GIANTS' GAME RALLY AGAINST HEAVY LEADS BRILLIANT BUT FUTILE

By BILLY SMITH, Manager Atlanta Ball Club. SHIBE PARK, PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 10.—Well, it looks to me very much as if the Giants' hopes for winning a world's series this year went out at ten minutes after 4 o'clock this afternoon, when old Chief Bender got Eddie Grant out on a tall foul to Shagan.

The score was 6 to 5 in favor of the Athletics, and it looked for six innings as if another walk-over was on the cards. But the Giants came back like a game bunch. They are game—you have to hand them that much. And they might near knocked Bender out of his second victory in this queer series.

Demaree failed to come through. The kid had lots of smoke, but it did not blind the batting eyes of Oldring, Barry and Schang, though Collins, Baker and Murphy failed to get their usual hits; and Melons got only one. That hit, followed by a double by Barry after Merkle had dropped a foul from his bat, counted the first run for the Athletics.

Hitting by Strunk, Barry, Schang and Oldring, with an error, gave the Mackies three runs in the fourth and sent Demaree to the shower bath. Marquard came on and started the fifth by fanning Baker, but a walk to Strunk and hard hits by Barry and Schang scored two runs more, and it turned out that those runs won the game.

After that Marquard pitched some really good ball, while Chief Bender caved in a couple of times under the attack of the Athletics. McGraw was driving his men on in spite of the big handi-cap—and he came mighty near getting away with it, let me tell you.

In the seventh inning, after Bender had held the Giants to two hits that far, Burns singled and Shaffer flied out. Murray singled and Wilson fanned, but the two Giants worked a pretty double steal. Then Merkle did his best to atone for the trouble he had caused earlier. He hit a home run into the left field bleachers. Marquard was an easy out.

The Giants came up for more in the eighth, and jammed the score to within one run of a tie after two were out. Herzog got a hit through Barry, and after two force-outs Burns doubled and Shaffer tripped, but Murray couldn't help any and went out, Collins to McInnis.

Grandall and Eddie Grant appeared as pinch hitters in the ninth, but the old chief was there, and though I can't see he was losing his stuff, he didn't lose his head and got the side out without trouble.

The official figures were about the same as for the first game here, a little more than 20,000 persons. The stands and bleachers were crowded, however.

Remember what I said this morning about the series ending this week if only Matty. If it doesn't end to-morrow it will Monday, for didn't Matty seem able to hold the Athletics—and he can't do it all the time.

BILL SMITH SELFSIDE OF SEDES TO-DAY

Young Shawkey, However, May Be Sent Against the Old Master, "Big Six."

By BILLY SMITH, Manager Atlanta Ball Club.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Not bragging about my judgment, you know, but I believe I said something about the World's Series ending this week, if it didn't rain—Monday, at the latest.

I see no reason this morning to back up on that proposition. It is up to Matty to-day, and the "Old Master" will have one great point against him, and two smaller points for him. The thing against Matty in this crucial game is the confidence of the Athletics. They have won three games. They have only to win one more. That is, they have only to keep the Giants from winning three straight games.

LINERS RACE TO DOOMED VESSEL AND SAVE 521 SURVIVORS

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 11.—The steamship Voltorno of the Uranium line, bound from Rotterdam to Halifax with hundreds of immigrants on board, has been burned at sea in a gale with heavy loss of life.

A wireless message from the Cunard liner Carmania, which with nine other trans-Atlantic liners rushed to the aid of the burning ship, stated that 236 passengers and crew were missing and that 521 had been rescued from a total number of 757 persons on board the ship.

Messages from other ships, transmitted to the Carmania, placed the number of dead at from 132 to 323.

The Voltorno disaster was an echo of the Titanic tragedy. Radiograms from the rescue fleet said that the number of life boats on the Voltorno was insufficient to accommodate the passengers and crew.

In Middle of North Atlantic. The disaster occurred in latitude 48.25 north, longitude 54.25 west, or in the middle of the North Atlantic. The scene of the tragedy was about 1,240 miles east of Halifax.

The following wireless message from the Carmania gave the first notice of the disaster:

Steamer Voltorno, bound from Rotterdam for Halifax and New York with 600 immigrants on board, a fire and abandoned Friday night in latitude 48.25 north longitude 54.25 west. About 500 and thirty-six passengers missing.

The Carmania was the first liner to pick up the "S. O. S." calls which the operator on the Voltorno was frantically sending out. The Carmania immediately repeated the calls to other vessels, giving the position of the Voltorno.

Nine other trans-Atlantic liners were within wireless range and sped toward the burning ship. The race was a thrilling one. A gale was sweeping the seas and the rescue ships had to pound their way through headwinds and raging waters.

In the rescue fleet were the following vessels: Carmania, La Touraine, Minneapolis, Rappahannock, Cear, Narragansett, Devonian, Kronland, Groszer Kurfurt and Seydlitz.

Carmania Wins Death Race. The Carmania won the race to the Voltorno. She found the rescued mass of fire, her propeller fouled and wallowing helplessly before the wind. All the boats had left the burning ship. Those still afloat were found half water-logged by the relief fleet, filled with half-frozen, covering refugees.

Wireless reports from the ten ships gave the following number of rescued: Carmania, 11; La Touraine, 40; Minneapolis, 31; Rappahannock, 19; Cear, 19; Narragansett, 25; Devonian, 32; Kronland, 90; Groszer Kurfurt, 105; and the Seydlitz, 36; making a total of 321.

The purser of the Voltorno, who was taken on board the Kronland, reported that the number of passengers on the Voltorno was 665, and that she carried a crew of 25, making 690 in all on board. According to the purser's estimate the death list reached on 132. The official figures of the Voltorno were burned, dead, was accepted, however, by the Lloyd's and other marine agencies here.

Lifeboats Crushed in Gale. The meagerly stowed wireless dispatches from Captain Barron of the Carmania, told a dramatic story. The dead on the Voltorno were burned, crushed and drowned. Four of the six life boats carried by the ill-fated ship had been smashed in the storm by being washed against the side of the burning ship, and all the occupants were drowned.

First Officer Gardner of the Carmania was in command of a fleet of small boats which tried for two hours to reach the side of the burning ship. The huge rollers smashed the boats and smashed the crew.

In spite of danger, Captain Barron moved the Carmania in a gale

ASS. O. S. CASE OF

BRIGGS HELD

Ten Liners Race to Aid of Doomed Vessel—Terrorific Storm Bars Rescue of All.

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 11.—The steamship Voltorno, of the Uranian line, has been burned at sea, with a loss of at least 132 lives. The final death toll may be much higher when full details are received from ten rescue ships that dashed at full speed for the doomed vessel when the O. S. was sent out by her wireless operators.

The Cunard liner Carmania, Captain Barr commanding, was the first ship to reach the Voltorno. By wireless he made a number of reports to-day, the first stating that 132 had been lost. His later reports showed that the death list would carry at least 134 names, mostly those of immigrants bound for America. There were palpable errors in these numbers listed in each report, but by scrutinizing the wireless messages carefully, the Uranian line officials reached the conclusion that 132 was the correct number.

The Voltorno burned while a terrific storm was raging, and hundreds of passengers on ships that had rushed to her aid stood helplessly and saw attempt after attempt to save the Voltorno's passengers fail.

The flames in the hull of the ship evidently had been burning for some time before discovered. They got beyond control of the sailors Thursday night and raged for 24 hours before the destruction was complete.

The boilers exploded while the Carmania and her sister liners were going to the stricken ship's aid, tearing out a section of the steel hull.

TO SUE 5-DAY BRIDE FOR KISSING OLD FIANCE

MRS. JOHN H. GWINN.

Man Who Eloped With Girl as Another Got License to Wed Her Asks Divorce.

If you had by whirlwind courtship won a girl away from her fiancé, and had married her in spite of her parents and an entire detective force, and she had been your bride four days, and you found her kissing another man who you had taken her from—

"What would you do?"

John H. Gwinne, of No. 4 Luckie street, who says that was just his experience exactly, has decided to answer the question by trying to divorce his five-day bride and allowing her, if she wishes, to marry her first fiancé.

Young Gwinne charges that his wife willfully and willingly allowed herself to be kissed by Dr. E. Barrett, the vaquished lover, who went so far as to buy a marriage license of the day of the wedding.

