bankers' Backing.

"The people with whom I am confident about the confidence of President Wilson's financial policy, that is a prerequisite to their success in the currency legislation. To be successful, they must have the backing of the bankers, with whom proper use of the ready money of the country is like the enactment of a bill of law with reference to legislation. It is not make such an estimate as a success count, a change of mind behind you. The Owen-Glass currency bill can not be a howling success in its present form because it is opposed by the great majority of bankers of the country.

"The intention of the bill is of the best. It aims to make possible elastic currency. Should it do it would prevent a change of mind behind you. The question is: Will it do just the things that are intended by it? It is no time to experiment. We want one.

"This currency problem is a thing that is a failure in. We know how it is going to work out for we see it.

Dean of Delegation.

"I am probably the oldest man in the banking business in this country. I have lived through the ups and downs of the business, and I know anything that might precipitate other one. Young men are more or less and young men have the right to know what they are getting into. In this instance it is a case of a rush in where angle for a road.

"If the present currency bill becomes a law, I imagine the government would have a hard time doing its 2 and 3 per cent work. Under the new bill no banks would be to buy them, and there you are. Would the government do for it if it couldn't sell its bonds?"

The Georgians in their own way are having a "bully time" today. Yesterday Mrs. Powell presided at the allied luncheon at her many hostess friends. At a formal meeting held in King's Hotel, one of the famous colonial buildings of Boston, Mrs. Powell sang a song which was written by her husband, the Rev. John Pierpont Morgan. Mrs. Powell is a cousin of late J. Pierpont Morgan.

Visit U. S. Georgia.

Headed by L. P. Hillier, vice president of the American National Bank of Macon, the Georgian party will visit the Charleston Navy Yard today and were guests at a luncheon at the Hotel Georgia.

Joseph W. Heffernan, cashier of the Hibernia Bank of Savannah, and Henry Hunt, president of the Citizens Bank of Milton, Fla., and H. S. Harvey, of the First National Bank of Milton, are riding in the train with the convention go to Atlanta.

'NO QUARTER' WAR HUERTA'S THREAT

Reports of Massacre of Federal Prisoners by Rebels Stir Mexican President.

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian. MEXICO CITY, Oct. 9.—The prisoners will be taken by Federal troops in Northern Mexico if reports that General Alvarez and 125 of his men were massacred by constitutionalists at Torreon are confirmed by the War Department. War Minister Blanguet may be ordered by President Huerta to take the field in person, it was learned to-day.

The resolve to show no mercy to the Northern rebels in the extermination following reports from Torreon of the massacre of federalists there after the capture of the town by insurgents.

All rebels captured will be tried by court-martial upon capture and ordered to die.

THOSE HEADACHES

A YOUNG woman who sat in her car near me the other day had neither book nor baby to occupy her mind, and it straightway fell back upon herself, and she showed it by the manner in which she moved her hands.

ALWAYS take whatever's mine, wherever it is found—in the sky or on the sea or buried in the ground, I simply always take the thing I feel belongs to me.

ONE who has lived and lost—who has tasted the joy of married life and known the desolation of bereavement—writes me: "Do you think it wrong for a woman to wish to marry again? I loved my husband dearly and mourned his death, but now, after nearly seven years, I feel the need of a man's presence. But, unfortunately, I see few men, and can not make advances."

If accompanied with backache, dragging-down eyes, do not have to wear a headband which a woman should suffer in this manner.

LEADERS IN BUSINESS SHOW PRAISE SUCCESS OF SUNDAY AMERICAN

phenomenal increase in their circulation is sufficient proof of this fact. I have been greatly impressed by the editorial policy of these two papers. I do not doubt that many a young man has been given a "lift" and a new aim in life through the trenchant editorials and the accompanying cartoons of Winsor McCay, Hal Hofman, Tad and the other artists. It would be difficult to surpass the admirable articles by Mr. Hearst's corps of fearless writers and thinkers. They are aimed at the grave perils which menace the country, and they hit the mark.

The Hearst editorials attack matters which have been neglected by the other papers of the country up to this time. I admire them for it. They are accomplishing an immense amount of good.

I am pleased that THE SUNDAY AMERICAN has passed the 100,000 net paid circulation mark, and it is my wish that continued success will reward the able efforts of Mr. Hearst in this section of the country.

ROBERT F. MADDOX, Vice President American National Bank and Former Mayor:

The accomplishment of a circulation of more than 100,000 net paid in six months by HEARST'S SUNDAY AMERICAN is remarkable. These figures, together with the statement of THE GEORGIAN'S circulation, are proof of the progressive policies of these papers.

The Hearst newspapers in Atlanta are assets of wonderful potentiality for Atlanta and this section of the South. Their birth and growth among us come at a time when the public and advertising they are capable of giving is most needed and can do most good in our section.

I am firmly convinced that we are on the eve of the greatest commercial and industrial era we have ever known. When we think of the fact that Georgia's cotton crop this year will be worth approximately $100,000,000, frequently distributed, $30 each for every man, woman and child, white and black, in the State, we get some idea of the prosperity that is approaching. The biggest crop we have ever raised means that more of this money will stay in the State.

It is a time to let the world know that a good section this is to live and do business in. Atlanta as the metropolis of the South will rise to prosperity on the crest of the wave.

