

JEROME SILVEY DIED ON WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Prominent Atlanta Merchant Passes Away After Long Illness

After a long illness, extending over a year, Jerome Silvey, one of the oldest and most prominent merchants of Atlanta, passed away Wednesday night at the family residence, 168 Forrest avenue. He was fifty-four years of age. At the time of his death Mr. Silvey was president of the Silver-Brook company, of 21 Central avenue, a business which he organized fifteen years ago. He had been continuously at its head ever since. The firm was organized with John Silvey & Co., shortly after making this his home he married Miss Alice Greene, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Greene, of this city. Up to the time that Mr. Silvey organized and became the president of the company that bears his name, he remained with the John Silvey company. His sterling character and high business ability soon placed him in the front rank of men of affairs in Atlanta. His new venture was an excellent leadership the business has grown to be one of the largest of its kind in Atlanta. Mr. Silvey's activities were not confined entirely to the business. For years he had been active in church circles, a zealous and untiring worker for the First Baptist church, which was his a deacon. His loss will be heavily felt by all who knew him, and was a man to whom a friend once made a fitting epitaph: "A friend always." Mr. Silvey is survived by his wife, Mrs. Alice Silvey, Mrs. B. W. Wintley, two sisters, Mrs. F. A. Bomar and Mrs. L. S. Board. The funeral will be held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence of the deceased, Rev. C. W. Daniel, pastor of the First Baptist church, and the interment will be in Oakland cemetery.

MRS. GRACE M. KEEFER ASKS FOR $5,000 ALIMONY
Says Husband Won't Support Her and Children While He Has Good Income.

Mrs. Grace M. Keefe, who troubles with her husband, David H. Keefe, have been before the public a number of times, has filed suit in the superior court asking for temporary and permanent alimony. No action for divorce was begun. The petition for alimony says her husband has abandoned her and that he refuses to contribute to the support of her children, Jack Macy and Elinor Macy, seventeen and sixteen years old respectively. She says Keefe is a lawyer, capable of earning $5,000 a year and that he owns stock in the Georgia Railway and Electric company and other property. The alimony hearing was set for September 20.

ARRESTED AND BOUND OVER IN 31 MINUTES

Thirty-one minutes after the police received the complaint which led to his arrest, Ed Brown, who is not known by that name, had been bound over from the court of Recorder Broyles to the higher courts on a charge of burglary. Ed looked dazed when he found himself in the room from the freedom of a bright fall morning. At 9:25 o'clock Thursday morning the chief officers were notified by Stella Purcell, colored, 194 Fraser street, that $2 had been stolen from her abode and that she suspected Ed Brown of the deed. Call officers Campbell and Gillmore went out and arrested Brown. He took him to court, and he was tried, the recorder finding with him at 10:41 o'clock. The court had admitted having furnished the $2, and explained it by saying that he went to the home to get the child of which he was particularly fond, and not finding it, got the $2 instead. The police say Ed is fond of all chickens. They declare that he has been a trouble maker before for chicken stealing.

SAVANNAH MAN TIED TAFT FOR PRESIDENCY

When his return Wednesday from the annual meeting of the American Bar Association at Montreal, Canada, Attorney John L. Tye, of Atlanta, declared that the meeting had been the most successful in the history of the organization. He predicted that next year Peter W. Mallory, of Savannah, would be chosen president of the association. He declared that he opposed Edward H. Taft in the first ballot, and according to Mr. Tye he would have won out but for the fact that his opponent exceeded the prestige of having been president of the United States.

WEE GIRL DECIDES HER OWN CUSTODY

Takes Witness Stand and Tells Why Neither Father Nor Mother Should Have Her

Six-year-old Margaret Anderson, the daughter of Harry W. Anderson, Jr., amazed Judge Bell's court Thursday morning when she was put on the witness stand to tell about the trouble between her father and mother. Calm, dignified, absolutely unafraid, she made one of the best witness ever on the stand, and in the end it was her opinion in the matter which became the judge's decision. The hearing was to determine who should have the custody of the little girl. A divorce suit between her parents was pending in the court, and application was made for alimony and a decision awarding the little girl to either father or mother. When Margaret was put on the stand she said very quietly that she believed the best place for her was with her mother. She was asked why she believed that. She said that her mother was kind, but that she thought her mother had not treated her exactly right because she sometimes whipped her when she had done nothing at all. She walked down from the witness stand very calmly, but with a big $10 a month for the support of the little girl. The divorce hearing will come up later.