Said kissing, Gwinne alleges, took place early Friday morning on a neighbor's porch following a sensational case of kidnaping, in which the girl was kidnaped and her mother, Mrs. Lena Brock, No. 48 Larkin street; a sister, Miss Marjorie, young Hugwell and others unknown were the kidnapers.

Kidnaping Charge Dropped.

The kidnaping was dropped in Justice Owens' court on Edgewood avenue, where all parties were released, it is said, upon the payment of the court costs by the three defendants.

Mrs. Brock, Miss Marjorie Brock and Hugwell.

Immediately following the settlement of the court cases young Gwinne employed counsel to represent him in his suit for divorce. He declared he had been made the victim of a base plot to deprive him of his young wife, and, in addition, that he believed he had been "duped" by parties at the Brock home, where the alleged kidnaping occurred.

"My wife's sister, Marjorie," declared Gwinne, "Friday morning about 1 o'clock came to Mr. Dennis's house, No. 42 Kilburn street, where we were spending the night, and urged us to hasten down to my wife's home to see her mother, who was reported to be very ill."

"When we arrived, we found mother-in-law apparently in good health and spirits. Shortly after this I began down to the bed, where I remained, 'doped,' I believe, for perhaps an hour. When I awoke and came to my senses, I saw my wife, was sitting on the side of the bed."

The neighbors told it.

"Later, after passing some words with my mother-in-law, I went outside and finally succeeded in locating my wife in hiding at a neighbor's house. Some of these neighbors told me that she and Hugwell had been

MATHEWSON BATTLES

WORLD SERIES FOR MORGAN

By BILLY SMITH, Manager of Atlanta Team.

POLO GROUNDS, NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—"The Old Master," Mathewson, was the last hope of the Giants this afternoon in the fifth battle for the world's championship of 1913. And all New York put up their final chip on him to keep the McGraw clan in the fight.

A Mathewson victory meant another game Monday, when Mathewson again would be called upon to match his pitching ability against the terrific wallpapers of Mack. A loss meant the crown for the Philadelphia.

The shrewd Mack looked over young Brown and the veteran Plank as they warmed up, and finally selected the hero of thirteen years of American League battles.

Murphy cracked the first ball pitched by Matty for a single through short. Rube Oldring tried to sacrifice, but Matty grabbed the pill and threw to Doyle in time to stop Murphy at second. After looking at one wide one Eddie Collins smashed safely to right and Oldring tore all the way to third. There was an awful groan from the New York rooters when J. Franklin Baker walked to the plate swinging his home run bat. The Tramps Terror lifted a long fly to Burns and Oldring scampered in on the sacrifice. Molniss, with two strikes called, lifted a foul to McLean. The Sox dropped the pill and was charged with an error. Molniss then drove sincerely to Herge, who tagged Collins on the line. ONE RUN, TWO HITS, ONE ERROR.

Eddie Plank's control seemed wobbly at the start, his first two services to Herge being fine. He then shot over a straight fast one for a strike. Herge fouled the next one, and then balloned to Murphy. Doyle drove sharply to Herge, who threw fast in time to hit him first. Fletcher waited out Plank and had him three and one. The veteran then traced and worked a called strike. Fletcher then batted for Plank, who fouled off a long foul fly, which Rube Oldring caught in after a hard run. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

SECOND INNING.

Baker and Molniss took care of Burns' easy roller. Shaffer drove three bad ones and then old Eddie shot over two straight strikes. Shaffer fouled off a foot and Molniss grabbed the ball in front of the plate and Schang threw him out to Molniss. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

THIRD INNING.

With one strike on him, Rube Oldring rapped to Doyle and was safe on the giant caught on foot. Murphy went to second. Collins batted willfully to Merkle and advanced each runner a peg. And again J. Franklin Baker came to bat. He responded with a stringing strike and Murphy fouled. Molniss sent a sacrifice fly to Burns and Oldring caught it. With the count one and one, Brank grounded to Doyle, who stepped on second, forcing Molniss and then him, so first in time to return Strunk. TWO RUNS, THREE HITS, ONE ERROR.

McLean drew three balls and one strike and then skied to Oldring. Merkle then fled weakly to Collins. Plank fouled the first pitch and then missed the second one. He then topped to Fletcher. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

FOURTH INNING.

After Barry had looked at a couple of bad ones, he grounded out. Fletcher to Merkle. Schang skied to Murray on the first ball pitched. Plank fouled the first pitch and then missed the second one. He then topped to Fletcher. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

Herge fouled Plank's first offering and then missed a swing. He fouled another and then fanned. Doyle fouled a couple and then grounded out to Molniss unassisted. On the first ball pitched Fletcher fled to Strunk. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

FIFTH INNING.

With the count two and two, Murphy grounded out. Doyle to Merkle. Oldring went out the same way, on the first ball pitched. Collins went after Matty's first offering and skied to Shaffer. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

The count was one and one when Burns lined out sharply to Molniss. Shaffer drew three balls and then Plank shoved over a strike. The next ball was wide and Plank had given his first base on balls and the first giant had reached first base on the veteran's southpaw. Murray drew two balls and a strike and then popped to Plank, who muffed the lift miserably. Shaffer trotted to second. The Titanic Larry McLean came to bat with the New York stands rooting feverishly for the first time, and he responded with a single to center, scoring Shaffer. Murray stopped at second. "Home Run" Merkle was the next man, and there was a delirium of excitement in the New York stands. Plank's first offering was high. He fouled the next one. He looked at the next ball as it was low. He drove ferociously to Collins, who made an unusual stab and tossed to Barry, retiring Molniss, while the relay to Molniss stopped Merkle. ONE RUN, ONE HIT, ONE ERROR.

SIXTH INNING.

On the first ball pitched Baker angled to left. Molniss bunted in front of the plate and was retired. McLean to Merkle. Baker went to second. With the count one and one, Barry pulled to Doyle and was out to Molniss, sending Baker to third. Barry looked at the first one and then fouled the next. He then rapped to Fletcher, who retired him to Merkle. NO RUNS, ONE HIT, NO ERRORS.

Matty drew two balls and a strike and then skied to right. Again the giant roared sent up a whoop. Buck Herzog continued his demon battering by hitting to Barry, who tossed to Collins, retiring Matty, while Collins' relay stopped Herzog at first. Doyle hit the first ball. It was a high fly, which Murphy handled. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

For remainder of detail see red type.

VARDON AND RAY BEAT LOCAL 'PRO' GOLFERS

Famous Vardon and Edward Ray, the famous English professional golfers, who were beaten by Outmet, defeated Stewart, Butler and Willie Mann, professionals of the Atlanta Athletic Club 3 up in a best-ball foursome Saturday morning.

A gallery of more than 100, including many women, followed the play around the 18-hole course from the start at 10:30 o'clock until it ended in a dramatic finish. All stood the setting heroically.

Atlanta golfers declared that the play of the Brits was wonderful, considering the fact that they had never seen the course before. The long driving of Ray and the accuracy of Vardon were the features.

Vardon made the 18 holes in 72, three strokes better than par and ten strokes better than bogey.

Ray picked up one hole when he got into the rough, so his medal score was not complete. It would have been about par.

Stewart Masten, the Atlanta champion, was badly off his game, taking 50 strokes for the course.

Mann picked up on the last hole, but his score probably would have been better than Masten's.

The four will play again at East Lake Saturday afternoon if it does not rain. They are to play at the Capital City Country Club tomorrow.

The visit of the Brits, each having held the English open championship several times, is the biggest golf event of the season to Atlantans. Since their defeat by the New England youth, Outmet, a number of wagers were placed on the Atlanta professionals.

The play will be witnessed by larger galleries Saturday afternoon and Sunday than followed the four Saturday morning.

FRANK LAWYERS TO FILE MORE DEPOSITS

Another Juror May Be Charged With Bias—Accused Cheerfully Aiding Counsel.

Counsel for Leo M. Frank made today's Friday to the further depositions to support their arguments for a new trial which will be made Saturday, October 18, before Judge L. S. Rouse. It is understood the names of at least one more juror, in addition to A. H. Henzie and Marcellus Johnson, will be mentioned in the affidavits as guilty of prejudice.

Frank's lawyers say they have unconvincing evidence of violent dislike and bias on the part of a third juror. Several depositions are expected to be filed respecting this juror. Others have been obtained to establish the charge of prejudice on the part of Henzie and Johnson.