What the Hearst newspapers can do for the section has been illustrated. Their increasing circulation is evidence of the aggressiveness of the field and gives them power for greater good. The whole Hearst chain of newspapers here added materially the dignity of the Imperial Council of the Mystic Shrine. All of them are housing Atlanta for the next convention of the American Bankers' Association. His Boston newspapers, where the convention of the American Bankers' Association is being held this week, are in a position to give special aid to the movement to have Atlanta selected as the next meeting place, and it seems assured that we will get the 1914 convention.

The State meeting and the bankers' convention will put Atlanta in the forefront of American convention cities. These are some of the reasons I am glad to see the Hearst newspapers in Atlanta prospering.

JOHN D. LITTLE, Lawyer:

The growth of the Hearst newspapers in Atlanta is another proof of the wonderful opportunity.

Hooper Recovers His Stolen Watch

A gold watch that was stolen on June 2 from Frank A. Hooper, the attorney who was associated with Soligo Hooper in the trial of Leo M. Frank, was recovered at a Peavey street pawnshop by detectives Wednesday and restored to the owner. The watch was stolen from Mr. Hooper by the same bandit who attacked him as he was walking to his home, No. 729 Piedmont avenue. Mr. Hooper was knocked down and the watch taken from his pocket.

Shooting in Church Breaks Up Revival

DALTON, Oct. 8.—A revival meeting at Center Hill, Murray County, has been discontinued following a gun fight in the church. Try to White- Wash Pimples

People Who Attempt to Hide Unpleasant Pimples Behind Paint and Powder, Clog Their Pores and Costen Their Skin.

Pimples are the source of the greatest concern and humiliation of the sensitive girl anxious for the admiration of her admirers. And it is only natural that she tries to hide her face behind paint and powder.

She little realizes, however, what a terrible injury she is doing to her skin through the clogging and irritating of the pores of the skin. The impurities in the paint that cause pimples have no way of escape on the face, but on the shoulders, neck and arms, instead of clogging her looks, she has spoiled whatever beauty.

Dr. Joseph Jacobs, Druggist: I have a remedy which will cure you of your pimples. It is a splendid illustration of the fact that the best medicine is the simplest. It is a simple, natural, and safe remedy. It is a simple, natural, and safe remedy. It is a simple, natural, and safe remedy.

JAMES NUNNALLY, President of the Nunnally Company: I have a remedy which will cure you of your pimples. It is a splendid illustration of the fact that the best medicine is the simplest. It is a simple, natural, and safe remedy. It is a simple, natural, and safe remedy.

FRANK HAWKINS, President Third National Bank: My attention has been attracted by an Atlanta newspaper which has been better illustrated than in the attainment of a net paid by THE SUNDAY AMERICAN within a few months after its first issue.

I hold in the highest regard. Especially does my editorial regard appeal to me. Scintillatingly brilliant and full of editorial force, editorials furnish me with my most interesting reading. I am glad to see the manner in which THE SUNDAY AMERICAN has not only met the requirements of a newspaper, but has also become a source which every Southern newspaper should emulate.

JOHN E. MURPHY, Capitalist: I certainly do not contradict the statement that the circulation of THE SUNDAY AMERICAN is one of the most remarkable achievements in newspaper history. It is a wonderful illustration of the fact that the best medicine is the simplest. It is a simple, natural, and safe remedy. It is a simple, natural, and safe remedy.

Showing the Best Fall Fashions

Calling Attention to Special Things in Each Department

Things That Prove the Low Cost of Dressing

Indeed it is quite possible to dress well—to wear the things of good style, the sort of things you find at ALLEN'S, within a limited income. Follow this suggestion, come here and see for yourself. Count this an invitation to discover here the Ready-to-Wear that means good clothes at lowest possible cost.

A Wise Choice of Suits At Modest Prices

There are few things that give women as much pleasure as choosing their winter clothes—testing the loveliness of the change of fashion and that touch of new color. And here are suits innumerable, each one being the economic purchase.

Women's Inexpensive Dresses Designed by Artists

These are the kind you will find here, in beautiful soft materials—both wool and silk crepes—made after the accepted fashion, draped skirts and bloused bodice—with lines and combinations none but an artist could achieve—as shown in picture and others of beautiful design and great variety.

Suits at $19.75 Some are strictly tailored, some suggest a little more dressiness of diagonals, serges and fancy mixtures. Black, and a splendid assortment of colors, and quality surprising, including Misses' model like cut.

Suits at $25 We have an unequalled line of suits at this price. Cloth, serge and other new and beautiful rough finished cloths so much in favor. Black, blue, the new browns, greens and mahogany.

Suits at $35 Distinguishing are the styles shown at this price. Exclusive models of foreign inspiration, in all the new and rare colors. These styles are represented in the picture shown.

Women's Inexpensive Dresses $19.75 and $25

New Evening Dresses The very attractive evening frock of very recent arrival is made of a striking combination of soft charmeuse in pale shades, forming the drapery, with shadow lace tunic and bodice. $35

Other new Evening Dresses of less expense are shown here—dainty with lace and graceful drapery, including dancing frocks of acordion-plaited chiffon. $12.50, $19.75, $25.00 and $35.00

The Fashionable Sport Coat

It's hard to connect the going of summer with the arrival of winter without the aid of just such a coat. It was created for these between-season times. We're showing them in short lengths at $6.00. Three-quarter lengths, green, mahogany, blue and white, $12.50, $15 and $19.75.

Auto Coats of Wombro Chinchilla Navy blue and two shades of gray—a very attractive and very practical coat—a $25 value—$18.75.