Thaw Trial Pictures To Be Shown At Grand All of Next Week

Jack Wells has secured motion pictures of Harry K. Thaw in his cell at Sherbrooke and a series of motion pictures of the famous trial of Thaw in Canada. These pictures were taken for the Keith and Orpheum circuits with the consent of Thaw and the trial officials in Canada, and will be shown simultaneously in all of the theaters of the town circuits from Portland, Me., to Frisco.

Mr. Wells promises to the Atlanta theatregoers that he would send to the Grand the very newest and the best motion pictures possible to secure here. The Thaw pictures will be seen all of next week at the Grand from 10:30 o'clock each night—10 cents admission—along with the popular kinestoscope and black and white first run features.

When Thaw escaped to Canada and after his confinement in the Mattawan prison, he was induced to pose for motion pictures, to be exhibited all over the United States. He was taken to the court officials in charge of the trial and given complete use of the camera in the court room.

The United Booking office secured the films and Mr. Wells from Birmingham, where he was on a southern tour, got into long distance communication with the authorities and secured a set of the films for immediate use in Atlanta.

Jefferson Barracks, Mo. to be sworn in as a soldier.

On his way to that point, Dill now relates, he deserted again. Dill told the police captain that his family wanted him to surrender and take his punishment for his misdeeds and in a way atone for them. That was why he walked into police headquarters with his story, he said. He was under the impression that he was wanted for the second desertion, and that the first was too old to be held against him now.

Theft of Raincoats Reported and Robbers Nabbed Soon After Crime Committed

Half an hour after the manager of the Chapman-McNair restaurant reported the theft of raincoats on Wednesday morning, the police Thursday morning and reported the robbers nabbed soon after the crime was committed.

According to the manager, the loss of the coats was not discovered until Thursday morning, when a check of the books that department revealed a shortage of $25 worth of coats.

It was then that a clerk in the store remembered two negroes entering Wednesday afternoon. One of them appeared to be a thief, and the other was a helper.

WILKINSON'S REPORT SHOWS GAIN

Increase of Nearly 100 Per Cent Since 1902 in Net Income is Shown

An increase of nearly 100 per cent over 1912 in net income is shown by the sixty-third annual report of the Illinois Central Railroad company for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1913.

The report is being received by W. C. Mason, commercial agent of the road in Atlanta. The figures as to the income are shown as follows: For 1912, $2,465,145; for 1913, $4,175,113; increase $1,710,000.

A summary of the report makes comment upon the fact that this increase was secured through the reduction of the haulage caused by the Ohio floods, which stopped traffic for nine days and resulted in not only the loss of considerable revenue, but also a large expenditure later in restoring portions of the road destroyed by the flood.

The report shows further that $10,113,194 was expended for additions and betterments, $3,904,330 of that amount being for large locomotives and additional freight cars, and additional steel, passenger cars.

Under caption "Physical Changes," the report shows the physical betterment in the property of the company. Among the most important of these are: The starting of a new passenger station in Memphis, the installation of a new mechanical hoist at Memphis, Tenn.; raising grade between Memphis and Memphis, Tenn.; and the completion of the second main track between Pontchartrain and Orleans Junction, La. An interest statement in the report is that the number of stockholders was 10,847, as compared with 9,987 last year.