Undisturbed by the thought that if his sentence had not been stayed by the appeal of his attorneys for a new trial he would some time have to pay out his life on the gallows, Frank sat in his cell in the county prison, busy and cheerful, engaged in working on a number of the details of his greatly involved case.

Frank was convicted of murder August 25. On August 25 he was sentenced to the electric chair by Judge L. S. Rouse to be executed on October 18. The amount of work necessary in the preparation of the appeal was granted by Solicitor Dorney for more than a week. Judge Rouse, with the understanding that he would extend the time still further if needed.

Hearing October 18. Solicitor Dorney and his assistant, A. S. Stephens, excluded themselves from the courtroom, and were barred against interruptions, and began their review of the 115 reasons for a new trial submitted by the defense. Within a few days they saw that they could not meet the time set by Saturday of this week and the following Saturday. Another request for more time was granted by Judge Rouse. The hearing will take place on October 18. All the reasons for a new trial are contained in the briefs prepared by the defense.

In the meantime, Frank's execution, lower than the defendant's, is postponed. The prisoner continues to have full confidence of ultimate acquittal. His only interest has been that he was unjustly convicted by a jury that was swayed by influences outside the evidence.

Frank Aids Lawyers. He is taking a most active interest in the movements to have his case reopened, and is assisting his attorneys in every way possible. He is constantly by his relatives and friends, and is maintaining the optimistic demeanor that has marked his bearing since he was first taken to the tower.

CANDY-PULLING LEADS COUPLE TO MARRIAGE

South Carolina Woman and Birmingham Man Wed Here After Unusual Romance.

When Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Prince boarded a train for Birmingham Friday morning the curtain fell on one of the most unusual love plays staged in Atlanta in many days. The plot had ramifications in three different States—South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama—particularly South Carolina, which knows no divorce. Mrs. Prince, as Mrs. Hooker of Charleston, S. C., wanted a divorce. Her husband, who had been married to her in Birmingham, where after the required length of residence, she contained the divorce.

Many things happened in Birmingham in the interval. However, Mrs. Hooker became a social favorite among the friends who visit the town of these friends because but a little more convenient than some of the others, and finally one of them, a young construction engineer in the employ of the city of Birmingham, succeeded in gaining and holding the affection of the young woman.

Mrs. Hooker, who had been divorced, bawled back home to prepare for the wedding, and then a big obstacle the inability to obtain a second marriage license in South Carolina, was encountered. Finally, however, Mr. Prince and Mrs. Hooker met in Atlanta on Thursday afternoon, the one arriving on the southern train at 2 p. m. and the other at 6:30 in the morning.

The final scene was enacted Thursday night about 9 o'clock, when Mr. Prince, again acting as escort, picked up Mrs. Hooker at her home.

SUICER ASHES BURIED IN MEXICO

Last Shred of Defense of Accused Executive Goes, Jurist Declares to Impachment Court.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 16.—Judge Alton B. Parker laid today the last of the great impeachment trial.

"Even justice must see through its severe eye something pathetic in this defendant's frantic efforts to cover up the nakedness of his wrongdoing," he began, declaring Suicer now "stands naked before the court, without a rag of his attempted vindication left to his deformed and mutilated manhood."

"I, Candy Harris, followed for the defense, claiming the court has no power to convict for offenses prior to Suicer's taking office. Judge Parker said that the prosecution.

"When this court alone reads the duty of delivering this State from the menace that, like the sword of Damocles, hangs over it as long as this man remains in office. The purpose of this impeachment is to protect the State.

"The question is not whether Suicer is a man of honor, but whether he is a man who can be trusted with the reins of government. The chief justice, then, he may be impeached not only for any offense, but for any reason, political or otherwise, which in the official interest of the people is no longer fit for office.

BIG BOOST GIVEN STATE ROADS MOVEMENT

Prison Commissioners, Who Will Name Highway Head, Elated at Turn of Affairs.

That the good road movement in Georgia has received the greatest boost recorded in many years, as a result of the decision of the Prison Commission to appoint a State road supervisor, was the opinion of good roads boosters Saturday. The new supervisor will be appointed January 1.

According to the terms of the resolution passed by the Prison Commission, the State supervisor shall be a civil engineer of broad experience, and special knowledge in road building. He will confer with the county authorities throughout the State in regard to the construction of roads. Four inspectors instead of five, as at present, will assist the new supervisor.

Thorough System Aimed At.

The underlying purpose of the Prison Commission in deciding to appoint a State supervisor is a thorough organization of forces for the building of good roads throughout the State. The commission members feel confident that when the counties see the advantages that may be gained by State supervision of roads there will be a strong demand for county supervisors throughout the State, and that the Legislature will then furnish the necessary funds to keep the system going.

"We believe," state the commissioners in the resolution, "that as the counties receive the benefits to be derived from the expert advice and assistance of these officers that others can and will be employed and their services utilized. We firmly believe that this marks a long step forward in the construction of good roads in Georgia."

More Power for Commission.

In connection with the announcement of the appointment of a road supervisor, the members of the Prison Commission made public their views in regard to the extension of the commission's powers. All three expressed themselves in favor of the broadening of the powers of the commission so as to include thorough supervision of highway construction.

Like-wise all three commissioners are of the opinion that the supervision must be gradually extended because of the lack of funds at the present time. When the good results of State supervision are seen, they declared, the Legislature undoubtedly will grant the necessary funds to maintain the work on a large scale.

Boy Cyclist Struck By Car Recovering

John Blakely, 15-year-old cyclist, who was run down by a trolley car on Edgewood avenue Friday, is reported out of danger of death at the Atlanta Hospital. Both of his legs were fractured.

Dr. W. R. Sumner, superintendent of the Grady Hospital, vicariously denied the charges of Clarence Morgan that the hospital authorities refused to send an ambulance to the aid of the boy. Dr. Sumner said the Grady ambulance was on its way within five minutes after the call.

An investigation shows there was no fault whatever on the part of the hospital authorities.

More Evidence to Hand Against Slayer

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—New evidence obtained against Henry Spencer, confessed slayer of 25 persons, today led the Chicago police to plan the conviction of the multi-murderer in Cook County. Captain Halpin said he would not be released to the DuPage County authorities.

More evidence was found to substantiate the prisoner's confession that he killed a man and woman near Fox Lake and trampled their bodies into the marsh near the water.

'Stonebreaker' Was Wife's Name; Now His

DAVENPORT, IOWA, Oct. 11.—Preparations were being made today to take Col. Edwin Joseph Brunswick to the Federal penitentiary at Stillwater, Minn. Judge McPherson last night sentenced him to serve ten years. He was accused of taking Miss Antons Stonebreaker into Illinois and Indiana from Iowa for immoral purposes. Brunswick married the girl after the alleged violation of the white slave law was committed.

47 Little Ones Who Took Part in Amateur Play Entertained by Director.

Forty-seven little boys and girls of Center Hill, on the river car line, are still talking of the good time they had as guests of John Edward and Eugene Victor Starr, sons of Mrs. John Starr, at one of the most elaborate and enjoyable children's parties the little suburb has ever seen.

For two hours and a half the children romped and played in the spacious yard of the Starr home, with no check on their enthusiasm. They played what games they liked, and played them in the fashion of children, with Mrs. Starr and her assistants supervising them only to see that none were hurt.

"Drop the handkerchief," "London bridge," "pass-in-corner," "hide and go seek" and all the other childhood favorites were played to the accompaniment of joyous shouts and with all the energy that little boys and girls are capable of mustering.

The feature of the afternoon, however, from the viewpoint of the children, came about 5 o'clock, when the 47 were seated on the grass in a happy semi-circle and their little mouths filled with ice cream and cake.

NEW NAMES FOR OLD ZOO FRIENDS

Lion Now Is "Felis Leo," Elephant Is "Elephas Indicus," and— Oh, Ask Carey.

The animals in the Grant Park zoo are all labeled with bright new signs, but it is a dangerous hazard for a person who is not a zoologist to name them unless he knows them in plain English. For instance, the ring-necked doves are labeled Streptopelia semitorquata, a name bigger than the bird itself.

Dan Carey, General Manager of Parks, Saturday explained the meaning of some of the most strange zoological titles. Mr. Carey is the one man in Atlanta who can pronounce them and spell them, too, without looking in a book.

closure with a sign on it reading, "Macrocercus laocerta."
"That's an alligator-snapping turtle," Mr. Carey explained.
One of the party remarked that there was one animal he knew, Maus, the elephant. Well, when he got to the elephant house he found the sign, "Elephas Indicus."
A grizzly bear was marked Ursus horribilis. A coyote was labeled Canis latrans. The name of the Canadian wolf was Canis occidentalis. The Mexican alligator was spelled Furcifer rondoni. The famous old lion was Felis leo, the leopard Panthera pardus, the jamaica parrot Ara garruli, a macaw, was labeled Aratinga.