Separate Skirt Special, $4.95

Our fall models in the separate skirts are unusually modish. We show all the fashionable plaids in colors and black and white. Handsome draped models in black and blue serge and broadcloth. Price range—$4.95 to $12.50.

This week we will sell our handsome $6 models—black and blue serge and broadcloth—worsts, at $4.95

Lace Coat and Dress Sets

Importers' close-outs of fine Venise Lace Collars and Sets No old styles, soiled or discarded lots. They are simply remnants or odds and ends. Actual values from $1.50 to $3.00.

Leather Bag Special

SEARCHING SIDELIGHTS ON POLITICS IN GEORGIA

By JAMES B. NEVIN. State Entomologist E. Lee Woodward, who has made a long and careful study of the boll weevil conditions in the Southwest, has succeeded in arousing a great deal of interest, not only in Georgia, but throughout the South, by his grafting experiments in the line of producing a satisfactory breed of cotton that matures early enough to escape the ravages of the pest.

Mr. Woodward's bulletin and occasional promulgations are being received with eagerness in all Southern agricultural departments, for the press of the South recently has been commenting upon them freely and favorably.

Mr. Woodward's ideas carry two cardinal proposals—an early maturing cotton that will resist black root and the deadly wilt disease, and the greater use of insecticides.

For three years the Georgia Department of Agriculture has followed Mr. Woodward's direction, has been busy planting and grafting, and has made a considerable amount of progress, as stated. Enough of it finally has been produced to make a supply of thousands of farmers.

The cotton planting season and the weevil problem and have time left for the cotton planter and the farmer, mostly may be approximately the same amount of cotton which is now being planted and raised to give to other and later crops, and in this way to more effectively diversify them.

Thousands of good friends all over the state are interested in Mr. Woodward's work, and many of them are sending him letters of appreciation. The young son of Secretary Phil Cook, who has been interested in Mr. Woodward's work since he was a child, is now in his office in the first time in several years and thinks his son, who is only 11 years of age, will all right and with State Senators Lawrence and Pritchard, and other Senators, entirely out of danger within a few days.

Atlanta was more or less invaded by Brown, Bush, Wullich, London, and other forces, all dropped in to see the Governor.

Alexander A. Lawrence, of Savannah, who has represented the city many times in the Legislature, has just returned from a tour of inspection as some outside bureau may think it, said Mr. Lawrence, that he has never seen so many bollworms in Georgia as he has seen in Savannah nowadays.

This Young "Old World" Will Never Be Overcrowded

Scientists Need Not Worry About That. A Widom Bigger Than Their Attends to Our Problems.

When Columbus landed on American soil the population of this continent was possibly a million—perhaps less.

The squaws had babies nearly every year, but the squaws' husbands killed each other off so fast, and hunger and ignorance killed the squaws' daughters off so fast, that after thousands of years of "multiplying," the whole population of the North American continent was less than the population of Brooklyn, N. Y., to-day.

The widely foolish view with alarm the fact that we have ninety millions of people on this continent now; that we have five millions cooped up in one big city.

And wisdom asks, "Where is the thing to end? What will happen to this earth when there are more human beings on it than the earth can possibly feed?"

"Will they eat each other, will infanticide be made compulsory—or, as among the ants, will the great mass of the population be made incapable of reproducing their kind?"

We are reminded of the fact that in congested parts of China thousands live and die in boats on the water, because they have no room on land, and little girls are thrown into the streams and rivers at birth because they are not wanted.

Really intelligent men, believing that figures never lie, are sure that men eventually must keep down the population, as Swift grimly suggested in his satire on Ireland, by eating the surplus children or in some other way.

Nobody ever need lose sleep worrying about the fate of humanity in an overcrowded world.

Things and future dangers are not what they seem. Henry George wisely pointed out the rapid growth of a puppy's tail and drew a moral from the tail.

If the puppy's tail grew throughout the dog's life as fast as it grows in the first few weeks, the old dog would have a tail a hundred feet long. And the distressed, kind-hearted owner would have to cut off his dog's tail once every few weeks.

But the wisdom of nature takes care of that, and the puppy's tail stops growing at just the right moment.

So it is, or will be, with the human race on this planet—like the puppy's tail it will stop growing at the right moment—when it is just the right size.

The best scientific articles and reviews that appear in this country are published now in Hearst's Magazine. That magazine, the October number, contains some interesting facts and figures that shed light on nature's method of managing population.

The elephant is big, heavy and hungry. If he multiplied rapidly enough, he would soon cover the earth and step on everybody. But the elephant is thirty years old before she has her first child. And, unlike the little mouse, she has only one at a time.

On the other hand, some of the elephant's little cousins, microscopic animalcules, beginning with a single pair, increase to the number of a hundred and seventy thousand millions (170,000,000,000) in four days—which is quite a family.

The cabbage louse multiplies with such frightful speed that if he were not checked by a death rate as great as his fecundity, it would soon present to the eye a mass of cabbage lice bigger than this earth.

When you have a cold in the head, the living germs develop in your nose and throat by the millions, while your friend is telling you "how he cares his colds." You would be shocked if you could realize what a menagerie you carry around.

Nature, wiser than the scientists, has planned this globe for man's farm, home, intellectual gymnasium and starting point to a higher life with absolute certainty and precision.

Little by little all animal life will disappear, from the germ to the giraffe, except man, who alone will represent thought and will power, now shared with his humble brothers in the animal world.

With man, as with other animals, increased development will mean decreased fertility.