What Anne Rittenhouse Says

FASHION, Sept. 11.—This new dress loodice is a most interesting development. It is in keeping with the large waist and the inflated low hollow neck. It is rather a wise act on the part of the dressmaker to invent it for me. It is going to be worn for a long time. In other times when one wore huge puffed sleeves or ruffles between the knees and waist, there were the tiny bodice tops. Today our shoulders and backs are almost draped in our hips. The main body by which the dressmaker accomplishes this makes an interesting study. What has one way of looking it. Fashion artists, beer will advise, and it is not a matter of choice, some narrow shouldered blouse, and some show one the use of black velvet with a round décolletage with a three-inch wide white tulle. The skirt that goes with this loodice is a narrow one of white satin with four or five ruffles of white tulle below the hips. But a narrow shouldered loodice is the exception. The new kind admirably suits the American figure and has been designed especially for our country. It gives the appearance of the figure beneath being athletic and supple and broad-shouldered. In some of the loodices the sleeves are so large and so much a part of the movement of the fabric that the shoulders and back that call them sleeves seem to disappear. They are narrow, and of the cloth broadened to the arm and then fitted in to the wrist. This is not a moment of slight importance; it is a vital one in modern clothes. It means that most of the shirtwaists that we have, or the blouses which are many of our Fall arrivals, are to be altered. But the alteration should be done with a good spirit because these blouses are essentially good looking. They are admirably suited to the kind of life the American woman leads. Never Were Bodices So Broad. It always seems that there would be a good deal of collision among the great dressmakers because they do not all have a uniformity at their semi-annual openings, and this is in fact the case. This week, when each house presents the latest modes, the bustle, the long skirt, the ball skirt, and the one of moderate length. The difference between the houses lies more in the manipulation of drapery, the choice of colors, the use of tulle, and the trim, and in the trims, some long and square, some only a pointed tail. This is exceedingly helpful to the American woman who must wear the clothes, for she is not distressed in her choice of novelties, but it is not especially good for the dressmakers who are there in search of hundreds of dollars. This is a large question, and one which is so interesting and absorbing to the girl of the situation, is that the American buyers try only for novelty, while the French women give them beauty. The French women demand it, at the same time it seems odd that so many of the houses all present the same idea. This is emphasized by the unpopularity of the broad bodice. It is everywhere. It drops from the shoulder like a religion coat. It is cut after the manner of a Russian corset blouse; it is made in the shape of a Blougen waist; it has many points or it almost seams; it is hatched, and shaped gussets and a huge waistline; but whatever its modifications, there it is on the Rue de la Paix, the Place Vendôme, the Avenue de l'Opéra, the Rue Taitbout and the Avenue d'Antin. The Transparent Bodice. The apology for a bodice which the dressmakers show in their evening gowns and also in the afternoon frock is quite transparent. Street suits for evening wear are made of velvet, velvet de laine and other thick, soft fabrics; but bodices made for coat suits, frocks made for housewears, and all evening gowns are without lining. This is not strictly true, for many of them have a slight lined skirt of soft tulle, which holds up the material, but even this is not considered necessary. Every evening gown shown this week had tulle above the waistline, and the tulle of single or often brilliantly ornamented with colored crystals, but the first thought of every observer concerns the kind of corsets the mainline must wear. There is evidently no restriction above the waistline in any of the new novelties. There is no giraffe or braisers. Sensing, the only square line across the fabric and the skin above the waist is a band of flesh pink or old sallow. After Long Suffering

Women Are Constantly Being Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"Worth mountains of gold," says one woman. Another says, "I would not give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for all the other medicines for women in the world."

We could fill a newspaper ten times the size of this with such quotations taken from the letters we have received from grateful women whose health has been restored and suffering banished by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Why has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound accomplished such a universal success? Why has it lived and thrived and kept on doing its glorious work among the sick women of the world for more than 30 years?

Simply and surely because of its sterling worth. The reason no other medicine has ever approached its success is plainly and simply because there is no other medicine so good for women's ills.

Here are two letters that just came to the writer's desk—only two of thousands, but both tell a comforting story to every suffering woman who will read them—and be guided by them.

FROM MRS. D. H. BROWN, Iola, Kansas.—"During the Change of Life I was sick for two years. Before I took your medicine I could not bear the weight of my clothes and was bloated very badly. I doctored with three doctors but they did me no good. They said nature must have its way. My husband advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. For you ought to have a surgeon appointed to look after my case. I was one thing, but I ran the dicker about your feeling that critic her. But I think that by the time you get it named you'll have learned a thing or two about being contented in a hurry."

She felt Minerva squeeze her arm, she felt Dan grasp her arm, she met Orin's eyes. Over his face had come a curious look, half sheepish, half sultry, yet wholly understanding. For the first time in her married life she had flung down the gauntlet. And Orin dare not take it up.

Write to LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO. (CONFIDENTIAL) LYNN, MASS., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Live Wires!

Advertising is like the copper wire that carries the electricity from the dynamo and turns the wheels.

It brings energy to you from the highly charged dynamo of business.

If comes to you through the columns of your favorite newspaper.

Use the live wires of advertising in newspapers like THE JOURNAL.

Make them serve you. You will be astonished and pleased at the splendid business activity of the merchants and manufacturers.

You will realize that it is for your benefit. For unless it is worth to you it is all waste energy.