Mr. Carey said the purpose of labeling the animals with their scientific titles was educational.

Hats To Be Shorn of Aigrettes at Ports

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Aigrettes or birds of paradise on women's hats must be snipped off when the wearers disembark from the trans-Atlantic liners, Secretary McAdoo ruled. The women may do the snipping, but customs inspectors will be provided with scissors in case mildy refused. The aigrettes and birds of paradise must be sent back to Europe for sale, or will be destroyed.

SCHOOL BUSHINESS OF SCHOOL GROWING, SAYS MAYOR, AFTER VISIT

Mayor James G. Woodward, after making personal inspection of several of Atlanta's overcrowded public schools, declared Friday that bushiness is a cause of the bad condition. He said the Board of Education has been yielding to class prejudices for years in building schools and in assigning pupils and that a little study of the school districts will indicate to any fair-minded man that the schools are being run in the interests of particular castes rather than for the whole people of Atlanta.

"I want out to make personal investigation of the schools so I could know what reliance to put in the reports of bad management and to determine the truth of sensational published statements of acute overcrowding. I want the people to know what I mean," says the Mayor.

"First, I went to the Highland Avenue school, reported to be the most overcrowded in the city. It is overcrowded. The new five-grade Moreland Avenue school, has got yet taken its full quota of pupils. There was much complaint.

"When I had my eyes opened as to reaching the Boulevard school.

BACKACHE A WARNING YOU SHOULD HEED

It is One of Nature's First Signs of Kidney Troubles, if Neglected, Serious Diseases May Follow.

When the kidneys are clogged up and inactive, nature has a way of warning you. Backache is one of the first symptoms. You are troubled with disagreeable, annoying bladder disorders, attacks of lumbago or rheumatism; become nervous, tired and feel all worn out; purty swellings show under the eyes, on the feet and ankles; and many other symptoms are noticed. If neglected, you may get, dropsy, diabetes, or Bright's disease which so often prove fatal.

It is not only dangerous, but needful for you to suffer and endure the tortures of these troubles, when a little Croxone can quickly and surely end all such misery.

There is no more effective remedy known for all such troubles than Croxone, because it reaches the cause. It soaks right into the kidneys, through the walls and linings; cleans out the clogs; neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous uric acid and waste matter that lodge in the joints and muscles and cause those terrible rheumatic pains, and makes the kidneys filter and sift the poison out of the blood and drive it from the system.

You will find Croxone different from all other remedies. It is practically impossible to take it without results.

An original package costs but a trifle, and all druggists are authorized to return the purchase price if Croxone should fail in a single case. Three doses a day for a few days is often all that is ever needed to end the worst backache, relieve rheumatic pains, or overcome urinary disorders.

Authorities Still Far From Solution Of Express Robbery

Detectives are a bit deeper in the mire of mystery in their effort to discover the thief who looted an express car of $72,000 recently between New York and Savannah.

During the last week a few of the many persons under suspicion have been cleared, following minute re-search by the Pinkertons and special agents of the Adams Express Company. By the end of another week it is believed the suspects will have dwindled to a few.

The detectives frankly admit they are more puzzled than ever, but nevertheless are holding out hopes of obtaining evidence within the next few days to warrant an arrest.

Bartlett's Objection To Series Bulletins Amazes Georgians

Baseball fans who are constituents of Representative Charles L. Bartlett, of Georgia, were amazed Friday over the reports that he tried to restrain the World's Series enthusiasm which prevailed as the scores were announced in the House by Representative Mann.

"It is beneath the dignity of the House," said Representative Bartlett. "You are disagreeable," retorted Representative Mann, who continued to read the results.

The scores were being read while a large number of the members of the House were patiently awaiting the arrival of enough Representatives to constitute a quorum. The sympathy of the other Congressmen was entirely with Mann.

113 FOES IN CONGRESS JAILED BY HUERTA AS POWER IS THREATENED

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian. MEXICO CITY, Oct. 11.—General Huerta to-day suspended Congress. Senators and Deputies were notified that they need not meet this afternoon, as the provisional President had proclaimed a new election for members of Congress on October 24, 1913.

Senator Dominguez, who disappeared on the night of September 21, after making a speech denouncing General Huerta as an assassin, is dead. It was learned today that his body was found on the night of September 24 at Coscoan, a suburb of the city.

Investigation begun by the Congress of the Dominguez case was continued to-day, despite the arrest of more than 100 Deputies last night on direct orders from the administration.

113 Now in Custody. By arresting the Deputies, Huerta practically announced his assumption of the dictatorship of Mexico. One hundred and thirteen are now in custody and warrants are out for two others who have evaded arrest. Those seized had signed resolutions warning Huerta that the disappearance of Dominguez must be explained and that he should withdraw the demand made upon the President.

The situation here is critical. The Seventy-ninth Infantry was held under arms at the barracks all night and at dawn was reinforced by another regiment ready for quick action. Rapid fire guns were kept ready for immediate movement.

Hours before the time set for Congress to convene a large force of police and soldiers was sent to the Chamber of Deputies. This indicated that Huerta was planning to dissolve Congress.

After it became known that Dominguez was dead, his friends revealed that he had made his will after attacking Huerta. To one of them he said:

Knew Speech Meant Death. "I know that this speech means my death, but some one has to make a stand or the country will be lost." The Dominguez home was at Coscoan, but the Senator had always lived at the Jardin Hotel here during the Congressional session. It is believed that after his arrest he was taken to his home and put to death there after arrangements had been made to "prove" that he had committed suicide.

The Congressional committee that investigated the arrest of Dominguez was able to trace him only as far as Coscoan, in an automobile, in which he was guarded by two secret service agents.

In his speech to the Senate Dominguez had said: "You will see me, gentlemen, that the attempt to dispose Huerta is dangerous, for he is a blood-thirsty and ferocious soldier, who assassinate"

The week-end is proving unusually gay, with many parties and special features at the various clubs.

Two of the largest affairs of the season were given Friday evening at the Capital City and Piedmont Clubs, when the Old Guard gave a reception at the former and the opening of the dinner was observed with a brilliant dinner-dance.

Elaborate decorations were used throughout the Capital City Club, and many of the guests, in their brilliant uniforms later attended the dance at the Piedmont Club. Special guests included prominent army officers.

There was a large receiving party. The members of the Piedmont Club were charmed at the recently made improvements, where additional space has been given by extensive additions. The decorations were elaborately carried out in greenery, with pink and white roses. The dining room mantel was softly bedecked in pink and white roses, and such table had pink shaded fairy lamps and a handsome engraved menu card.

Many large parties were given, and the affair was an auspicious beginning to a very gay season at this club. At the East Lake Country Club Saturday there was an exhibition match golf game between the club professionals and Ray and Vardon. Many enthusiasts witnessed the contest.

On Sunday there will be match games between these great players and the professionals of the Capital City Club at the Capital City Country Club beginning at 10:30 o'clock and at 2:30 o'clock, with an intermission of two hours, when lunch will be served on the porch.

JULIENS ENTICED HOME TO FAVE FEDERAL PRISON SOON

Author, Unbittered, Expected to Write About Injustices of U. S. Penal System.

BOSTON, Oct. 10.—The fragrant and delicious mint Julip lost Atlanta at the 1914 convention of the American Bankers' Association.

This luscious doctrine, whose potency every true Southerner insists would divert the course of empire, was powerful enough to sweep the delegates to vote for Richmond, Va., as the 1914 convention city after Atlanta admittedly had the garbier pledged and practically delivered.

Calmly reviewing yesterday's action, it appears almost unbelievable that a body of coldly calculating, unimaginative financiers of figure and interest tables could be swayed by any sentimental argument, but the sober fact remains that at the magic mention of the South's most famed libation the bankers were stampeded.

How it happened. Atlanta had made a valiant fight. Her claims ably had been presented by John K. Otley. His remarks were seconded by Sol Waxler, of New Orleans.

Then Thomas B. McD Adams took the floor for Richmond. The delegates, out of courtesy, were willing to listen to him, but they did not propose to change their minds in the least.