Pig weed will cover a thousand acres while the oak tree is growing half a foot above its acorn. But the oak tree will be there in a hundred years and the pig weed vanished.

Man as he becomes more highly developed intellectually will—thousands of centuries from now, populate this earth fully—and then automatically, without infanticide or cannibalism or any other horror, the population of the earth will become automatically balanced.

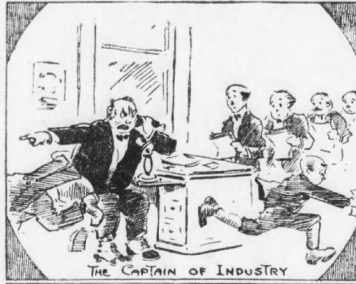

Each man and woman on the average will leave behind them one pair of children.

There will be no death in childhood, and no pain in childbirth—those unnecessary brutalities will be eliminated by science within a few centuries.

Meanwhile, the duty of men and women is to work for the welfare of the children, being more anxious to protect and help those that are here than to increase the number, more eager to give proper care to a few than to brag about many.

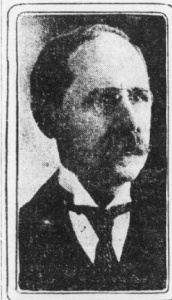

P. S.—Not entirely unselfishly, but none the less sincerely, this newspaper advises the thinking men and women among its readers to get regularly Hearst's Magazine, which gives careful attention to important scientific matters, as well as to that which is lighter and more generally interesting. To read it regularly is to have an intelligent presentation of the thought and literature of the world.

Queer Opinion of Spanish People

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

GARRETT P. SERVISS

wishes for an alliance with Spain in order that Spanish armies may aid in the protection of France.

But there is a broader aspect to this subject, which is revealed in a remark of the famous French authoress, Madame Adam.

When asked recently her opinion about the proposed Spanish alliance, she replied that such an understanding appeared to her desirable in every sense of the word.

Cry of French Minister Is Pathetic in the Extreme

Can anything be more pathetic than this cry—one may call it so—from the lips of M. Ribot, former Minister of Foreign Affairs.

found on courage, for bullfighters in Spain people are not afraid of blood, and that it is which makes the nation indomitable!

Everybody knows that Madame Adam tells only the plain truth about the indomitable character of the people of Spain.

Never mastered them as she mastered other races. The rush of the Moors upon them was merely an overwhelming wave which eventually was hurled back again.

But is it true that not only a tolerance, but a passion, for bloodshed is, as Madame Adam seems to think, the surest indication of an unconquerable spirit of a people?

We might find historic grounds for such an opinion. When Rome at the same time ruled and defied the world her people delighted in nothing so much as scenes of blood.

Yet Rome fell when other peoples as fearless of blood as her own began to descend in hordes upon her.

Madame Adam is undoubtedly right in wishing to see Spain placed shoulder to shoulder with France at this critical moment.

War Slowly but Surely Losing Its Former Ferocity

But—war, while seeming to render itself more terrible by the aid of science, is slowly losing its teeth and beginning to tremble in every limb, like those superannuated giants that Bunyan saw in his vision inhabiting the cave at the termination of the Valley of the Shadow of Death.

It is stumbling under the weight it carries. By and by it will pass away, and then, since human nature can change at the bottom as rapidly as it changes on the surface, it will behave the world to see that it does not take upon its shoulders, in the form of a "Mr. Legality," a more insufferable burden than that born by the scion of the "Apollon" of war.

WINIFRED BLACK

Writes on The Girl Who Ran Away From School

It's the Unkind Things That the "Snippy" Girls Say About Each Other That Causes the Real Heartaches of School Days.

By WINIFRED BLACK.

A LITTLE girl ran away from school the other day and tried to kill herself because the girl who sat in front of her sniffed when the teacher asked what the little girl in the back row was called.

"I don't know her name," said the little girl in front. "I never met her." And she snuffed the silly little addled pate into the air, and looked as scornful as she conveniently could.

When they carried her home her mother found out all about what a bad time she'd been having at school, so she kept her at home a few days and then sent her to another school, where the girls weren't such geese, or at least where they didn't dare to show it if they were.

By this time the girl is probably very happy. Perhaps she is even turning up her nose now and then at some harmless creature in braids and short skirt coats.

Do you remember the new school where you went when your dress was longer and all the other girls' dresses were short, and you saw some looking at those skirts and smiling ever so little?

There was a way, I know that, much vaguer—grown-up did it—but people look straight into their minds—they were a kind of mark or something. I had seen my mother do it when the cook threatened to leave at an inopportune moment.

There was a way, I know that, much vaguer—grown-up did it—but people look straight into their minds—they were a kind of mark or something.

One of the big newspaper men of the country told me once that he couldn't bear the sight of anything red.

"Crimson I can stand," said the big newspaper man, "and cardinal isn't so bad, but this bright red—sepiol, isn't it?—makes me fairly crazy and I wish it so far away."

Worrying Parents.

"Once my father went traveling, and when he came home he brought my brother and me capes—blue broadcloth capes—lined with scarlet flannel, and the capes were pinned and so was the flannel. The kids gaped us, and so we wore those capes decorously out of the house to the next corner, went backward a way, hid them in the woodpile and then—"

THE RECKONING DAY

By LILIAN LAUFERTY.

WE are going the way of mirth—"Is a joyful way. Come and join us, sons of earth, on the primrose way. Come and join us—hand in hand we will go our way: Till we meet in No Man's Land on the Reckoning Day. But the time to pay is so far away. So we laugh and we sing—"All the Reckoning Day.