The men and women you admire because they do things are advertising readers. They do things because they know. They are advertising readers because they know these live wires of advertising carry the news that keeps them up to date.

The Atlanta Journal Covers Dixie Like the Dew

"I DIDN'T SPEND ONE CENT OF YOUR MONEY," RETORTED JULIET. "Why, there must have been $3 on that. I've been keeping track of the egg money myself, lately."

"There was exactly $3 and I spent it all," she said. Juliet gathered up her parcels and dropped them into a bureau drawer, which she locked. As she was exiting she heard Orin's voice sounded harshly outside the door.

"Juliet, greatly flustered, tried on a clean apron and ran to minister to the creature needs of her lord and master. After a silent moment Orin started downstairs and left Juliet to cry into the dishwater. Minerva Crocker came over just as she finished.

"Get quieted down yet?" she inquired, gently. Then, with a look of astonishment, "An I've been crying. You don't regret buying those things this afternoon, do you? Or have you?"

"Never mind," she said, "I'll fix her. I grabbed some stuff I wanted right out of my hand and stopped in my store beside. Women get like a lot of rats, and I have got to make a bargain sale—that is, women of her kind, Juliet."

"I guess I acted pretty numerous," Orin phrased. Juliet! You'll get the very next time I ask you. Why, bargain sales are to a woman's politics as a man. And just let me tell you the men are ten times worse'n women when it comes to an auction. I've seen them bid off—That makes me mad. Where do you suppose men and yours was all the afternoon? Biting on the fence over at Johnson's watching 'em auction off a parcel or making it to sell 'em off to men that I don't know any better than to buy 'em. When I was in town I found Dan sitting on the back steps smoking, trying to cover up the horse smell. Dan's no hand to smoke so I inquired round and found what he had been up to. Talk about our bargain sale! I can't hold a candle to a horse auction. I expect they've come right back here the summer."

Minerva looked dubious. "Do bring what you bought, Juliet, and let's look it over. I've a notion that I got some insertion that's just a match for your embroidery."

Juliet got out her purchases, and under Minerva's calling eagerly her enthusiasm renewed itself to such an extent that she spent a happy hour revealing to her treatise.

"I don't think that 50 cents was too much to pay for that lace, do you, Minerva?" she pleaded.

"It wasn't no price at all," declared Minerva. Her expression changed suddenly. "For the love of goodness, what's going on out in the street? Do you hear the racket? I bet they're bringing one of them wild mustangs past here. Come on, Juliet, let's look."

"There looked was a great noise, and it sounded alarming. The occasion for such unprecedented commotion in that quiet locality was a wild mustang, and a naked, savage for a strong rope tied securely about his lean neck. A man was at each end of the rope, tugging and straining with all his might. A broncho-buster rode behind, urging on the pinto with the characteristic bender cry, "Whop-whop—ah-ah-ah!"

Minerva grasped Juliet's arm. "My lord! Do you see who's got that critic. It's our man!"

"It can't be!" faltered Juliet. "At that instant the pinto took a fancy to climb one of the shade trees, and in broncho-buster rode behind, urging on the pinto with the characteristic bender cry, "Whop-whop—ah-ah-ah!"

THIS LADY OBEYED HUSBAND

In Matter Where Her Happiness Was at Stake, and Is Mighty Glad She Did

SHeldon, S. C.—In advice from this town, Mrs. J. E. Marvin writes as follows: "For more than three years, I suffered with womanly troubles, and none of the different treatments I underwent seemed to do me any good."

I also had pains in my left side, so bad, at times, I could hardly get up. My husband told me to buy some Cardui the woman's tonic, and I did. I started taking it, and soon began to feel better. I took only a few bottles, and now I am perfectly well, and able to do anything."

Cardui has done me a world of good. I certainly cured me of the trouble I had and I am getting along nicely.

I have recommended the remedy to several friends, and they have all been benefited by it.

I will always keep Cardui in my home for use in time of need."

Cardui is a purely vegetable remedy containing no harmful mineral products. Its ingredients act in a helping, building way, on the womanly constitution. It has been relieving womanly troubles for over half a century, during which time it has proven of more than ordinary value as a tonic for weak women.

You can rely on Cardui. It will do for you, what it has done for thousands of others. It will help you. Begin to take Cardui today.