Mr. McD Adams conceded to Mr. Otley all of the claims he made in behalf of Atlanta. He was more than gracious. The delegates were even more confirmed in their selection of the Georgia city.

"But," he added—and here the bankers began to take some interest in his remarks—Richmond has all the advantages of this other Southern city and one thing else.

What could it be? Every separate banker stirred in his seat and pecked up his respective ears.

Then he asked the psychological moment, McD Adams told them: It was the festive mint Julip!

There was an undisturbed whoop of appreciation. McD Adams let the significance of this overwhelming advantage sink into their consciences and then he subtly suggested that if they came to Richmond they would not have to go to a club every time they desired most refreshments.

Atlanta, he warned the bankers, would not have to walk about in profusion in the highways and byways of the Virginia capital.

That was enough. There was a sharp, short struggle. Atlanta did not give up without a fight. It required two votes, but the mint Julip argument won. The convention which a few seconds before had been almost unanimously of one mind for Richmond had been changed like magic.

While scattered over the city in hotels and houses vice laughed at the lie. For segregation only advertised.

In the favored spot landlords were getting rich a year ago. Then you protested. In Christ's name you pleaded—

The district closed. ATLANTA CEASED PROTECTING CRIMINALS. Homes for the victims were opened: a refuge for the fallen was founded; scores were helped.

Fallen County provided a home for the incorrigible. Georgia has established a school for wayward and delinquent girls. And city after city, town after town has followed Atlanta in driving out protected vice.

You came to our prisons. Young men and boys were there in stripes and chains for lack of money to pay paltry fines for petty misdemeanors. Hardened criminals were their companions. Our State was—Our State is—manufacturing criminals.

You asked it—and our Legislature wrote Probation into the laws of Georgia. Today a judge who will can find a first offender. Convicts, you found, clothed in stripes without regard to conduct.

At your request the Prison Commission ordered this stopped in Georgia, leaving only eight States which thus degrade their prisoners. To-day the convict can rid himself of the degrading stripes by proving worthy. You give him hope.

This summer you opened day schools in your buildings for children. Daily Vacation Bible Schools, they were called. Fifty-seven teachers were employed. And day after day twenty-five hundred eight-two children came without money to be taught.

You gathered these before they had become wayward, incorrigible or fit for probation or the jail. But over all was a shadow. Again and again in fighting vice, helping prisoners, teaching children you came upon the trail of that monstrous evil, the liquor traffic.

IT SENDS THE INDIVIDUAL TO THE GUTTER, RUINS THE HOME, CORRUPTS POLITICS, AND IN SOME RESPECTS IS THE MOST POWERFUL FOE OF THE CHURCH OF CHRIST.

"Above the cradle of every baby in America hovers the vulture, the saloon." And yet, complacent ones urge that you be recantant to your duty.

"Preach only the gospel," they say, forgetting that the good news which brought our Lord and Saviour to the cross is the very light which makes it impossible for you to be silent in sight of the sin and shame and suffering caused by the liquor trade.

You must cry out. If silent you would share the guilt. For in the pocket of every citizen of a community that licenses these curses is a part of the price of the tears and blood of women and children.

God's light will lift this shadow. Across the ages He calls: "Go forward."

You have the power. Let us obey! Last year your Committee disbursed the following sums:

Table with 2 columns: Item and Amount. Includes Advertising, Martha Home, Rescue work and vice campaign, Salaries, Postage and telegrams, Meetings, Office, Bible Teachers' Training School, Daily Vacation Bible Schools, Publicity, Florence Crittenton Home, Atlanta Child's Home, Interest, Miscellaneous, Bulletins, Loans Repaid, Total Disbursed.

In this does not appear that which was spent for work among and for prisoners amounting to $2,745.39.

For the year beginning October 1st you have approved the following budget, consolidating many works in one call.

Table with 2 columns: Item and Amount. Includes INSTITUTIONAL AND RESCUE WORK, PUBLICITY AND EXTENSION, SALARY AND OFFICE EXPENSES.

Men and Religion Bulletin No. 81 TO THE CHURCHES

"YOU SHALL HAVE POWER" —ACTS 1:8

Your committed reports: Atlanta had a district. Men called it "segregated."

In it girls were bought. Women were sold. And liquor.

While scattered over the city in hotels and houses vice laughed at the lie. For segregation only advertised.

In the favored spot landlords were getting rich a year ago. Then you protested. In Christ's name you pleaded—

PLANS MADE TO ENTERTAIN 28 CONVENTIONS

Auto Roads to Battlefields and Stone Mountain Embraced in Bureau's Scheme.

Extensive plans for improvements in and around Atlanta in order that the 28 conventions scheduled for this city in 1914 can be properly entertained are under way by the Atlanta Convention Bureau.

Realizing that the old battle-grounds are Atlanta's greatest asset, the bureau plans the construction of an automobile boulevard that will completely circle the historic places.

This road, it is proposed, will start at the outskirts of Atlanta and encircle the grounds where the Battle of Atlanta, the Battle of Peachtree Creek and the Battle of Ezra Church were fought.

The bureau also has under way plans for the establishment of a permanent roadhouse and barbecue grounds at Stone Mountain, which is one of Atlanta's most famous attractions.

At Thursday night's meeting a committee was appointed to arrange the details of the proposition that will be made to the executive committee of the American Road and Builders Congress to induce the organization to hold its 1914 meeting in this city.

Wm. L. Moore, president of the Chamber of Commerce, Shelby Smith, of the Board of County Commissioners, C. D. Knight, of the City Council, Olin Stramp, of the Wholesale Grocers' Association, Frederick J. Paxon, of the Retail Dealers Association, H. N. Dutton, of the Atlanta Hotel Men's Association, and Fred Houser, secretary of the Atlanta Convention Bureau.

Art Students Donate To Bury Slain Girl

LEAHY WILL PUSH SIGNBOARD PLAN

Atlanta Industry Statistician to Have Bulletins in Depots and Hotels Soon.

Active work on the project to place signboards and bulletins filled with information about Atlanta's resources in the railway stations and hotels has been begun by W. H. Leahy, secretary of the Industrial and Statistical Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce.

Because of the illness of Mr. Leahy this work has been delayed several weeks, but now that he is back at his office it is expected that it will be completed soon.

The information that will be placed on the bulletins and bulletins will contain everything anyone needs to know about Atlanta, including the altitude of the city, figures proving the healthfulness of the climate, the bank directory, the weekly payroll, the population and rate of growth, figures showing the manufacturing industry located here and the magnitude of their products, and other data that stamps Atlanta as one of the foremost cities of the country.

Mr. Leahy said Friday morning that he expects to have some of the bulletins boards, and stickers, in place within a few weeks. He is now preparing the data and will have the boards painted as soon as this task is completed.

DELIGHT on GEORGIA POLITICS by JAMES B. NEVIN

At a banquet to be tendered him Saturday night by citizens and admirers who reside in Brunswick and Glynn County, former Congressman William C. Brantley will be presented with a handsome silver service.

The fund with which the service was purchased was made up entirely within the county of Glynn, and the service is very handsome, notwithstanding the fact that the subscriptions were rightly limited to $1 each.

Practically every business man in Brunswick contributed, and the farmers throughout, with whom Mr. Brantley always has been very popular, also responded immediately and generously.

Mr. Brantley has decided to make Brunswick his headquarters, although his new legal duties will carry him all over the South, and it may be that he will find it impossible to remain in that city a great deal of his time.

His new duties concern every railroad of importance in the South, and his work will touch every system penetrating Dixie.

It generally is agreed that Mr. Brantley's retirement from Congress left a place empty in the Georgia delegation hard to fill. He was by many considered the strongest man in Congress, and certainly there has not been a time within the last two years when he was not looked upon by those associated with him most intimately at least, as one of the real congressional leaders.

Mr. Brantley followed one of the greatest Congressmen Georgia ever sent to Washington—Henry B. Turner, but he filled the former Congressman's place eventually to the satisfaction of that great man's constituents.

And when Brantley retired from Washington he went out with little, if any, less prestige than Mr. Turner.

His objection I can hear to the proposed currency bill is that it will make times too good," said Congressman Gordon Lee, who is in Georgia for a few days.

Mr. Lee expects to see the bill enacted into a law at the present session of Congress.

The object of Mr. Lee's visit to Georgia at this time is to close up with the counties of Wilkes, Wilcox, Barrow and Calhoun, the counties which will see the construction of the proposed Government highway through those sections.