Of course, to give the Devil his due is what we are intending. And it may mean me and it may mean you before the story's ending. But you have to pay on the Reckoning Day, and the debt seems beyond the spending.

We are going the way of joy—"Is a merry way. Come good countries, man and boy, on the primrose way. We and join us—light of heart we will go our way. Consoles, come—"we'll never part 'til the Reckoning Day. Sure the time to pay will be due some day. But we care and about 'til the Reckoning Day.

Of course, to pay our debt to life will mean our old wedding. And there may be tears and fears and strife and bitter pain and ruing. But that is the very chance you take when Dame Pleasure you're a-singin'.

THE ATLANTA GEORGIAN

Very Fine Muscle, But You Need Not Envy It. The Thinking Machine in Your Head is the Power That Drives. Muscle Counts No Longer.

This is a picture for young men who read the sporting page and envy the muscles of fighters, wrestlers and others to think about.

This picture is supposed to represent the most splendidly muscled man in all Germany, the king of the gymnasts in a nation whose "Turn-Verein" produce the best gymnasts of the world.

Young artists are gathered about him in this picture, admiring and envying. They pay him well for the right to use him as a model, but, young men of Atlanta and the rest of the United States, DON'T USE HIM AS A MODEL.

The muscle on his arm, displayed so proudly, is magnificent. It would be splendidly in place on a cart horse or a coal heaver. But you who are competing in the American game of life do not want to be cart horses or coal heavers.

This young man has magnificently developed legs and shoulders. He can stand without flinching and carry a ton weight or more, so powerfully muscled and fortified is his backbone.

The muscles across his stomach are like bands of steel. He can make them nearly as rigid as iron, so that they could stand a blow from a hammer.

If he shakes hands with you and forgets himself, he returns your hand bruised and aching—all very fine, BUT LOOK AT THE BACK OF HIS HEAD.

If this young muscular giant could exchange that round lump on his arm for a similar round lump filled with brain tissue at the back of his skull, he would be driving and directing 10,000 men, perhaps, instead of posing and wriggling his muscles to amuse a few artists, who pay him a few dollars a day as a model while his muscle and his youth last.

This is an interesting picture, with a useful lesson to all young men.

Do not despise muscle, and do not worship it.

Don't worry whether the machine in which your brain lives can lift a thousand pounds or two hundred, run a hundred yards in ten seconds or fifteen.

Be content to keep your body, through which your intellect works, ABSOLUTELY HEALTHY, whether the muscles be big or little.

Get this formula fixed in your mind. Your brain depends on the blood that fills it and lends it vitality.

Your blood depends on a constant supply of pure air, plenty of oxygen, moderate exercise, causing metabolism—which is changing of tissue and getting rid of poisons—AND UPON ALL THE FOOD THAT YOU EAT.

Brain and blood depend upon your nerves, mysterious carriers of force regulating every function of the body, controlling the feeding and the breathing of the thousands of millions of separate cells of which your body is composed.

Your nerves depend upon GOOD LIVING, GOOD MORAL CONDUCT, plenty of sleep, sobriety, freedom from poisoning by alcohol and nicotine.

Take care of your blood for the sake of your brain. Take care of your body, your stomach and your breathing for the sake of your blood.

Take care of your nerves, the electric forces of your body. Live like a self-respecting, moral, self-controlled man—and you will take care of the entire complicated machine "fearfully and wonderfully made"—which is yourself.

Let him have the big muscles, the high jumping record, the peculiar and utterly useless power for pitching a baseball, or making a pool ball drop into a pocket.

Only one thing counts IN YOU. That is activity, noble aspiration and a good blood supply within "that ivory temple," your skull, the palace of the really you.

Better arms and legs like match sticks, a feeble back that must be sewed in a canvas sack each day and the brain of Pope, who wrote the "Essay on Man," than all the muscles of this fine young German giant, whose biceps stick out like the forehead of a genius and whose back head is as flat as his thoughts probably are.

BE YOU A THINKER.

A New World and a Better One?

According to a noted French scientist, Jupiter is preparing to throw off a new world. Of course, this promised addition to our solar system may not make its advent for a million or so years, but it furnishes a topic for speculation. What chiefly concerns us is:

What is this new world to be, morally and ethically?

Will human inhabitants, should there be any, be thirty feet tall and have heads like elephants, or will they conform to the dimensions of the marmoset?

Will this world have airships, subways and militant suffragettes, or will it be people be drowsy-eyed savages, living in caves and forests?

Will there be slit skirts, radium gowns for women and pink teas for highly perfumed poodles, or will the spirit of Mother Eve abide that women may be content to do their afternoon calling in the radiant raiment of her day?

Are there to be Tammany Halls and Huertas and the eternal Balkan uprising, or is it, after all, to be a place where Mr. Carnegie may erect his peace temple without feeling the necessity of fortifying it with fourteen-inch guns?

If this new world is to be no improvement on the new one we now inhabit, it ceases to be of more than passing interest to most of us.

The Muscle Man---Don't Envy Him

He admires himself, and the foolish young men share his admiration. It would be better for him if he could move that lump from his arm to the back of his head. (See editorial.)

Gospel of Play

From EDWIN MARKHAM.