Gilks to Lead REULBACH-STACK TRADE GOOD THING FOR PLAYERS AND CLUBS INVOLVED

Mobile Club

Rumored That Nap Scout Is to Succeed Mike Finn, Who Is to Go to Memphis

MOBILE, Ala., Sept. 11.—Scout Bobby Gilks, of the Cleveland American league club, has just been named by Coach Schmidt and First Baseman Gene Padon, Gilks is to succeed Mike Finn as manager of the Mobile club in the event that Finn leaves his post as manager of the Memphis club for next season. However, that he will be named to succeed Finn is a well-known fact that these two clubs are desirous of securing a manager for the 1914 season and considering the fact that Finn made a pennant contender, who hardly can be expected to work on at all, it would seem a wise step for the Memphis club to secure his services. Gilks formerly managed the old Mississippi club in the Southern league, and was highly successful at that place. He developed Red Tom Fisher, one of the best pitchers in the Southern league, and several other stars. Gilks has been employed by the Cleveland club in the capacity of scout, and a good one he has made, too.

Once an important cog in the "Cub machine," in the days of Chas. Kling, Brown, Shockard, Tinker and the others of that merry crew of pennant winners, Ed Reulbach is now with Brooklyn. And Stack, who did not pitch well enough for Chicago or Philadelphia to keep, nor to impress upon Charles E. Bettis the fact that he was a star, is waiting a Chicago uniform. Reulbach did not win for the Cubs this year; he felt that he could not give the club his best efforts and this feeling so affected him that he was variations in the box. And yet he seemed to have the same old curves and speed. The old trick of asking waivers upon players back in the hope of bettering him to a realization of his failure, was resorted to in vain. Then Reulbach was traded for Stack, and right away both showed a reversal of form and speed.

BY GRANTLAND RICE

A BALLADE OF THE DAY.
There's a big advance in the rent on flats;
It costs us more to exist each day;
The price grows greater on clothes and hats,
Wherever we wander we've got to pay;
Everybody's booting front pie to buy—
A general advance is the law of the game;
But slip it to me—on the level—say,
Why do our salaries stay the same?
Only the rich can afford cravats—
(There was a time when we threw it away)
Such frolics now are a spelt;
Have long since faded from the play;
Whether we go or whether we stay
They show up the price until it seems a shame—
I hope it out till the dawn breaks gray.
Why do our salaries stay the same?
We buy our butter in little spots—
An ounce costs more than a pound last May;
They've doubled the price on meat and that's
The order of things all along the way;
Nothing is cheaper—not even wheat—
The way things cost is enough to mind—
With everything else up, tell me, pray,
Why do our salaries stay the same?
Ballades are cukes that rhyme with A—
(If you ought minutes to dope this frame)
When the box had read it, he'll likely say,
"That's why your salary stays the same."

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 11.—Yale for the ninth consecutive time won the intercollegiate team golf championship by defeating Williams college by six matches to three in the final round on the Huntington Valley Country club. As Yale won all three foursomes this morning Williams had an uphill fight and it was necessary in order to gain the title for them to take five out of the six singles matches. Wheeler registered one victory for the Blue by defeating Marshall 5 up and 4 to play, and Williams took the next three matches. When the Baxter-Brewster match was all square at the eighteenth hole excitement ran high. Nineteenth was halved and on the twentieth the Yale man won. In the other singles Hyde, of Williams, defeated Yale, up and up and 1 to play; Gillett, of Williams beat Pierce, Yale, 5 up and 4 to play; Atiles, Williams, beat Gardner, Yale, 4 and 2; Bishop made Yale's total six by winning from Gleason 1 up.

Cornell Grid Stars Are Now at Work

ITHACA, N. Y., Sept. 11.—Cornell's football eleven reported for the first practice of the season Wednesday. Head Coach Al Sharpe gave the men a preliminary review followed by an hour of outdoor practice. Assistant Coaches Reed, Vanaman and Gustine, the latter a former Amherst star and a new addition to the red and white staff, are at the helm.

Practical Hints on GOLF Just How To Drive

In a previous article we considered points of play on the green at match play as covered by rule 22. Today we will take up rule 13 of the special rules, the stroke competition. Match play is where the winning or losing of holes is involved, while stroke competition is where the number of strokes for the complete round are the object. Of course this explanation seems more child's play, but it is not, for in such competition the application of these two different rules a few years ago in the open championship at Baltmore played at stroke play, the ball of the player who had the ball buried in the ninth green after a long run from the tee returned to the ball from the bunk, claiming that he had the right to a putt and not a nibble, but when he had reached the hole the executive committee of the U. S. G. A. was of course in session and struck him two strokes under seven. RULE XII placed splendid ball. Pitched brook in as a Cub with a two hit game which made Murphy and probably caused Roberts to gnash his teeth; it is easy to imagine the feelings of the pitcher, who had just had three-hit victory for Brooklyn and the south and north three-hundred.