Although expressing disappointment that indications have been made on either the building or the road, Mr. Lee optimistically expressed the belief that all these matters would be adjusted amicably and the road started on an early date.

The Georgian is accompanied by James C. Woodhouse, the Bureau of Public Roads, and Mr. Kennedy, the Government engineer, who will supervise the construction of the road.

Governor Stanton has honored annually the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce thus far in his Executive appointments.

He has named Robert F. Maddox a member of the State Board of Health, William Moore a trustee of the Georgia Home for the Training of Girls, Fred Paxon Chief of Staff in the Military Department, and Amos C. Clark a member of the personal staff of the Governor. These are all popular and approved appointments.

The Governor, indeed, appears to have been altogether happy in his appointments made to date, although it never will be possible for him—as it never has been possible for other Governors—to make an appointment at any time that suits everybody.

The question of providing a new Executive Mansion is sure to come up for definite action before the Legislature soon—if not before the present General Assembly next summer, then before the next one sure.

The present mansion is so everybody agrees, not at all fit for the purpose for which it was intended. It is obviously impossible, and to patch it up generally is conceded to be worse than a waste of good money. In addition to that, its location is not at all such as to encourage the Legislature to select for a home—and after all, that is the Governor's duty—in an official residence, in a way, it is a disgrace.

The Legislature perhaps will dispose of the present property, which may be done most advantageously, of course, and a new and handsome home will be erected somewhere else in the city.

The question of an exact new location is not one particularly interesting to Legislature, as there are a dozen or more locations that would answer admirably.

Governor Stanton says the Barrow County Fair is a success and he advises all who can to visit it.

"It was it was possible for me to visit all the fairs to which I have been invited this fall," said the Governor. "There are to be many in Georgia, and I don't think that there will be one which is not a distinct credit to the community holding it, and which will worth seeing."

"If I attempted to visit all of them, however, I would have no time left for anything else, and I visit quite a few as it is, perhaps, for there are some invitations I have in hand that I can not yet decide what to do with."

"I would like to encourage the county fair habit in any community deserving it, I believe in county fairs. They do genuine good, not only in bringing the people together in endeavoring a better, healthy and profitable way of life, but in the live stock and domestic products."

"The more county fairs, the merrier, and the better, I think."

Kaiser Wilhelm Is Cafe Proprietor

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian. HERLIN, Oct. 16.—The Kaiser has added the title of restaurateur to the already numerous roles. He has rebuilt the old cafe near the historic Richmond facing Sans Souci Castle, at Potsdam.

His Majesty rents the cafe to Herr Moritz for $1500 a year. One condition of the lease is that the cafe supply the best coffee in Potsdam.

2 New Staff Men at Experiment Station

GRIFFIN, Oct. 16.—Two additions have been made to the staff of the State Experiment Station here.

C. A. White becomes resident chemist. B. P. Higgins, a Cornell graduate, succeeds C. A. McLenahan as botanist and plant pathologist.

PLAN UNDERWOOD CLUB

HUNTSVILLE, Oct. 16.—Political friends of Congressman Oscar W. Underwood are planning the organization of a club here to boost his candidacy for the United States Senate.

He has named Robert F. Maddox a member of the State Board of Health, William Moore a trustee of the Georgia Home for the Training of Girls, Fred Paxon Chief of Staff in the Military Department, and Amos C. Clark a member of the personal staff of the Governor. These are all popular and approved appointments.

Philadelphia, Oct. 16.—The chief of the Bureau of Building Inspection to-day notified owners of properties surrounding Shibe Park that they should not, because of the danger involved, permit persons to occupy their homes during the playing of the World's Series in this city.

It was estimated that 1,000 saw the game from outside the park. Tickets were sold for seats on balconies, $2 generally being charged.

Philadelphia, Oct. 16.—The Cosmopolitan and Central banks clubs, managed by Charles H. Schiffer and Peter Longtin, have been closed through injunctions issued by U. S. District Judge J. P. Sweeney. The proceedings were instituted by C. M. Williams, a partner in the firm of Schibbe, Wright & Co., the attorney for Graham Wright, a partner in the prohibitive bank.

Overworked Women.

A little too much work soon weakens a woman, physically and nervously. What she needs, then, is a tonic. A tonic takes the place of a rest, as it helps the system to "catch up"—to pick up the dropped stitches and start again into the daily work, in good health and good spirits. The best tonic for you to take is CARDUI, the woman's tonic. Many years of success have proven its real merit, in all cases of female weakness. Cardui contains no dangerous, poisonous, minerals; no habit-forming drugs; no harmful ingredients of any kind. It is simply a mild, vegetable extract, of medicinal, tonic herbs, with great efficacy in the treatment of the ailments and weaknesses peculiar to the female sex. Please try Cardui. It cannot hurt you. It is sure to do you good. If may be the very thing your system most needs.

Take CARDUI The Woman's Tonic

"A PERFECT WRECK"

I was a perfect wreck from female trouble. I had pains in my right side, and suffered from fainting spells and dizziness; then I would have numb, cold feelings. Sometimes my feet were swollen, so I could not walk a step. I had so much backache and so nervous and weak. My appetite was irregular, and my kidneys troubled me at times.

After 20 years of suffering, a friend advised me to give CARDUI a trial. I did so, and found great relief, after taking the first bottle. I continued to take it until I was completely cured. Now I am a well woman and do almost all my household.

HERE is a young gentleman coming to the house tonight, and his name is Jones & Co. the son of old Walt Jones that used to rough it with me in the great Northwest. Walt was a prize of a fellow, and Pa, & I suppose his son will be a good deal like him, big & powerful & festive.

That doesn't always follow, and Pa, I know lots of boys that are like that, but I don't know of any. Nobody ever herd him brag about himself.

Last evening young Mister Jones called, sure enough. He was a bit like Pa and his father looked, but he was a bit different. He was a bit of a little Lord Puntenbury grown up. He had some of the same ideas as Pa. After a while Ma asked Oswald Jones what he was going to talk to Pa and Oswald he said to go to the M. J. & Co.

From Lucile's Diary

In order to have access to my dear dad I have stayed in town very closely this summer. On the whole, I have had a pleasant time for I always find that the men who are obliged to stick to their desks during the hot weather are grateful to the girl who is ready to snare with them the city diversions during evenings and Saturday afternoons.

For a long time I usually received by a generous number of invitations from my man friends. But last week as I happened to have an engagement ahead I thought I really needed a bit of change, so I decided to pass a few days in the country with Ruth Richey, who is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Deane.

It was surprised that Ruth did not meet me at the station, but I took the hotel bus and drove over to the lake. Ruth, assisted by her young cousin Harold, was marking the tennis court when I arrived. She greeted me in evident astonishment.

"Didn't you get my dispatch?" I asked.

"No, did you telegraph?"

"Yes, I wrote a message last night and left it on the telephone for Cousin Deane to phone to the office. I'm afraid she neglected to do so, but it doesn't make any difference now that I'm safely here, does it?"

Ruth was beginning some kind of reply when Mrs. Deane appeared and shook my hand.

"Any friend of Ruth's is welcome here," she said graciously.

Not Overjoyed.

Even after this pleasant greeting Ruth did not appear overjoyed to see me. I wonder that she retains her friends for she certainly shows occasionally little pleasure in my society.

"Let's help you with the marking," I asked. "If you can outfit me a bit after I've had a little rest from my journey, which was rather hot and fatiguing. How I long for a dip in the lake!"

"You'd better that have your rest and dip while Harold and I finish the court," said Ruth. "You really don't need help, and we'd rather get through at once—wouldn't you, Harold?"

"Yes, indeed," answered Harold. "We're expecting a swell young man on the afternoon train to see Ruth and we want to have everything fixed up for him."

"Now, Harold," reproved his mother, "be as nice as you can to the young man to answer the phone. You mustn't tease Ruth about Mr. Harlow."

"Oh, is that splendid Redford Harlow coming?" I asked.

"Yes," said Ruth. "I couldn't help thinking that her tone was catty."

"What a pretentious creature! What has happened in on us the same time? I'm sure that he must be Mr. George Requier at the club and did not get his invitation."

"Why, I believe George did say something about it to me, but I don't think he was so bad. He arrived on the afternoon train and had some of his things with him. He was dressed in a suit and tie, and he was looking very smart. He was dressed in a suit and tie, and he was looking very smart. He was dressed in a suit and tie, and he was looking very smart.