WE have long heard the gospel of work, and now comes the equally valid gospel of play. "The Church and the Young Man's Game" is the title of a book from Doran's, written by E. J. Milnes, president of the National Indoor Game Association. "The craving for amusement," says Karl Groos, in "The Play of Man," "is as fundamental and irremovable as the craving for food. We come into the world with two primary instincts, hunger and playfulness. Which antedates the other is not certain. But in the course of human evolution the exercise of the game-impulse has had a large co-ordination with man's physical and mental natures. Moreover, this co-ordination—more specifically, the subjection of the body to human volition—furnishes the basis of morality. "A prompt muscular response to volition is the basis of self-control, and self-control is the basis of character. That is to say, games are a preparation for life. Long prior to any sense of obligation toward work the child gets his elementary ideas of form and color, cause and effect, pain and pleasure, as well as his sense of relationship, justice and integrity, through play activities. We learn to live by play, and that, too, from ideal methods of instruction. "Contrary to the old traditional opinion, more rapid, vigorous and actual amusement, Phillips Brooks said: 'It's fun to be a minister.' "Work is a necessity; play is a pleasure. Work is endured; play is enjoyed. The joy of work exists rarely, save in the minds of poets and dreamers, who have never experienced the drudgery of common labor. John Ruskin may sing of our pleasure growing out of our work like the color petals from a fruitful flower. But as we see it down on earth—in the city, for instance—we observe it among the hands on the farm, the paddle on the railroad, or among the clerks and office forces of business in the monotonous grind, of everlasting toil, work must be tolerated, were it not the only means of getting the necessities of life."

Mothers! Warn Your Girls of Life's Lures

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

IT is more than probable that many parents of young girls will read this article and consider it an "improper" subject for discussion. And it is more than probable that several of these daughters will read it and regard it as their own experience, and wonder how he has given the girl a ring, and declares he is most anxious to make her his wife. Meantime, he asks her to consider herself his wife in reality now, and to show her confidence in him by giving him all the privileges of that holy state. He assures her that her refusal is a proof that she does not really love and trust him; that she doubts his honor and his word. He also assures her that all engaged people regard the matter from his standpoint, and that her conduct is praiseworthy and silly. All over the world such men are to be found. It is their method of leading the weaker sex. In many small country towns, where American girls are unchaperoned and unprotected by foolish parents, and allowed to go about trusting girls at one time, under strict vows of secrecy and on the plea that financial or family circumstances are such that marriage is out of the question for years to come. This type of man almost invariably demands the full confidence and proof of "love and trust," as he terms it, of each of his secret fiancées. And, as a rule, he never marries any one of them. He disappears from the town after a time and establishes himself in pastures new. The Rev. Mr. Richardson was a man of this type, but he paid for his amusement in the electric chair.

Peace of Amiens

By REV. T. B. GREGORY.

IT was one hundred and twenty years ago—October 1, 1801—that the preliminary articles of peace between England and France were signed in the city of London; and the definitive treaty was subscribed at Amiens on the 27th of March following. Europe rejoiced at the termination of the long and bitter struggle, but to those on the inside the peace was not worth the paper it was written on, and the sequel proved that the fears of the cabinets were only too well grounded. The First Consul was only playing for time and never intended to allow a piece of parchment to stand between him and the goal of his insatiable ambition. The ink with which the treaty was written was hardly dry when Napoleon began his aggressions. Piedmont was annexed, as was also the Island of Elba. Switzerland was occupied and Holland was bullied into subservience to France. When England protested, Napoleon insulted her envoy and dared her to resent his action. England's answer came on May 18, 1803, in the shape of a declaration of war—a war that was to last, with a brief respite, until 1815.

Stars and Stripes

The man who talks long generally demonstrates that he has not much to offer that anyone wants to hear.

A leap under the rays of the sun is just as likely to reveal blunders as attractions.

We sometimes wonder if everything is all right beneath the exterior of the polished man.

Running for office is almost as good a test of friendship as the attempt to negotiate a loan.

Secretary of State could suit a few more shiboleths every day by "doubling in brass."

New Hampshire might elect their Governor and let him pass on his own extradition.

Some men are so persistent that they are in a position to hand them something.

Women are so persistent. Soon they'll be demanding that their votes be counted.

To the reasonable possibility is always probability when it refers to calamity.

WINIFRED BLACK

Writes on What Is It the Cowards Fear?

By WINIFRED BLACK.

JUPITER is throwing off a new world, they say. I wonder who's on it? If you could have the say, what would you do about that world?

What would you keep off it—all the human qualities and all the human failings and all the human vices, which would you banish from the new world—you could?

I believe I'd take cowardice, if I could only choose one. Cowardice is at the bottom of so much that is wrong and foolish and cruel, so much that is terrible in this world of ours. If I could take all the cowards out of the new Jupiter I had my way.

It's the coward who commits nearly all the murders. He's afraid someone will kill him, so he shoots first. He saw the other man put his hand toward his pocket, so he grabbed his knife. He had heard that the other man was looking for him, so he didn't wait for him to find him.

He's Too Cowardly. He is too cowardly to ask a man for a job and stick to it so he kills somebody for money, or he's too cowardly to deny himself luxuries he can't earn, so he puts poison in the cup of his benefactor.

All the poor women who are left to fight for a living for themselves and their babies are let so by cowards—men who can't face the cold or who are afraid of the man or who fear to undertake any responsible work at all. So they run away and let their babies face the cold and the heat and the worry alone. Poor cowards, I wonder if they can help it, really?

It is the cowardly girl who goes wrong. She is afraid of displeasing someone if she doesn't do as the "rest" do. So she does as the "rest" do and ends as they do, poor thing—some day—in the poorhouse or at the county hospital.