"Team Was Handled Roughly" ---Charles Frank

Declaring Fitchers Paddy and Wilson received the roughest deal from Empire nineteen and Hart that he has ever witnessed in the history of the South ern league, his players cursed and abused at every turn in the hope that they would start a riot and be arrested together with "old friends" calling to ascertain if his really meant to strip the "Cubs" out of the pennant. Manager Frank returned to the city on Monday to prepare reorganizing his eleven team for 1914. It is not the fault of any so-called "old friends" or members of the club club that Finn did not win the pennant, said Frank. "Our players were cursed and abused at every turn on the field, but they finally realized they would be killed and only weaken the club. In my opinion, Finn figured he could slip by if two or three holes were in the 'jug' but would not fall for the rough stuff."

Howell Started Finn Down Hill

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Sept. 11.—While Cracker random is busy raising a subscription for Chalky Frank, Finn Wilson and other members of the Peoria team, local footballers are overlooking the man that contributed most to their final glorious victory in annexing the 1913 gobble. Finn, too, if you will but ask him, the man that really sent the Gulls down in sickening and grinding defeat was a ball under section 3 he may lose a stroke by having his ball hit the other under section 7.

Remington UMC .22 Rifles

The Little Rifles—Big in Quality
YOU are going to buy a .22 calibre rifle, single shot or repeater—you'll find that many well known crack shots started with a Remington .22. Their advice now would be "By all means, get a Remington" because they know that there is a tendency in some quarters to look upon these models as only "a small boy's rifle" and to cheapen them so that they can be sold at a price. You have just as much right to expect full shooting value in your .22 calibre arm as in your $75 big game rifle. You want the Remington single shot at from $3 to $6, .22, 25-10 or 32 calibre, made by the same people who make the famous Remington Autoloading Rifles. Or, if you prefer the repeating rifle, the Remington side action .22 repeater with its easy take-down and special safety features, shooting 22 short, 22 long or 22 long rifle cartridges, at $10 and up, is your arm. Sold by dealers in the community—the most popular small calibre rifle in America. Remington Arms-Union Metallic Cartridge Co., 299 Broadway, New York.

POULTRY, PIGEONS AND LIVE STOCK

What to Plant for Winter Grazing

EVERY one who has poultry, hogs and cattle should by all means plant a small patch of something green for them to graze on during the winter, or to eat and feed to both animals and fowls. The month of September is the proper time to plant something for this purpose, even if you only put in a small amount in the chicken yard or small field. It is far better to have a small patch planted now than to wait later.

A beautiful supply of this green is alfalfa. The medicine given to live stock and poultry, and they will thrive better when they have this variety than they would if they had to do without. It is astonishing how much food it will save and how much good it will do. A cow, horse, hog or chicken.

Any vacant spot can be made to grow a large and useful crop of abundant green if properly planted in September and the best thing for this purpose is a mixture of alfalfa, timothy and clover.

QUESTIONS ASKED AND ANSWERED.

QUESTION. River View, Ala. I notice in the droppings from my chickens some worms. I noticed one today about two inches long and have seen several smaller ones.

ANSWER. Please tell me what kind of droppings you are getting and also how to cure them.

ANSWER. Please tell me what will destroy worms on dogs. Several have died around here. They abound and act where they cannot be seen.

ANSWER. B. B. MCG. Very often chickens become wormy, and the best thing to use for this is copra. Wash the copra in a pint of copra, beat it up fine, dissolve in one pint of water and mix it up with soft feed. Give ANSWER. this to about twenty-five chickens every other day for one week to ten days. The copra contains a certain fat in soft feed to the same amount as the copra. It is particularly relieving them of worms.

ANSWER. Please tell me what will cure worms on dogs. Several have died around here. They abound and act where they cannot be seen.

ANSWER. B. B. MCG. Very often chickens become wormy, and the best thing to use for this is copra. Wash the copra in a pint of copra, beat it up fine, dissolve in one pint of water and mix it up with soft feed. Give