A Thrilling Story of a Modern Crime

BY LOUIS TRACY

THE POLICEMAN

Here was a nice thing—his habit of looking over his shoulder at the policeman. He was a nice thing—his habit of looking over his shoulder at the policeman. He was a nice thing—his habit of looking over his shoulder at the policeman.

Aunt Minerva's Boat Ride

WHAT'S the matter with you, Thornton?" asked Baker when the two young men met at their club for lunch. "You move about like an octopus, crippled with rheumatism."

"I'm crippled, all right, but I don't know about Aunt Minerva's rheumatism. I think my trouble is advanced senility, aggravated by age."

"The diagnosis is certainly alarming. I must say you take a frightful amount of your calling society a pain." "Well, I went out to Hope Lake to see Sunday with Aunt Minerva. I know about Aunt Minerva's rheumatism. I think my trouble is advanced senility, aggravated by age."

He'd Take Two

A commercial traveler had taken a large order in the North for a consignment of hardware and had returned to press upon the county Social manager who had taken the order of Havana cigars.

"No," he replied. "Don't try to bribe a man. I couldn't take them and I am a member of the local A. O. U. I think you accept them as a present."

"Well, then," said the traveler, "I'll give you the cigars and merely nominal sum—say a dozen." "Aunt Minerva's rheumatism. I think my trouble is advanced senility, aggravated by age."

His One Wish

"I suppose, said Mrs. Jane, 'you're justifying you were from the heart.'"

"No," replied the long-suffering man, "I'm justifying you were from the heart."

"No," replied the long-suffering man, "I'm justifying you were from the heart."

Cheap Traveling

It costs an Englishman more in the matter of fares when taking a journey in England than anywhere on the Continent.

For instance, the railway fares in this country are nearly twice as much as those in Belgium, for the length of the journey is the same. In Europe, in which to travel, both a first and second class carriage is provided, and the third class carriage is also provided.

The charges in Russia are a trifle more than those in Belgium. But because the train there go at such a slow rate, and the third class carriage is also provided.

"Really," murmured Ruth. "I don't believe George did say something about it to me, but I don't think he was so bad. He arrived on the afternoon train and had some of his things with him. He was dressed in a suit and tie, and he was looking very smart. He was dressed in a suit and tie, and he was looking very smart. He was dressed in a suit and tie, and he was looking very smart."

WEDNESDAY

Two of the largest social events of the present season are on the calendar for Friday evening, when two of the city's leading clubs will be the scene of brilliant gatherings.

At the Piedmont Club the formal dancing will take place, when 200 guests will attend the dinner-dance which will mark the opening of the club since its enlargement and improvement. The entire club will be in gala array, and an elegant dinner will be served. Later there will be dancing in the ballroom.

Among the parties will be one given by Mr. and Mrs. George Calhoun Walters, who will entertain a group of friends who were together this summer at Tokaway—Mr. and Mrs. James H. Nunnally, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Dargan, Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Meador, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Peters, and Dr. and Mrs. Willis Westmoreland.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Seiple will entertain Mr. and Mrs. James T. Williams and Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Knapp, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Philip Humes and Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Knapp will be no together. Other hosts will be Messrs. Lewis Beck, J. Hall Miller, Louis Gregg, J. D. Colburn, H. C. Worthen, Lauren Foreman, Hunter Perry, Frank Adair, Prince Webster, Thomas H. Daniel, Carroll Lattimer, George Dexter, E. T. Lamb, John Brock, Judge Hill, J. W. Lewis, Eugene Hayden, Lindsey Hopkins, Robert Small and Alfred Newell.

At the Capital City Club there will be elaborate decorations, and several hundred guests will be entertained. Misses staff and Colonel Pomroy and officers of the Fifth Regiment, and Colonel VanOrsdale and his staff.

Figures $7,500,000 Worth of Time Lost Watching Ball Score
WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Seven and a half million dollars' worth of effort is expended by baseball fans watching the World's Series results before the various scoreboards in the United States, according to J. S. Penzely, of Ohio, a statistician.

Mr. Penzely estimates that half a million watch the boards in Philadelphia and New York alone. With the energy of those actually attending the games computed, Mr. Penzely says the result would be astounding.

Man Who Denounced Huerta Disappears
MEXICO CITY, Oct. 18.—Senator Belisario Dominguez, who delivered a speech at a secret session of Congress on September 28, in which he denounced General Huerta as an assassin, has disappeared. He is believed to have been assassinated and his friends in Congress will demand an immediate investigation.

President Wilson Will Be Urged to Stop in Atlanta
An invitation signed by Governor John M. Slaton, Mayor James G. Woodward and Wilmer L. Moore, president of the Chamber of Commerce, will be given to President Woodrow Wilson to visit Atlanta while en route to the Southern Commercial Congress at Mobile.

Quits City Post to Avoid Reprimand
After twenty years' service, William S. Vining, an inspector of the City Water Works Department, has resigned his place rather than submit to a reprimand because he accepted pay for doing plumbing work. Vining admitted he had taken the money, but said he had done the work on his own time.

Atlanta Singers Are Ready for Contest
A singing contest will be held Friday night in the Auditorium under the auspices of the Atlanta Union Singing Convention. It promises to be one of the real treats of the season.

CLEAN-CUT, HIGH-CLASS MAUDEVILLE THAT PLEASES AT THE BONITA THEATER

A vaudeville bill of four numbers that will please and interest old and young alike is the offering at the Bonita this week.

The bill includes all high-class and clean-cut, but there is one feature that deserves special mention, and that is the bandy number, "If you have not heard Mr. and Mrs. Stillings, you have missed a treat. It is worth the price to hear them play 'The Stars and Stripes' alone. They bring out all the music there is in it, classic—from 'Robert B. Lee' to 'William Tell.' And there's real music in every number.

THE ATLANTA GEORGIAN

Published by THE GEORGIAN COMPANY... Entered as second-class matter at postoffice at Atlanta, Ga. under act of March 3, 1879.

How a Giant Mammoth Died

As He Sank Helpless Into the Frozen Marsh and Vanished, So Brutal Power of All Kinds Will Disappear From This Earth One Day, Destroyed by Its Own Weight and Overconfidence.

The picture on this page of the struggling, dying mammoth is a picture of what actually HAPPENED on this globe thousands of centuries ago.

Imagine a herd of enormous mammoths, with long tusks and red hair and little, fierce eyes, exceeding in power and bulk the modern elephant as the elephant of to-day exceeds an ordinary buffalo.

Then think of the biggest, most powerful of the giant beasts, the leader of them all, and you have the monster of this picture, drawn by a clever English artist, and illustrating the death of that giant, as scientists tell us it occurred.

It was bitter winter, in those distant days of a half-formed earth, before man had appeared in their shape of to-day. Driven by cold, the mammoth herd was migrating in search of food.

The giant monster with the long tusks was the leader. And it was for him to decide that the herd should cross or not cross the frozen marsh.

Hunger pushed the herd forward, caution held it back. The heaviest giant of all made the test, first one foot, then the other big front foot.

Then the whole weight on the treacherous ice made up of mud and water, of grasses, roots and bog.

For a while, cautious and trembling, balancing his big body, he went forward; then came the treacherous spot where some animal from below, perhaps, had forced his way up to breathe. And the giant was caught helpless and hopeless in the frozen marsh.

This striking picture shows the last hour of the tormented creature.

Slowly, in spite of his struggles, his weight pulls him down. The wolves and other little beasts that he could have crushed by dozens on his onward march gather to the feast. For they too, are driven by hunger, and the marsh upholds their light weight.

Forward, backward and sidewise the mammoth swings his trunk, trumpeting, squealing.

The small animals are soon biting at his ears, at his eyes, at the big hair-covered lips, and the trunk is not quick enough to strike them.

Finally the battle against Fate ends. The eyes, the mouth, sink below the ice into the mud; the struggling ceases. And the wolves tear at the flesh of the big trunk and gorge themselves until it disappears from sight.

The bog closes over; the herd that has watched in safety turns in another direction, indifferent to the leader's death. Centuries—thousands of them—roll by. And now the scientists collect the bones preserved in the bottom of that bog, and man, descendant of one of the strange animals that lived in that day, makes this picture of the mammoth's death.

In the fate of this monster mammoth, once ruler of the earth and invincible in power, now a memory—the reconstructed curiosity of the museum—thoughtful men read a lesson of encouragement.