The young assistant who trifles and their babies are let so by cowards—men who can't face the cold or who are afraid of the man or who fear to undertake any responsible work at all. So they run away and let their babies face the cold and the heat and the worry alone. Poor cowards, I wonder if they can help it, really?

This Young "Old World" Will Never Be Overcrowded

Scientists Need Not Worry About That. A Wisdom Bigger Than Theirs Attends to Our Problems.

When Columbus landed on American soil the population of this continent was possibly a million—perhaps less.

The squaws had babies nearly every year, but the squaws' husbands killed each other off so fast, and hunger and ignorance killed the squaws' daughters off so fast, that after thousands of years of "multiplying," the whole population of the North American continent was less than the population of Brooklyn, N. Y., to-day.

The wisely foolish view with alarm the fact that we have ninety millions of people on this continent now; that we have five millions cooped up in one big city.

And wisdom asks: "Where is the thing to end? What will happen to this earth when there are more human beings on it than the earth can possibly feed?"

"Will they eat each other, will infanticide be made compulsory—or, as among the ants, will the great mass of the population be made incapable of reproducing their kind?"

We are reminded of the fact that in congested parts of China thousands live and die in boats on the water, because they have no room on land, and little girls are thrown into the streams and rivers at birth because they are not wanted.

Really intelligent men, believing that figures never lie, are sure that men eventually must keep down the population, as Swift grimly suggested in his satire on Ireland, by eating the surplus children or in some other way.

Nobody ever need lose sleep worrying about the fate of humanity in an overcrowded world.

Things and future dangers are not what they seem.

Henry George wisely pointed out the rapid growth of a puppy's tail and drew a moral from the tail.

If the puppy's tail grew throughout the dog's life as fast as it grows in the first few weeks, the old dog would have a tail a hundred feet long. And the distressed, kind-hearted owner would have to cut off his dog's tail once every few weeks.

But the wisdom of nature takes care of that, and the puppy's tail stops growing at just the right moment.

So it is, or will be, with the human race on this planet—like the puppy's tail it will stop growing at the right moment—when it is just the right size.

The best scientific articles and reviews that appear in this country are published now in Hearst's Magazine. That magazine, the October number, contains some interesting facts and figures that shed light on nature's method of managing population.

The elephant is big, heavy and hungry. If he multiplied rapidly enough, he would soon cover the earth and step on everybody. But the elephant is thirty years old before she has her first child. And, unlike the little mouse, she has only one at a time.

On the other hand, some of the elephant's little cousins, microscopic animals, beginning with a single pair, increase to the number of a hundred and seventy thousand millions (170,000,000,000) in four days—which is quite a family.

The cabbage louse multiplies with such frightful speed that if he were not checked by a death rate as great as his fecundity, he would soon present to the eye a mass of cabbage lice bigger than this earth.

When you have a cold in the head, the living germs develop in your nose and throat by the millions, while your friend is telling you "how he cures his colds." You would be shocked if you could realize what a menagerie you carry around.

Nature, wiser than the scientists, has planned this globe for man's farm, home, intellectual gymnasium and starting point to a higher life with absolute certainty and precision.

Little by little all animal life will disappear, from the germ to the giraffe, except man, who alone will represent thought and will power, now shared with his humble brothers in the animal world.

With man, as with other animals, increased development will mean decreased fertility.

Pig weed will cover a thousand acres while the oak tree is growing half a foot above its acorn. But the oak tree will be there in a hundred years and the pig weed vanished.

Man as he becomes more highly developed intellectually will—thousands of centuries from now, populate this earth fully—and then automatically, without infanticide or cannibalism or any other horror, the population of the earth will become automatically balanced.

Each man and woman on the average will leave behind them one pair of children.

There will be no death in childhood, and no pain in childbirth—those unnecessary brutalities will be eliminated by science within a few centuries.

Meanwhile, the duty of men and women is to work for the welfare of the children, being more anxious to protect and help those that are here than to increase the number, more eager to give proper care to a few than to brag about many.

P. S.—Not entirely unselfishly, but none the less sincerely, this newspaper advises the thinking men and women among its readers to get regularly Hearst's Magazine, which gives careful attention to important scientific matters, as well as to that which is lighter and more generally interesting. To read it regularly is to have an intelligent presentation of the thought and literature of the world.

Queer Opinion of Spanish People

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

ONE of the questions which most profoundly interest all thoughtful Frenchmen at the present moment is that of an alliance between their country and Spain.

The fear of Germany hangs over the French republic as that of the Gauls, hovering in dark clouds behind the Alps, hangs over ancient Rome.

Amid all the talk of peace, which is everywhere so popular to-day, there is no mistaking the fact that in France every heart is heavy with thoughts of war. If it were a war of aggression and conquest that hovered in the near future, the hearts of the French people would be not heavy, but jubilant.

The simple fact, which one sees repeated again and again in the French newspapers, that the population of Germany is increasing at the rate of a million a year, while that of France is stationary, is not the nucleus, is sufficient to awaken the gloomiest forebodings.

It is a spectacle that creates the sympathy of a foreign visitor to see this great people, with their glorious past irradiating them like the splendor of a sunset, compelled to meet the menace of their mighty foe, with his constantly swelling armies, by the almost pitiful device of forcing their sons to spend an additional year of their youth in camps, because there are no crowds of successors coming up from the cradle to take their places.

Cry of French Minister Is Pathetic in the Extreme.

Can anything be more pathetic than this cry—one may call it as from the lips of M. Ribot, former Minister of Foreign Affairs. "The nations must be interested in seeing France remain great and strong," for France vanquished would mean Europe decapitated and insecurity for all the other peoples. That is a cry of conscious weakness, though not of cowardice, or unworthy fear.

None conceals the fact that he would mean Europe decapitated and insecurity for all the other peoples. That is a cry of conscious weakness, though not of cowardice, or unworthy fear.

Everybody knows that Madame Adam tells only the plain truth about the indomitable character of the people of Spain. Rome never mastered them as she mastered other races.

But it is true that not only a tolerance, but a passion, for bloodshed, in a Madame Adam seems to think, the surest indication of an unconquerable spirit of a people.

We might find historic grounds for such an opinion. When Rome at the same time ruled and defied the world her people delighted in nothing so much as scenes of bloodshed. Not only bulls and horses, but elephants, lions, tigers, and even armed men, had to surrender their lives by thousands in the arenas in order to gratify the thirst of the Roman populace for blood.

Yet Rome fell in other peoples as fearless of blood as her own began to descend in herds upon her. It was THE SPIRIT OF CHRISTIANITY THAT FINALLY SAVED ROME AND ETERNALIZED HER.

Madame Adam is undoubtedly right in wishing to see Spain placed shoulder to shoulder with France at this critical moment. Her words might have found a better home in Rome, too, and still more decidedly than in Spain, "people were not afraid of blood."

WINIFRED BLACK

The Girl Who Ran Away From School

It's the Unkind Things That the "Snippy" Girls Say About Each Other That Causes the Real Heartaches of School Days.

By WINIFRED BLACK.

A LITTLE girl ran away from school the other day and tried to kill herself because the girl who sat in front of her snuffed when the teacher asked what the little girl in the back seat was called.

"I don't know her name," said the little girl in front. "I snuffed her." And she tossed her silly little siddled pate into the air and looked as scornful as she conveniently could. All the other girls tittered and the boys grinned, and the little girl in the back seat simply couldn't stand it another day, so she ran away and went and walked into a pond and tried to drown.

When they carried her home her mother found out all about what she had time she'd been having at school, so she kept her at home a few days and then sent her to another school, where the girls weren't such geese, or at least where they didn't dare to show it if they were.

By this time the girl is probably very happy. Perhaps she is even turning up her small nose herself and saying that she "snuffed" some harmless creatures in braids and snort skirty coats.

What troublesome times they are going through, some of these children we know, right now, in the beginning of the new school year.

Your New School. Do you remember the new school where you went, when your dress was long and all the other girls' dresses were short, and you wished you were down every time you saw someone looking at those skirts and smiling over so little. Do you remember the awful boy who raised his hand and wanted to know whose hair was the reddest, yours or the carry-over's in the last row?

I do—oh, how well I do! I have lived through some moments that were hard some moments that were difficult, since that awful one, but I have never felt quite so desolate as I did then—and it was only 7 and didn't know how to conceal my feelings.

There was a way, I know that much vaguely—grow up, do it all—let people look straight into their minds—they were a kind of mask or something. I had seen my mother do it when the cook threatened to leave at an inopportune moment. But I didn't know how, and every grinning torturer in that schoolroom saw how I suffered, and they gloated in it.

One of the big newspaper men of the country told me once that he couldn't bear the sight of anything red.

"Crimes I can stand," said the big newspaper man, "and cardinal sins, too, but this bright red—scarlet! not 17—makes me fairly reel all over."

Worrying Parents. "Once my father went traveling, and when he came home he brought my brother and me cases—blue broadcloth cases—lined with scarlet flannel, and the cases were shined and so was the flannel. The kids cried us, and so we wore those cases decorously out of the house to the next corner, went backward a way, hid them in the woodpile and then

Daughter, poor little daughter—you'd keep the wind from blowing on her if you could, you wouldn't let her know there was a hard word in the language if they knew how to make it. Little tender-hearted daughter, she has her troubles, too—snippy girls in the classroom who sniff when she comes timidly near, to try to make friends; cruel girls who snigger when she makes a miss-step in jumping rope; giggling girls who nudge each other and look unutterable things when she passes.

Poor little daughter—don't say anything to her about it. It does not do to make her sorry for herself. Next year she'll be in the middle of the snippy ones, too, perhaps. But feel sorry for her, and understand when she is "droopy and odd" just these first few days at the new school. If you were going through what she is in your own particular world, you'd be "odd," too—and "droopy" into the bargain.

THE RECKONING DAY

By LILLIAN LAUFERTY.

WE are going the way of mirth—'tis a joyful way. Come and join us, sons of earth, on the primrose way. Come and join us—hand in hand we will go our way. Till we meet in No Man's Land on the Reckoning Day. But the time to pay is so far away. So we laugh and we sing—'til the Reckoning Day.

Of course, to give the Devil his due is what an one intending. And it may mean me and it may mean you before the story's ending. But you have to pay on the Reckoning Day, and the debt seems beyond the spending.

We are going the way of joy—'tis a merry way. Come good comrades, man and boy, on the primrose way. Come and join us—light of heart we will go our way. For Couraides, come—we'll never part 'til the Reckoning Day. Sure the time to pay is so far away. But we carol and shout 'til the Reckoning Day.

Of course, to pay our debt to life will mean our end and ending—And there may be tears and fears and strife and bitter pain and raving. But that is the very chance you take when Dame Pleasure you go a-swinging.