As that ruling giant of brute force disappeared from the earth, so other giants in their turn will disappear.

While the mammoth lived and ruled every creature believed that of course he would live and rule forever.

The first timid monkey-like human beings that saw the mammoth go by, cringing his way through every obstacle, had this thought in their dull brains: Always we weak ones shall flee in terror when we hear that crashing sound, and always that great animal will rule this earth, all-powerful, invincible, despising the weak.

But the mammoth is GONE, and his power and rule have gone.

And the creatures that were feeble, half monkeys and half men, now rule the earth. They have conquered the big animals and the small, conquered the lightning and the wind; conquered time and space—AND WILL ONE DAY CONQUER THEMSELVES.

We, creatures more powerful than the mammoth, but timid and feeble compared with what we shall be, feel toward certain forces of evil as our timid ancestors felt toward the mammoth.

They said, "That mammoth must rule forever. His power makes it certain."

And we say, "Injustice, cruelty, poverty and anxiety must rule forever. Such monsters can never be destroyed."

But they will NOT rule forever. THEY WILL BE DESTROYED.

The power of thought has killed off the big monsters. The power of science, which is methodical thought, IS KILLING OFF THE MICROSCOPIC ENEMIES, DISEASE-BREEDING GERMS, MORE DANGEROUS THAN MAMMOTHS.

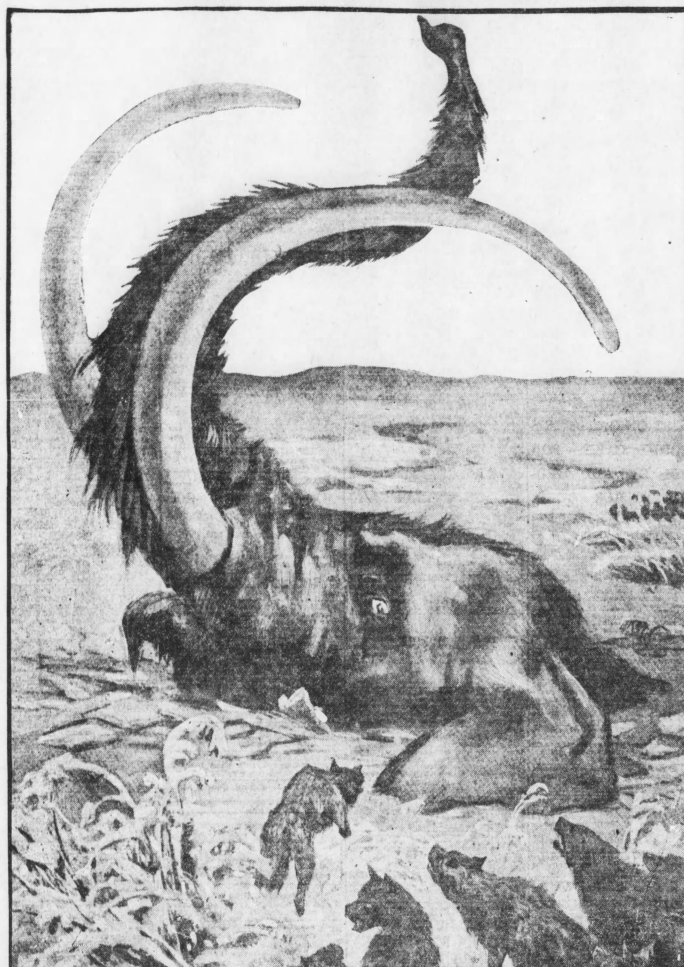

And thought and the conscience of the human race are killing off the moral monsters—injustice, brutality and selfishness. Those monsters of power and cruelty will sink and disappear, carried down by their own weight, destroyed by their own overconfidence, as this monster mammoth was destroyed long ago when the earth was young.

Now his body, reconstructed with minute accuracy, is used in the museum to teach a lesson to children and students.

The great bulk that once terrified the world now interests the children.

In ages to come, students, for the education of children, will reconstruct in minute detail, but entirely harmless, the brutality, the selfishness, the cruelty of our day; and artists, in pictures of beauty and power, will show how those monsters in their turn sank, never to rise again, as this old giant of the cold days sank to his bed in the mud.

The Death of Brutal Power

This picture shows you, vividly painted, the death of a giant mammoth ages ago. His bones, dug up to-day, tell the story of his death to scientists. The small, hungry animals, that he could have crushed like flies, tear at his ears, his eyes, his lips, as he struggles, dying. There is a powerful lesson for human beings in the death of this powerful monster of the ages long ago. (See Editorial.)

Winifred Black Writes on When Mother Gets "Peculiar"

By WINIFRED BLACK
In a girl of sweet sixteen one minute and like a withered crone at another. She'll take queer dislikes to your friends and she'll take odd fancies to your enemies, and you'll wonder and wonder, and you'll wonder and wonder, and you'll wonder and wonder with her, and THAT is the tragic part.
She would never lose patience with you—she who was never too tired or too busy or too "nervous" to get up to take care of you at any hour of the day or night. What a time you make over poor Mother's eccentricities!
Peculiar! She isn't half as "peculiar" as you were when she had to trot you around a cold room in her bare feet for hours at a time to get you up to take care of you at any hour of the day or night. What a time you make over poor Mother's eccentricities!

Dr. Charles F. Aked

Writes on
Burning of Brioux
"In My Judgment," He Says, "The Brioux Method Is a Good Method. His Warning Is Well and Wisely Framed."

By REV. CHARLES F. AKED, D. D.
Written for The Atlanta Georgian.

It is reported that Brioux has been burned! And by whom? A famous club—the statement goes—has sat in judgment upon him; pronounced his doom; solemnly burned three of his plays—and sent out the story to the world.
Along with Brioux they burned Elementary Jans. They need not have troubled about her. She is of no account any way. She is neither good enough nor bad enough to be interesting. And a person who is so misquoting as to waste time in reading about her is only a shade less unfortunate than the woman who wastes time in burning her.
But Brioux!
The Three Plays.
If the members of this club have books to burn and wish to burn them they are entirely within their rights in carrying out their wish. If they consider these books bad books they have a right to have that opinion respected. But when they make a formal and official act of this burning, make almost a ritual and ceremonial act of protest out of it, and You need not say "Hush," because nobody means to hush and you can't hush them! And the ought not to be burned, but the burning of Brioux has interest for us all, and we are entitled to discuss it.

The policy of hush-up is a dangerous policy. But it has had its uses. You need not say "Hush," because nobody means to hush and you can't hush them! And the ought not to be burned, but the burning of Brioux has interest for us all, and we are entitled to discuss it.
The three plays in question appear to be those three which, in an English translation, are published in a single volume with the title, "Three Plays by Brioux." Mrs. Bernard Shaw is responsible for the translation of one of the three, and Mr. Bernard Shaw writes, long before the dramatic interest and power. The plays are called, in this translation, "Damaged Goods," "The Three Daughters of Monsieur Dupont" and "Materity." The first deals with that terrible disease which follows upon leontosis; the second with the dowry arrangements supposed to be an integral part of the French marriage system; and the third discusses questions of population and of race suicide from the point of view directly opposed to Mr. Bradshaw's and in the spirit of Mr. E. H. Hittesbach, New York Conservation Commissioner, who declares that "what our civilization needs is not larger families, but more and better families."

Letters From the Readers of The Georgian

STANTON'S BIRTHDAY.
Editor The Georgian:
The children of Indiana on October 7 celebrated the birthday of the Hoosier poet, James Whitcomb Riley. All praise to the children for this timely mark of appreciation. Their example should be followed by the children and grown people of Georgia and of the South in celebrating the next birthday and succeeding birthdays of the South's greatest living poet—Frank K. Stanton. Let the educators and lovers of literature take some step to honor this modest, tender and great contributor to the literature of the South. Let us honor him as he is alive, not wait until after he is gone to give tardy recognition to his genius.
WILLIAM MERRITT HAIRSTON,
Atlanta, Ga.
SITUATION IN MEXICO.
I wish to thank you for your recent editorial on the Mexican situation. It is almost asleep, or is to be held up to the scorn of the other nations of the earth by inefficient high officials? Shall we stand idly by, deaf to the cries of men of our own blood who call loudly for our assistance? Shall we exhaust our energies in a scramble for political appointments that carry fat salaries, while our women are insulted?

Somehow along in the forties, she was no longer young.
